(For the Harbinger.) A Clue to the Time of the End. NO. V.

"The opposition which it experienced was indeed, almost inconceivable, and afforded the clearest evidence of the persicious tendency of those measures of extermination which former overnments had adopted against the pos ions of the Established Church, and how rapidly the confiscation of ecclesizatical property, founded on the pretence of applying it to purposes of be-neficeence and public instruction, leads to the total destruction of every species of religious be-lief. Universally the opinion prevailed that the restoration of the altar was but a prelude to that of the throne, and the Concordat was to be regarded as a solemn pledge for the speady re-es-tablishment of the ancient regime, a manifesto against all the principles of the Revolution. These feelings were in an especial manner pre valent among the military and Democratic parvigos autong the ministry and Democrate par-ties. "Moreau, Lannes, Oadinot, Victor, and me-ny sther, openly expressed their repugnance to the measure and duclined to join the ceremony whils took place in Notre Dame on occasion of the statement of the state its sclemn proclamation.

ing day a grand religious ceremony took place, in honor of the occasion in Notre Dame. All the great bodies in the State, all the constituted authorities, attended, and proceeded in great pomp to the Cathedral: Such, however, was the repugnance of many of the generals to the cere-mony, that it required all the authority of the First Consul to make Lannes and Augereau remain in the carriage when they perceived they were going to hear mass. It proceeded, never-theleas, with great eclat in the Cathedral of No-tre Dame, which eight years before had been pol-luted by the orgies of the Goddess of Reason.

"Immediately after this change, the observance of Sunday was to a certain degree resumed. It was provided in the Concordat that the government offices should be closed on Sunday, and this was immediately done. Shortly after, a decree of the Consuls directed that all marriages should be proclaimed on that day, and the daily service of mass begin in the Tuilleries. "But although the opposition which the restoration of religion met with in the corrupted population and revolu tionary circles of Paris was very powerful, it was viewed in a very different light in the rural districts of France. The peasants beheld with undisguised delight the re-establishment of the pricets, from whose labors and beneficence they ad gained so much in former times; and the sound of the village bells again calling the faith ful to the house of God was hailed by millions as the dove with the olive bracch which first announced peace to the "green undeluged carth." The restoration of Sunday as a day of pariodical rest, was felt as an unspeckable relief by the la-boring population, who had never been able to establish the exemption from work on the tenth day, which the Convention prescribed, and were broken down by years of continued and unbro-ken toil. But the permicious effect of the total cessation of all religious instruction and observances for nine years could not so easily be eradicated. A generation had been educated who were ignorant of the very elements of the Chris tian faith ; the phrensy of the Revolution had snapped asunder a chain which had descended unbroken from the apostolic ages. To foreign na tions, however, who could not foresee the deplorable internal effects of this long interruption in religious instruction, the spectacle of France again voluntarily returning to the Christian faith was in the highest degree acceptable. Contrasting it with the monstrous profanations and wild extravagances of the irreligious fanaticism which had prevailed during the Revolution, they deemit the harbinger of tranquility to its distracted people, and peace to Europe. It contributed, more than any circumstance, to weaken the horror with which the revolutionary government had so long been regarded, and opened the way to the establishment of more kindly relations, not only with the governments, but the people of for-eign States. The Emperor of Russia and the eign States. and the state of the state

Thus we are told that the events brought about by the Concordat of A. D. 1802, was the most signal triumph of the Christian faith that had occurred since it had ascended the imperial throne under the banners of Constantine. How then cun it be possible that a triumph of the Catholic faith, which stands out on the pages of history as the most grand and imposing of all the successive conquests of the Papal power, should be the overthrow of that power 1 Surely it cannot be, unless we can make the greatest triumph of the Catholic faith its most signal overthrow.

"We must remember that the dominion of the little horn was to be that of the three horns sucked up; consequently the dominion to be taken away must be the dominion which was giv-en to it, that is, of the three kingdoms: for a power that is never possessed cannot be taken away. In what manner did this Concordat overturn the authority of the Pope over the three and Great Britain from papal authority was not the event that marked the close of the 1260 years; neither when France broke with Rome, A.[D. 1793, will we find the prophetic mark; much less when she falls again into the arms of Rome, A. D. 1802, are we to look for that event as the grand boundary line of the 1260 years.

For the Harbinger. Revivals-Power of Exhortation.

There is a power attending heartfelt exhorta-, tion, and earnest entreaty and persuasion, that but few can resist; and without which accompaniment, the preaching of the Word fails in a measure to produce the effect designed and de-, sired. We are too apt to cast aside those " conversions" as spurious, that have been the result of what is sometimes termed "a special effort," or what is termed "a protracted meeting." But is not a protracted meeting, or a special effort to save sinners, better than no meeting, or better than no effort ! While it is the duty of Christians to be constantly and ever making " a special effort" to save men, yet what is termed revivals of religion, are not without their good ; and special efforts to enforce the claims of the truth upon the mind of both saint and sinner, we know by experience, often result in much good.of grace and mercy that the church enjoyed in days past, the showers of divine grace that were so frequently experienced and enjoyed by the tunities for special effort which circumstances If certain seasons of the year may present. make it more convenient for men to congregate where the gospel is preached, it is certainly important that Christians improve such times, and make every laudable effort to induce men to prepare to meet their God. The greatest cause to lament is, that there is not more "special efforts" made to save men. If we refer in our minds back to those seasons of awakening, we remember the earnest and solemn exhortations which accompanied every discourse of the preacher .---The sinner could not resist the earnest entreaties of the Christian. The lukewarm were induced to repent, and the backslider was reclaimed.-Difficulties between brethren were speedily settled ; and infidels were caused to exclaim, "Behold how these Christians love one another."-Can we say such frights were not of God ! Sectarian controversies were laid aside, and Christians of every denomination could then work together in love for the one great object-the salvation of sinners.

The Bible, from beginning to end, is one con-tinued invitation. What sinner is not affected by those words found in Ezekiel xviii. 11. "Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked ; but that the wicked turn from his way and live : turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel"! Also in Matt. xi, 28-80, "Come unto me, all ye that labor, and are heavy ladon, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me: for I am meek and lowly in heart : and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my bur-den is light" ? We read in Acts viii 04 00 scriptures, came to Ephesus, And when he was scriptures, came to Ephesus. And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him: who when he was come, helped them much which had believed through grace. For he mightily con-vinced the Jews, and that publicly, shewing by the scriptures, that Jasus was Christ." Eloquence and earnest exhortation, connected with the truth, are like showers upon newly planted fields. 1 Cor. iii. 6, "I have planted, Apollos watered : but God gave the increase." God will, in answer to prayer, bless such means to the salvation of sinners.

It is not only the duty of Christians to preach the Word, but, to be successful in winning souls to Christ, it is also their duty to make use of all the means in their power to accomplish the work: and exhortation is a very important item of the means with which the Christian, by the help of God, may succeed in the cause of Christ. With out argument, or examples from the Scriptures, reason and experience should teach us the efficacy of persuasion and exhortation. While fanatics, headed by the prince of error, are trumpeting the lie that the day of grace is past-that all men will be saved-that there is no God-that the judgment and resurrection is past : While all these opposing influences are at work to dete the spread of the gospel, and hedge up the way, and hinder the stable minded and faithful laborer in the vineyard of the Lord, so much the more should the devoted servants of Christ thunder forth and proclaim the solemn and awful truth, that the judgment of the great day neareth, and hasteth greatly, and warn, induce and persuade, exhort and urge men to prepare to meet their God

It is also our duty to pray and wrestle with God, "that the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified." Although, judging from the signs of the times, and what the Scriptures clearly teach will be the moral condition of the world near the Coming of Christ, there seems to be but little prospect or hope that many will, by the use of any means, heed this last warning, and be induced to prepare for the judgment ; yet we have no authority from the Word to limit the power of the Almighty. We know not how great a work God in mercy may yet petform, in a short time. It is the Christian's duty to labor as earnestly now, and more so, than ever before. For we are taught by the Word to "exhort one another, and so much the more, as we see the day aparoaching." Our persecutions, no doubt, will increase more and more in this work till the end. But the more diligent and faithful we are in this glorious cause, the more consistent and possible will it be for God to increase our spiritual strength, and give us his Holy Spirit to enable us to overcome every evil, and endure patiently all his righteous will. O that we may realize more and more our weakness, and our dependence upon Christ for strength to live holy and pure in his sight, that we may be constantly fit instruments to perform all the work he has de-signed for us, in this last time of peril and spiritual declension. And soon it will be said to us, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord." H. B.

On the Proper Regulation of the Appetites."

In connection with the views which have been presented in the preceding chapter, it is to be renembered, that the leading appetites and propensities in their specific forms, are but so many modifications of desire. And if it is exchangledged to be important, that the desires should be properly regulated, it is equally important, that the specific appetites and propensities, into which desire, under the appropriate circumstances, modifies itself, should be subjected to a similar regulation. And the same general remark will apply to the affections also, as well as to the appetites and the propensive principles; inasmuch as the size, an essential and leading element, and are susceptible of an inordinate section.

(1.) In the few observations, which we pro-ose to make on the subject of the appetites at the present time, our first remark is this. The appetites are good in their appropriate place ; but en they are not properly regulated, by being restricted to their appropriated occasions and ob jects, they are the source of great evil. I be-lieve it is generally admitted, that the undue indulgence of the appetites-the "lower passions," as tÌ ey are sometimes denominated—is the true source of inward impurity; a state of mind, which it is to be feared most persons know by melancholy experience, better than it can be illustrated by any description. Men speak of the appetites in terms which obviously indicate their nvictions on this subject; they speak of them, whenever they operate out of their appropriate sphere and degree, as low, degrading, and pol-luting; and compare these who thus indulge in them, to the swine that wallow in the mire-

There is also something in one's consciousness which supports this rise. When the appetites are entirely woldwed and kept in their place, the subject of them, at least so far as the appetites are concerned, feele that he is pure in heart. But when it is otherwise, there is a sense not only of guilt, but of degradation; there is an inward consciousness of what may be termed metaphorically a stain or blot upon the mind. The soul feels itself, in the experience of its own state, to be very different from what it is at other itmes. The holy soul may be likened to a mirror, into which God may look, and behold the features of his own character reflected. But when it yields itself to the undue influence of the appetites, the mirror becomes usined and darkened, and God is no longer seen in it.

(2.) In accordance with these views, a person may become impure, as in point of fact many do become impure, by the inordinate indigence of the appetite for food and drink. The Servior as and drank without prejudice to his holices, because he did so in fulfiment of the laws of nature. The truly devoted followers of the Savior will endeavor to imitate his example in this respect. "I felt no dispation," says the picus Brainand, "to eat and drink for the sake of the pleasure of it; but only to support, my nature, and to fit me for divine service." In I may perhaps be properly added, that, eren, bethepinn, which thus utters a voice to teach and impove on this subject. It is said of Hannibå, the clehreid Christianity, can furnish in a leson of the posicial systems, without any regative for food and drink, he consulted merely the fact.

to the suggestions of sensual pleasure. In the language of the Roman Historian, " Cibi pation-isque desiderio naturali, non voluptate, modus finitus."

This fact, among other striking traits of character, is obviously mentioned as a ground of com-mendation by the historian, who, heathen as he was, as well as the celebrated subject of his remarks, seems to have had a clear perception of the intentions of nature.

Happy would it be, if such views and practices more generally prevailed. But it is a painful truth, that multitudes of persons, and some even of those who claim to be the Savior's followers. pollute themselves by taking food, not for the sake of the food and in the fulfilment of the intention of nature, but for the sake of the pleasure which it gives ; making the pleasure the ultimate and oftentimes the sole object. In other words, they eat and drink for their lusts' sake .-They do not eat and drink because it is necessa ry to support nature : an important object, which, when properly kept in view, has a tendency to limit the quality and quantity of the articles taken, but in order that they may gratify their selfish propensities. Such are the persons that are properly denominated impure; and they feel themselves to be so. // The superabundance of the flesh, nourished by meats and drinks stimulating in their nature, and inordinate in quantity, seems to spread a coat of its dark and unseemly accre-tion over the mind itself. The amount of impurity which results from this source is imme and will abundantly account for the lamentations of many persons over their spiritual leannes

(3.) One of the principles coming under the denomination of the appetites is that which results from the relation of the sexes. A serious mind one that is disposed to recognize the benevolent hand of God in all his works, will not be inclined to speak in terms of disparagement of this appe tite, which, in an important sense, is the foundation of the family state. But sin, which has apread its poison everywhere, has converted that, which was designed for good and nothing but good, into a source of evil. Every desire, founded upon the relation of the sexes, which is not in accordance with the providence and will of God, leaves a stain upon the mind's purity, and is at war with holiness. But it is necessary merely to The ho allude to the dangers from this source. ly mind, which appreciates the importance of watchfulness in every direction, will not be inattentive to the perplexities and hazards which exist here. A single emotion, at variance with entire purity of heart, is inconsistent, so long as it exists, with communion with God, and with his towar

(4.) We leave this subject with one or two observations more. In connection with what has been remarked, we are naturally led to urge up on all persons, who wish to live a life of true holiness, the great importance of living in such a manner, in the exercise and indulgence of the appetites, as to fulfill, and nothing more than fulfill, the intentions of nature : or rather the intentions of the wise and benevolent Author of na-The life of God in the soul has a much closer connection with modes of living than is generally supposed. If Christians, instead of indulging and pampering the appetite for meats and drinks, would be satisfied with simple nourishment, and with that small quantity which is adediste to all the purposes of nature, what abun-diant blessings would infalibly result both to body and mind! Many dark hours, which are now the subject of sad complaints on the part of pro-feesed Christians, would be exchanged for brighter ones. God would then reveal his face of af-fection and love, which it is impossible for him to do to those who analave themselves in this man-antied by the constitution, which the trustees church, rears his hideous and revolting form.--ent, And in relation to any other principles, were bound to obey; and that this fact was well. How many similar instances there may be, we

which properly come under the head of the appetites, beneficial and important as they undoubtedly are in their place, if they could be restrain ed to the purposes and the limits which their Au thor has assigned, it would certainly make a vas difference in the relative amount of sin and holiess, of suffering and happiness, in the world.

Christian, think of these things! Ye, who seek the experience, the indispensible and ble ed experience, of holiness of heart, earnestly make them the subject of reflection and prayer. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." "Whether ye eat or drink, or whatsoev er ye do, do all the glory of God."-T. C. Uphan

Slavery and the Church.

Corruption of the Church.

THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Of this church I have little to say; for, from the very nature of its organization, and the character of the elements of which it is composed, it is the very last of all the sects to which any cause of reform should look for aid. From the commencement of our enterprise, it has been an inveterate enemy of abolition, and has thrown its entire influence, as a body, into the scale of slave ry. Among its members have been found a few sterling abolitionists, but fewer probably, in proportion to its whole numbers, than in any other denomination. I believe the first instance of the opening of its meeting-houses for antislavery lectures is yet to be recorded; and if, in its ecclesiastical capacity, it has done less to sustain slave ry, by postive action in its favor, than some of the other sects, it has not been for want of love for the system, but from its haughty and dignified indifference to all matters of general inte Many of its ministers and members are slaveclaimants, and nearly all of them legalize slave-ry, and strenuously oppose its abolition in the District of Columbia; and in abusive treatment of people of color, they have, if possible, rivalled ven the Methodist church.

Some idea of the spirit which pervades this body towards that portion of our countrymen to whom God has given a complexion differing from ours, may be gathered from the following extracts from a recent work from the pen of Judge Jay, himself a Churchman, entitled "Caste and Slavery in the American Church."

Mr. Jay says :-

"In the month of June, 1839, the Board of Trustees of the General Theological Seminary composed of the bishops and clerical and lay delegates from the different states and territories met at New York ; and their proceedings were subsequently published in a pamphlet. From the minutes, it appears that a candidate for holy orders in the diocese of New York, now the Rev. Alexander Crummell, applied to them, by petition, to be allowed to enter the seminary as a student; that the petition was referred to a committee consisting of the Right Rev. Bp, H, U. Onderdonk, Rev. Drs. James Milnor and Hugh Smith, and Wm. Johnson, David B. Ogden, and Edward A. Newton, Esquires, who, after deliberate consideration, recommended a resolution of rejection, which, on the motion of the Rev. Fran-cis L. Hawkes, D. D., was adopted ; that the Right Rev. Bishop Doane asked leave to enter his protest against the decision, and that leave was not granted. Neither the reasons for their devision, nor the disqualification of the candidate, are even intimated by the minutes; but it does appear, that the right of every candidate for orders to anter the seminary was expressly guarknown to them, also appears from an amendment proposed by the bishop of New York, while the matter was pending, to the very clause upon which they were trampling.

"The true cause which led the trustees to nullify the constitution and deny the right of the candidate, and which they were ashamed to acknowledge, was that he was a colored man ; and this was the only cause-his diocesan, Bishop Onderdonk, of New York, having declared in 'The Churchman,' (Nov. 4, 1839,) that he explicitly stated to them, ' that if they should think it right and proper to admit a COLORED MAN into the Seminary, he considered the applicant before them, one in whose case it might with great safety and propriety be done."

"The Rev. Peter Williams, for many years a respectable clergyman of New York, was never allowed to sit as a member of the Diocesan Convention, nor has the Church of St. Philip, of which he was the pastor, been yet represented in that body. He died soon after the act of the trustees, upon which we have been remarking, was exposed to the world; and to counteract, as far as possible, the indignation it had excited, the clergy, in a body, attended his funeral, and the bishop of New York pronounced from the pulpit a high eulogium upon his character. Several of the clergy admitted that it was done merely for effect, and one of them bitterly remarked at the funeral, that the empty honors to the lifeless dust were a poor atonement for the insults so often offered to the living man. The Rev. Mr. De Grasse, another colored clergyman of the Episcopal church, of fine talents, excellent acquirements, and amiable disposition, -who, three years previously to the application of Mr. Crummell, had been excluded from the Seminary, and who, after a residence of some years in this city, sought in the West Indies the respectful treatment and sympathy he could not find at home, and there ended his early years by a Christian's death,-once said to the writer, with tears in his eyes, 'I feel that the bishop and many of the clergy are against us—that they do not want any co-lored clergymen in in the church. I have struggled against the conviction, but it is impossible to resist it ; the proofs are to strong ; I experience it daily ; 1 know it is so."

"In the diocese of Pennsylvania, an express canon debars the African church from being represented in the Convention, and excludes the rector from a seat. Truly | a singular picture to be exhibited by Christians meeting as a council o. the church ; but the limits of caste stop not heref Beautifully says the poet-

In the very graveyard, where Death reigns as conquerol, and worms revel on the mouldering remains of manliness and beauty; where pride, and pomp, and power, have doffed their trappings, and have said to corruption, Thou art my father, and to the worm, Thou art my mother and my sister ; where the voice of passion is forever stilled, and the heart that has ceased to beat is cold as the marble beneath which it reposes ;-even here, among the tombs, Prejudice has his dwelling, like the demoniac of old, and Caste, under the sanction of the

THE UNITABIAN AND UNIVERSALIST CHURCHES.

Whoever has bestowed an hour's serious reflection on the nature and tendency of ecclesias tical institutions, will see that these churches have much less power to harm any work of reform, than those sects which are called evangelical .-From the loosenesss of their organization, and anti-Pharisaic character of their professions, their ecclesiastical influence is comparatively limited, ei ther for good or for evil. Their influence is more that of the individual; and in relation to slavery, they stand much nearer the position of non-church-communicants, than do the other sects. But still they have an ecclesiastical existence and, of course, some ecclesiastical influence ; and that influence, however trifling it may have been, has all been given in support of slavery. As a body, they have given the anti-slavery cause no countenance. The least that can in truth he said of them is, that, ecclesiastically, they have walked in the footsteps of the priest and the Levite, straight by the poor, bleeding slave, on the other side, or have turned aside only to cast a cold and heartless look upon his wretchedness; while in the capacity of citizens, they have joined his oppressors, and assisted in stripping him of his rights, and plundering his domestic hearthstone. And as they profess to be Christiana, and mem-bers of the clurch of Christ, and at the same time logalize slavery and the slave trade, and also fellowship slave-claimants as Christians, there is no essential difference between them and the oth er sects. They are all under the same condemnation, and are alike the enemies of truth and impartial freedom .- S. S. Foster.

In so doing, they will at once obtain many subscribers ; enlist others in the same good work ; and wake up a reading interest, which, in a great measure, is the life of a religious community .-Traveling Lecturers can do much towards forwarding this enterprise. Will they, and our brethren in the ministry generally, interest themselves in this Cause 7

It will also aid in furnishing the number of sub scribers we need, if those who take another paper can be induced to take the Harbinger also ; the ad ditional expense of Seventy-five Cents is but a trifle, especially to those who are in easy circumstances while a number of such little sums united make the great amount we need to carry out this enterprise. Let this matter be laid before such, and doubtless many of then will lend us a helping hand, for the term of one volume, if no longer. . .

OUR FREE LIST.

At the price we now offer the paper, we cannot without a large list of paying subscribers, send it gratuitously. What, cry some, will you deprive the Lord's poor of the glad tidings of the kingdom which are weekly borne to them on the pages of the Harbinger ? No; this we cannot do : the gospel must be preached to them. We propose to give the Lord's benevolent stewards an opportunity to have the pleasure of aiding in this work of love. We purpose to publish a list, weekly, of the cost of the papers sent to the poor, and the voluntary contributions of those who may feel disposed to aid in meeting the same. In this way we hope to be able to send out more papers to the poor than we have ever before done, for we think many who have the means will engage in this good work with a zeal and cheer fulness, which becomes our high and benevolent profession. Who will be first in contributing for this among the best of purposes ?

It will aid us in accomplishing this work, if eyery one who now receives the Harbinger, free of charge, will try, at least, and pay for it. Those who can, should esteem it their privilege and duty to do or when the paper is ordered. If there is a lack of promptness in paying this small price, our plan will non-paying and free subscribers large, for our small be defeated. And we hope those whom it concerns | xxxvi. 8.

To aid in carrying out this plan, we must urge the necessity of making

ALL PAYMENTS IN ADVANCE,

will hear in mind past accounts : we shall need out dues to aid in publishing our sheet at its reduced price. POSTAGE.

Postage must be paid on all letters from our patrons. We cannot afford the Harbinger to them at Seventy-five cents, and be subjected to Postage too. A word is all that is needful: all, we trust, will do. the fair thing.

Finally, we have and do still most sincerely crave the blessing of God upon this enterprise, if it is sccording to his will: we feel that it is," and think it will succeed, and be the means of greatly enlarging the usefulness of our humble sheet. " We do therefore most confidently appeal to our brethren, to aid ; us what they can, in the several ways we have we have the in furthering the objects here us ; and we believe we do not appeal to them in vain.<sup>2</sup> Will they immediately see what can be done 1

( Our Canada subscribers will receive their papers at one dollar per volume, as usual. We capnot at present reduce the price to them, as we have to pay twenty-six cents postage on each volume ; and besides, from five to ten cents postage on the most of their letters, and from two to three cents discount on all their money." We name this not by way of complaint, but to let the reason be known why our terms to them are continued at one dollar. We trust our brethren in Canada will be satisfied with this explanation, and act well their part in alding us to carry out the objects of this undertaking.

OUR FREE LIST .- Under this head we purpose to keep our readers apprised of the number and cost of papers we send to the worthy poor, free of charge, . and the several sums which the benevolent may contribute to aid in meeting the expense of the same. ; The opportunity is now offered for any one to contribute, as the Lord may direct, it .... 6

(Concluded.) The Mighty God] Or, as Dr. Clarke, in his notes on this text, renders it, " Elgibber, the prevailing, or conquering God."

Exposition of Ist. iz. 6.

Every informed Bible student well knows, that the term 'God' has a great variety of applications in the Bible, and that all Bible names are significant of some quality, power, or thing. Hence, Elijah signifies, God the Lord, or, strong Lord. El Elehe, God, the God of Israel. Eli, Eli, my God, my God. Eliab, God my Father. Eliathah, thou art my God. Elihu, he is my God himself. Elisha, salvation of God. Lemuel, God with them. Emanuel, God with us. And Elgibber, The Conquering God, or, The Mighty God. See Cruden's large Concordance ; and Clarke's Notes, on Isa, ix. 6.

The term God is applied to Satan : he is called "the god of this world." 2 Cor. iv. 4.

It is said of the Man of Sin, that he sitteth in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God. 2 Thess. ii. 4.

Moses is called God. "See I have made thee a God to Pharaoh. Ex. vii. 1.

Judges are repeatedly called Gods. "Who is like unto thee, O Lord, among the Gods ?" Ex. xv. 11. Thou shalt not revile the Gods, nor curse the ruler of thy people. Ex. xxii. 28, For the Lord your God, is a God of Gods. Deut. x. 17. God standeth in the congregation of the mighty ; he judgeth among the Gods ; I have said ye are Gods ; and all of you are children of the Most High, but ye shall all die like men. Psa .lxxxli. Among the Gods there is none like anto thee, O Lords Pear

Angels, we think, are called Gods. "Worship ther. "Being made so much better than the angels, him all ye Gods . . . for thou, Lord, art high above all the earth : thou art exalted far above all Gods." Psa. xevii. 7, 9. We think Paul refers to this text in Heb. i. 6. "When he bringeth the first begotten into the world, he saith, And let all the angels of God (or, all ye Gods), worship him."

Christ justified the application of the name God. to men. He said, "It is written in your law, I said ye are Gods ? If he called them Gods unto whom the word of God came, and the Scriptures cannot be broken, say ye of him whom the Father hath sanctified and sent into the world, Thou blasphem est, because I said I am the Son of God 1" John x. 34-36.

In view of this great variety of the application of the name 'God,' well might Paul say (1 Cor. viii.5), "There are Lords many, and Gods many." But in contradistinction to all these weak, imperfect, finite Gods, who should 'all die like men' (Psa. lxxxii.), this "child born," and "son given," should be called the mighty, or prevailing, or conquering God. For "the spirit of might should rest upon him." (Isa. xi. 31 And "he was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people. (Luke xxiv. 19) "All power in heaven and earth is given unto him of his Father," (Matt. zi. 27 ; zzviii. 18.) so that he is mighty, or able to save, all who come unto God hy him. He will soon come in power and great glory, the mighty King of kings and Lord of lords, to destroy his enemies, give eternal life to all his children, make all things new, and fill the earth with the glory of God. Well may he be called the Mighty, or Prevailing, or Conquering God.

But the question which we suppose the brother, who called for this exposition, desires answered, is, Is Christ called God, in the highest sense of the term 7 We think not. Because 4 I pro-There is a God from whom he came. ceeded forth and came from God." John viii, 42.

To whom interayed. "My God, my God, why hast thou foresten me ?" Matt. xxvii. 46. To whom he ascended. "Go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend to my Father and your Father ; and to my God, and your God." John xx.

At whose right hand he stands, ""But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus stand-ing on the right, hand of God." Acts vii. 25, 26. "Sat down at the right hand of God." Heb. iz. 12 Between whom and man he mediates. "For there is one God, and one Mediator between God and man, the man Christ Jesus. 1 Tim. ii. 5.

Who calls him by this name. "But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God . . . Therefore God, even thy God, hath annointed thee" Heb. i. 8, 9. This shows clearly, that there is a Being who is the God of Christ, which could not be so, if Christ is God in the highest sense of the term.

Finally, we believe Christ is called God, not in the highest, but in a subordinate sense ; because Paul says (1 Cor. viii. 5, 6), "For though there be that are called Gods, whether in heaven or in earth (for there be Gods many and Lords many), but to us there is but ONE GOD, the FATHER, of whom are all things, and we in him, AND ONE LORD JESUS CHRIST, by whom are all things, and we by him." ... 1. 1. 1. 1. A.

Jona is the name which God has given to Christ "Shall call his name JESUS." (Luke i. 31.)-"Wherefore God hath highly exalted him, and give him a name which is above every name, that at the name of JESUS every knee should how. Phil. ii. 9, 10. Jerus, then, is the proper given name of Christ. But 'God' is a name which he inherits, on the principle that a son inherits the name of his fa- throne, even as I overcame, and am set down with then we shall find but little difficulty in understand-as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they." Heb. 1. 4. What is that more excellent name which the Son of God inherits ? Verse 8th we think tells. "But unto the Son, he (God) saith, Thy throne, O God.-God, then, is the name the Son inherits. It would be absurd to talk about the Supreme God inheriting any name.

Everlasting Father] Or, as Dr. Clarke, in his notes on this text, renders it, "Father of the everlasting age." The true meaning of the phrase, we think Bro. Needham has given, on the first page of the Harbinger for last week.

"Why is the Lord Jesus called the 'second Adam ?' I conceive it to be this : 'The children of this age,' says our Lord, 'marry, and are given in marriage ; but those who shall be accounted worthy to obtain that age, neither marry nor are given in marriage, neither can they die any more, for they are the children of God, being children of the res urrection ;' and, says Paul, 'as we have borne the image of the earthly [Adam], so shall we also bear the image of the heavenly' [Adam]. By age, is meant the mortal, in which men marry and propagate their species by natural generation, and the immortal, never-dying, never-ending age, in which they neither marry nor propagate their spocies .-The first Adam stands at the head, and is the fathe of the first, stamping his earthly, mortal, dying image on his posterity. Gen. v. 3. The second Ad am, 'the Lord from heaven,' stands at the head, and is the father of the second, the immortal, the never dying age, stamping his heavenly, glorious and immortal image on his children-the children of the resurrection. In this light, I conceive, he is called by Isaiah, 'The everlasting Father.' He comes : a nation is 'born at once.' Who is the Father of it 1 Who 1 Jesus ! They are born in a moment in the twinkling of an eye ! And Josus, the second Adam, has begotten them. Jesus has given birth to a new race-an immortal race-to a new and everlasting age ! All hail our coming king ! our Father everlasting ! our life-giving Immannel ! and we his everlasting children 1 O glorious hope ! O blessed Jesus ! Come, and come quickly, and deliver thy groaning, waiting children !"

We will add : Our earthly fathers, where are they 1 They are dying and are dead. But Jesus, the Father of the Everlasting Age, "ever liveth." Thank the Lord, " He dieth no more ; death hath no more dominion over him." All who believe and obey him, are his children, and will also live foreyer-of course he is their father, for it is said, "Be hold I, and the children whom the Lord hath giv-Isa. vili. 18. "And again, Behold I en me." and the children which God hath given me." Heh: ii. 13,

In whatever sense Christ is called Father, there is nothing more clearly taught in the Word, than that Christ has a Father, who sent him. "The Fa ther hath sent me." John v. 36. "And we have seen and do testify, that the Father sent the Son, to be the Savior of the world." 1 John iv. 14.

To whom he prayed, "Saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup." Luke xxii. 42, "Father forgive them ; for they know not what they do. Luke xxiii. 34.

To whom he commended his spirit, "And when Jesus had cried with a laud voice, he said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." Luke xxiii. 46

To whom he ascended. "I ascend unto my Fa ther, and your Father ; and my God, and your God." John xx. 17.

With whom he has sat down. "To him who overcometh will I grant to sit down with me in my my Father in his throne." Rev. iii. 21.

To whom he will deliver up the kingdom, "Then cometh the end, when he shall hav meetin every kingdom to God, even the Father." and " 24. Who said, "My Father is greater the all."-John x. 29. And, "My Father is greater than I." John xiv. 28.

Finally, Paul gives us the true light on this subect. He says (1 Cor. vili. 5), "There is ONE GOD, the FATHER - and one LORD JESUS CHRIST." "ONE LORD-ONE GOD AND FATER of all." Eph. iv. 5, 6, and many other similar texts, which the enquirer after truth is requested to consult.

Prince of Peace] A ruler, or king, as the next verse assures us he will be, "upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and establish it with judgment and justice, from henceforth He will not be an oppressive, uneven forever," righteous king, like earthly tyrants, but he will be a king who will 'reign in righteousness,' and of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end.' His will be a kingdom of everlasting peace ; and, in view of it, well might the Prophet call the glorious king, Prince of Peace.

The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this] And we, in these last day, have the fullest assurance that this most precious promise will not fail, but will all be fulfilled. The Lord of hosts stands pledged to fulfill it. Near eight hundred years after the giving of this promise, the "Child born," and "Son given," and "Wonderful, Counsellor, made his appearance, to the joy of those who waited for the Consolation of Israel ; thereby giving us the strongest assurance that he will, in due time, come, the "Mighty," or "Conquering God," "the Father of the Everlasting Age," and "Prince of Peace." We should not doubt ; but should hold fast the profession of our faith, without wavering, rememb bering at all times, with a joyful and well grounded hope, that this great and glorious work, which the Lord of hosts in his zeal has partly performed, he will, in due time, perfect, to his own glory. And that time, doubtless, is at the door. May we be found in a condition to rejoice in its consummation,

> "Two Horned Beast." NO. 1X.

(10) "And there was given him a mouth snefk-ing great things, and blasphemies . . . and he opened his mouth in blasphemies against God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven." Rev. xiii. 5. 6. As this blasphemous mouth, which was given to the ten borned beast, more properly belongs to another part of this investigation, we will just say of it now, that we understand it to be the same as the "mouth speaking great things," in Dan. vii. 8, and that both are symbols of the Papal church, which has been the mouth-diece of the ten horned beast, or ten kingdoms of Western Rome, especially for between four and five hundred years, when those kingdoms were under Papal supremacy ; and she yet is not dumb, but performs well her deceptive part for the beast, in this respect.

(11) "He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity ; he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and faith of the saints." V. 10. How this part of the prophecy, by expositors, has almost uniformly been applied to the Papacy, we are unable to tell. It certainly is no more true of that power than of some other powers belonging to the beast. And besides, the Papacy is not the prominent subject of this part of the prophecy. When we understand that the ten horned beast is the subject of this prophecy, ing the text under consideration. It doubtless is ate notice by the kingly is the last form of the Lord dis coming, it would be in vain for any earthly power to try to conquer those kingdoms, and change the form of the beast. He that should have the ambition to attempt it, though he might succeed for a while, and kill many with the sword, and lead many into captivity, or conquer them, yet the sword in turn should prevail against him, and God's word be justified, in the preservation of the kingly form of the beast until its destruction by the Lord. The career of Bonaparte is a most striking fulfilment of this prediction. Universal dominion doubtless was his ambitious aim ; he killed with the sword and conquered many, yet the sword prevailed against him, and he died in disgraceful captivity.

The "patience and faith of the saints," during the long, oppressive, and bloody reign of the kingly form of the beast, consists, we think, the one, in enduring the trials and persecutions to which they have been subjected, and the other, in believing that the word of God will be accomplished in their final deliverance, and the destruction of their enemies. And now is a time when these graces, especially the latter, should be kept in constant and lively exercise.

Urgent duties prevent our saying more on this subject now. We purpose, in our next, to speak of the mark, name, and number of the name of the beast.

Time of the Advent.

Some of our brethren are again disappointed in their calculations on the definite time for the advent of Christ : the close of '47 or commencement of 48, was the time they expected he would appear. We hope their faith in the prophetic word, by their repeated disappointments, will not be shaken ; but we do hope they will give up all confidence in all human calculations, on the time of the advent, and learn to cleave to the plain and immutable word of the Lord, in this and all matters of faith and works.

We wish not, by these remarks, to be anderstood to object to the closest investigation on the time of the advent : for we love such investigation-wish we had more of it to lay before our readers-it is the prominent present truth that should be kept constanly alive in community. But we do object to coming to unwarranted, definite and positive conclusions on this bible, this sacred, this momentous question. Some seem to think that it is impossible to run to extremes in this case, but we should remember that we are no more under the restraining power of God in this matter than in any other ; we can err in, and abuse the best of causes-and wisdom is as necessary to direct in this as in any other cause, of minor consequence.

We do think it is high time that we all become grounded and settled (not in mere human opinion. but) in the FAITH, in this important matter ; the happiness, and, we fear, the salvation of many an uninformed, unsettled, yet honest mind, demands it. Repeated disappointments do seriously affect them: it is unreasonable to suppose it can be otherwise. We cannot stand without faith, and we cannot believe without coidence. Well, all the supposed evidence on precise definite time, has hitherto failed : and just so far, with some, as this kind of evidence has betrayed their confidence, they have just so far lost confidence in all calculations on time: for they have wrongly been taught that precise definite time is embraced in the only true theory. Hence, their faith has died, and they have fearfully apostatized from the true faith. We should now endeavor to and hope, which will not betray their most sanguine Consequently each soul has cost between eight u expectations-lay it so sure, that he that believeth in it 'shall not be confounded.'

Such a foundation the word of God, and immuta ble facts, do lay, on the time of the advent. A foundation firmer than the pillars of the heavens and earth : for in reference to it the Savior has said, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not fail." What words ? Some of them are, "Of that day and hour knoweth no man"-and "When ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the door."

Here is a sure foundation on which our faith can rest, unshaken, until our Lord shall come. The angry storms of sectarian strife, that howl in unholy discord around us-the conflicts and trials of the way-and the failure of ten thousand human calculations on the time, and even death itself-cannot shake this immutable foundation. Those who understandingly rest upon this rock of inspired truth. clearly see in the prophetic numbers, and the numerous signs of the times, of every description, the most undoubted evidence, that the coming of the Lord is emphatically near. They gather from all the definite calculations, and disappointments of those who make them, additional evidence to strengthen their well grounded faith. How blessed is such a position as this. Those who occupy it, as they may and should, are filled with faith and hope, with peace and the strong assurance of soon beholding their long absent Lord, coming to reward them with the crown of eternal life.

What if '47 has passed, and the world rejoices, and a formal and world loving church triumphs ; and the hearts of some of the scattered and despised yet faithful ones, are made and ? The word of God has not failed-his promises are yet precious and sure-the Lord will come-the kingdom will be set up, under the whole heavens-the saints will possess it-and the glory of God will fill the whole earth. And, that the auspicious day for this great and glorious work to be consummated is at the very door, is as certain as the word of God is true, and wellknown facts are immutable.

Sinner, prepare to meet that day in peace. World-loving, and pleasure-seeking church member, your external garb of religion will not hide your sins in that burning day : the Omniscient Eye of Jehowah will search out the most secret and hidden re cesses of your impure heart. O. put away your sins, now, that you may stand justified, when the Son of Man shall appear. And, ye meek and holy followers of the Lamb, who cry and sigh on account of the abominations that are committed in the land, and who are looking for the coming of the Lord. keep your garments pure. Seeing you look for such things, what manner of persons ought you to be, in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God. Let no man take your crown-it will soon be given to all who endure unto the eud.

IF We have a number of interesting communications on file, which will appear in their turn. Be patient, and keep us well supplied with the very best original biblical matter you can furnish, and we will try our very best to give you one of the very best papers in the land.

An interest was awakened to hear the gospel of the kingdom, and they have not only been hearers, in doers of the word. For a season, the meeting were continued every evening-they came from veral miles distant. Seats set apart for mourne were crowded. BRO. MARSH:-I am now attending a series of cetings at this place, (Newton,) and the attendance is good, and so is the attention ; but I do not say that the fruit will be much ; for the knowledge I have had of the history of the Advent cause; reminds me often of a woman attempting to sweep water from the floor: her efforts seem to promise success, while in fact the water behind her is closing cause. There are so many to daub with untermet-ed morter. They tell the people that it is no matter whether the new heavens and earth are our home or not, or whether we know any thing about the coming of the Lord, so we are only prepared to die. Death, to them, "is the gate to endless joy." They have made a covenant with it, their bonds are made strong, and the people love to have it so.

thus warring against inspiration; (2 110. m. c., 2 Peter i, 13, iii. 1; Rev. i. 3; Luke iv. 4, xzi, 31; John ziv, 23, 24, 1 John iv. 4-7,) and thus they dic-tate to God, instead of being dictated to by bin, and are in fact the proud that are called happy. They work their wickedness, and are set up in the bighest stations amongst the sects; and they thus temp God and are yet delivered, when they that feared the Lord, spake often to each other, and the Lord hark-aned and heard it. Nor is this all the difficulty the truth has to contend with ; but it is often injured by its professed friends, by their improper conversation In protessed retends, by their improper conversation and irregular conduct, and by some who seem to wish to sit in Moses' seat. All these things make the cause bleed at every pore. But, thank God, the foundation of God standerth sure, having this seal, the Lord knows them that are bis; and let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniguity, (2 Tim ii, 19.). There are two great truths that i wish to have laid with power in my beart dai-ly, and that is, that Jesus is soon coming; yes, right at the door; and without bolloses no man shall see the Lord. HARTLAND, VL, Dec. 3, 1847.

BRG. MARSH :- The brethren in this place are the greater part, holding on to the faith of the speedy coming of our exaited King. Bro. W. H. Dow preaches with us the most of the time. Brothers preaches with us the most of the time. Druham Burnham, Hertan, Brown, Sherwin, and others, oc-cassionally call and preach the gospel of the kingdom to us, and notwithstanding our trials and tempt stions we have to pass through, we have many re-freshing, blessed meetings, and are determined, the Lord helping us, to overcome and sit down with Christ on his throne.

To the saints scattered abroad I would say, Be patient ; for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh, very nigh ; for we have need of patience, that after we have done the will of God we might receive the promises. Let us not faint because of evil doers, neither he envious at the wicked, neither murme sor complain of our hard fortune or disappointments. Although the vision tarry, wait patiently for it; at the time appointed it will speak. We have the word of the Lord, the declaration of angels, and the testimony of the apostles, that the Lord is soon coming-Praise God, O my soul, for these great and precious promises. May the Lord belp us all to be prepared to hail our coming King with joy, and to join the glarified throng in ascribing glory, honor, power and dominion, to him that sits on the throne, and the Lamb, forever and ever.

Yours, with fervent love to all the saints, MCSRS TRWKSBURT.

BRO. MARSH :- The doctrine of the advent near has been rejected by many, and it is lamentable to see the cause of Zion languish, whilst wickedn abounds and the love of many has waxed cold. But there is a remnant who are trying to make their way through this world of trial to that world where they shall bever say, I am sick ; where nothing shall en-ter that shall mar our peace, but all will be glory to God in the highest.

Go on with the publication of the Harbinger, and may it be the means of strengthening the scattered fock of Christ, and of spreading light and truth through all the ranks of Zion. The Harbinger has been a consolation to us the past season ; for we have been confined at bome most of the time by incluses is our family. We have but few meetings, have stuated almost alone, but the good Lord has et us many times, and given answer to prayer. Yours, in the honds of Christian fellowship, South NATICE, Mass., Dec. 6, 1847. Bao. MARSH :--- " Let us take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of us an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God. But exhort one another daily, while it is called to-day, lest any of us be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. For be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. For we are made partakers of Christ if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end."-Now if it was needful for Paul to warn believers of his day against the sins of the ancient Israel, is it not wisdom in us to beware of the same sin ? for he says that the things that happened unto them for types, and they are written for our admonition, upon wh om the ends of the world are come. W fore let him that thinketh he standeth take beed lest he fall. Let us labor, therefore, to enter into that rest, lest any map fall after the same example of unbelief, or disobedience. Now we can see what has been accomplished by faith in reading the 11th chapter of Hebrews. With what holy holdness the ser-vants of God resisted unto blood. "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, at using a said every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto lesus, the author and finisher of our faith."

Yours in hope, CHARLES PEREY.

My watchword still is onward, I'm listed for the war. I'm listed for the war.

Come you that wish a country, A kingdom, and a crown, Come unto my good Captain, Your name let him set down ;

Join in the ranks of bonor,

Let none your purpose jar, O come and follow Jesus, Be listed for the war.

And when the war is ended, Our foes have bit the dust, And the kingdom it is cleansed. -

To fit it for the just, We will sit down together,

Where none our peace can mar, And thank the Lord that ever, We listed for the war.

Says the wise man, "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that taketh a city."

An answer soft will wrath divert And from its purpose turn, While barsh and grievous words will make not a word in it which could give offence to any member of any other denomination. He has made binself may friends among the members of Con-gress Juring bis stay here. #### REMARKS.

Among the names whom I know, I observe Among the names whom I know, I observe that of J. Q. Adams, member of Unitarian Con-gregational Clurch, Quincy, Mass., and Joshus R. Giddings, member of Orthodox Congregation-al Church, Jefferson, Ohio. How many profes-sors of Religion were among them, I do not know-midoubiedly many. Well did Br. Chas. Beecher aay, in a late "Advent Herald," that the "last battle would be fought with public opin-ion." These things are ominous. I have conversed with Father Putnam of this city, now eighty-three years old, (who has lately published a work called "The Crisis, or Last Trumpet," and of which he politely presented me a copy,) on the same point. He contends that the last development of Anti-Christ, will be "a corrupt public sentiment," not confined to the Roman church, but embracing both the Roman and Protestant. I believe it. I when corrupt Piotestant-ism, and skulking, oreeping, transgressing Ro-manism, have taken a full grip of each others hands, she will then "say in her heart, I sit a uauca, site with their "say in her heart, I sit a queen and am no widow, and shall never see sor row." Then her plagues will come! The writer says of the sermon, "There was not a word in it which could give offence to any member of any other denomination." Is "Richelieu" so great a simpleton as not to know that Jesuitism has as many faces as Rome had heads i John Hughes can be one thing in Washington, and quite another in Albany. But a few weeks and quite another in Albany. But a few weeks since, John Hughes told an audience in this city. at the consecration (1) of Bishop McClosky, that "with the church, it was sele for men to read the Bible! without the church, it was very unsafe"! The fires of Champlain, three or four years ago, can tell us how safe Jesuits consider it, for men to have the word of God. I do not It for men to nave the word of Gud. I do not sorrow at this state of things—they speak with trumpet-tongue, saying, The Lord is at hand ! Amen. Yours waiting, G. NEFEDHAM,

[For the Harbinger.] Love One Another.

The Apostal Paul says, in writing to his Hebrew brethren xill. 1, " Let brotherly love continue"; and gives other advice, and in verse 6 adds, "So that we may boldly say, the Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unio me." There is much said throughout the New Testament about love-about a perfect love that casteth out fear-and Poter says, "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth, through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, ace that ye love one another with a ours heart fervently," and seems to say, that such have laid aside all malice, and guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speaking, and that they will desire the word in truth, that they may grow (in grace) thereby. But men and professing Christians may be called brethren, and say that they are in darkness, and know not where they go; and are in danger of falling, because they are blinded by darkness.

"Beloved, let us love one an another : for love is of God, and every one that loveth, is born of God, and knoweth God; and he that loveth not, knoweth not God, for God is love." - 1 John iv. 7, 8.

Hear also what Paul says, Eph. iv. 31, 32 .-"Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice : and be ye kind one to another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

Christ told his disciples, John xiii. 34, "A new commandment I give unto you; that ye love one another: as I have loved you, that ye also love one another," and also John xv. 12, 17; and the commandment was the burden of much of the spostles' writing, as will be seen by the above and the following. 1 These, iv. 9, "But as touch-ing brotherly love, ye have no need that I write unto you, for ye yourselves are taught of God to love one another." It was on his mind, and he wished to remind them that God had taught it to them.

May God grant, in the name of Jesus, that it may not be forgotten by his disciples in these last days, but may all be influenced by the Spirit of Christ, remembering that if we have not the Spirit of Christ we are none of his-and take heed to the advice, (1 Peter ii. 1) to lay all such things aside. If ministers, or editors, or private members, have any unkind feelings, or feel grieved with a brother's words or conduct, let them settle it according to the rule Christ has given us. (See Mat. xviii. 15-17.) Let all strive to begin at the beginning of the rule and go forward in love, and not begin at the last part and go backwards. That such may henceforward be the case with all, is the prayer of your brother in Christ. Let all past differences be buried in forgetulness, remembering that as we forgive others their trespasses, even so will God forgive us ; and remembering that God knows the secrets of every heart. O, " let brotherly love continue."

Yours in love, A. N. B.

A Clue to the Time of the End. NO. VI.

Having shown the fallacy of the position, that the 1260 years terminated in A. D. 1802, it will be necessary for us to show the wrong date which has been adopted from which to reckon the 1260 years. For if we remove the point of termination of this period, we must remove also the commencement

Bro. Hale, in his argument, takes the passage in Dan. xi. 31, "And arms shall stand on his part," as referring to the event that makes the beginning of the 1260 years, and points out the atca of Clovis, king of France, as a fulfilment of this prophecy; and has given us A. D. 542 as the date from which to reckon. We will endeavor to show that Bro. Hale's position is faulty in a two-fold manner. 1st. The passage, "And arms shall stand ou his part," has no reference by Obstations may be canced or outries, and say arris small stand out may part, may be the stand out may be the stand out may part, may be the stand out may part, may be the stand out may be the stand out may part, may be the stand out may part, may be the stand out may part, may be the stand out may be the stand out may part, may be the stand out the stand out may be the stand out the stand out may part, may be the stand out the point, it will be necessary to give a short exposition of the three preceding verses.

Verse 28. "Then shall he return into his land with great riches." The subject of prophecy here evidently is Rome. The period in Rome's history when Augustus Cesar returned victorious from the conquest of Egypt, which resulted in the final defeat and death of both Anthony and Cleopatra, was the point when Rome became mistress of the world; from which should be dated the time or 360 years mentioned in verse 24; the period that Rome was to retain the supreme authority over the world. The date of this event was about B. C. 31. "And his heart shall be against the holy covenant." The next great enterprise that Rome engaged in was the war against the people of the holy covenant, and the city of the covenant, Jerusalem. "And he shall do exploits, and return to his own land." After displaying great valor, the Roman army performed great exploits, and accomplished the entire overthrow of Jerusalem, and scattered to the four winds the people of the covenant, and then return to their own land.

Verse 29. " At the time appointed he shall return." The time appointed for the supremacy of Rome was 360 years : dated B. C. 31. reach to A. D. 329. The event then to occur was that Rome should "return and come towards the South." This was fulfilled by Constantine, when he removed the seat of the empire from Rome to Constantinople. "The city of Constantino-ple was founded as the seat of imperial power by Constantine, in November, A. D. 329."-Ency--Encyclopedia Americana Art. Constantinople. See Litch's Expositions, Vol. II., p. 65.

The way of Rome in this removal of the seat of the empire, was towards the South, or on the same route that the armies of Cesar went forth to combat the king of the South or Egypt. "But it shall not be as the former, nor as the latter."-It will not be as when the armies of Rome went forth to return the victorious conquerors of the world, nor when they went forth to return triumphant from the overthrow of Jerusalem ; but it shall be the signal of their own destruction.

Verse 30. "For the ships of Chittim shall come against him." This brings to view the means by which Rome was finally overthrown. As the removal of the seat of the empire was the first step in its downward progress; so the ships of Chittim, commanded by the terrible Genseric, of Christian, commanded by the terrois Genseric, gave the final stroke to its power. See See Litch's Exposition, Vol. II., 66-76. "Therefore shall he be grieved and return, and have indignation against the holy covenant; so shall he do; he shall even return, and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy cov-This describes the consequences of the enant. overthrow of Rome. It prepared the way for the establishment of papacy. They forsook the true church of God, and had indignation against its members, and embraced those doctrines which finally resulted in placing the Pope upon the throne of the empire.

Verse 31. "And arms shall stand on his part." Arms denotes military power; representing the assistance afforded by the Eastern Emperor to check the victorious arms of the conquerors of Rome. Gibbon, Vol. VI., 203, 205, speaking one hundred and thirty thousand pounds of gold, about five millions two hundred thousand pounds sterling. The fleet that sailed from Constantino-ple to Carthage, consisted of eleven hundred and thirteen ships, and the number of soldiers and mariners exceeded one hundred thousand men." But all this assistance proved unavailing. It re-sulted in the entire destruction of this immense fleet, and the complete failure of every means to save the fast declining power of Rome. For, "after the failure of this great expedition, Genseric again became the 'tyrant of the sea.' The coasts of Italy, Greece, and Asia, were again exposed to his revenge and avarice ; and before he died, in the fulness of years and of glory, he beheld the final distinction of the empire of the west."

"And they shall pollute the sanctuary of rength." We have already shown that the milstrength." itary power that stood up to defend Rome was unavailing; consequently the invaders polluted Rome, the seat of the empire : emphatically the sanctuary of strength; the sanctuary of that power that had undisturbed swayed the scepter of universal empire over the world; the sacred store house from which emanated all that power that bound together the immense empire of Rome; a sanctuary so replete with strength, that for 619 years it had never been violated by the face of a foreign enemy. But it was written by the fin-ger of the prophet, that this sanctuary of strength should be polluted ; which was accomplished first by Alaric, the Gothic king, A. D. 410; then by Attila, the Hun, A. D. 451; and finally by Gen-seric, the Vandal king, A. D. 455. "And they shall take away the daily, and they shall place the abomination that maketh desolate." They or those who pollute the sanctuary of strength shall take away the daily. So then the hindering power that prevented the establishment of papacy, was to be taken away after that arms had stood up in defence of Rome, and those arms been broken, and Rome polluted by its foreign invaders, and the agency of the work of taking away the daily in the hands of the conquerors of Rome. Inasmuch, then, as the daily ust be taken away, before papacy can be s tablished, and Rome overturned by its invaders before the daily is taken away, and arms to stand up for the assistance of Rome before the destruction of the Western Empire ; therefore, then, those who take the position of Bro. Hale, have mistaken the event which places the saints of God in the hands of the papal power, and marks the point from which to reckon the 1260 years. J. D. PRUDDEN,

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- " What have we to do with the question whether the dead are conscious or unconscious so long as we are ready ?" " It matters not to me; God will take care of the dead ; I am willing to leave them in his hands," etc., etc., are questions and expressions which we hear often from those who have nothing better to offer against a kind and Christian investigation of the revelation of God on the subject of a future state.

"What have we to do with the time of the Lord's coming ?" rung from one end of our land to the other, a few years since-"if we are only ready (?) that's all"! We answered, we had much to do with it. Gon had had to do with it, and that was enough for us. We would not be deterred ! and we were not deterred. We an-swered, "You have to do with time. You say the Lord is not coming now-in that very affirm-ation you have something to do with time."-And so they did !

I have the same answer to the objection on the state of the dead. There is not a living soul, of yen" :

all those who bring up such objections, but what meddles with the question continually, and pro-fesses to do so according to the Bible. If they do not, I have only to say they are greatly wanting in duty. They ought to have "respect unto the recompense of reward." There is scarce an advent believer to be found, now, who will not hold up the coming of Christ, and the resurrection, as the great motive to perseverance-and they hold up no other-they look for their crown thensay they do not believe that the saints receive their crown at death, but at the resurrection .-And why not ? "O," say they, "the Bible teaches that." "Well," says one of the popular teachers of the day, "where are the souls of the righteous till the resurrection ?"

Advent Brother. " I have come to the conclusion, sir, that they are in hades. [Take care, Bro., you are having to do with the state of the dead.]

Popular Teacher. "But what is hades ?"

A. B. "Well-hem ! really, I didn't intend to meddle with the state of the dead, but really I don't see well how I can get along without-so I will just say, and then let it drop-it is Paradise.

P. T. "Well, now tell me what Paradise is." A. B. "I see if I answer your questions, I must discuss this whole subject; but if you will stop here I will answer this once-it is a place on one side of the great gulf where the spirits of the righteous are which 'go to God who gave them,' when 'the dust returns to dust' again." P. T. "One more question-Where did vou get that ?"

A. B. "Why, sir, to confess the truth, I got it from the Greek Philosophy, and Josephus, and inferred it from the parable of the rich man and Lazarus."

meddle with the question: but I rather profer the Westminster Catechism, which saith, 'The souls of believers are at their death made perfect in holiness, and do immediately pass into glory,' etc., to Josephus : or l'aul, who said that 'henceforth there was laid up for him a crown of glory, which the Lord should give at that day."

Thus ends the chapter of objections and contradictions. I have been led to these reflections by a late perusal of a work called the "Judson edited by John Dowling, of redoubta-Offering,' ble memory. The work is well calculated to excite our sympathies. I wept often while reading it. But while it is replete with incidents of the most hallowed character, which makes it seem almost like sacrilege to disturb, yet the unhallowed poison of a false philosophy, an ideal heaven, and a visionary hope, are strewed along our pathway, from beginning to end of the book. Mr. Dowling has nearly spoiled the work, by the introduction of so much poetry, at the end of every chapter. I propose to transcribe a few spe-cimens, as a further answer to the question at the head of this article. On the death of Mrs. A. H. Judson :

"All now is still, except the deep drawn sigh, And the lone infant's faint and faeble cry. She heeds it not, nor feels the falling tears,-A brighter world on her wrapt sight appears ; She mounts aloft upon angelic wings, And loses sight of earth's vain, flecting things. O, how her soul expands with holy love, As, crown'd amid the myriad ranks above, She sweeps her harp with an immortal strain, And wakes the song, REDEEMING LOVE, again." "Anon."

On the same, by G. F. Richardson. "Hea-

"There is bliss, there is bliss-in the regions above

- They have opened the gates of the sky ;
- A spirit hath soared to those mansions of love. And seeks for admittance on high. And friends long divided are hasting to greet,
- To a land, (!) where no sorrow may come ; And the scraphs are eager a sist to meet,

And to welcome the child to its home.

"There is bliss, there is bliss-at the foot of the throne.

See the spirit all purified bend ; 🐜 🗲

And it beams with delight since it gazes alone, On the face, of a father a friend !

Then it joins in the anthems forever that rise, And its frailty or folly forgiven ;

It is dead to the earth, and new-born to the skies !

And this is the portion of Heaven !"

The book is interladen with abundance of such visionary, fanciful ideas of futurity. But I will not weary your readers with extracts. I will make two more-one from the pen of Mr. Dowling, the other from Mrs. Boardman, afterward wife of Judson, and who died at St Helena.-They are on the death of little Maria, who sleeps by the side of her mother under the "hopia tree." Mr. Dowling says, "Yet this tender tier also must be severed : angels are waiting to carry the little mourner to its mother, and their glorified spirits must reunite in heaven." Again, he savs:

"Sweet babe ! she listen'd for awhile to hear

Our mortal griefs, then turn'd her ear

To angels' harps and songs,-and cried To join their notes celestial,-sighed, and died."

The following from Mrs. Boardman, has the word of God to sustain it. Would to heaven all had had as good a foundation :

"But all is over now. She sweetly sleeps In yonder new-made grave ; and thou, sweet babe, Shalt soon be softly pillowed on her breast. . . . . . ٠ Thy flesh shalt rest in hope, till that great day, When he who once endured far greater woes Than mortal man can kuow ; who when on earth Received the little children to his afms, Graciously blessing them, shall come again : Shall come-not in the garb of sinful man-But clothed in majesty ; arrayed in power. Then shall thy dust arise-nor thine alone : But all who sleep shall wake and rise with thee. Then, like the glorious body of thy Lord, Who wakes thy dust, this fragile frame shall be. Then shalt thou mount with him on angel's wings ; Be freed from sorrow, sickness, sin, and death, And in his presence find eternal bliss."

For the Harbinger. Seeing the Father.

I often am led to wonder at the blindness of some on the subject of the Trinity. There is one passage that is dwelt upon a good deal by many, viz., John xiv. 9, "Jesus saith unto him, (Philip) Have I been so long a time with you, and yet hast thou not known me! He that bath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father ?" Would they look at such passages as the following, all would be clear that they only see the Father by seeing his express image. Col. i. 15, Heb. i. 3. "Who is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature," and "Made the express im-age of His (God's) person." Other passages prove that man never has and never can see God in this mortal state. Ex. xxxiii. 20. "And He (God) said, Thou canst not see my face: for there shall no man see me and live." John v. 37. "Ye have neither heard his voice at any time or seen his shape." 1 John iv. 12. "No man hath seen God at any time," which was over 50 where after Christ was crucified. (1. Tim. vi. 16.) Speaking of God the Father, Paul says, "Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; whom no man hath seen nor can see." Now shall we throw aside all this evidence, and say it means nothing, in order to support a theory, or shall we say, Let the Bible explain; and that Philip saw the Father by seeing his express image, and the brightness of his glory? (Heb. i. 3.) My pray-er is that we may be wise, and let God's word A. N. B. harmonize.

The World's Conversion Hopeless.

The following extract, which we copy from the "American Missionary" of the present month, is a part of an "Appeal from the Missionaries a the Sandwich Islands, on the Duty of the Present Generation to Evangelize the World," and was published in the year 1836. 1 Coming as it does from missionaries who are in the field of actual labor, and perfectly understand the nature and condition of their own favorite cause, and who believe the world will be evangelized by mission effort-we say, coming from such a source, aside from the Bible, we consider the extract among the best evidence that the world's conversion, especially by missionary labor, is entirely a hopeless case. Or one, as the appeal says, " If the great God could despise his creatures, it would be despicable in his sight."-Ep-ITOB.]

RESOLUTIONS, &c.

"Believing that the relation which we sustain to the churches as missionaries of Christ, and watchmen tationed by them at foreign posts, is such that the blood of millions will be found upon us unless we raise our voice and give the warning faithfully, therefore, <sup>4</sup> 1. Resolved, That in the opinion of this mission, the effort of modern missions to explore the heathen world, and lay its condition before the churches, to scatter the light of salvation through the realism of death, deserve not to be compared with the work which remains yet to be performed; that the lands which ie in darkness are not to be possessed by sending spise into different portions of them, more than Canaan was by the apies sent thither; just by a universal, and in a good measure, direct engagement of the whole arm of God.

"If we look at the earth geographically, the arguage to learn, write, and print; and houses <math>real also. Jericho was not subdued when Hamapa are almost black on which are designated to build; and achools to establish and leach; and have gained by the mission of two pioneers. The antedelevians could not be assed in one ark, the opolition of the land and the sea still under the dominion of the Prince of Darkness. For no reactive the dominion of the prince of Darkness. For are thousands pread with the pall of death. To specify, would be to mention a large part of the islands, the continents, and the names of the islands. To which, dimunic, are scattered summaries and the names of the islands. To which, dimunic, are scattered summaries and the names of the islands, which, dimunic, are scattered summaries and the names of the islands. How contwormen do all this? How, then, that on all the earth. So long as they remain togeth-which, distribution, are scattered summaries cover the world?

So extensive is the territory, that should the men sent forth, few and short-lived as they are, travel continually, and announce pardon to the guilty, day and night, they could not pass over all the high ways and bye paths, and search out the habitations of the whole human family. Their voice, should they raise it perpetually as they go, would be the voice of here and there one crying in the wilderness, heard by only a small part of those who have ears to hear, and souls to be saved .-The sound of missionaries has not gone into all the earth, nor their words to the end of the world. It could not go. It is impossible that the few missionaries from the American churches should convert the world. They could not explore it. They could not encompass all the cities, and blow a trumpet around their walls, if that were the means appointed to save them. They could not mention in the ear of every mortal the only name by which we must be saved.

"The foreign missionaries from our country are one to six millions of men, or two for the population of the United States; and two men could not preach the gospel to all in that extensive field; many would die without the sight of him who publishes salvation. Now, let lines be drawn over the world at such distances that the voice of one man may meet the voice of another, and let one hundred missionaries travel on these lines and proclaim the gospel; and allow that the population of the territory thus sounded upon should be saved, it would still be leaving millions and millions to perish. And yet it is affirmed in a sermon by a distinguished divine of the United States, that 'FIFTY such men as Paul the Apostle, unaided by the resources of systematic benevolence, might evangelize the word.' On this plan, twelve millions would fall to each of the fifty, and allowing their lives to be twenty years each, each one must evangelize one thousand six hundred and forty-four daily. Does any believe that even Paul went forward at such a rate !---that in three years at Ephesus he evangelized almost two millions; or that the one hundred thousand at the Sandwich Islands would occupy him only two months ? Such fancies are worse than useless. For there is no Paul on earth ; none endowed as he was ; and none are expected. The proposition that fifty Pauls can convert or evangelize the world, leaves the world To assert that fifty angels can evanto perish. gelize it, leaves it to perish. Such assertions influence no men to undertake the missionary work. They are calculated to lead men to neglect it.

"The degradation of the heathen is so deep, the darkness so dense, the number so vast, that 600.000 missionaries sent the present year would be insufficient to afford the present generation any thing like the privileges enjoyed in Christian lands, and it were better still to be born in a log cabin in Maine or Missouri, than in the palaces of Egypt or China. For Christendom, were every minister in it removed, would be unspeakably better furnished with the means of grace than the heathen could be with one missionary to every thousand. But several thousand ministers, with a countless number of collateral helps, do not yet convert the people of our fa-vored land. How, then, if they were in a state of heathenism, should two men convert them, especially if these two were foreigners, with the language to learn, write, and print; and houses to build; and schools to establish and teach; and medicines to furnish; and families of their own to provide for ; and the idol gods of a nation to destroy ; and a veil of superstition, forty centuries thick, to rend; the horrible darkness to dispel; hearts of stone to break; a guilt of pollution to purify—A NATION TO REGENRATE!— How can two men do all this i How, then, shall How a thousand ? How a hundred thousand ? They cannot.

"When six hundred thousand go from the five millions of Christians in Christendom, or from the million and a half in the United States, they will not, all combined, emit more light than may be expected from the morning star of the millennial day. The present missionary operationsto use the language of Mr. Abeel—" are as child's play." If the great God could despise his crea-tures, it would be despicable in his sight. A little more than a hundred men to convert a lost world ! A band not so large as preach the gospel in the City of New York, or teach schools in New York, or practice law or medicine in New York, or print books and papers in New York ; this hand have 600,000,000 to supply with teaching, and preaching, and medicine, books and schools, and this is called converting the world ! A band of men not sufficient to look after any one department of business, whether ecclesiastical, civil, or literary, in the least State of the twenty-four of our Union, have to look after the temporal and eternal welfare of six hundred millicos. A hundred men ! It takes more than that to lay a railroad, or dig a canal ; more than that to manufacture muskets and powder in times of peace ; more than that to man one ship of war; and more than that for any one of the employments of men, from the hall of judgment, to the humblest occupations.

"One hundred man, or two hundred, or three hundred, or five hundred to enlighten the moral world !! It requires nine thousand men to visit the Pacific ocean, many of whom leave wife and children for voyages of three years, in order to fill the lamps which assist the moon and stars to dispel the natural darkness of the United States. If a valley is to be exalted, or a mountain leveled, thousands must gird themselves. How, then, shall a few hundreds prepare the way of the Lord in the deserts of all the earth 1 Where is the monarch, purposing to subdue a neighboring kingdom, who will feel sustained and honored, with an aruly of one hundred men, the result of twenty years' enlistment, with the addition of fresh troopes of five, ten, or twenty, annually ?

(Wenty years ensimient, with the solution of fresh troops of five, ten, or twenty, annually? "Can five men from America subdue thirty millions in France? I Can one hundred or a thousand subjugate all nations? The stroy of the aliens six hundred millions strong, will it low to one hundred soldiers of Zion's King? The missionery operations are o'hild's play; the light of them a taper; their magnitude, a drop of the bucket; and their weight, the dust of the balance agains the eventseting hills. 'If the grace God could despise his creatures, it would be despicable in his sight?

"Truly, the efforts of modern mission deserve not to be compared with the work yet to be performed : and unless the work be increased to a very great extent, the world cannot be saved .---Past and present exertions have lessened but little the great multitude who know not God. This is not saying that nothing has been done. The work of a few has been done. But those abroad have not done and will not do the work of many. Their own individual duty is all they can possibly perform ; and when they do their utmost, a large territory remains to be possessed by the whole army of God. Canaan was large enough for the twelve spies and the ten thousands of rael also. Jericho was not subdued when Rahab was gained by the mission of two pioneers. The antedelavians could not be saved in one ark, if its doors had been open to all, nor were they all drowned by an ordinary shower of rain. The world will not be covered with the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the seas, until the men to publish that word are scattered like rain on all the earth. So long as they remain togethwill be desolate. They must go every where ; and if the expansive warmth of benevolence will not separate them, and they arise and go on the wings of the wind, God will break up the fountains of the great deep of society, and by dashing the parts together, like ocean in its turmoil, or Niagara in its fall, cover the heavens with showers, and set the bow of hope for the nations : and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. God is too good to suffer either Amazon or Superior to lie still and become corrupt, and the heavens in consequence to be brass and the earth iron. God is too benevolent also in the arrangements of the moral world, to allow his people to lie inactive ; to have here a continuing city while the heathen are dying. The churches cannot afford to convert the world with fifty men and a handful of money. It would be as disastrous to the churches in their present state, as for men to remove the wealth of America, lest the people die under its pressure. They must rise up and in the second s ministers must equip for the foreign war, or they will contend with each other, and scenes of foll and shame, like those at Cincinnati and Philadelphia, will distress angels, and mar the beauty, and eat like canker the bosom of Zion."

And in publishing the Harbinger, we are determined to act upon the same principle. All we ask of the profits of the paper is a comfortable living; the balance, if any, shall be appropriated to the cause of truth. For this object we have, as an experiment, reduced our terms, and propose, on certain conditions, to reduce them still lower. And those who approve of our course, we confidently expect will, according to their ability; aid us in carrying out these very liberal offers.

We can supply new subscribers with back numbers of this volume of the Harbinger. Say whether you will commence with the beginning of the volume, or with the current number when you subscribe.

"Two Horned Beast." No. x.

Instead of giving our promised exposition on the number of the beast, &c., this week, we have concluded to give Dr. Clarke's views first, on the two hormed beast, and the image of the beast. We like his views as well on these matters, that in the main, we adopt them as our own.

" Verse 11. And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth As a beast has already been shown to be the symbol of a kingdom, or empire, the rising up of this second beast must, consequently, represent the rising up of another empire. This heast comes up out of the earth ; therefore it is totally different from the preceding, which rose up out of the sea. Earth here means the Latin world, for this word has been shown to import this already in several instances ; the rising up of the beast out of this earth must, consequently, represent the springing up of some power out of a state of subjection to the Latin empire : therefore the beast, here called another beast, is another Latin empire. This beast is the spiritual Latin empire, or, in other words, the Romish hierarchy ; for with no other power can the prophetic description, yet to be examined, be shown to accord. In the time of Charlemagne, the ecclesiastical power was in subjection to the civil and it continued to be so for a long time after his death : therefore the beast, whose deadly wound was healed, ruled over the whole Latin world, both clergy and laity ; these, consequently, constituted but one heast or empire. But the Latin clergy kept continualy gaining more and more influence in the civil affairs of the empire; and in the tenth century their authority was greatly increased. In the subsequent centuries the power of the Romish hierarchy ascended even above that of the emperors and led into captivity the kings of the whole Latir world, as there will be occasion to show in commenting upon the following verses. Thus the Romish hierarchy was at length entirely exempted from the civil power, and constituted another heast, as it be came entirely independent of the secular Latin empire. And this beast came up out of the earth, i. e. the Latin clergy, which composed a part of the earth or Latin world, raised their authority against that of the secular powers ; and, in progress of time, wrested the superintendence of ecclesiastical affairs from the secular princes.

"And he had two horns] As the seven-headed beast is represented as having ten horns, which signifies so many kingdoms leagued together to support the Latin church ; so the beast which rises up out of the earth has also two horns, which must, conse quently, represent two kingdoms, for if horns of a beast mean kingdoms in one part of the Apocalypse, kingdoms must be intended by this symbol when er it is used in a similar way in any other part of this book. As the second beast is the spiritual Latin empire, the two horns of this beast denote that the empire thus represented is composed of two distinct spiritual powers. These, therefore, can be no other, as Bishop Newton and Faber properly observe, than the two grand independent branches of the Romish hierarchy, viz. the Latin clergy, regular and secular. 'The first of these comprehends all the various monastic orders ; the second com-ally constituted but one dominion, as the monks as well as the other clergy were in subjection to the bishops: but the subjection of the monks to their diocesans became by degrees less apparent; and in process of time, through the influence and authority of the Roman pontifis, they were entirely exempted from all episcopal juriadiction, and thus became a spiritual power, entirely independent of that of of the secural clergy.

" Like a lam"] As lamb, in other parts of the Apocalypee, evidently means Christ, who is the Lamb of God that taket haves the sin of the world," it must have a similar import in this passage; therefore the meaning here is evidently that the two horns of the beast, or the regular and secular clergy, profess to be the ministers of Christ; to be like him in meckness and humility; and to teach nothing, that is contrary to god imeas. The two-borned beast or spiritual Latin empire, has in reality the game, of a Christian power. But he is only so in appearance, and that alone among his deluded votaries; for when he spake,

"He spake as a dragon] The doctrines of the Romish hierarchy are very similar to those contained in the old heathen worship; for he has introduced 'a new species of tolotary nominally different, but essentially the same, the worship of angels and saints instead of the gods and demi-gods of antiquity."

" Verse 12. And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him] In the preceding verse the two-horned beast was represented as rising out of the earth, that is, obtaining gradually more and more influence in the civil affairs of the Latin world .--Here he is represented as having obtained the direction and management of all the power of the first beast, or secular Latin empire, before him, enopion autou, in his presence. That the Romish hierarchy has had the extensive power here spoken of, is evident from history: for the civil power was in subjection to the ecclesiastical. The parochial clergy, one of the horns of the second beast, have had great secular jusisdiction over the whole Latin world .--Two-thirds of the estates of Germany were given by the 3 Othos, who succeeded each other, to ecclesiastics; and in other Latin monarchies the parochial clergy possessed great temporal power. Yet. extraordinary as the power of the secular clergy was in all parts of the Latin world, it was but feeble when compared with that of the monastic orders, which constituted another born of the heast The Mendicant Friars, the most considerable of the regular clergy, first made their appearance in the early part of the thirteenth century. These friars were divided by Gregory X. in a general council which he assembled at Lyons in 1272, into the four following societies or denominations, viz. the Dominicans, the Franciscans, the Carmelites, and the Hermits of St. Augustin. 'As the pontifis,' observes Moshiem, 'allowed these four mendicant orders the liberty of travelling wherever they thought proper, of conversing with persons of all ranks, of instructing the youth and the multitude wherever they went: and as these monks exhibited, in their outward appearance and manner of life, more striking marks of gravity and holiness than were observable in the other monastic societies, they arose all at once to the summit of fame, and were regarded with the utmost esteem and veneration throughout all the countries of Europe. The enthusiastic attachment to these sanctimonious beggars went so far, that, as we learn from the most authentic records, several cities were divided, or cantoned out, into four parts, with a view to these four orders ; the first part was to receive the sacraments from any other hands than those of the Mendicants, to whose churches they crowded to perform their devotions, while living ; and were extremely desirous to deposit there also their remains after death ; all which occasioned grievous complaints among the ordinary priests, to whom the cure of souls was committed, and who considered themselves as the spiritual guides of the multitude. Nor did the influence and credit of the Mendicants and here: for we find in the history of this (13th century) and the succeeding ages, that they were employed not only in spiritual matters, but also in temporal and political affairs of the greatest consequence ; in composing the differences of princes, concluding treaties of peace, concerting alliances, presiding in cabinet councils, governing courts, levying taxes, and other occupations not only remote from, but absolutely inconsistent with, the monastic character and profession. We must not. however, imagine that all the Mendicant Friare attained to the same degree of reputation and authority ; for the power of the Dominicans and Franciscans surpassed greatly that of the two other orders, and rendered them singularly conspicuous in the eyes of the world. During three centuries these two fraternities governed, with an almost universal and absolute sway, both state and church ; filled the most eminent posts, ecclesiastical and civil ; taught in the universities and churches with an authority before which all opposition was silent ; and maintained the pretended majesty and prerogatives of the Roman pontiffs against kings, princes, bishops, and heretics, with incredible ardor and equal success. The Dominicans and Franciscans were, before the Reformation, what the Jesuits have been since that happy and glorious period, the very soul of the hierarchy, the engines of state, the secret springs of all the motions of the one and the other, and the authors and directors of every great and important event in the religious and political world." Thus the Romish hierarchy has exercised all the power of the first beast in his sight, both temporal and spiritual : and therefore, with such astonishing influence as this over secular princes, it was no difficult matter for him to cause

The earth, and them which dwell therein, to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.] That is, he causes the whole Latin world to submit to the authority of the Latin empire, with the revived western empire at its head ; persuading them that such submission is beneficial to their spiritual interests, and absolutely necessary for their salvation. Here it is observable that both beasts have dominion over the same earth ; for it is expressly said, that the second beast cause th the earth, and them that dwell therein, to worship the first beast: therefore it is, as Bishop Newton and others have observed, imperium in imperio, ! an empire within an empire.1 We have, consequently, the fullest evidence that the two beasts consist in the division of the great Latin empire, by the usurpation of the Latin clergy, into two distinct empires, the one secular, the other spiritual; and both united in one antichristian design, viz, to diffuse their most abominable system of idolatry over the earth, and to extend the sphere of their domination. Here we have also an illustration of that remarkable passage in chap. avi. 10. the kingdom of the beast, i. e. the kingdom of the Latin kingdom ; which is apparently a solecism, but in reality expressed with wonderful precision. The fifth vial is poured out upon the throne of the beast, and his kingdom is darkened, i. e. the Latin kingdom in subjection to the Latin kingdom. or the secular Latin empire.

"Verse 13. And he doeth great wonders] That one and we may have the greatest assurance possible that istrate."

to the Augustinians. The people were unwilling the two-horned beast is the spiritual Latin empire, to receive the sacraments from any other hand athan it is called, in chap. xiz. 20, a passage illustrative those of the Menticants, to whose churches they of the one now under consideration, the false prophcrowded to parform their devotions, while living; i, than which, as Bishop Newton observes, there and were extremely desirous to deposit there also their remains after death; all which occasioned grievous complisits among the ordinary prisets, to whom the cure of souls was committed, and who unfrequently med for a prescher or expounder of guideword. See 1 Cor. xiv. It hence follows, that multitude. Nor did the influence and credit of the low towards.

> In order to establish the Latin church upon a foundation that can never fall, the false prophet doeth great wonders ; he attempts the most wonderful and prodigious exploits, and is crowned with incredible success. He has the art to persuade his followers that the clergy of the church of Rome are the only true ministers of Christ ; that they have such great influence in the court of heaven as to be able not only to forgive sins, but also to grant indulgences in sin, by paying certain stipulated sums. H persuades them too that they can do works of supererogation. He pretends that an incredible num ber of miracles have been wrought, and are still working, by the Almighty, as so many evidences of the great sinctity of the Latin church ; and the false prophet has such an astonishing influence over his flock, as to cause them to believe all his fabulous legends and lying wonders. He pretends also (and is believed !) that his power is not confined to this world ; that he is able by his prayers to deliver the souls of the diseased from what he calls purga tory, a place which he has fabled to exist for the purification of sinful souls after their departure from this world. His wonderful exploits in being able to induce men, possessed of reasoning faculties, to believe his monstrous absurdities, do not end here ; he even

> "Maketh fire come down from hearen-in the sight of men] Fire, in Scripture, when it signifies wrath represents that species of indignation which is attended with the destruction of whatever is the cause of it. Thus the wrath of God is likened to fire, Psa. xviii. 7, 8. Jer. iv. 4. Therefore the fire which the false prophet bringeth down from heaven upon the earth, is the fiery indignation which he causes to come down from the heaven or throne of the Latin empire upon all those of the earth or La. tin world who rebel against his authority. All this has been fulfilled in the Romish hierarchy ; the La tin clergy have denominated all those that oppose their authority, heretics ; they have instituted tribu nals to try the cause of heresy ; and all those that would not submit to their idolatry, they have con demned to various kind of tortures and deaths. It is said of the false prophet that he bringeth fire from heaven upon the earth ; that is to say, he will only try the cause of heresy, and pass the sentence of condemnation ; he will not suffer an ecclesiastic to execute the sentence of the court ; the destroying fire he causeth to come down from the heaven or throne of the Latin empire; secular princes and magistrates must execute the sentence of death up on all that are capitally condemned by the spiritual power. He maketh fire come down from heaven . he compels secular princes to assist him against heretics ; and if any rebel against his authority, he immediately puts them under the bond of the anathema, so that they are deprived of their offices, and exposed to the insults and persecution of their brethren. Thus the false prophet deceives the Latin world by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the right of the beast. Under the ap pearance of great sanctity, he persuades men to be lieve all his lying doctrines; and enforces his canons and decretals with the sword of the civil mag

Speak the Truth.

"Speaking the truth, in love."-Erm. iv. 15.

The Lord told Jonab, "Preach the preaching that I bid thee ;" and Ezekiel, "Thou shalt speak my words noto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear;" and all his servants now, "Preach the Word,"— Speak the truth, in love," This we should do, regardless of what may follow: we have nothing to do with the cousequences, God will take care of them.

Speak the truth. Not a part, but the whole of it, as duty may demand, rightly dividing it, so that all may have a portion in due eason. We may as well omit the whole as part. This dissecting the truth, and selecting such portions as burnan wisdom or sectarian theories may dictate, has been the work of the sects, and time serving ministers long enough. At this late hour, just before the judgment of the great day, let us who profess to believe thus, speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

Spack the bruth. And never leave the field, through fear, as did Jonah, lest a worse fate be yours than was his. God will have some one to 'preach' the preaching he bids.' If you will not do it, be will leave you to your fears, folly, and perhaps to become an enemy of his truth, and raise up some one to fill the station you should have occupied.— Stand your ground theo, or go wherever the truth may lead—the God of truth will defend, and finally reward you with eternal life, for your integrity and faithfulness to his requirements.

Speak the truth. Do it, though the world despise and persecute you. Remember that they thus treated your Savior, and the holy prophets, and apostles, and true ministers, before you. You are no better than they have been, and if you would share with them in the eternal inheritance, like them, you must speak the truth.

Speak the truth, though the church, people or brethren with whom you are associated, oppose, and call you a 'knave or fanatic,' a 'false brother,' a disturber of the peace of the church, or like 'Amasa,' Absalom,' ' Judas,' or the ' Jesuits,' heed it not, only, as you stop to weep over their folly, and pray for their salvation, implore grace, wisdom and strength from above to enable you more faithfully to speak the truth. Remember that the most settled opposition to the truth has ever come from the professed people of God. They killed the prophets, crucified the Lord of glory, put to death millions of the saints, opposed all the reforms of modern times, reected the doctrine of the second advent; and now it would be no marvel, if some of our own number should catch this spirit of opposition, and be found carrying out this work of opposing the truth. But this does not excuse you from speaking the truth : so much the more need that it should be told. If a fatal disease has entered our own dwelling, certainly there is more need for us to guard against its ravages, than when it was at a distance. Speak the truth, then, though your brothren cast you off as unworthy their fellowship. If God justifies, it is enough ; happy indeed is your condition.

Speak the irtub, though you do it at the sacrifice of every earthly consideration. Romember that the roward will soon be given, and that it will, tenthousand times told, more than compensate you for all the sacrifices you make here, in speaking the truth.

In a word, speak the whole truth, faithfully, day and night, at all auitable times and places, to the church and the world, though it cast you everything the world or a time serving clurch may call good, great and hoursable-regregations of these and all consequences, we say, by the authority of the worl of truth, speak the truth.

But how the truth should be spoken, is a matter that should not be overlooked. There is a zeal for the truth which is not according to knowledge : Christ may be preached in the spirit of the devil, or through strife and envy. If we cannot write, talk and preach the troth in a better spirit than this we had better be silent. The devil is never better pleased, or doing his work more successfully, than when he can get professed Christians, religious ministors and editors, to vindicate the truth in a devilish spirit. The more truth they have in their communications, the better for the cause of the devil : he cares not how much truth is received, if those who preach and receive it, are under the influence of his spirit. Beware of his devices, and when you speak the truth, be sure to speak it in Lovg.

Speak the truth in love, though, in so doing you meet with the contradiction of sinners, and sour looks and cold feelings and unkind words of your brethren. Speak in love, though your motive be impugned, and though you should be charged with "black hypocrisy,"-never mind that, be not diverted from your heavenly purpose, or driven from the spirit of the gospel-but continue to speak in love. Though your words are called "smoother than butter," to clear yourself from the designed imputation, do not make them like barbed arrows, or cruel daggers, but study and pray and watch more and more to speak in love.

Finally, continue to speak the truth in love, and the God of love and truth, will be your defence here, and exceeding great reward in the world to come.

The Pope and the Jews.

The Jewish Chronicle has the following paragraph on the treatment of the Jews by the present Pope:

"One of the present Pope's most praiseworthy reformations has been in behalf of this oppressed part of the population of Rome. They number about 8,000, and have hitherto been obliged to re side in an enclosed place, called the Ghetto, on the north side of the Tiber, entirely insufficient, and therefore crowded and unwholsome. The gates of this enclosure were shut at sunsct, and a Jew found They were, outside at this time was imprisoned. however, allowed the privilege of depositing goods for merchandise in buildings without the enclosure. Another prohibition was from the practice of any of the liberal or artistic professions. Phe Pope has commenced examining into these and their other grievances, and has appointed a Commission to propose improvements. As a consequence, the con-finement of the Jews to the Ghetto is already abolished, and other ameliorations are about to follow. Cardinal Ferretti has declared himself the patron and protector of the Israelites. The Jews are full of the most enthusiastic gratitude toward their benefactor, and have sent a deputation to the Pope headed by their Rabbi, begging to be permitted to enroll themselves as a National Guard, armed at their own expense, to join in the defence of the Papal States. Some of their most learned Rabbis have also pronounced the present Pope the Messiah."

What will the believers in the return of the carnal Jews to the land of Palestine say to this ? We suppose they will see in it sure indications of the immediate conversion of the Jews to the true Messiah. Just as they have seen in the Afghanistan, Chinese and Mexican wars, certain harbingers of the everlasting gospel of peace to those countries. The popular theology of these times puts light for darkness, and darkness for light. And besides, there are certain ones who were to be given over to strong delusions, in the last days. How literally is this prediction fulfilled in this case of the Jews .-For their long and sinful rejection of the true Messiah, they are left, in this last moment of time, to called a convention of all the good of the whole ter-piece of the devil ! Deluded mortals, they are deeply to be pitied. But while we stop to drop the tear of sorrow over the folly and blindness of the ancient people of God, we have equally good reasons for weeping tears of bitterness over the delusions of Protestants, who are eulogizing and idolizing the present Pope for his recent reformatory acts, so called, but all of which are only designed and will serve to extend and strengthen his despotic power throughout the world. Truly, before its destruction, the world is made mad.

Advent Near.

One of the many cvidences that the coming of the Lord is near, is the present high and rising attitude of the Pope, and with him the Anti-christian church of which he is the head.

All prophecy which has been fulfilled, has been so fulfilled as to attract the notice of the world, or the community in general in the vicinity where the events have taken place. These things have not been done in secret, or an obscure corner—they have been done in open daylight, and in a manner to turn all eyes towards the events. All may not have understood the nature of the events, but still they have arrested the attention of all. It was so in the fulfilment of the prophecy which related to the fall of the Papal supremacy by the French, the darkening of the sun in 1780, the falling of the stars in 1833, and the fall of the Ottoman supremacy in 1840, and is it not so now in reference to the prophecies which relate to the exaltation of the Papal power ? We think it is: for the eyes of the world are now turned to that quarter. They see with admiration the exaltation of the mother of abominations to the dizzy height where she says, "I sit a queen and am no widow," and from which she is soon to be hurled to destruction by the Lord at his coming.

The next prophecy, the fulfilment of which will attract the attention of the world, and to which all eyes will be turned, we think will be the appearing of "the sign of the Son of man in heaven." All will know its meaning ; for then the "kindreds of the earth shall mourn." All speculations about the meaning of what is taking place, or what is coming upon the earth, will then be silent, and every tongue will be mute, with the exception of the shouts of re demption of the righteous, and wailings of the wicked.

These things are what we look for next, in the fulfilment of prophecy; and we confidently expect they will soon be witnessed. O, be ready to meet them with joy.

Warld's Convention.

The "Practical Christian" for Jan. 8th contains call for a "World's Reform Convention, to be held in the city of New-York, commencing on the first Monday in June, 1848, to be composed of delegates of both sexes, chosen by the friends of Reform in all Christian lands, for the adoption of measures wisely calculated to accelerate the progress of improvement, by the abrogation of all institutions, customs, and circumstances which stand in the way of universal advancement in knowledge, virtue and happiness; preparatory to the prevalence of that religion which gives meat to the hungry, drink to the thirsty, clothing to the naked, and a home to the houseless stranger ; and finally, give to its possessor a home in the mansions of eternal glory."

The objects of this proposed convention are good, but they never will succeed : for the Lord of glory eighteen hundred years ago, and though God, Christ, the Holy Spirit, the gospel, and all the wise and good of every clime, have since then been engaged in the propagation of these principles, yet their opposites have triumphed, and sin, oppression and violence fill the world. Therefore the efforts of the convention, if permitted to meet, will be a failure. "Evil men and seducers," and wickedness of every species, will wax worse and worse, until the coming of the Lord, to purge it from the earth, and fill the world with his righteousness.

Slavery-the Church.

Doubtless some think that Mr. Foster's articles on Slavery, are too severe on the Northern churches: or they think that the church is not now under the abominable principles of Southern slavery, as it was when he wrote those articles. But facts are stubborn things, and clearly show that the unholy league with slavery still exists between Southern and Northern portions of the church. We refer to a recent act of the "American Sunday School Union." The following passage in one of their Sabbath School books, has given offence to the slaveholders of the South, and to retain their good graces and fellowship, the church at the North had it expunged. We cut it from the "Watchman of the Valley."

"What is a slave, mother !' asked Mary, 'Is it a servant ?' " 'Yes,' replied her mother, 'slaves are servants, for they work for their masters, and wait on them; but they are not hired servants, but are bought and sold like beasts, and have nothing but what their master chooses to give them. They are obliged to work very hard, and sometimes their masters use them cruelly, beat them, and starve them, and kill them ; for they have nobody to help them. Sometimes they are chained together, and driven about like beasts."

This was too much for Southern christians to bear, and to ease their tender consciences, Northern christians expunge it from the Sabbath School books of the American Sunday School Union ! If this is not a brotherhood, if not of theives, of deep corrup tion, we know not what could constitute such a brotherhood.

FROM BRO. A. CLAPP.

BRO. MARSH :--- I trust by the grace of God, I am one of that number that continues to look for the speedy coming of our blessed Savior. I have no doubt but God designed to have a people just pre-ceding the great judgment day, to warn the world of its near approaching, and to stand before the world with the blazing truths of God, and to pro-claim them fearlessly in the name of Jesus. I think we are that people that was to write the vision and make it plain on tables, and lay them by the side of the bistory of the past, that all may see we are standing on the eve of the great and terrible day of God.

We have satisfactory evidence that this cause is of God, because he has been with us-has accompanied the preaching and the labors of the faithful servants by the energies of the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, and we have mysteriously been brought together from the different denominations, and a good portion still continue together laboring in this glorious and best of causes. If we are this peculiar people of God, what tremendous responsibility rests upon us, and how faithfully we ought to prove read upon us, and now initiating we ought to prove ourselves to be, and to labor wisely, cautionally, harmlessly, perseveringly, and with zeal according to knowledge, to save our fellow men from the burn-ing day of Jehovahs' wrath. We are told by Christ that "the that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved." How will those appear before the bar of God, who were once with embrace for their Messiah, the Anti-christ, the mas- world, to carry out these very principles, more than us in proclaiming these burning truths, but have now drawn back, and joined a proud scoffing church, king of Israel, See how be desires a quarrel, it is all pose with all their night. One night, after I had lecnow drawn back, and joined a proud sconing curren, and do not give this truth that prominence that they should, nor as they will wish they had done ? Can they say like the great apostle, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith ; henceforth there is laid up for mea crown of righteousness" ? I fear not. I fear some will stand at the door and knock, and say, Open unto us; for we have prophecied in thy name, and have done many wonderful works ; but Christ will say, "I never knew you" !

Ob, how faithful we ought to be-and may we realize the position in which we are placed before the world. We cannot be mistaken : he that is to come will soon appear. In addition to the last expiring moments of the prophetic periods, signs and wonder have been seen in the sun, moon, stars, heavens, and in earth distress of nations : all sneak in thunder tones that he is nigh even at the door,

Some interesting sights in the heavens have been seen in this State, within a few years, which I have not seen noticed. One was in the fall of 1844. A and seen noticed. One was in the fail of 1544. A basket of grapes was distinctly seen, by several in-dividuals, hanging in mid heaven in a clear day.----(Read Amos.) About two years ago was seen, by several of our citizens, hanging in mid air, a little west of this city, a sickle, the bow up, with a sheaf af wheat under it, the sky perfectly clear. (Read Rev. xiv.) One year ago last October, the heavens were completely arched from east to west with a bright streak, as wide as a rainbow. Its first ap-pearance was like blood, and that a handsome hue. pearance was like blood, and that a same blood over it first rose in the east, and gradually stretched over to the west. One morning our citizens were alarmed with a cry of fire. All the engines were outthe whole atmosphere seemed to be on fire, but there was no building burning-nothing for the engines to do. The neople stood annazed and wondered.-These signs and wonder have been seen so frequent, the people du not think much of them ; but nevertheless God said they would be seen, and should be signs of the near coming of the Son of God.

The wonderful sign which has just been seen in Mexico, after a city was destroyed by an earthquake: Christ being seen on a cross in the beavens for half an hour, is very striking, It struck terror to the be-holders, and they fell on the ground and cricd for mercy.

I am told that in the Douay Bible it is translated that the sign of the Son of man would be Christ extended on the cross in the beavens.<sup>6</sup> It appears that this has literally been fulfilled : that being a Catholic people, God has taken this method to show them that the end of all things is at hand.

Affectionately yours, AABON CLAPP.

FROM BRO. H. PRATT.

DRAR BRO. MARSH :--- It is with the utmost satisfaction that we observe the meek and independent course of the Harbinger : untrammelled by sect, fearless in the truth, cautious in its investigations, bold in proclaiming the "the wages of sin," as well as the "gift of God," and meek in self-defence.

The Sonship, and new birth, make no discordant sounds upon the sacred harp, to our understanding, but vibrate with celestial harmony. We are under-going severe trials in this section, for the devil has come down in great wrath, knowing that his time is short. He first insinuates into the feebler and doubting mind the idea that they are not Christians, because they are not so strong as the more venturous. Then the brother, after wrestling, (half doubting, and half fearing,) in prayer, he concludes the stronger brother's confidence is rather assumed ; hence a variance, and a want of confidence on the one part, and apparently falling away on the other. Howev-er, this ingenious freak of the cloven foot is not entirely confined to the feeble and scattered flock .-We see that even editors are not out of the reach "pretence," just blaze it abroad and you'll soon bring him ton.

Now, dear brother, this is precisely the way that I dow, dear brother; this is precisely the way that this lacerated foe is striving to cheat us out of the inheritance, by getting in this grudging one against another; against which James cautioned us, when the Judge is at the door. I do believe we sprung this artful trap to-night, in this place, without any serious damage ; we first opened the budget in meet-ing, examined all the contents, put them on the al-tar, and with the fire of God's love consumed the entire mass, and the breath of the good Spirit drove them all away, so that there was no place found for them.

Now, dear brethren, seeing we look for a new Let us from henceforth covenant to help each other along through this last and most destructive trial, till the warfare is accomplished. And then when the monster is writhing in chains, we with angelic touch shall rise to mansions of bliss, secure, till sin's last trace is gone. Then in Eden's groves we will last trace is gone. Then in Euen's groves we win, walk with overflowing gratitude to God, and talk of melting grace that taught us to live in peace. Yours waiting, H. Paatt.

FROM BRO. I. R. GATES.

DRAR BRO. MARSH :--Since I parted with you at the Boston Conference, I have spent much of my time in the vineyard of the Lord, giving series of lectures in different places. I have been to old Sa-lem and gave about 20 or 30 discourses in the Ad-vent Hall. The cause there has become much revived. A few became hopefully converted to God, and a number of the backslidden were reclaimed .-I have immersed there nine or ten disciples of the Lord, who, I trust, will be faithful and strive to meet me in giory.

I have also given a course of lectures in South Redding, where I had the satisfaction of being a companion of Bro. Himes, while he was badly used at the Great Tent meeting here last summer. The brethren, although few in number, took hold of the work in good earnest, and we were enabled to see the little cause assume a new aspect. Much prejudice was removed from the community, and some persons appeared to be seriously inclined. I tried to set in order some things that were wanting, by appointing overseers, or elders, &c. And I also led down into the baptismal steam one of the Lord's children and bantized her.

On my way to this place, I called st Salem, and spent the Sabbath. I gave them three discourses to the joy and comfort of all that truly are living and looking for the Nobleman's return. One most lovely convert followed her Lord in baptism.

Our brethren here, as well as elsewhere, need to heed the admonition of the apostle, Let each esteem others better than themselves .- And in honor preferring one another .- Also to strive for the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace. One thing occurred at Salem that looked good and lovely, and I would that others would show the same kindness to their wives and children. It was this : The young sister who went forward in baptism, asked her father if he had any objection to her obeying her Lord in that ordinance. He answered, No.-And notwithstanding he enjoys no religion, yet was he seen waiting on his daughter, and carrying her clothes to the meeting, and to the water-side, where his tears spoke the deep feelings of his heart.

I am now at Essex, commencing a course of lectures. Our brothren through this section agree with you as a general thing, as well as myself, on the character of Messish, that he is the Son of God, who had glory with the Father before the world Yours, S.c., I. R. GATES. was.

COLBORNE, C. W., Dec. 6, 1847.

tured upon the 2d chapter of Daniel, a Methodiat preacher got up and said, Lest it should be said that nobody dare oppose the Millerites, he would say a few words. He wished to know why the Lord had not not come in '43, as we expected 1 Calling us false prophets, Scc. Scc. I then explained to the people the tarrying of the vision, and of the bride-groom, Scc. He then said he was entirely unacquainted with the doctrine, and was not prepared to discuss the question, and set down. Last Sunday a Baptist preacher did what he could to quiet the fears of the people, by trying to prove, not from the Bible, but from Bishop Newton, that the man of sin cannot be destroyed in 19 years yet. So you see the truth has many adversaries here, but none of these things move me. I intend by the help of the Lord to proclaim the truth to the people, and leave the event with God. I with God. I remain your brother waiting, I. A. SPAFFORO.

Bro. S. Flagg, Sterling, N. Y., Dec. 11, reouests " all the dear breth ren and sisters to learn by heart and live it out," the whole of 1 John iii. The request is worthy a strict compliance, especially the last part. Bro. J. C. Bywater, Honeoye Falls, N. Y.,

Jan. 4, writes :--

" In much weakness of body, I preached at Victor last Sabbath. The brothren there are in a good state.

Bro. J. Hooker, Perrysburg, N. Y., Dec. 10, writes .___

"I was brought up under Presbyterian influence, empraced religion, and joined the Episcopal Methodist Church, remained with them about thirty years. dist Church, remained with them about the state of them, When I learned their course on slavery, I left them, and I am glad in my soul to-day that I did so. I soon after embraced the advent doctrine, and I love it still-have become weaned from the things of this world, and glory in the prospect of a resurrection to come."

Sister P. Arnold, Naples, N. Y., December 3, writes :-

"I know of no way to give up the advent cause but to give up my God and my Bible, and I du pray that I may never be suffered to do that. It is astonishing to see priests and people deny God's word as they do. Our trials, I think, will soon end, but if they continue longer than we expected they would, it will not lessen them by forsaking the Lord. May we all be found patiently waiting for him at his coming

Bro. A. Anthony, North Scituate, R. I., Dec.

Bro. J. Pearson, Jr., Newburyport, Mass., Dec. 15, writes :-

"The cause is on the rapid advance in this part of the country, and in a very interesting state in this town. Last Sabbath eve our Hall was filled to its utmost with a solemn and attentive congregation."

Sister S. S. Rogers, Evans Mills, N. Y., Dec. 14, writes :---

THE ADVENT HARBINGER.

Slavery and the Church.

Corruption of the Church.

THE FREE-WILL BAPTISTS. AND THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

These sects, like all the others, when weighed in the balance of truth are found wanting. bodies, they claim to be anti-slavery; but their claim is like that of the Pharisee, who thanked God that he was not like that publican who stood by his side, when at the same time he was the more guilty of the two. It is true that they have spoken against slavely ; and spoken, too, in strong terms of reprobation ; but it is equally true, that with both hands they have upheld it; and they now stand before the world in a more reprehensible light than any of the other sects. From motives of self-interest, or an unwillingness to depart from a rule introduced by their fathers, they admit no slave-claimant to their fellowship ; but at the same time, as a body, they stand entirely aloof from the anti-slavery enterprise, or openly oppose it. And while sending forth to the world their resolutions and testimonies against slavery, they legalize it, and do whatever lies in their power to render it popular, and consequently permanent, by electing manstealers to fill the highest offices in the government. At the ballotbox, no sect in the land is more notoriously subservient to the slave power than the Free-Will Baptists.

In New Hampshire, where they are very numerous, they are principally connected with the Democratic party; and it was chiefly through their instrumentality that that poor apology for a man, Charles G. Atherton, was returned to Congress, after having disgraced himself and his country by consenting to be made a cat's paw by Southern slave bleeders, to tear in pieces the sacred right of petition ! It was in their power to prevent his re-election, and return to Congress a thorough-going abolitionist in his stead ; but he was the man of their choice! And yet, at this very time, they were passing flaming resolutions against slavery, and making loud profession of abolitionism !

I have said that the American church and clergy, as a body, were PIRATES. Is this charge true, so far as it relates to the Free-Will Baptists and Quakers 1 It is, if aiding and abetting pirates, and protecting them while engaged in perpetrating their atrocities, constitute one a pirate ; for both of these sects legalize and protect a species of commerce in the United States, which they have declared to be piracy, when carried on upon the coast of Africa. Am I told that they have acted ignorantly in this matter ? My reply is, if they are men of common sense, they must and do know that voting for slave-claimants, and the advocates and supporters of slavery to legislate for the country, tends to perpetuate the bloody system. Would they vote for such men, if their own wives and children were in slavery ? So long as they are connected with slaveholding political parties, their resolutions and testimonies against slavery only serve to enhance their guilt, and aggravate their condemnation.

If the government had instituted a system of idol worship, and a hundred oxen were daily offered in sacrifice on the altar of some distinguished god, in the city of Washington, by an order of Congress, what would you say of that religious sect, who should pass resolves against idolatry, and at the same time vote for men to represent them in Congress who were opposed to the abolition of these sacrifices, and also elect a highpriest of this deity to fill the presidential chair ? But such conduct would not be more hypocritical bodies which have adopted resolutions against long have a glorious part in the resurrection of the slavery !

The remarks which I have made upon the Free Will Baptists and Friends, will apply with equal force to those branches of other sects which have adopted resolutions against slavery. This kind of action, so long as they stand connected with pro-slavery parties, either political or ecclesiastical, only renders their influence more formidable to the anti-slavery enterprise ; and consequently their guilt is proportionably increased. They tell us that slavery is a heinous sin and crime, and yet act in concert with those who advocate and uphold it ! Hence, on their own confession, they are the "companions of thieves," and in fellowship with adulterers. In my general charges, therefore, against the sects, no exception is required in favor of those local churches which claim to be anti-slavery, on the ground of having adopted anti-slavery resolutions, while they are still connected with their respective sectarian denominations, and in Christian fellowship with those who act in concert with pro-slavery political parties. The least that can in truth be said of such churches is, that they are the LUKEWARM friends of the slave, whom God will spew out of his mouth.

I had intended to speak, in this connection, of the character and indency of our so-called be-nevolent institutions; but having already far ex-ceeded the limits which I originally proposed to myself in this letter, I must pass them by with the single remark, that connected with the Boards of most of them are more or less slave-claimants, and their treasuries are polluted with the price of human blood !--- and that the money which our clergy beg of poor widows to send the gospel to the heathen, goes into the hands of such men as Rev. Wm. S. Plummer, D. D., the man who called upon the Richmond mob to "catch" the abolitionists, and give them a "WARMING AT THE FIRE"! For the same reason, I have also omitted to notice several of the smaller religious de-nominations. I would here say of them, however, that they are all composed of sectarians, and not of abolitionists; and hence they belong to the same category with the larger and more influential sects, and should be regarded in a similar light.

But I trust I have already adduced abundant evidence on this heart-rending subject, to substantiste my allegations against the American church and clergy. With this picture before nim, no one, I think, will say that I have done them injustice. True, I have brought against them the most tremendous charges! I have denounced them, as a body, as THIEVES, ADULTERERS, MAN-STBALERS, PIRATES, and MURDERERS ! But who, in view of the frightful and accumulated proof of their guilt which I have here presented, can de-ny these charges ? Who, that has a mind capable of understanding the political and ecclesiastical coanection of the church and clergy with the slave system, as I have here portrayed it, and can comprehend the direful consequences of that connection, will dare to say that God will hold them guiltless of these crimes ? Gladly would I believe them innocent ; but reason, conscience, and my outraged sense of justice, all forbid the thought .- S. S. Foster.

Corruptions of the Church.

AMERICAN MISSIONARY BOCIETY.

Who knows not, that in all ages, this welcome of prevailing iniquities to the Church has been always ruinous; that its history has ever been that of temporary and often dazzling success at the beginning, of long and sore perplexity in the continuance, and of deeper degeneracy or entire decay in the end; in a word, that it has ever been their strength and growth and its weakness and decay. But we need not here consult the past. The experience of our time and missions is sufficient

We begin with slavery among the Indiana More than a quarter of a century has gone by since the process was there begun of taking "the discipline, the dangers are greatly increased, that master" to the Church, that he may be prepared sconer than submit to it, such chiefs with their to "break the bonds of the slave." What, on dependents, if they do not become persecutors, the showing of the parties, is the result $ Is not will fall away to a reckless and contempt of all the deacons and the elders joined with the more slavery as rife and wirulent there, in Church and religion, or to some mother Church, which will State, as ever 1 During this very period, and in give them a Christianity as easy and accommospite of this reformatory process, has not slavery dating as that the missionaries first taught and increased in the Church 1 And in the State, have they embraced. Even under existing restraints not laws been passed. (Rep. p. 13,) " which prohibit teaching slaves to read, throw impediments in the way of emancipation, restrict slaves in the do its full work there, and the church be truly, possession of property, and embarrass the residence of free negroes among them "1 Do not truth"? In fact it is just here, that the great members of the Church, that once taught their slaves to read, now, in deference to these ungodly laws, omit it ? Do not the missionaries, so far from lifting up their voice against these things, do similar deference, and declare that neither they "nor the members of the churches under their care regard themselves as responsible" for them, members though they be of the body politic ] Do they not justify their silence and acquiescence by the faithless ples, that they see the "wolf coming," and that any interference by them would only make the matter worse 1 Indeed, do they not in effect, and some of them in terms, say, that to put slavery out of the churches even, will be to put them out of their fields of labor-that they cannot drive it from the Lord's table, except it drive them from the Indian domain ! And do not the Board give in to all this, and ask the churches to do so too, and tell the missionaries to go on as they have been going, and leave the whole thing in such shape, that its own defenders are obliged to admit, that there is nothing in the result which looks to the tolerance of slavery only as a temporary and not as a permanent thing ? For aught that appears then, permanent slavery in the mission churches, or the persecution and probable destruction of the missions, is the result of more than a quarter of a century's trial of this experiment-a result that shows the missionaries and the churches speechless, powerless, and enslaved, in presence of the very inquiry they thought to correct by folding it to their bosoms 1

And what has come at the Sandwich Islands of taking "the oppressive ruler" to the Church 1-What have we gained by this method against oppression there, that we had not gained by a bolder and more scriptural proceeding $ Rather what have we not lost 1 To an alarning extent, Christianity is at this hour dishonored and reproached, and the power of Christian discipline is withered and broken there, because of opress ive chiefs, seated in the Church, above the reach of discipline, at the same moment that they concontinue their oppressions and extortions, and not unfrequently in other ways, set the purity and the power of Christ's house alike at defiance. And should the missionaries, by the assumption of virtual prelatical power, now attempt a stricter such tendencies have been developed; and how much more will they be, if the gospel shall ever to high and low, "the pillar and ground of the danger lies that those Islands may yet go to the Papacy, and that there is cause for the alarm which has been rung so long and loud at the arrival and residence there of two or three Papal priests. The truth is, the Sandwich Island experiment is not ended. It has had its dazzling success at the outset. It is passing now to its second stage. And, as sure as human nature is true to itself, and there is a God above, so sure is it that. without a reformation, the installing of iniquity in the Church, in the person of the "oppressive ruler, will work the same results there as in ancient Rome. Change, then, at increased risks and disadvantages, or deeper degeneracy and ultimate apostacy or decay, is the only alternative before that mission.

Aud now what has come of bringing " the proud Brahmin" into "the great household of God" in India | In some cases, doubtless, he may have there learned to abandon caste. But there is no proof that he would not have learned it sooner by an opposite proceeding, much less that the many would not. Who has not heard of Swartz and his great success in India ? Well, he admitted caste to the church, and now observe the result. Speaking of the state of things in the churches planted by Swartz and his successors in Southern India, the Rev. Hollis Read, a Missionary of the American Board, in his memoirs of a "Converted Brahmin," says :---

"They have not, it is feared, in that part of the country embraged Christianity, but Christianity has been made to embrace them ; and instead of imparting her purity and simplicity, as she is wont to do, she has been loaded with the filthy rags of impure rites, and customs, and easte, prejudice and superstition; and she is now exhibited throughout those regions of darkness more in the form of a ludicrous comedian, than as an angel of light."

The state of things was such, that in 1832 or 33, it attracted the attention of the bishop of Calcutta, and he set himself to the work of reformation, as the only means of saving the missions. In his first charge to the missionaries on the subject, he required the discontinuance of every rite and practice of heathenism in the native church-Of its reception by the churches, Mr. Reed es. 88V8 :--

"When the charge was read in the churches, it was received with such general indignation, that the most sober part of the members, even daring in their attempts to prevent the minister from reading it, by coughing, spitting, hissing and scraping with the feet."

In a second charge upon the subject, in 1834, the bishop remarks :---

"The main barrier to all permanent improvement is, as I trust, in a way of removal, the heathen usages of caste in the Christian churches. · While the master minds of Swartz and Gericke remained to keep down the heathen practices, caste was comparatively harmless. It seemed more of a civil distinction. But I rejoice to find that the judgment of all my brethren and the whole body of Christian Protestant missionaries, without exception, concurs now with my own, that the crisis had arrived, and that nothing but the total abolition of all heathen usages, connected with this anti-christian and antisocial system could save these missions. An isthmus cast up between Christ and Belial, a bridge left standing for retreat to Paganism, a citadel kept erect within the Christian enclosure for the great adversary's occupation, is what the gospel cannot tolerate. The Jesuit's proceedings in China are warpings enough to you." In a note accompanying the charge, the bishop enumerates some fifty of these practices, gathered from his own inquiries, and asys "five hundred similar circumstances might easily be ferretted out." In this enumeration we have such statements as these :---

"A Christian missionary first arriving in India would not, and could not credit to what extent the heathen practices connected with caste extended. As to religious services, the different castes sat on different mats, on different sides of the church. to which they entered by different doors, approached the Lord's table at different times, and had once different cups, or managed to get the catechist to change the cup before the lower caste began to communicate : even the missionary clergyman was persuaded to receive the holy supper last : they would allow no sponsors at baptism of an inferior caste ; they had separate divisions in the burial grounds, and none of the inferior castes could perform the service; after which they were all compelled to bathe as unclean, and for eight days the howling women continued their heathen custom of mourning. The country priest or catechist would not reside in a village of Pariahs, nor receive them to his house for instruction ; nor would a Shoodra congregation receive a Pariah teacher, and when a congregation was convened, the inferior classes were all excluded. . In the domestic circle, the wife was not allowed to sit and eat with her hus band, but treated as his slave, or rather a part of his goods and chattels-nor was she permitted to sit with her husband at church. No intermarriages were allowed between different castes, but illicit connections, intemperate feasts, &c., were connived at fast enough, and a Christian married his daughter to a heathen of his own caste rather than to a Christian of a lower one. • • The children were marked with various heathen insignia. These marks they wore when among the heathen, and obliterated them in Christian society. · · As to general society, they condrink of the same well, nor live in the same street, nor take food from the same vessel, but broke all the earthen vessels a Pariah had touchbroke all the earthen vessels a Pariah had touched, as being defiled. • • Christins who retained caste, were admitted to the festivities, often indecent, of the heathens, paid reverence to their gods, made vows at their pagodas, and called for Brahmins to exorcise the sick."

Such is a part, and by no means the worst of the melancholy tale, and these the results of taking caste to the church. In our own missionary churches the toleration has never been so great, and of course the results not so ruinous. But in respect to them, at the very moment the American Board is vindicating and advocating the reception of caste to the church, in the case of the convert as the better way to correct it, the intelligence is coming home that the missionaries are finding out that this will never do; that they cannot go forward effectively and safely in their work, except as they put and keep caste uncompromisingly out of the church ; that in now attempting this they breed a storm, all the worse from its being a departure from former practice ; and that in persisting in their new stand, they find their chief embarrassment in the contrary practice, still maintained, of these same Swartz and other churches. And the intelligence has hardly reached us, when in the Theological Seminary at Cincinnati, the venerable Dr. Scudder gives his testimony to the same effect-declaring that "he is convinced that they erred at first, in granting any toleration to this absurdity; that they ought to have required every candidate for the church to renounce it : and that it is now much more difficult to break it down, and more difficult, too, to establish right principles on the subject, than if they had begun right."

Honorable confession ! And now, in view of all these considerations we ask, are these methods of propagating the gospel to be approved and persevered in ? Is this experience, so attested, to go for nothing ? Are the churches and the ministry to see no contradiction here to God's nature and order of things, and the teachings of his word ? Are they to detect no departure from sound scriptural doctrine, and no prostration of the order, and administration and discipline, of Christ's house ? Are they to desery no defect, to fear no danger, to utter no remonstrance, and demand no change | It cannot be. Heaven's mercy to a dying world, to the missionary boards of our affection, to the churches of our choice, and to the faith of our adoption, must forbid it.

Original. For the Harbinger. The Great Preparation—No. 6. ARE YOU READY 1

MY BRETHER: --Having presented to your view the nature of the moral preparation to meet our coming Judge, in my preceding numbers, I proceed by calling your attention to imy second proposition: to define its extent and practical bearing upon our weiting spirits and our life.

ciety. • • As to general society, they cond sidered themselves of a superior race, and the language, perhaps, than in the following inspired [Go, it is then perfect and complete. "Our affec-Pariate born to be their slaves—they would not passes, which I repeat: "And the yery God off tions, when holy, are set on heavenly objects.-

pesce sanctify you wholly ; and I pray God you whole spirit, and soul, and body, be preserve blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jess Christ. Faithful is he that calleth you, who de will do it." 1 Thess. v. 23, 24. Here a deva petition is offered for the sanctification of the etire person-mentally and physically-and prserved through all coming time in that blameles condition, to the coming of Jesus. The faithful ness and willingness of God are then pledged far the performance of the gracious and blessed wort of preparation, which cannot be wrought upca us by our own exertion, neither by men nor asgels, but solely by the power of the Holy Spini through Christ Jesus. "Tis ours to believe and obey, and the mighty work is done.

But what is meant or intended by these three divisions of an individual thus given 1 . The spirit, soul and body, comprise the whole man, according to the views of learned men in all ages. Here we have the true classification of our powers ; and the division is natural and plain, attended by the sanction of the eternal Spirit of God. It differs but little from the views of the most learned intellectual philosophers, and can be simplified to our understanding but little farther .-We understand in the language of inspiration by the Spirit, the heart of man, or the effect of those mental powers compassing the heart, upon the person in general. The heart sustains the same relation to the mind, that our fleshly heart does to the body. The latter is the seat and source of animal life, the former of spiritual life, health and peace. As the heart of flesh sustains and regulates the functions of the body, so our spiritual heart supports, animates, orders, and governs all the powers of the inner man. I understand the heart, from whence our thoughts proceed to embrace those powers of the mind, denominated the conscience, the will, and the affections. The operation of these mental faculties form the spirit. I have taken notice of 54 texts of scripture. (and there are many more in the sacred word.) showing that the spirit may be hardened, sad, troubled, faint, humble, disobedient, &c., together with the various other affections usually ascribed to the heart and soul of man in the same infallible word. It is also accountable, as the ruling part of man, and may be renewed within us ; and consequently may be saved or lost. (See 1 Cor. v. 5, Ps. li, 10.)

I. A good conscience is an honest, pure and peaceful feeling of uprightness in our intentions, integrity in our motives, and justice in our decisions. It inspects both our own conduct and that of others ; scrutinizing our thoughts, desires, passions, words and deeds. Being "void of offence toward God and men, in all things willing to live honestly," constant, impartial and tender, we hold the mystery of faith in a pure conscience. The will constitutes the power of choice, and lays the foundation for our accountability and moral agency. While the conscience selects the objects of our investigation, the will decides between them. When this faculty is sanctified, it chooses the good, and refuses the evil. It is quick, firm, and uniform in its decisions. When our will perfectly harmonizes with the will of

In this pure state they are strong, equal, and constant in bringing forth the fruits of holiness and peace. Love, joy, peace, long-suffering, tentleness, meekness, temperance, patience, god liness, brotherly kindness, and charity, are yielded in rich abundance for the edification of all around us. O, bleased, happy state.

2. What may we understand by the sanctification of the soul? The soul comprehends (when used in connection with the spirit and body as a component part of man) the understanding, the judgment, the memory, the imagination, and all the reasoning powers. When sanctified, it is greatly conformed to the general scope of divine revelation. The imagination is heavenly, true, and just in its conceptions; the memory strong and retentive, unless enervited by some physical debility, the understanding truly enlightened and refined by the Spirit of truth, and the judgment so corrected in its decisions as to accord nearly with justice, truth, and impartiality. I do not mean that we shall be entirely exempt from ignorance and error, or that the sanctified will all agree in their views of truth and duty. Nav. verily; there are different gifts and offices in the church of God, each of which has its foundaation in that measure of the Spirit vouchsafed to the individual through the illumination of the understanding by appropriate and select portions of truth ; so that in the order of God, some portions of truth are wisely withheld from one memher of the church, which are revealed and opened to another, for the promotion of that particular gift, and the salvation of the individual. It takes, therefore, all the members of the body of Christ, to comprehend the whole system of revealed truth ; and even then it is known but imperfectly in the present state. Bodily disorders and imperfections, added to our necessary ignorance, render our higest mortal state upon many points of truth, different, fallible, and uncertain. It is really true with the wisest and best mortal mint, that "we know see through a glass darkly," and we "know in part" only. I know indeed it is written, "Be ye all of one mind," "Be perfectly joined together in the same mind, and in the same judgment." These and like passages imply that there be no contentions nor divisions among us; but that we tolerate each other's rights and private opinions, perfectly acquiescing in the gifts and duties of each member of the body, al though not discovering or performing the same ourselves. Paul and Apollos are said to be one, although Paul planted and Apollos watered-all of one spirit ; having the same motives, passions, hopes and end. The dear saints are perfectly joined in the same mind, spirit and judgment of Jeaus. Blessed, happy, heavenly union; like the fellowship between the Father and the Son. Amen. Yours waiting, that they did terminate at another point. To the candid consideration of every reader.

D. B. WYATT.

[For the Harbinger.] A Clue to the Time of the End. NO. VIII.

After having shown the mistake of our breththat time, the way is now prepared for proving painful proof was soon afforded.

"When Pius VII., contrary to the usage of his predecessors, agreed to leave the Quirinal Hill, and cross the Alps in the depths of winter, to place the crown on the brow of the French Emperor, he naturally expected that some great and durable benefit would accrue to himself and his successors from the unwonted act of condescension. The flattering reception which he met with at Paris the delicate attention of all the functionaries of the imperial palace, and the marked regard of the Emperor himself, confirmed these flattering illusions; and the papal suite returned into Italy charmed with their visit, and never doubting that, at the very least, the restoration of the three legations in Romagna, torn from the Holy See, by the treaty of Tolentine in 1797, might with confidence be relied on. M. Fontanes, the orator of government, had enlarged in eloquent and touching terms on the magnificent spectacle afforded by the re-conversion of the first of European States to the Christian and Catholic faith. . When the conqueror of Maringo,' said he, 'conceived on the field of battle the design of re-establishing the unity of religion. and restoring to the French their ancient worship, he rescued civilization from impending ruin. Day forever memorable! dear alike to the wisdom of the statesman, and the faith of the Christian. It was then that France, abjuring the greatest errors, gave the most useful lessons to the world. She recognized the eternal truth, that irreligious ideas are impolitic and that every attempt against Christianity is a stroke levelled at the best interests of humanity. Universal homage is due to the august pontiff, who, renewing the virtues of the apostolic age, has consecrated the new destinies of the French Empire, and clothed it with the lustre of the days of Clovis and Pepin. Everything has changed around the Catholic faith, but it remains the same! It beholds the rise and fall of empires, but smid their ruins equally as their grandeur, it sees the workings of the Divine administrations. Never did the universe witness such a spectacle as is now exhibited. The days are passed when the empire and the papacy are rival powers. Cordially united, they now go hand in hand to arrest the fatal doctrines which have menaced Europe with a total subversion. May they yield to the combined influence of religion and wisdom.'

" It is not surprising that such a reception from the conqueror who had filled the world with his renown, and such a prospect of re-converting to the Christian faith the first of the European monarchies, should have dazzled the eyes not only of the Pope, but of the whole conclave ; but amid the universal illusion it did not escape even at that time the observation of some of the able men who directed the cabinet of Rome, that, flattering as these attentions and expressions were, they were all general, and bore reference only the spiritual extension of the papal away. Ardently as some temporal advantages were desired, both the emperor and his diplomatists had carefully ren, in taking the event of A. D. 1802 as proof avoided holding out any distinct pledge, even the of the position that the 1260 years terminated at most indirect, of such concessions. Of this a tongue from talebearing, backbiting, evil-speak-

"Shortly after his return, however, Pius VIIevidence we are about to present, we call for the transmitted a memorial to Napoleon, in which he enumerated the losses which the Holy See had sustained from the French government during the progress of the war, and strongly urged him to imitate the example of Charlemagne, and restore all their possessions. It was not the part of the system of Napoleon to permit the imperial eagles to recede from any territory which they had once occupied, and in a careful answer drawn by the Emperor himself, while he expressed boundless anxiety for the spiritual exaltation of the Holv See, and even admitted a desire, if the occasion should offer, to augment his temporal advantages ; yet he distinctly announced. that this must not be expected from any interference with existing arrangements or diminution of the territory of the kingdom of Italy, to which these acquisitions had been annexed. Repeated attempts were afterwards made by the papal government to obtain some relaxation or concession in this particular, but they were always either eluded or met by a direct refusal.

"Still more decisive events speedily demonstrated that, amid all Napoleon's professions of regard, which he really felt for the spiritual authority of the successors of St. Peter, he had no intention of adding to their territorial influence. or of treating them in any other way than his own vassals, who, in every part of their temporal administration, were to take the law from the cabinet of the Tuileries."-Allison, III, pp. 280, 281. J. D. PRUDDEN.

> For the Harbinger. The Tongue.

The evils done to friends, families and society, by the imprudent use of the tongue, are very great. Many are at this time, undoubtedly, suffering the most complicated distress, and struggling under the most painful apprehension, on account of this sore evil. The nearest ties of nature are broken, the dearest friends are separated, the most sacred connections are dissolved, and love is turned into enmity, by its baneful influence. And may not this, and the innumerable multitude of other things that are daily distracting mankind, be easily traced back to a word unfilly spoken ? James says, when alluding to the tongue, "Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." Much may be said on the evil arising from not governing this little unruly member of the body, and many very excellent things may be said on the great advantages of subduing it.

The tongue is an index of the heart, as will be seen by Matt. xv. 19, "For out of the heart pro-ceed evil thoughts." Matt. xii. 34, "For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." Prov. xxi, 23, "Whose keepeth his mouth and his tongue, keepeth his soul from troubles"; and xviii. 21, " Death and life are in the power of the tongue." James says, " If any man among you seem [or pretend] to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, this man's religion [or profession] is vain." Though he may appear to be pious, devout, and exact in all the outward performances of religion, yet if he bridleth not the ing, slandering, or vain and foolish ostentatious talking, his profession is vain. If such persons fancy they have religion, they deceive their own hearts. A mere empty profession never has been and never will be of any service to any one .-Pure religion is to be doers of the word, and not hearers only.

By bridling the tongue seems to be meant the exercise of the understanding. The want of understanding often appears in the imprudent use of the tongue. A man of a good understanding is of a few words and well chosen. "Let your words he few and well chosen." On the contrary, he that has not a good understanding is known by the multitude of his words. "He that hath knowledge spareth his words, and he that shutteth his lips is esteemed a man of understanding." That bridling the tongue refers to the exercise of the understanding appears from the following : "Be ve not as the horse, or as the mule, which have no understanding, whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle." This seems to be what the apostle has in view in his reasoning on the government of the tongue. If, then, bridling the tongue refers to the exercise of the under standing, in what an extensive point of view does it place the subject. Does it not show the necessity of having our "speech always with grace, seasoned with salt" ? Col. iv. 6. "That no corrupt communication proceed out of our mouth. but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers." "A good man, out of the good treasure of his heart. bringsth forth good things." Does it not teach us the necessity of walking in wisdom towards them that are without, speaking evil of no man. letting the word of Christ dwell in us richly, in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another. in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in the heart to the Lord ? Who is a wise man and endued with wisdom among you I let him show out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom. This wisdom is from above ; is first pure, then peaceable gentle and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and without hypocrisy : and the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace. The apostle says, "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

By governing the tongue, we show wisdom and grace, by which we are able to keep all our appetites and passions under due regulation, and govern the whole body, so as to manifest that we have the spirit and mind that was in Christ.

The tongue is a little member, and hath great influence, and when peudently employed, is very useful: therewith bless we God, and glorify him. We magnify his name with the tongue-with it we call on God the Father. Prayer and supplication are made unto him, and confession unto salvation, by the tongue. Prov. x. 20, "The tongue of the just is as choice silver"; xv. 4, "A wholesome tongue is a tree of life. When the heart is under the influence of grace, the tongue is properly governed, and is wisely and profitably employed, and answers the important purpose for which it was placed among our memglorify God in all the delightful exercise of doing his will.

How different it is with the tongue that is not governed: it boasteth great things, and is a fire, a world of iniquity. So is the unbridled tongue among our members ; it defileth the whole body. and setteth on fire the course of nature, and it is set ou fire of hell. A great amount of iniquity proceeds from the ungoverned tongue. Indeed, there is no iniquity which an unbridled tongue is not capable of producing, either itself or by means of others, whom it entices, commands, or persuades, or provokes. Such is the place it holds among our members, that it defileth the whole body. As a little fire kindleth into a terrible flame, so is the unsubdued tongue : by it is often produced great anger, strife, and envy; from which come confusion and every evil work The unsubdued tongue is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison, mischievous, deceiving, eminently dangerous in its influence and effect ; so much so that it is important that the follower of Christ should watch and guard against it. Job says, "Wickedness is sweet, and is hid under the tongue." This is the very place where the poison lies. Issish says, "Wickedness burneth as the fire," "hatred stirreth up strife." Prov. x. 12, "An angry man stirreth up strife, a froward man soweth strife."

GEORGE HENLEY. Toronto, C. W., Dec. 24, 1847.

Our meetings in this City have been removed from Shaw's block, to MINERVA HALL, corner of Main and South St Paul streets, where they are held, as usual, three times on the Sabbath, and on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

IF Some of our subscribers who have sent us One Dollar, have requested that Seventy-five Cents be placed to their credit for the present volume of the Harbinger, and Twenty-five Cents appropriated to aid in paying for the papers we send to the poor. This is an example which we think many will find it their pleasure to imitate, who do not feel able to contribute more largely for this worthy object .-They can send a dollar by mail better than seventy five cents. The extra twenty-five cents will hardly be missed from a full purse, and three of them will pay for a volume of the Harbinger for a poor brother or sister.

(F" We desire to receive, within a few weeks besides our current expenses, between two and three hundred dollars, to pay our honorable paper maker for a lot of good paper he has recently furnished us. Our friends will much oblige, by lending a helping hand in this matter. We do not intend this as a dun, but as a friendly notice, of what would be very agreeable to our wishes at this time ; and we trust their response will be equal to our wants.

1 The names of new subscribers have begun to come in slowly ; but sufficiently fast to assure us, that with a zealous and united effort on the part of hers-which is to speak the truth in love, and all the friends of the Happinger, its list can be raised blind supporters of these doctrines; they are all to the three thousand. At Le Roy, we laid the matter before a small congregation, and five names were obtained. If others will do likewise, similar or more encouraging fruits will be the result. The fact is, there is yet a thirst for knowledge on the doctrine of the advent, and it is the duty of all to try to satisfy that thirst, and one efficient means of doing it is, by the circulation of our advent papers. Let all awake to duty on this subject : the Lord is at hand.

Be not Deceived.

" Let no man deceive you with vain words."-Eph. v. 6

From this, and similar texts, I infer, 1. That there would be deceivers in the world, who, through their vain words, would deceive and lead astray from the truth, the inexperienced and unguarded child of God, and, that in the last days, they would become so numerous and artfully deceptive, as to deceive, if possible, the very elect. It is highly important that this fact should be constantly impressed upon each mind : for if we are not apprised that there are many deceivers around us, we shall not be watching against their deception.

2. I infer that God's children would be liable to be decieved: for it would be superfluous to give them these often repeated warnings, if they were proof against deception. The fact that we are imperfect in knowledge, makes it certain that we are liable to be deceived. We never should forget this humiliating fact; for if we know not our own weakness and ignoarnce, but think ourselves infallible, we shall not be looking out for deception, and shall most surely be caught in the snare of the devil.

3. I infer that, if deceived, the deception may prove fatal to us: for it would be superfluous to warn us against deceptions, if they were harmless in their consequences. The warnings of God are designed to save us from misery and ruin. We should not forget this fact ; for if we see nothing to fear, we shall see nothing to shun, and before we are aware of it, shall be decoved into error, and on the way to destruction, beyond hope of recovery. 4. I infer that if we are deceived, it will be our own fault ; for we are told to let no man do it, clearly implying that we have ability not to be taken in any snare that may be laid for our feet. Do not forget this very important fact ; for if you think you are not responsible for being deceived, you will not try to shun the traps of the enemy, but will be led a willing captive to his will, to your everlasting confusion

5. I infer that we may be so guarded as not to fall into any hurtful snare : for it would be unreasonable to warn us to do that which we were incanable of performing. God makes no such unjust demands of his children. He has given them his plain word. and ability to understand it, and so long as they follow its requirements, no man will be able to deceive them. But when they leave that word, and listen to the vain, yet perhaps popular and so called orthodox teachings of worldly wisdom, they are deceived and caught in the snare of the enemy. Beware, and let no man deceive you. If he is your minister, your brother, your editor, or nearest earthly friend, heed not his words if they are not according to the plain letter of your Bible. Partake not of his spirit, if it is not Christlike-imitate not his example, if he does not follow Christ.

Let no man deceive you on the plain doctrines of God: for it is the truth that makes free and nurifies its possessor. The world is full of the doctrines of men and devils, and the great, the rich, the proud, the worldly wise, and the vast multitude of all classes of men of every clime, are the admirers and turned unto fables, and think it strange that the humble Christian does not follow their steps. But heed not their entreaties for you to follow their pernicious ways, but cleave closer and closer to the truth, and you will escape the fearful doom that is but just before the deceived throng.

Finally, I infer that there is a great reward for those who will let no man deceive them : for if there were nothing to gain, there would be no inducement to guard against deception. Eternal life, and an inheritance in the kingdom of God, are the priceless treasures we are liable to lose, by being deceived. Every power of the soul, then, should be wide awake, at all suitable times and places, to guard against the deceptions which peril these blessings. We should constantly keep near the Savior's side, abide in his word, and possess his spirit or mind, and no man can then deceive us ; but in any other place or condition we are deceived already, and our only salvation is to return to Christ without delay.

Owing to deeply rooted prejudices, and doubtless some to bad roads, this meeting was thinly attended, until Sabbath evening, when the house was well filled with attentive hearers, who listened apparently with deep interest to a discourse from Bro. Pinney, on the time of the Lord's coming, and the nature of the events then to take place. We think some good will be the result of this discourse, as well as others which had been previously delivered.

Bro. Pinney is very confident that the coming of the Lord is near, and is strong in the belief that he will come between this and some time next April, if there is no mistake in the commonly received and generally accredited chronology. Ile throws the responsibility of a mistake upon the approved chronologists of the past and present day, who were not special believers in the second advent of Christ.-This we think is right. In all our calculations of this magnitude, we think it justifiable to say that such and such will be the result, if our chronology is correct. But whether it is correct or not, it is as certain as that prophecies are true, and corresponding facts immutable, that the coming of the Lord will soon be witnessed. In this faith we found the brethren assembled at Le Roy, fully grounded and settled.

We left before the meeting closed-Brn. Pinney and Bywater were expected to continue it a while longer, and we hope to hear that much good has been the fruit of their labors.

We hope Bro. Pinney will give for the press, the substance of some of his discourses at this meeting ; we think they would be meat in due season.

During this meeting, the duty of trying to introduce the cause into new places, or where it is not understood, was considered. Doors seemed to be open in many places, but especially at Batavia and Elmira. Bro. Bywater will do what he can for the former, and Bro. Pinney for the latter place. And as they are not able to go to war at their own charge, one brother offered to meet half the expence necessary to make the proposed effort at Batavia; and others will doubtless aid in making the trial in both places, or in other places, where a door may be opened to do good. And we will here say, that if any one of the Lord's stewards has any thing to appropriate for home missions, or the introduction of the cause into new places, a favorable opportunity is now afforded for him or her to present the offering. We should serve the Lord with our substance as well as with our lips.

FBro. J. R .- Your criticism on Bro. Alling's "short time," we think should be distinctly confined to that point. But you introduce another die- lished in Albany. By request of Bro. Himes, but to receive this markputed question, not necessary to be discussed in order to obtain the true light on the "short time."-Sometimes in settling disputed questions, this is necessary ; but we think it not so in this case .-We think direct testimony may be given to show Bro. A's mistake.

Advent Herald.

DEAR BRO. HIMBS :- Your note to " (F Bro. Marsh." in the Herald for June 22d, needs some correction, which we hope you will make when you are informed wherein it is incorrect. You say of us, "His selection of articles from his correspondents, however, go to show that he has no scruple or difficulty in publishing the most bitter and slanderous articles against us, without note, comment, or apology. We do not see the harmony between his 'good spirit,' in his editorials, and the unfair, slanderous spirit of his selected, published correspondence. While such a course is pursued, we can have but little confidence, even in the highest professions."

We are not aware that any such communications have been published in the Harbinger. If there have, then we have erred, and when convicted of the wrong, we will make christian satisfaction .-But we cannot now think of even one such " unfair" and "most bitter and slanderous" article, which we have published. Will Bro. Himes name one, and its objectionable words, or correct his mistake ? If any of our readers know of any such commucication that we have published, we will thank them to point it out, that we may see and correct our error, if we have committed one ; for we mean that the Harbinger shall not be made the instrument of "unfair" and "most bitter slander" of even our enemies, much less our brethren. But its correspondents, on all suitable subjects, shall have the privilege of speaking their honest sentiments, though they may cross our views, or even those of the Herald. We profess not to have dominion over the faith of our brethren ; for it is by faith they stand.

Again, you say, "But after we had expended so much time, hard labor, and money, to establish the office, and a paper at Rochester, for the good of the Advent cause at the West, on a transfer of the whole to Bro. M., for the interest of the cause, we did not expect it would be perverted to other objects; much less that we, and our faithful coadjutors, should be placed by it in the 'Great Apostacy.'-Under such circmstances, we claim that we had a right to entrest, that he would not distract the Advent cause."

If "expending much time, hard labor, and money," gives "a right," in this case, then so far as money is concerned, a great many would have a better right than Bro. Himes ; for they have spent in the cause their hundreds and thousands, while he had nothing of the kind to appropriate, and has only used what the cause has put into his hands ; which has been much, and which he, as a wise and faithful steward of his brethren's, or rather his Lord's treas ure, has spent for the "Advent cause." But while we commend his untiring perseverance, and faithfulness, in this great and good work, we cannot see that by virtue of these things, he is constituted the possessor of "rights," more than others, to "entreat" or "publicly reprimand."

We regret that you have been no more explicit in what you have said about the "transfer" of the whole "office and paper at Rochester." As you have left the matter, we think a wrong impression will be made. It may be well to state the facts, which we request you to give to your readers.

at our own expense, it was removed to Rochester; where the "Glad Tidings of the Kingdom at Hand, had been published, but which for some months had been discontinued. Bro. Himes gave us the privilege of sending our paper to the subscribers of the "Glad Tidings," which were some over one hundred. To some of these it was sent free-others did not want our paper, so that we received but very little real profit, if any, from his old list. This is all there is about the transfer of the paper, with the exception that, at his request, we added the name "Glad Tidings" to the " Voice of Truth."

Relative to the "transfer of the "office"-we assumed half the rent of the room-acted as book agent for some time without charge, but afterward had a certain percentage for our services-have paid to him all that has been realized from the sale of his books-have never received the least pecuniary aid in any way from him to assist in publishing our paper-and, finally, by his agreement, all the fixtures and things that constituted his "office" here, were apprized by a competent brother, and we paid their full value in cash to Bro. Himes.

This is all we now recollect about the " transfer" of the "office and a paper at Rochester," on which you say you "expended so much time, hard lahor, and money, to establish." We admit that the infuence of your office in Rochester was "transferred" or turned to our account and cheerfully acknowledge that in part it has, in a pecuniary sense, compensated for the influence our paper has given to the sale of your books, which we have advertised freely.

But enough on these matters. What we have done, has been heartily done for the cause of our soon coming Lord. We regret that we have been able to do no more, and to do no better, that which we have done. We have nothing to boast of in this respect, but rather feel that we have been an unprofitable servant. The Lord pardon remissness in duty, and enable us to do more and better, in future, for his greatly suffering and most precious cause ; that when he shall come, he may say to me, to you, and to all his faithful servants, Come, ye blessed of my Father,-Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make the ruler over many-enter thou into the joy of thy Lord. In view of that great reward, O, how self and our imperfect works sink into insignificance. The Lord forgive us all, if we have spoken or even thought of them boastfully.

"Two Horned Beast." NO. XII.

"Verse 16. And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark] To ascertain the meaning of the mark which the two-horned beast causes all orders and degrees of men in the Latin world to receive, we need only refer to ch. ziv. 11. where the mark imposed by the two-bornedd beast is called the mark of his name. The name of the beast is the Latin empire; the mark of his name must, therefore, be his Latin worship ; for this reason, that it is the two-horned beast, or false prophet, who causes all descriptions of persons to receive it. Now it is well known that the continual employment of the Latin clergy is to enforce the Latin idolatry upon their flocks. The mass, and offices of the church, which are in Latin. and contain the sum and substance of their idolatrous worship, are of different kinds, and abound in impious prayers to the Virgin Mary, and the saints and angels. In a word, the Latin worship is the universal hadge of distinction of the Latin church, from all other churches on the face of the earth ; aud is, therefore, the only infallible mark by which a genuine Papist can be distinguished from the rest The first number of the Voice of Truth was pub- of mankind. But the two-horned beast causes all " In their right hand, or in their foreheads]-Right hand, in Scripture language, when used figuratively, represents the physical power of the person of whom it is spoken ; and, when applied to God, designates a signal manifestation of divine power against his enemies, and in behalf of his people. See Psa. xvii, 7, xx. 6, xxi. 8, xlv. 3, 4, &c. The reception of the mark in the right hand must, therefore, mean that all, so receiving it, devote the whole powers of their mind and body for the propagation of the Latin worship, and in the eradication of all they denominate heresies out of their church. But some receive the mark in their foreheads. By anything being impressed upon the forehead, is meant the public profession of whatever is inscribed or marked upon it : see Rev. ix. 4. xiv. 1, xxii. 4, &c. The mark of the beast being received on the forehead, therefore, means that all those so marked make a public profession of the Latin worship ; whereby it is evident to all that they form part of the Latin church. Many may be marked in the right hand, who are also marked in their foreheads ; but it does not follow that those marked on their foreheads are also marked in their right hand ; that is to say, it is not every individual that complies with the Latin worship, who, to the utmost of his power, endeavors to propagate his religious system. Hence the propriety of the words, "He causeth all-to receive a mark in their right hand, on in their foreheads."

"Verse 17. And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark] 'If any,' observes Bishop Newton, 'dissent from the stated and authorized forms, they are condemned and excommunicated as heretics ; and in consequence of that, they are no longer suffered to buy or sell ; they are interdicted from traffic and commerce, and all the benefits of civil society. So Roger Hoveden relates of William the Conqueror, that he was so dutiful to the pope that he would not permit any one in his power to buy or sell any thing whom he found disobedient to the apostolic see. So the canon of the council of Lateran, under pope Alexander III, made against the Waldenses and Albigenses, enjoins, upon pain of anathems, that no man presume to entertain or cherish them in his house or land, or exercise traffic with them. The synod of Tours in France, under the same pope, orders, under the same intermination, that no man should presume to receive or aid them. nor so much as to hold communion with them in selling or buying ; that, being deprived the comforts of humanity, they may be compelled to repent of the error of their way.' In the tenth and eleventh centuries, the severity against the excommunicated was carried to so high a pitch, that nobody might come near them, not even their own wives, children. or servants ; they forfeited all their natural legal rights and privileges, and were excluded from all kinds of offices. The form of excommunication in the Romish church is to take lighted torches, throw them upon the ground with curses and anathemas, and tranple them under foot to the ringing of the bells. It is in this, and similar ways, that the false prophet has terrified the Latin world, and kept it in subjection to the secular and spiritual powers .-Those interdicted by the two-horned beast from all offices of civil life, are also such as have not "the name of the beast, or the number of his name.""

Famine and disease are committing such awful ravages among the peasantry of Austrian Gallicia. that in almost every village a third, and in some places even the half, of the people have died.

FROM BRO. CVRUS TANNER.

Bro. Manage-I am much interested in reading many of the communications in the Harbinger, especially those on the signs of the times. If the sub iet of the end of the wick of or the three. If the sub-ject of the end of the wicked or the finally impeni-tant must be discussed, I hope it may be done in a spirit of love. I have examined the subject some for myself, and I should rejoice and be exceeding for myself, and a anound rejoice and he exceeding glad if I could, or desired to, believe from the word of God, that their end was to be as tolerable as an-mibilation. But when I read some of the declara-tions of the blessed Savior, I dare not believe It.-None of the Diseased Cavior, i dark not benefit in Far he says. "These shall go away and cast him into outer darkness, there shall be weeping and gnashing of testh," "Where their worm disth not, and the fre is not quenched," "In hell he lifted up his eyes, he-ing in torment," "It shall be more tolerable for the and the Harbinger. Though '47 has passed and our inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrab, in the day of judgment, than for thee," and "The smoke of their torment shall ascend up for ever and ever." When I read these passages, I cannot reconcile them with the idea that the wicked cease to exist after the second death. But I am perfectly willing to leave them in the hands of God, knowing he will do right, and dispose of them to glorify himself.

Yours, confidently believing I shall be among those that shall be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, when the last trump shall sound. CYRUS TANNER.

"I hope the Harbinger will continue to be a bar binger of the advent of the Lord of glory, and be guided by wisdom from above, and show out of a good conversation its works with meekness of wis-dom, remembering that where envying and strife are, there is confusion and every evil work."

An Unanswerable Argument against War.

BY H. C. WRIGHT.

About fifteen years ago, I was at a hotel in the city of Providence, Rhode Island. In front of the hotel was a noble eim, and under its spreading bucks was a noise enn, and shuft its spreading branches acets were placed for the accommodation of the guests. Here I sat one day, reading a news-paper; but the paper was uninteresting, and I threw it down, and looked around for a more animated companion. Near me sat a very old man, in the garb of the religious Society of Friends, or Qua-ters. He sat cross-legged upon his chair, his hands locked together on his lap, his broad-brimmed hat on his head, and his countenance calm and serene. He appeared to be lost in meditation. I looked at him for a moment, hesitating to interrupt him ; but finally we entered into conversation, which turned many we catered into conversation, which turned upon the views of Friends on the subject of milita-ry defence. Thinking it would be easy to show the fullity and absurdity of those views, I stated my arguments in favor of defensive resistance. He listened attentively, and then addressed me in nearly these words : "Well friend, thou believest it right to kill thy Assuredly I do."

But these would not do, the widow wanted money, and she insisted so earnestly, on the gift of money, that the lady asked her into the house, and entered into conversation with her, when she heard the following story :

"My husband," said she, "died a few weeks ago, and since that time I've had no peace. Priest ----called upon me soon after, and reproved me for not paying over to him the sum of money necessary for his release from that place of torment. I asked him how much that would be. And now he gives me no peace, because, you know, I have not the money, and what can I do for the soul of my poor husband !'

The lady took a Bible and handing it to this af flicted woman, said io her,

(For the Harbinger ] The Lord's Prayer.

This short but comprehensive prayer is often repeated in the pulpit, in the prayer-meeting, and in the services of the domestic circle. Yet how few there are that can pray it in the spirit and in the understanding of it; how few that are ready to have it answered ! how few that do not speak falacly when they repeat it !

Seeing that it is not a "vain thing to worship God." and that he is "iealous of his honor " and "of his glory," I deemed it not inappropriate to pen a few thoughts on the prayer that Jesus taught, for the consideration, and perhaps good, of some of the worshippers that are praying, "Thy kingdom come." We are taught to say-

I. " Our Father."

A claim to parentage. As children generally resemble their parents in their features and actions, so if we are the children of God we will be godlike. Let us see that we bear the characterinics required before we claim God to be "our Father." Who shall decide whether I am a child of God ! The Bible. What must be my characteristics ! (1.) The "adoption" by faith .-Gal. iii. 26. " For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus." John. i. 12, 13 ; Gal. iv. 5. (2.) The "spirit of adoption." "For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again, to fear; but ye have received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba Father." Rom. vill. 14, 15; Gal. iv. 6; Rom. viii. 9. (3.) You must be what some call come outers. Read 2 Cor. vi. 14 to end of the chapter. "Wherefore and I will receive you: and will be a Father un which raised up Jeaus from the dead, it will also presses immortality, and there would be no need to you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters "quicken our mortal bodies," and they will "be of repeating the expression. Besides, the ori-saith the Lord Almighty." Now if we have received the adoption, and have in possession the "spirit of adoption." and "come out" or "turn away" from these "who hath part with Infidels," then we can call God "our Father"; for "He is not ashamed to be called our God."

II. "Which art in heaven."

Here we are taught to avoid idolatry. As there are "gods many and lords many," we are to avoid the worship of all but the "true God," "who is in heaven." Too often, while engaged in solemn worship, our mind is on some object of earth. So it ought not to be. We should not pray to "be heard of men"-how can we believe if we receive honor of men 1 and "whatscever is not of faith is sin." Brethren. let us not be sinners! Let us worship in faith believing the "only true God," "who is in heaven.

III. " Hallowed be thy nama."

Here we are taught to avoid profanity. What is profanity ? It is taking the name of the Most High in vain. Then, my brethren and sisters, let us dispense with all unnecessary and vain repetition of that sacred name, which the Paalmist calls "Holy and Reverend," seeing our Father, with whom we converse in supplications, knows all our wants.

IV. " Thy kingdom come."

Here we are taught in reference to the "kingdom." Now, if the kingdom had already come, why did our Savior instruct his disciples thus to pray ! Did he teach them to pray for that which they already had in their possession ? No-the grossest absurdity ! - But when are we to expect this portion of the prayer answered ? Not until the "new heavens and new earth" are created. "wherein dwelleth righteousness," and the saints possess the kingdom, and the meek inherit the earth. Then God's will will "be done in earth" by all his intelligent creation, as all holy beings now do it "in heaven."

There are a few things that should be noticed in this connection. (1.) Are we ready to have this prayer answered 1 How many there are who repeat this prayer, that if it was answered, would be in an awful situation! (2.) We must understand what we pray for in order to be ready to receive the answer of our prayer. Hence, if we pray, " Thy kingdom come," we must necessarily understand what that kingdom is, so that we may be ready for its reception. (3.) The preparation or fitness for the kingdom of heaven is, first, a moral change. Our carnal mind must be subdued, and that mind be in us which was in Christ Jeaus. We must possess the spirit of the "world to come"-the spirit of Christand be in obedience to God's will. Secondly, a come out from among them and be ye separate, physical change, which will take place at the with the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, coming of our Redeemer ; if we have that spirit fashioned like unto Christ's glorious body."-Amen.

V. "Give us this day our daily bread."

Here we are taught our dependence for the things of this life. Then we should use them as not abusing them, seeing we are "stewards."-Some may understand this to mean the "bread of life." To this we have no objections, as is it shows our dependence for either or both.

VI. "And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors."

The nature of forgiveness we are here taught. Some tell us we should forgive without repentance! But does God do so ! If we forgive our debtors without repentance, we ask God to do the same! Query-if God forgives without repentance, what will hinder the salvation of all men 1 VII. " Abandon us not in temptation." (Camp. Trans.)

He is our Deliverer ; not only from present trials and temptations, but ultimately from all evil. We too often look to finite man for assistance, when we ought to look unto Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our faith, who will "make way for our escape." Yes, he will deliver from evil, for the kingdom is his, and he has the right to reign-the power is his, and he has the right to subdue and deliver-the glory is thine, our glorious King, forever ! Amen. S. I. RONEY.

Massena, N. Y., Jan. 17, 1848.

[For the Harbinger.] Incorruption, Immortality, Eternal Life. NOT SYNONYMOUS TERMS.

BRO. MARSH :-- Allow me to suggest a few thoughts for the consideration of the brethren. touching the scripture use of the above terms, especially, as an incontestible Bible position is of the utmost consequence at the present time, upon this and all other subjects. Small stars aid in dispelling the darkness of the night, but they were never made to be suns. So it is possible I may cast at least a ray of light on this point on which there is now a diversity of opinion. 1 think that Bro. Needham has approached very near the truth, and may be wholly correct, but I judge not. and therefore give the views I entertain.

I do not think that either two of the above terms are used synonymously between the lids of the Bible, when correctly understood. Incorrup-s tion and immortality are used in the same connection 1 Cor. xv. 53, 54, but not synon ymously, surely, else one or the other term is superfluous. Incorruption is here put as the opposite of corruption, and immortality as the opposite of mortality, thus conveying the true idea of each term. Incorruption is not here to be understood according to the strict English definition, for then it ex-not bear this translation if you attach to it the English definition. The true idea seems to be this : at death, man falls in weakness, dishonor, and corruntion : but they that are Christ's, at his coming, are raised in an uncorrupted state, sinless and pure, while those who have sown to the flesh, are raised in their corruption.

Immortality being the opposite of mortality, can convey but one idea, and that is, exemption from death-an undying, changeless quality .-This is the English definition. Eternal life is a consequent of this quality, and is the gift of God. Immortality may be given in a moment, but eternal life is an endless cycle. Eternity is only sin, the resurrection would have saved a world; just long enough to finish the gift of God to the but this, from the nature of the case, could not immortalized.

I understand the whole matter thus: man was made incorrupt, but not incorruptible. Though little children to come unto me, [such as he took uncorrupted, he was nevertheless corruptible, i. in his arms,] and forbid them not, for of such is e. liable to be corrupted. He was sinless and the kingdom of heaven. The majority of the pure, consequently free from the seeds of mortality or death. In this state he was put on trial for immortality, and if he had obeyed, in process of time he would have come to the tree of life, and received immortality. Man's immortality was and is in the tree of life. This act would have made his incorruption incorruptible, and the consequent gift would have been eternal life. When man partook of the forbidden fruit, he became corrupted, and the seeds of death were sown in him, so that as MAN he really began to die, according to Jehovah's decree, "Dying thou shalt die." He would, however, have counteracted the laws of death and lived forever, if he could have eaten of the tree of life, but would have been an immortal corrupted man ; hence the Lord God drove him from the garden. His life, and only life is forfeited. Man must die and be eternally dead, without a resurrection. But, "as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." The resurrection by Christ brings every soul to life from that death they die in Adam, but every man in his own order. All that are Christ's are raised into the same incorrupt state from which Adam fell. They then have right to the tree of life; they eat and "put on immertality," then bid defiance to all death's hellish machinery, and mock the deserted grave. This is their reward, but the perpetuity of this state is the gift of God. Those who come forth in their corruption have no right to the tree of life ; the angel guards the way, and they have no passport. They must die again, must die the second death : and as there is no second resurrection, must remain forever dead. None die the second death in Adam, or in consequence of his transgression; but for neglecting Christ's salvation.

Who then are Christ's ? He is the Savior of fall men from the death they die in Adam. All that have not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression are Christ's at his coming. Amen. This must include all who have died in Adam while incapable of actual transgression. 1st. Because they must be made alive from the Adamic penalty.

2d. Because, having never sown, they surely have not sown to the flesh, and therefore cannot reap corruption.

3d. Their death was incurred by the first Ad- things the wrong way.

In view of these facts, Christ says, "Suffer kingdom will be such.

Another class who will be Christ's at his coming, are such as have sinned, and, having repented, become believers in the record God has given us of his Son. As many of such as have held out to the end of their probationary state, will be changed at his appearing into an uncorrupted state, then eat of the tree of life. The gospel of faith and repentance is to bring men to God who have become actual sinners, (the wages of sin is death.) but is in no way adapted to such as have never sinned, and for want of knowledge cannot sin ; hence it is said, "He that believeth and is hantized shall be saved.

Poland, Me., Jan. 21, 1848.

P. S. I judge that a misconception of this matter arises from the unscriptural notion that Christ saves his people from the effects of the fall, this side of the resurrection, and that by faith. This is a fatal error. "His name shall be called Je sus, for he shall save his people from their sins" -(by faith)-and not from the penalty of the Adamic transgression. We are all corrupted, and all must die, save the two who have been translated, and the few who shall be alive at the coming of the Lord, and there are no miraculous interpositions. We all have vile affections, and if Christians, grace controls them all, so that with Paul we can say, "I keep my body in subjection." But this vile body is not changed until the Master appears. "I will ransom them from the power of the grave, I will redeem them from death"-or change them at his appearing. "We are saved by hope" while here ; but the reality is at the resurrection. I wish Bro. Needham to examine these thoughts, and if they are not correct, please set them right. Truth is my only aim. Please take each point to the standard of all truth, and closely examine, and then give us the result of the investigation. JŤ

[For the Harbinger 1 The Advent Herald.

In the "Herald," for Jan. 15th, they make much resistance to the statements in a recent No. of the "Harbinger," touching their late editorials. As their feelings seem to carry them away, allow me to help their memory.

1. They seem to talk as if they did not " discredit a part of the Bible." Their words in relation to Ecclesiastes were-"A book which makes no claim to being written by inspiration of God, for the purpose of asserting true doctrines, though it is doubtless given for instruction, by presenting a true record of the experience and errors of Solomon, during the days of his vanity, and perhaps of his conversion. There is not a 'thus saith the Lord' in the whole book."

2. If any anti-adventist should use such language in relation to any portion of the Bible which speaks of the advent, with the design to discredit the doctrine, would not the "Herald" be bound, if they spoke at all, to say that they did "discredit a part of the Bible" ! Would it be a sin to say what is so manifestly true ! If that book has some claim to being written by inspiration, &c., then our Lord will reverse their decision.

3. Notwithstanding all their excitement and strong language against us, for uttering truth so needful to awaken the flock to their danger, they now reaffirm their offensive and offending sentiment ! They say, "We objected, first, to the propriety of adopting it (Eccl. ix. 5) as an inspired expression of Christian faith," &c. My limits will not allow of a review; hence I only state the grand points.

4. When they venture to quote freely and frequently the unambiguous language of inspiration. concerning the creation of man as the "living soul"-that this "living soul" lived 930 years and "he died"-that "the soul that sinneth it shall die"—and that the inspired history of man's life and death harmonizes with this: then they will give proof positive of faith in such parts of holy scripture. This is the basis of "all scripture" touching this subject. Let them go to the root of the matter-" dig deep." and build their faith "on the rock" of God's truth, then their faith will be apparent; but while they quote any thing suited to divert attention from these primary parts of God's truth, relative to "the soul"to its death and resurrection-we must denv all ground of faith, except that of blind affection or submission, ere we can accord to them what they claim

5. Those who refuse to go to the basis of revelation for the doctrine of the advent, have been subjected to such imputation-a want of faith in God's word. They take a vague, general view, instead of a definite, Bible view ! If the Advent Herald act on the same principle, in relation to other and essentially connected truths-like those of the soul, of death, and the source of "life and immortality"-they are in fact subjecting themselves to this same imputation before God and good men. Ps. vi. 5, xlix. 12, 20, cxlvi. 4 ; Isa. xli. 10, 12, xxxviii. 18, teach the doctrine of Eccl. iz. v. Are they not " inspired ""to teach 'true doctrines" ?

If, from the force of circumstances, some good men tolerate such a course, it is from a feeling of necessity, and yet with a deep consciousness that it is wrong-that it would be ruinous if persevered in ; but they hope it will not be .--There are some who believe the inspired declaration that "THE WORD OF GOD IS NOT BOUND" -MUST NOT BE BOUND! Gen. ii. 7, 1 Cor. xv. 45, &c., is as true as the Gospels .--Amen. J. B. Cook.

Corruptions of the Church.

AMERICAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY. (Concluded.)

Mr. Noble inquired whether polygamy was allowed in any of the mission churches ?

Mr. Phelps replied that the Report of the Committee did not assert that it was. It stated only that the Board classed it with the other sins, to be treated in the same way with them. A Missionary once brought before the notice of the Committee, at Boston, the case of a converted man who had two wives, and loving them equally well---

Mr. Stewart : He must have been a very affectionate man ! [Laughter.]

Mr. Phelps : he could not consent to part with either. In that case, the man was not required by the Committee to part with either of his wives. The subject was referred back to the Missionary to decide for himself. The point was distinctly with a view to elicit inquiry.

Mr. Stewart said he felt as though a moral bomb-shell had been thrown into the midst of the American Board of Missions, to-day, at about 4 o'clock this afternoon ! What will be the consequence of this explosion in the moral world, time, the great annotator and commentator, could alone disclose. The Board and its supporters supposed they had laid up a stock of good works laid by a good amount to propagate the unsearchthe alter son after son, and daughter after daugh- into the church : then purify him. The first antiter, for this work, had now at last to learn the sum total of the whole to be, that the great man of sin be preached to the Cherokee slaveholders. If has still contrived to rule and reign upon the any one ought to have had religion, simple, pure, throne of the Savior of the world. They now unadulterated, taught to him, it is the Indian, find that this Board is but a joint stock concern whether east or west. But they have all along of the errors of the old world, combined with the been permitted to hold their slaves; have been faults of the new. This exposure made this a day of sorrow. We see, alas ! that this work of churches of the Board. All this has re-acted and carried them out, were guiltless. You might upon the Christian community. If men, who, in this way enact a law to repeal the ten commandments, and all there is in the Bible, and out up all, are coolly told by the Board, through its of it, that is good for any thing, and all would be well ; the law alone is to blame! Here it is, then, that this law, this Board, it was the law, and not the master, that was the sinner ! Mr. S. related the case of a slave re- a moral phenomenon-to the moral world, what cently murdered in New Orleans by a drunken master, of which no notice was taken by the all dressed up in black, faring sumptuously every newspapers-no coroner's inquest held. He spoke deliberately, when he said, that he deemed it quite probable, that in less than twenty years, it would be questionable whether the Christian religion would not be found to have suffered more from the heathenism permitted to be engrafted upon it in the mission churches, then heathenism would have received benefit from the little Christianity we had carried to heathen lands. Look at a church member's slaves; for eternity ; but those who in their wills had part of them mulattoes ; half of them living in promiscuous concubinage. The doctrine of the able riches of Christ; those who had laid upon Board was, Say nothing of this, until you get him slavery sermon, after twenty-five years, is yet to admitted to communion, without reproof, in the such guile that the poor Cherokee could only upon conversion, were ready and willing to give agents, that it is right to hold on to their slaves what are the thoughtless at the North to con-

Still, you slavery might find shelter, and as an ample shield would admit him to the communion ! He did not do it for his own benefit! Another man possesses a good property; is an exemplary man; but when he returns home by his neighbor's wood pile, at night, he always will steal his neighbor's axe. Is it not rather in part raised by the toil of the woman, who in the morning moves from her poor bed at the blast of the horn ; who, while all is damp with the dews of the night, goes to the field with an infant of three months upon her arm ; who lays that infant under the fence, and nurses is after she has hoed across the field and back again ; to be whipped if she fails to perform the whole of the hard task allotted to her; the strong men, her brethren in bondage, who would fain assist her, prevented by a brutal overseer from doing so : this is the way that slaves are held for their own benefit, and to enable these fine, well dressed gentlemen to talk to us of regulating the exchanges of the nation by the production of cotton ! If there was but one such case, instead of ten thousand, it would be a sufficient reason for the abolition of slavery .----Yet such men as Dr. Bacon are deneuncing us for exposing the wickedness of the Board, while they take these lordlings by the hand. But, said Mr. S. in conclusion, the eyes of the people are upon you: your days are soon over: you will go to the judgment : and may God forgive you, for I never can, unless I see signs of genuine deep repentance.

ANSWER. It is said, "God spake to the fathers." But how did he speak to them ? "By the Prophets." It is also said that God has spoken in these last days. But how has he thus spoken ? "By his Son." In the same conversation it is said, God "made the worlds." But how did he make the worlds ? By his Son. Heb. i. 1, 2. It is said that God will judge the world. But how will he do it ? "Br that man whom he hath ordained." Acts xvii. 31. "God shall judge the secrets of men." How ? "By Jesus Christ." Rom. ii. 16. God created all things. But how did he do it 1 By the Word, John i. 3., or by his " dear Son." Col. i. 13-16. Paul explains this matter clearly. "For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth (for there be gods many and lords many), but unto us there is but One God, the Father, OF whom are all things and we in him, and One Lord, Jesus Christ, BY whom are all things, and we BY him." 1 Cor. viii. 5, 6, God is the original, and Christ the instrumental cause. God performs his work BY his Son. This makes the matter plain.

God is our Redeemer or Savior. But how does he are or redeem 1 Br his Son. For "he is able to are them to the ulternose that come unto God ar him." Heb. vii. 26. And God has exalted Christ, with his right hand—what for 1 "To be a Prince and a Savior," or Redeemer. Acts v. 31. God saves, or redeems, ar his Son. This clearly explains this matter.

God acted as a husband to the Jewish Church-Christ was not then manifested to the world, but now that he has come, God has "given him to be Head over all things to the Church." Eph. i. 23. " For the husband is the head of the twife, even as Christ is head of the church : and savior of the body." Eph. v. 33. Hence, in whatever sense Christ is the busband or head of the church, he is such by the appointment of his Fatter. The Lord enable "Inquirer," and him who answers the inquiries, to be among that number, who shall consultitue the Father, asying, "Behold, I and the children which thou has given me." Heb. ii. 13.

"Two Horned Beast."

The number of the beast, is the subject of investigation in this article.

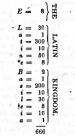

Some think that the number is to be found in the term of time which elayeed from the date of the formation of the league between the Java and Ro. fars, and them that hed "saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with mans, B. C. 156, and the fall of Paganism, in A. D. 506, which was just 606 years. This view we hin same, stand voor his image, and over the number of hin same, and not the houmber of years the beat is game, and not the houmber of years the beat is game, and not the houmber of years the beat existed, which we want to know. And, 2d. It is not the number of the name of the dragon, but of another beast which we are told to count.

Another class think the number of religious sects, in the world, constitute the number under consideration. This cannot be. lat. Because it is the number of the name, and not the number of sects, we are told to count. 24. No one has yet had wisdom sufficient to count just 666 religious, or so called Christian sects, for the vary good reason that that number has never existed. And, 3d. The sects are nowhere called the beast whose name is numbered.

It is the name of the beast or kingdom that is numbered. And by finding a kingdom, the name of no other kingdom will give this number, then we have found the kingdom which is the wicked subject of this prophecy. That "the Latin kingdom" is that very kingdom, and no other, we think is fully demonstrated, in Dr. Clarke's notes on this subject.— And as we have quoted freely from him in some of our previous numbers, we will let him speak on the question under consideration. After furnishing abundant evidence that the practice of representing numbers by letters, and names by numbers, existed in the days of the apostles, he says :

"Having thus shown that it was a practice in the apostolic age, and subsequently, to count the number in words and phrases, and even in whole verses, it will be evident that what is intended by 666 is, that the Greek name of the beast (for it was in the Greek language that Jeaue Christ communicated his Revelation to SL John) contains this numers, * * The beast is the Latin kingdom or empire; therefore, the Greek words signifying The Latin kingdom must have this number. The most concise method of expressing this among the Greeks was as follows: E Latine basileia, which is thus numbered—

"No other kingdom on earth can be found to contain 666. This is then e sophic, the wisdom, or demonstration. A beast is the symbolic f a kingdom; the beast has been proved, in the preceding part of this chapter, to be the Latin kingdom; and E Latine basileia being shown to contain, exclusively, the number 666, is the demonstration.

Having demonstrated that E Latine basilies, the Latin kingdom, is the name of the beast, we must now examine what is intended by the phrase in the 17th verse, the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Bishop Newton supposes that the name of the beast, and the number of his name, mean the same thing ; but this opinion is totally irreconcilable with chap. xr. 2, where SL. John informs us that he "saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fre, and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over the number of his name, stand upon the sea of glass, having the harps of God." In this passage it is evident "The Energy-mundred value 4. Lottlen Event 4.

And, 2d. It is that the beast, his image, and the number of his name, are perfectly distinct ; and therefore, no two of them can mean the same thing. Hence what is meant by the name of the beast is entirely different from that intended by the number of his name. But how can this be, when it is expressly declared that the number of the beast is 666, which number is declared to be that of his name 1 The solution of the whole mystery is as follows : both beasts of the Apocalypse, we have already shown, have the same appellation ; that is to say, the name of the first and second heast is equally E Latine basileia, the Latin kingdom ; therefore, by the name of the beast is meant the Latin kingdom, and by the number of his name is also meant the Latin kingdom. Hence only one of the beasts is numbered ; the name of that which is not numbered is termed the name of the beast, and the numbered Latin empire is denominated the number of his name, or 666, exactly agreeable to an ancient practice, already noticed, of representing names by the numbers contained in them. Therefore, the meaning of the whole passage is, that those whom the false prophet does not excommunicate, or put out of the pale of the church, have the mark of the beast, that is, are genuine Papists, or such as are actively or passively obedient to his Latin idolatry. Those also escape his ecclesiastical interdicts who have the name of the beast, or the number of his name. By a person having the name of the beast is evidently meant his being a Latin, i. e. in subjection to the Latin empire ; and, consequently, an individual of the Latin world ; therefore, those that have the name of the beast, or the number of his name, are those that are subjects of the Latin empire, or of the numbered Latin empire, viz. who are in subjection to the Latin empire, secular or spiritual. All that were in subjection to the secular or spiritual power were not Paniste in heart hence the propriety of distinguishing those which have the mark from those which have the name of the beast, or the number of his name. But which of the two beasts it is which God has numbered, has been not a little contested .--That it is the first beast which is numbered has been the prevailing opinion. On this side are Lord Napier, Whiston, Bishop Newton, Faber, and others. Among those that have supposed the second beast to be the one which is numbered are Dr. Henry More, Pyle, Kershaw, Galloway, Bicheno, Dr. Hales, &c. Dr. Gill and Reader assert that both beasts have the same number, and that the name is Lateinos. Though it has been demonstrated that the name of the beast is the Latin kingdom, it is impossible, from the mere name, to say whether it is the Latin empire secular or spiritual ; hence the necessity of determining which of the two beasts God has computed. That it is the second beast which is numbered is evident from three different passages in the Apocalypse. The first is in chan. xiji, 17, where it is said "that no man might buy or sell save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name." Here the name of the beast is mentioned before the number of his name, which is a presumptive evidence that the name of the beast refers to the first beast, and the number of his name to the second. The second passage is in chap. xv. 2, where mention is made of "them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over the number of his name." That here styled the beast is evidently the secular Latin empire ; for it was to this that the two-horned bcast made an image; consequently there can be no doubt that the number of his name, or the numbered Latin empire, is the two-homed of God are represented as getting the victory over the beast, as well as over the number of his name, which is a proof that two distinct antchristian empires are here spoken of, for otherwise it would be tautology. That the two-horned beast is the one which is numbered is farther evident from a comparison of this passage with chapter xix. 20. In the latter passage the words are-" And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet, that wrought miracles before him, with which he de ceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image." Here nothing is said of the number of his name, which is so particularly mentioned in chap. xv. 2, and in that chapter nothing is mentioned of the false prophet : the reason of which can only be, that what is termed in one passage the number of his name, is in its parallel one called the false prophet. Hence the two-horned beast, or false prophet, is also designated by the phrase, the number of his name : and consequently, it is this beast which is numbered. But what adds the last degree of certainty to this argument is the passage in chap. xiii. 18. "Here is wisdom. Let him that hath a mind count the number of the beast ; for it is the number of a man : and his number is Six hundred three score and six."-Here is the solution of this mystery ; let him that hath a mind for investigations of this kind, find out a kingdom which contains precisely the number 666 ; for this must be infallibly the name of the beast. E Latine Basileia, THE LATIN KING-DOM, has exclusively this number. But both beasts are called by this name ;-which is, therefore, the one that is numbered ? It is said the number of the beast is the number of a man ; consequently the numbered beast must be A MAN, that is, it must be represented elsewhere in the Revelation under this emblem, for in no other sense can an empire be denominated a man. Therefore it is not the ten-horned heast, for this is uniformly styled The Beast in every part of the Apocalypse where there has been occasion to mention this power. It can, therefore, be no other than the two-horned beast, or Romish hierarchy ; which, on account of its preaching to the world its most antichristian system of doctrines, and calling it Christianity, is likewise named in chap. xvi. 13, xix. 20, and xx. 10, THE FALSE PROPHET.

The Canse.

We are happy to say that the cause in many places is prospering. In this city, the saints are much revived, some prodigals have confessed their wanderings, and our congregations are large and attentive. Bro. D. I. Robinson is at his post, and doing well for the cause. Brn. Pinney and Bywater are trying to introduce the cause into Batavia, the county-seat of Geneses county. A good beginning has been made, and we hope to hear of much good being done. Bro. J. D. Prudden is breaking new ground in town of Clarkson, near twenty miles from this city. Quite an interest has been waked up, and the prospect of doing good was quite encouraging.

New fields, and there are many, are places where most good can now be done. We hope others will break out, beyond their old beaten paths, and see what can be done for those who have never heard the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand. And we exhort those who have long been fed with the Word and have the means to contribute freely and bountifully to aid in commencing the good work in new places. Our brethren who engage in this work need pecuniary aid. Who will help them ?

We have cheering letters from different parts of the country, that sinners, in small numbers, are usual, three times on the Sabbath, and on Tuesday turning to God. The scanty gleanings of the har- and Friday evenings.

vest are evidently being gathered in. Steadfastness in the faith, generally characterizes the saints who are looking for that blessed hope. The Lord strengthen us all anew for the good work before us -unite our hearts more strongly in his love, and soon gatherus with all the true heirs, into his peaceful and everlasting kingdom.

"THE GREAT APOSTACY."- A worthy brother sometime since suggested the propriety of our saying distinctly, that the sentiments contained in our articles on the Great Apostacy were our awn, and not designed to be presented as the sentiments of our brethren generally. This we most cheerfully say; and wish it ever after understood, that all out sentiments which we may publish or teach, we view in the same light. We palm them upon no. man, and condemn no man for rejecting them, if he can see no evidence of their being according to troth

We have heard of no complaint, only from the Herald, and we think it should be quiet on the matter, until it shows, or attempts to do so, from the word of the Lord, wherein they are incorrect. This finding fault with a sentiment, without attempting to show wherein it is faulty, is not the better way. we think, to arrive at a knowledge of the truth.

We request all who can obtain then, to read those articles again ; they will bear a second caroful reading. And when you have done this, show us their defect, if you see any-our columns are freely open to a friendly investigation of the matter.

Remember These Things.

1. When a person becomes sensitive in a controversy, verbal or written, and calls hard names, impugns the motive, and assails the character of his opponent, it is a sure evidence that he either does not understand, or is not actuated by the principles of sound philosophy ; for it is not good philosophy to become angry, and do wrong, in any case. It is said somewhere that some of the heathen philoso phers considered it great weakness and folly to become angry under any circumstances whatever .-" Soft words and hard arguments," are according to the principles of sound philosophy.

2. When a person indulges a bitter spirit, and deals in unkind and criminating words, he does not possess the spirit of Christ : for it teaches us to love even our enemies, and much more a brother that love worketh no ill to a neighbor-to judge not -condemn not, and to be kindly affectioned one to another, in love preferring one another.

3. When a person yields to anger, and indulges in harsh denunciatory words, it is a sure evidence that he feels the weakness of his own cause, does not understand bow to defend it, or has no better arguments to sustain it. A wise disputant will always present his best, his strongest, his most weighty and convincing evidences; and if he deals chiefly in unkind and criminating words, it is quite certain ho is lacking in sound logical and scriptural argument.

Remember these things, in deciding what is and what is not truth. Never were you in greater danger of being deceived than now ! Let no man deceive you ! Nothing but the truth, and those who love and obey it, will abide the day of the Lord's coming.

Shall it be done, and in season to reduce the price of the next volume to the very low sum of fifty cents ? It can, and will, if all exert themselves to accomplish the good work.

Remember that the terms of this volume are sepenty-five cents, in advance, to old and new subscribers. One active agent has sent over twenty names, but no pay. We thank him for this act, but still it will never do for us to do business in this way. ' As a general rule the pay must accompany the names of all new subcribers.

IF Jan. 31st, soon after the going down of the sun, the western horizon was so lit up with the appearance of a great conflagration, that the fire-bells in this city were rung and the engines called out, before the cause of the alarm was ascertained.

If such appearances are causes of an alarm, what must be the terror that will be produced, when the heavens shall really be "on fire," in the great and terrible day of the Lord ! O, sinner, prepare to meet that day, for it will surely come ! It is near, and basteth greatly !

Why does Religion still Decline ?

"The low state of religion has for some time been made a topic of frequent discussion through the various channels of communication. The evangelical press in every part of our country has called the attention of Christians to the subject in almost every form in which it can be presented ; and thus many thousands who profess to love the Church of God and the souls of men more than any other object, have had the desolations of Zion laid before them, and have been entreated to awake from their spiritual slumbers, seek their first love, and do their first works, and thus secure once more the reviving influences of the Holy Spirit. Synods, Presbyteries, and other ecclesiastical bodies have taken the subject into earnest consideration, professed to humble themselves before God, passed solemn resolutions, renewed their consecration to the service of their Lord, and sent down their acts to the churches and urged their members to unite with them in returning to God, and in secking a restoration of the joys of his salvation. The ministers of Christ have, also lifted up their voices in the sacred desk, showing the people their transgressions, and the house of Is rael their sins. And some individual Christians have been faithful to their brethren, exhorting them to labors of love and prayers of faith. Now what is the result of all this ? Watchman, what of the night ? Has the morning come ? Or does the night still hang dark and heavy over Zion ? Here and there a single church may have discovered some glimerings of light. But as a general fact, the church still sits in darkness, and the region and shadow of death !

"What shall be done ? It is sometimes said that it is not wise to hold up a dark picture long, nor to be true in many cases, but this forms an exception. What did the ancient prophets do in a like case !-Did they cease to entreat Israel to return to God be cause their messages were unheeded, and the people What does God do ! Does he would not return 1 cease to call upon his people to return to him while they continue their wanderings ? When such is the fact, look out for terrible judgments. When God said of Ephriam, "Let him alone," his doom is sualed. We trust, then, that the evangelical press, that ecclesiastical associations, that ministers individually, that all who have a heart to weep over the desolations of Zion, and to pray for her prosperity, will not cease to use their efforts to bring the church at large to a sense of its condition and its guilt .-Let them not for Zion's sake, hold their peace, and for Jerusalem's sake not rest, until the righteousness thereof go forth as brightness and the salvation thereof as as a lamp that burneth.

But why has what has been done produced so little effect ! Why has the action of ecclesiastical bodies during the last year fallen to the ground as a dead letter ? Take for instance, what was done by the Cincinnati Synod last fall. The readers of the Watchman will recollect the paper adopted by that body as an expression of its views and feelings ;one of the most positive and solemn documents ever adopted by any body of Christians. What has become of it ? What have been the results ? God has doubtless kept it in remembrance, and will bring it up in the great day. Perhaps good is yet to come of it. It is not yet too late. We hope it will be called to remembrance by the ministers and churches laid to heart. and "Perhaps the Achan who troubles the camp of Israel has not yet been discovered, or if discovered, has not been slain. Perhaps there are sins yet to has not been sharn. Furthers there are such yet to be put away, that must be put away before the re-viving spirit can consistently return. Which will you have—your sins and spiritual death ? or boli-ness and spiritual life ? Let each one answer for himself.

Thus speaks the Watchman of the Valley, for Jan. 13th. It deeply pains our heart while we read the mournful lamentation. And what adds to our sorrow is the fact that the churches are blind to the cause of their leanness, coldness and spiritual death, and consequently know not how to remove these sore evils. Scores of their ministers have covenanted to pray for the return of the spirit; the whole world have been called upon to pray for the same blessing-days of fasting and of prayer have been set apart for the same purpose ; sermons have been preached and addresses published. But "what has become" of them all ? "What has been the result? God has doubtless kept it in remembrance." Yes, doubtless he has ; but not in order to bless with gracious answers of mercy, but to frown upon all such efforts. His TRUTH, relative to the Second Advent of Christ, has been rejected ; and nothing but his displeasure can reasonably be expected. O that the people would be wise, and understand what this state of things clearly indicates, viz : that we are in the last days, when the church is turned away from the truth unto fables, and the end of all things is near.

dwell upon a painful subject continually. This may the dates encompassed within the 2,300 years may be accurately ascertained.

> It is evident that the Cross must stand in the middle of Daniel's last of 70 weeks ; if "in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease," means that he was at that time crucified. That being the fact, then, the commandment "went forth" on the 1st day of the 1st month, 4861 years previous to that event, which must have been the first day of Abib, (Ez. vii. 9,) 453 B. C., consequently, according to Bible reckoning, our Lord was baptized on the 1st day of A. D. 80, and crucified A. D. 331, and at the true A. D. 331 immovably stands the Cross. And 31 years after which completes the confirming of the covenant, which fills up the 70 weeks, or 490. Then of the 2,300 years there remain 1810 years. The question arises, when will these end ? Ans. At the Crown, just 18131 years from the Cross-if Dan. xii. 12 stands corrected with Dan. xii. 13. Now add the true age of Christ, 331 years, to 18131, and it amounts to 1847 from the birth of Christ. Or add 453 B. C., (Abib, which answers to our vernal equinox,) to 1847 Abib, and it makes 2,300 years, which must end at the next vernal equinor. or according to our present mode of reckoning, the coming spring.

FROM BRO. F. M'WILLIAMS.

DEAR BRO, MARSH :- There is one doctrine which I will name (though all are precious) which you have presented faithfully in your paper, called the unconscious state of the dead and the final destiny of the wicked. Some of our brethren have looked upon this doctrine as unimportant, and its presentation calculated to divide and distract the children of God ; but I differ, in the spirit of love and kindness, from this view, and thisk the reverse. In my esti mation it is of great moment, and never was it more mation it is of great moment, and never was it more needed than at the present. It shows most conclu-sively that eternal life cannot be realized until the coming of Christ. That then alone immortality shall be given, and that Abraham, isaac and Jacob, the prophets, the apostles and faithful in every acc, are now sleeping in Jeaus, not having received the promises—and cannot, according to Paul, until the whole family of the redeemed are brought together whole namity of the reacented are brought together at the resurrection. Helv xi. 39, 40. I most solemnly believe that God meant as he said, when he said, "The soul that simeth it shall die" — "The wages of an is death; but he git of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord".— "He that believeth on the Son hath life ; but he that believeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him"-and other like sayings, too many to cite here. Otherwise, the Bible would be no revelation, and would be at the mercy and ingenuity of every designing expositor, and we might have a thousand meanings for the plainest Scripture. I solemnly believe that the Scriptures as we have them are divinely inspired and a perfect rule of faith and practice, and that I am not under the necessity of appealing to the fathers, the councils of past ages -to the Pope, any Archibishop, Bishop, Priest, Min-isters, Advent Lecturer, or any other man, to obtain their true sense ; but they perfectly explain them-

FROM REO. L. P. JUDSON.

DEAR BRO. MARSI :--- I have recently visited Por fret, Millville, Salem and Buffalo, and found the brethren in all these places strong in the faith and looking for the coming of our blessed Lord. Bro. Crawford is located at Millville and occasionally preaches in the vicinity. He is laboring to the great acceptance of the brothren. Many without hope are also glad to hear the word and in instances have extended invitations to him to preach to them. In extended invitations to him to preach to them. In the meetings I had the privilege of attending, a good spirit seemed to prevail, and I believe, with proper efforts, scole might be brought to embrace the Lord and rejoice in the truth. Bro. Crawford has to "its how working with his handit" to support his family. Have all done what the Lord would have them do in

In Buffalo, also, I found a good state of feeling. The congregation which is now enjoying the labors of Bro. C. B. Turner, is increasing, and the saints are waiting not indifferently but patiently, I hope, for the return of their Lord.

I believe the whole region is more accessible to I believe the whole region is more accession to the word than formerly, unless I must except the larger villages and principal towns. These, with some exceptions seem to remain much prejudiced : but in the country places the mass of the people are generally accessible. Perhaps it would be well for lecturers to bear this in mind. Is it so in other plaease 1 May it not be that in those more densely pop-ulated places where we have generally preached, the people have neglected so much light that there is people have neglected so much light that there are less hope among them than among those in other societies 1 If so, then it is plain where wisdom would direct our efforts. Yours hopping, L. P. Junson.

FROM BRO. W. WHITE.

DEAB DRO. MARSH:-The cause here is very low at present. We have had no preaching since last fall. Our prayer is that God would direct some faithful servant this way who will not shun to de-clare the whole counsel of God. How thankful we ought to be that God has in mercy given us the Bible, that we may learn his love to us and the redemp tion wrought by his Son, and the final glory that is yet to be revealed! O bless the Lord, for he is good! I love his truth and his children. I love to bear reproach of believing all that is aponen of second well as the blessing for obeying him. It is enough for a servant to be as him Lord. If we suffer with him we shall reign with him. What though we be him we shall reign with him. reviled for our hope, and he called the base ones of the earth, because we cherish the faith of Jesus' speedy personal advent ? can all this injure us ! No, -for who is he that can harm us if we be followers of that which is good ? Surely God will vindi-cate his truth and justify those who honor him by believing and obeying it. Let us daily humble ourbelieving and obeying it. Let us daily hun selves and keep near to God and the Bible. d keep near to too and the Yours in the bonds of love, WM. WRITE.

EXTRACTS OF LETTERS.

Bro. T. Hadley, Fingal, C. W., Jan. 3d, writes : "The Harbinger contains meat in due season to all sincere lovers of truth. I was brought from darkness to light under the second advent doctrine in '43, and I am still strong in the faith of the speedy coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

Bro. W. Cowdery, Woodstock, Vt., Jan. 3d, writes :

it brings glad tidings of our coming King. May the Lord support and direct you in all your trials, and keep you unto his coming and kingdom."

Bro. B. Irish, New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 7th, writes :

"I have been satisfied for a long time, that the tand you have taken in regard to the advent, end of the wicked, and other kindred doctrines, is cleariy supported by Bible testimony."

Bro. L. Dudley, Perry's Mills, N. Y., Jan. 4th, rites :

"The kingdom is yet to come, with all the im-mortal joys we have been anticipating. Therefore let us be patient in tribulation, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. O let us watch and be sober, and pray always, that we may be accounted worthy to stand before the Son of man. Blessed are they who do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life and enter in through the gates into the city of the New Jerusalem. It is a great thing to be ready to be changed in a moment. O may we be sanctified through the spirit and truth. I have been disappointed a number of times, but my faith has never been shaken in the doctrine of the apcedy advent of Christ.

DIED, in Bloomingville, on the 5th inst., Bro. BEN-

JAMIS BALLEY, aged about 34 years, When quite young he enlisted in the cause of Christ and fived according to his profession. He was a thorough investigator of every principle which was brought to bear upon his mind. In an early day he canvassed the doctrine of the speedy coming of our blessed Lord. He saw its truth and received t with joy; and until his derth was an uncompro-mising advocate of its truth in all of its hearings But a few moments before he died, he told his wife not to weep, "for," soid he, "our separation will be but short. Jesus will soon come, I shall awake and we shall meet—only be faithful."

Our little society in Bloomingville has met with a great loss; we realize it. But wo feel there is something for us to do. We have depended too much upon our beloved brother. May the Lord di-rect us in all his ways and lead his children into all truth. Sister Balley receives the blow with Christian fortitude. #### No Tears in Heaven.

What if our bark o'er life's rough wave By adverse winds be driven, And howling tempests round us rave, There are no tears in Heaven.

What though affliction he our lot. Our hearts with anguish riven. Still let it never be forgot There are no tears in Heaven.

If sweetest joys here vanish all, And fade like hues at even : Our brightest hopes like meteors fall-

There are no tears in Heaven.

The mourner sad, who drown'd in grief Hath long in sorrow striven, Shall find at last a sweet relief, Tears wiped away in Heaven.

Thou, God, our joy and rest shall be, And sorrow far be driven ; And sin and death forever flee The tearless courts of Heaven

There from the blooming Tree of Life, The healing fruit is given ;

Yes ! There shall cense the painful strife-There are no tears in Heaven.

"Seventy Times Seven."

A converted Spanish monk, named Ramon Monalvatge, has become a coloriteur. One day, I went to the house, and told him I had ta-ken the liberty to call and offer him the Word of God. 'Ah' said he, 'I know you ; I have heard of you. 'You are a worthless fellow.' Very true, I registed. Ifed that more and him have hear replied, I feel that more and more ; and this book has repied, I feel that more and more; and thus book has taught me what I am, and who is that Savior whom I needed. And it has afforded me such cossolation and instruction.....' He did not allow me to finish, but in his fury gave me aviolent kick, and drove me from his house. I went away; but the next day I returned. The last time, enraged at my perseverence, he gave me a blow which three me down, and injured me so as to force me to remain in my room for several days. On the first day I could leave the house, having heard that the wife of him who had repulsed me so heard that the wife of him who had regimted me as often was sick. I again resolved to wint him. When we had done so I took the Testament and read a chapter, to which he paid the most serious attention. His wife also received me with the greatest kind-ness. #### Slavery in Kentucky.

Position of the Clergy and Laity .- A correspon-dent of the Christian Watchman, a Baptist paper dent of the Unistian Watchman, a Baptwei paper published in Boston—by no means ultra on aboli-tionism—in describing his tour through the State of Kentucky, makes the following statement relaof Kentucky, makes the following statement rela-tive to the position of the clergy in that State on the great subject of emancipation : "That day is hastening fast. Not only has the morning star appeared, but it is becoming lost in the radiance which breaks from the rising sun of The friends of emancipation are increasfreedom. ing in wisdom, strength, determination and in num bers. Persons of almost every class are joining them, although with various degrees of knowledge, boldness and decision. A very intelligent Ken-tuckian, a zealous advocate of this cause, observed to me that it was comparatively easy to win over to me that it was comparatively easy to win over to his views the influence of laymen, of statesmen, jurists and others, but that the clergy secmed to be most impervious of all to the force of argument on this subject, and that those of my own denomination furnish no exception to this remark. The spirit of my informant appeared to be mild and can-did, and I was sorry to be unable to refute or modi ind, and I was sorry to be unuse to result of mout-ity his testimony. A last it is to to true. The min-isters of Christ have hereby placed thomselves in a false position in the sight of mankind; for having become occupied with the discussion of the question of slavery theologically, and in efforts to prove that it is not necessarily a sin, intelligent laymen who have been looking at that question in the lights of have been looking at that question in the lights of philosophy and political seconomy, have gotten far in advance of their religious teachers, and where hu-man freedom is the theme, humanity scars above Christi anity."

The Primitive Faith.

The following facts are worthy of note :

1. That while the primitive Church retained her greatest simplicity of faith, and purity of life, and spirit of martyrdom, the premillennial coming of Christ, for the establishment of his kingdom on the earth, was extensively and generally received, and used for the purposes of holy living. 2. That the very best evidences of dissent from it, appear among those who attempted to unite philos phy with Christianity, and to adapt the truths of Scripture to the decisions of human reason.

That it was not till Cerinthus and other here-3. tics, had perverted and given a sensual gloss to the millennarian doctrine, and the notions of Origen and other converts from Platonism, as to the nature of boliness, had undergone a very important change, that opposition to millennarian views began to find favor. In the first and second centuries, boliness was understood to be, as it is in truth, the love of God and of man, regulating the feelings of men and all their senses, appetites, and actions. There was nothing felt to be sinful in the senses and appetites, but on regard the appetites themselves as sinful, and to make holinees to consist in sexual chastity, celibacy, virginity, only to be perfectly attained by the exti-pation of the appetites, and liberation from the body. pation of the appetites, and liberation from the body. It was a false philosophy therefore, against which the aposties warned the church, and which they pre----dicted would corrupt it, that excited prejudices against the millennarian doctrine, and prepared the for its rejection.

way for its rejection. 4. That even when those prejudices, engendered a. Instruction when those prejudices, engendered by a false philosophy, had been excited, still success did not crown the attempt to get rid of mil-lennarian doctrine, till a style of interpretation was introduced, sanctioned and worked into a system, which actually rendered the sacred Scriptures use-less to common people, and prepared the way for their becoming the exclusive possession of the priests.

5. And that it became necessary, on the part of the first opposers, to deny or to doubt the canonical authority of the Book of the Revelation, or practically and sceptically to reject, and to undervalue a portion of the Word of God, from the beginning admitted to be genuine and of divine authority, and especially commen -Dissert. p. 226. nended to our study and valuation.

A Great Contrast.

The streets, this morning, were full of green-coated, gloved and booted men, hurrying with their red acces to their warm counting houses and stores, and we saw a pretty young girl of the tender age of nime or ten, with her bare feet and arms, and an old sack on her thinly clad shoulders, into which she was through the bits of straw and dirty paper which she raked out of the gutters. Nobody stopped to gaze on the strange slight; but it is not a strange one, and that is the reason why nobody's hair stood one and at seeing it; and it will holody a man store employed in such a manner, earning her poor break-fast doubless, and then to see the well clad crowd rush past without speaking to her, and to see the ruen past without speaking to her, and to see the tall church steeplos, the great Tract Society's house, the Missionary rooms, the Bible house, and the com-fortable homes into which murderers and robbers are put, was enough to make one turn a Fourierite.-N. #### [For the Borbinger.] Bostrine of Aneness.

It seems strange to me that it is necessary to use long arguments and the best reasoning to prove to enlightened and well educated men that it is impossible for three distinct and infinite persons to be but one person, and that it does not take three infinite persons to make one infinite Being or God ; yet they seem not to see or understand it. Some say there are three persons and only one being-a distinction without any difference, for one person is one being, and three persons are three beings, however much it may be denied. It would be just as proper to say twice two are four, and twice four but two, as to say that three are one.

How many hung on the words of Christ in John x. 3, "I and my Father are one," to prove that Christ and God are one person. But Christ does not say that he and his Father are one person, nor mean so ; soither can it be inferred, only by taking a single isolated passage : for by reading the context you will see he denied being God, but declared himself to be the Son of God, anointed and sent into the world.

Again, the same being, even Christ, says of a man and a woman, when married, "They twain occasionally) the conversation an much as they ever were, although they are one partiality, and without hypocrisy." in sentiment, (or should be,) and so are God and Christ one in Spirit.

Read John xvi. 25-30. In yerse 29 his disci-ples tell him he speaketh plainly and not hy a proverb-after telling them her came out from God," &c.

1 Cor. iii. 6, 8, Paul declares that he and Apollos are one. Does he mean they are but one being, although they are two persons 1 Who believes he does I yet it is just as fair to say so as to say that the Father and the Son are but one being. Now his mind was this : we are one in Christ, one in sentiment, &c.

Again, John xvii. 21, 22, Christ prayed that his disciples (plural) might all be one, even as he and his Father are one. Consequently, if some reason correctly, then Christ and all his disciples. whether few or many, were but one being, (John xvii. 21). Man and wife are but one being.-Man and an harlot are one body, to Cor. vi. 16).

Again, Paul says, 1 Cor. xi. 3, that Christ has a head or superior, just as much as man or woman has; for says he, "I would have you know that the head of every man is Christ; and the head of the woman is the man ; and the head of Christ is God."

The quotations and reasons might be lengthened out to fill volumes, but it is not necessary. The fact that Christ is sometimes called by names applied to the Father, does not alter the case any more than the following ones do : Joshua is called Jesus, and Christ is called David, and Moses was called God. A. N. BENTLEY. Greenville, N. Y., Jan., 1848.

> [For the Harbinger ] Purity.

1 Tim. iv. 12. "Let no man despise thy youth; but he thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity." Every minister of the gospel ought to feel the importance of this charge, and bow to its authority as much as though it were made directly to him, from God himself, without any intervening agency. Even aged ministers need beware lest "in word" or "spirit" they give occasion for others to despise their age. Who could help despising the stage actor, if, in the public walks of life, he should attempt to copy into his conversation and habits the Bible rule for "the man of God" 1 Neither could one refrain from despising either youth or age, if to the profession

(two) shall be one flesh, that they shall be no stage actor. But purity seems to be a crowning more twain but one flesh," (repeated). See Mat. accomplishment in the character of the Christian xix. 5, 6. Now will any say they are but one minister. In becoming pure he is prepared to being ? I think not; yet the language is as receive that rich gift of wisdom which "is first plain as the other, or as our language can make pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be en it. They are two persons and two beings, as treated, full of mercy and good fruits, without

> It is true that even those whom God has chosen to preach his gospel are men "subject to like ( passions" with other Christians ; and yet it is just as true that they are required to be examples to the believers in word, spirit, faith and PURITY. Do they feel their infirmities and sins besetting them like thorns on every hand ? Let them cry to God until the ancient promise, " My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness," is written upon their hearts. But in order to gain this help it must be sought with an intelligent an unwavering purpose immediately to abandon all modes of thinking, speaking or acting, which are impure in themselves or tend to impurity. God loves purity, and will not leave his servants to seek it single handed. Nay, he will not let them rest unless they seek it with all the heart. Those who willingly and faithfully feed the flock of God, being ensamples to the flock, have held out to them, one of the highest prizes in the gift of God-"A crown of glory that fadeth not away."

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- Little has been gleaned from history relating to the personal appearance of our coming Savior, while he was a sojourner upon the earth. I copy from a book called the Gospel Harmony, a description of the person of our Savior, as it was found in an ancient manuscript, sent by Publius Lentulus, President of Judea, to the Senate of Rome.

"Thou art fairer than the children of men; grace is poured into thy lips; therefore God bath blessed thee forever."-Psa. xlv. 3.

- "I'll speak the honors of my King, His form divinely fair ;
- None of the sons of mortal race
- May with the Lord compare.
- "Sweet is thy speech ; and heavenly grace Upon thy lips is shed ;
- Thy God, with blessings infinite,

Hath crowned thy sacred head."-WATTS.

"And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotton of the Father, full of grace and truth."-John i. 14.

the immortal God. He is endowed with such unparalleled virture, as to call back the dead from their graves, and to heal every kind of disease with a word, or touch. His person is tall, and Father: we are the clay, and thou our Potter : elegantly shaped ; his aspect amiable and reverend; his hair flows in those beauteous shades, which no united colors can match, falling in graceful curls below his ears, agreeably couching on forehead is smoth and large ; his cheek without 'either spot, save that of lovely red ; his nose and mouth are formed with exquisite symmetry; his beard is thick, and suitable to the hair of his head, reaching a little below his chin, and parting in the middle, like a fork ; his eyes are bright, clear, and serene. He rebukes with mildness, and invites with the most tender and persuasive language ; his whole address, whether word or deed, being elegant, grave, and strictly characteristic of so exalted a being. No man has seen him laugh, but the whole world beholds him weep frequently ; and so persuasive are his tears, that the whole multitude cannot withhold their tears from joining in sympathy with him. He is very modest, temperate and wise ; in short, whatever this phenomenon may turn out in the end, he seems, at present, to be a man of excellent beauty, and divine perfections, every way surpassing the childrep of men."

[For the Harbinger.] "A Thorn in the Flesh."

2 Cor. xii, 7-11. "And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan, to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee : for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in mine infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake : for when I am weak, then am I strong .-I am become a fool in glorying: ye have com pelled me : for I ought to have been commended of you : for in nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles, though I BE NOTHING."

"God is love"; and he says, "As many as I love. I rebuke and chasten." God visited Paul with some very severe trials in order to save him from pride. Since "pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall," and since God knew the danger to which Paul was exposed, it was an evidence of oure love, that God should, as it were, thrust a thorn into the flesh of his servant thus exposed to a great sin and a great fall.

The Lord had caught his servant up, and now he must cast him down, as the potter does the clay,. Psa. cii. 9, 10. "For I have eaten ashes like bread, and mingled my drink with weeping; because of thine indignation and thy wrath : for Drew now. We give his questions however, that thou hast lifted me up, and cast me down."-Isa. lxiv. 8, 9. "But now, O Lord, thou art our and we all are the work of thy hand. Be not wroth very sore, O Lord, neither remember iniquity forever : behold, see, we beseech thee, we are all thy people." Men great in goodness have his shoulders, and parting on the crown of his great afflictions. No doubt every child of God head ; his dress of the sect of the Nazarite ; his has, or has had, "a thorn in the flesh," And perhaps they are, or have been, very slow even to pray (in the true spirit of prayer, which always adds, "Not my will but thine, O God, he done,") that it might be taken away. Some times perhaps they will go for months or years, either openly or in heart, grieving, mourning, if not murmuring and fretting against God for his love to them.

Possibly the readers of these lines, if Christians have some very severe trials resulting from some situation or relation in life, which if they could get changed or altered to their minds, they flatter themselves they should then serve God like angela.

But it is often very hard to discern the hand of God in our trials until afterwards. Many will say, "It is the devil and wicked men who are the source of my trials. Well that is nearly the language of scripture-" a messenger of Satan"-only add "there was given" to it. The reason for the "messenger" being given is sufficient evidence that God, who is love, sent it, although it was or Satan." Now for the triumph : "Most gladift merefore will I rather glory in mine infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me." B. M.

BRO. MARSH :- Are you established in the be lief that there will be a thousand years between the resurrection of the just and of the unjust 1-If so, must not the wicked come up out of the new earth 1 for when God appears upon the great white throne, the earth passes away, and no place is found for it-heaven also. How is the sea to give up its dead, when in fact there is no more sea ? You also believe, if I understand you, that the wicked will come up on the earth at the expiration of the one thousand years, headed by their old deceiver, and that they will come round the beloved city, which must be on the new earth of course, and that fire will come down from God out of heaven and devour them, which is their final end. Amen. If so, when are they cast into the lake of fire, which is the second death, in which they are all to have their part ! Do any of the wicked die in this lake ? If so, give us the evidence. #### For the Harbinger. Physical and Philosophical Bensonings.

Every body knows that if the various organs of the human body do not perform the offices assigned them by nature, the system will be in an unhealthy condition. All the materials which compose the human body, are manufactured by the organs of the stomach, and distributed throughout the entire system by the various organs which nature has designed for that work. Unless the machinery of the stomach is in order, it is clear that the materials thus distributed through the system will be of that nature to produce an imperfect body; and the various organs to which is assigned this work of distribution, will be taxed to perform a greater work than they are able: for nature and reason teach us that no organ of the body is capable of acting perfectly upon fluids or substances, not perfected by the first cause, viz., the organs of the stomach.

Therefore the habits of men, in eating and drinking, the kind of food, time of eating, neglect of the right kind of exercise, state of the mind, &c., is often the cause of irritation to the organs of the stomach. Hence, there are but very few men not affiicted with any complaint, but all men are more or less unhealthy, and their systems are in a more or less deranged condition. If the excretory organs are not in a perfect condition, the impurities necessarily engendered within the system, by an indiscreet course of life, will produce and aggravate disease in some part of the body. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that the excretory or outward organs, i. e. organs of the skin, &c., should be retained in as perfect a condition as possible, if men would be free from the evils of disease; for unless the impurities of the system are permitted to pass of, disease is the inevitable result.

From years of close observation of the effects of the weather upon individuals laboring under infirmities of various kinds, viz., rheumatism, gout, nervousness, &c., &c., the writer is convinced, by arguments irrefutable, that a thorough steaming of the body has a tendency to loosen the entire system, and open the excretory organs, and thus permit the impurities to pass off.

That system of medical science which oppose the idea, that in proportion to the fierceness of the disease the blood is impure, is proved to be founded upon untenable principles, from the aumerous examples and cures that are being consummated. Where do those impurities come from that are seen upon every part of the we sheet into which the patient has been confined sufficiently long to loosen the system and open the excretory organs ? It may be said those impurifies came from the place where the disease was located. But if that even be admitted, ( which is inadmissible,) it shows that the power of water upon the system is sufficient to draw or cause the disease to pass off from the organs of the skin; the pores, or the excretory organs. The writer is of the opinion that most of the physical ailings scientifically styled diseases, are not dis-but which effects men just in proportion as they violate the laws of nature, and neglect to conform to those principles which will prevent the physical ailings by which many are afflicted. If men do not conform to the laws of nature, this princi ple of mortality will locate itself upon the weak est part of the system. Hence in all families each member is afflicted with some ailing, but not all alike. If physicians were more anxious to teach men the art of preserving health, there would be less need of their medicine. The most perfect system of medicine is evidently that which is the most simple. Perhaps none of those eases, but a disease, to which all men are subject, ailings often denominated diseases are incurable. however aggravated. Contagious diseases or plagues, such as the cholera, small pox, black tongue, and numerous other diseases, are exceptions to what are generally termed diseases. Consumption, and like complaints, are evidently not so incurable as they are represented to be. QUERIST.

The Beluge of Wruth to the Impenitent.

INSENSIBILITY OF THE WORLD TO THE WARNING VOICE OF CHRIST.

If the prospect of the future be bright and consoling to the true Christian, so ought it to be dark and oppressive to the unbelieving and impenitent. The glory of God will receive its twofold manifestation in the awards of justice, and in the gifts of mercy. The time of vindication at length will come. During many a long year, the name of Christ has afforded occasion to the exercise of mockery, contempt and superstition. Recognized in the theory of society, whether political or ecclesiastical, he is practically despised ; and the principles of worldly policy supersede his councils, and nullify his decisions. The majority of nominal Christians are utterly careless of their responsibility to his tribunal, and expect the course of the world still to proceed in the same manner as it has done from age to age. In vain the Scriptures announce a limited period to the forbearance of God; in vain they call for repentance, and faith, and godliness; in vain they proclaim a day in which God will judge the world in righteousness, by that august Ruler, " whose goings forth are from everlasting, whereof God hath given assurance unto all men in that he hath raised him from the dead." A deathlike torpor and incredulity rests upon the human soul, and all the judgments and mercies of the Almighty make no impression. In private life, tear chases tear, and death succeeds to death ; but no man learns wisdom, save the despised saint whom God deigns to enlighten and to bless. In public life, wars and commotions, pestilence and earthquakes, anarchy and blood, attest, during humiliation and godliness, are conditions of pub of sensuality, the progress of licentiousnes, nor lic life unfelt, unseen, contemned. If there be a the noise of mirth- "They ate, they drank; commercial greatness, for intellectual progress, were in their feasts. They formed alliances, they pands the enactments of legislation to the multiplied interests of the citizen, it contracts their influence over the acknowledged rights of God. On this matter of human action, man is everything-God is disregarded : his name, indeed, is upon the tongue, and his authority is registered upon the page of the public liturgy ; but his will, his decisions, his warnings, and his promises, are mere matters of cold speculation or occasional excitement. Only in the day of sorrow, sickness or death, there may be a transient reference to the mercy of God; but it is the refuse offering which the world will no longer ask for, nor receive-the approaching day of Christ, the results of his incarnation, his connection with man kind, the responsibility to him incurred by talent, wealth, influence, rank and power.

These ideas are all rejected as illiberal and enenthusiastic. The secondary interests of man chase away his primary necessities from his sight, and three score years of life are preferred to eternity : the care of the body is preferred to that of the soul, and the applause of man is deemed a brighter heritage than the enduring approbation of God.

It appals the thoughtful mind to contemplate the fearful upshot of this state of human things. The day of God approaches, but where is the preparation for his advent 1 When our Almighty Redeemer foretold his return to the world again in which he had been rejected, he said to his sorrowing disciples, "Let not your hearts be troubled. In my Father's house are many mansions. If it were not so, I would have told you .-I go to prepare a place for you ; and if I go and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also," (John xiv. 2, 3). "And while they looked stendfastly towards heaven as he went up, behold two men stood by them in white apparel ; which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven 1 This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come again in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven," (Acts i. 10, 11).

The Savior also announced the very manifest ation which we witness, of incredulity and contempt-" As the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and given in marriuge, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." The flood came on the world. unexpectedly, although the theme of incessant prediction. During one hundred and twenty years did the warning voice of God utter its mournful accents, and entreat a cessation in the work of ungodliness and sin. The warning accents were scattered to the desert air ; they reached no rebel heart of man. The shortness of time. successive centuries, the controversy which God the approach of death, the brooding darkness of has with national impiety ; but national reform, the gathering storm, interrupted not the course zeal for social rights, for mental freedom, for the harp and the viol, and tabret and melody. it pauses short of the claims of God. Secularity built up many dwelling places, they coveted inpollutes the church ; and while civil policy er. dividual and national revenue ; but they regard lover the whole earth, and no criminal remained ed not the work of the Lord, nor knew the operation of his hands." They ridiculed the prophetic record: they smiled in idle scorn while the prophet built and surveyed his ark, the appointed refuge from the approaching wrath : but the insensibility of man delayed not the purpose of God; the neglected warning cancelled not the recorded purpose ; the mirth of the criminal arrested not the hand of the executioner. The horrizon blackened, the tempest burst, and the human population lay buried beneath the waves. "I saw in the night visions, and behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him ; and there was given him dominion and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations and languages should serve him : his dominion is an everlasting dominion which shall not be destroyed. The saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom forever, even forever and ever," (Dan. vii. 13. 14, 18).

And so shall it be, we are told by infallible authority, in the judgments of the last days. "And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image : these both were cast alive into the lake of fire and brimstone," (Rev. xix. 20). This event approximates to the great crisis, to the binding of Satan, the first resurrection, the reign of the glorified triumphant church on earth .--"Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection : on such the second death hath no prepare a place for you, I will come again and power, and they shall reign with Christ a thousand years," (Rev. xx. 6).

> Notwithstanding the same warnings and denuncistions from infallible authority, still the same insensibility, the same licentiousness, the same preference of sensual to spiritual joy, the same complacency in ungodly gratification, the same oblivion of justice and mercy, the same contempt of divine law and attachment to human schemes, will characterize the period of time proximate to the second advent of Christ, as characterized the period antecedent to the terrific flood of Nosh. It would be an awful employment to portray to the mind, with any historical accuracy, the tremendous alarm which must at length have seized the world, when the long threatened judgment actually commenced ; when the torrents of the skies, and the tides of the ocean, united their fearful strength, and, by successive ravages, marked out a storm unlike the wintry desolation of other years ; a storm directed by the same Almighty hand which had hitherto restrained the furious elements, and made them subservient to human welfare. Crestive power was now charged with retributive indignation, and the arm of God now shattered the schemes of man. The business of earth at length paused, the din of pleasure ceased, the strife of individuals was suspended, the politics of nations were arrested. All classes of society mingled together, appalled by a common ruin ; landmarks of property were annihilated ; armies were useless, wealth but a name, and science a delusion. The avenging scourge of Omnipotence passed

The Christians.

This young and once pure Bible people, are rapidly following the older sects in the degeneracy and infidelity of the times. But for us to accuse them thus, would be thought to be uncharitable, we will therefore let the Christian Herald, one of their own papers, bear testimony in this case. In the number for Jan. 27th, one of its editors says :

"Infidelity has 'put on the livery of heaven,' and is walking abroad among the Christian churches, as a refined christianity. What do we mean to do about it ? Do you say, Give them the Bible, if they receive it, it is enough ? They have no objections to this. They say they do receive the Bible ; and, as a certain person said in a public meeting, in Boston, so they will say, 'I read the Bible as I read any other book ; what commends itself to my understanding, I receive as truth ; and what does not, I trample under my feet !' Receive the Bible !-Yes, and as a certain Unitarian preacher once said. so they may affirm-' I do not deny the inspiration of Paul and Peter, but I affirm the inspiration of all other men !' Or, as another gentleman of the same school once said in my hearing : "We do not receive the ipse dixit of Jesus Christ for authority, but we go further back, to the original scripture written on every man's heart' !!"

We have seen some and heard of much of this "refined christianity," or "infidelity" among some of their ministers, especialy those who have received their finish at the Meadsville school, or Unitarian and Christian's minister factory. One of the graduates of this school, E. G. Holland, called on us. In our friendly conversation, we detected in him some of this "infidelity," and kindly told him that he was spoiled by German Neology. He thought not. We told him we would test the soundness of his faith, by asking him to tell us the meaning of this plain text, "Blessed are the meek ; for they shall inherit the earth." Matt. v. 5. He readily replied, " They shall be happy." Thus spiritualizing away the real inheritance of the saints to a more state of a disembodied spirit : for the resurrection of the body, and its kindred doctrines, are, by this neology, all explained away in the same manner.

But how does the Herald propose to correct, and in future avoid this "refined christianity," this "infidelity" ! By defining the doctrines of the Bible, believed by the Christians. Or, in plain English, by making and introducing among them, a little creed ! This we see is now a leading topic of discourse of the Herald. It is true, the Palladium and other of their papers, do not yet countenance this creed-making principle, but still they are loud in their praise of the Meadville school, from whence our very doors, and in our families, beathen,-or Almighty 1 None but the ignorant and sceptical, some of this refined christianity, this infidelity human beings, many of whom are almost, if not enflows.

Our heart is deeply pained at the great and rapid apostacy of this once pure people. Like ancient Israel, and the surrounding sects, they have departed from the fountain of living waters, and have hewed, or are endeavoring to hew to themselves broken cisterns which can hold no water. May the good and pure among them escape the snare that is being laid by their leaders for their unsuspecting feet, assume their former Bible position, receive and walk in the truth, that they may inherit the earth when Christ shall come, and make it new, and fill it with the glory of God.

Denominational Courtesy.

"We regard it as one of the most auspicious religious signs of the times, that the various Christian denominations are manifesting towards each other much more of that spirit of urbanity and good neighborhood, which is clearly required by the principles of politeness and the precepts of the gospel. An illustration of this fact recently occurred at Waltham. The Orthodox Congregational Society in that town, under the pastoral care of Rev. John Whitney, had occasion to repair their house of worship, and the Methodist society kindly invited their Congregational brethren to worship in their house, while the repairs were in progress. The invitation was accepted to the satisfaction of both parties, the pastors of both churches alternately officiating .-As an expression of gratitude for the Christianity of their Methodist brethren, the Orthodox society have presented them with a very handsome Bible for the use of their pulpit. It is indeed refreshing to see such a truly Christian spirit, instead of a sectarianism and bigotry, which often drives asunder those who love and trust in the same Savior."-Albany Speciator.

Wonderful ! exceedingly wonderful ! ! and something new under the sun, for two religious and or. thodox denominations to possess so much of a "truly Christian spirit," as to worship together in the same house, long enough to make some repairs, and not really quarrel ! No wonder such a rare and unnatural occurrence "is indeed refreshing" to the " Spectator" and the divided sects, who are strangers to such "refreshing" things. Surely their millennium must have commenced, or is just ready to dawn upon them !

But to be serious, this very act, and their acknowledgement that it is right, is a tacit admission that their divisions are wrong; for if it was a truly Christian spirit that united these two churches' for a short time, it is truly an anti-christian spirit that has divided, and still divides the sects. If it is right for them to unite, then it is sinful to keep up their party distinctions ; but if divisions are right, then it is sinful for them to unite. We would that they could be made to see the inconsistency of their position. And remember that the word of God condemns all of their unholy sectarian divisions, and denominational distinctions; and recognizes none as the true church of Christ but those who are one, even as Christ and his Father are one. John. xvii.

Religions Instruction of the Slaves.

"A writer in the Richmond Watchman, in urging the duty of imparting religious instruction to the Slaves, says:

Southern Christians are, we believe, fully impressed with the great importance of affording rewe ligious instruction to our colored population. cannot shut our eyes to the fact that there are, at tirely, as ignorant of the great truth 1 of Salvation, as the Sandwich Islander. We all agree, that we are without excuse, if we neglect the souls of our Servants. And yet there are few practical duties more difficult to perform, and while our brethren of Georgia and of other parts of the South are doing something and efficiently, in this work, yet, in other portions of our country, we have accomplished but little besides acknowledgement by Ecclesiastical Minute of the duty of Masters in this regard.'

"In the same number of the Watchman it is stated that Rev. Mr. Vaughan, Presbyterian, has entered with much zeal on the duties of missionary to the colored people of Prince Edward and Cumberland counties in the same state."-Alb. Spectator.

Their work at home, at their "very doors," and in their "families," has been, to make "heathcn," who are "as ignorant of the great truths of Salvation, as the Sandwich Islanders" ! But abroad they have labored to convert to Christianity the heathen ! But what have they done ? According to Dr. Lafon, they have, in forty years, made about seventy-five thousand heathen, annually, at home, where they have converted to their sectarian christianity, one thousand, in heathen lands ! But now their smitten consciences, or their covetousness, makes them talk about "doing something" to convert "the souls of their servants," the "heathen," at home ! And what is that "something," which they propose to do !-Why, of course, convert "the souls of their Servants" to the Lord Jesus, that their bodies may be made more submissive to their will, and more profitable to their interest, may demand a better price in market, and when worn out here, their converted souls may with theirs be admitted into the kingdom of glory, where they will need no more of their unrequited toil !

This, we believe, is the true light of this hypocritical work : yet Northern editors, ministers and churches, look upon it as something very gracious and kind to the poor, down-trodden slave ; when in fact it is only calculated to enhance the interest of the slaveholder, and add to the chains of the slave : for it is designed to make the slave believe that the Bible sanctions his bondage ; and at the same time make him an humble and truly obedient christian slave ! We pray however, that the work may be overruled and blessed to the salvation of many who now groan in bondage.

Caste in Society.

The Christian Sun, a paper published by the Christians in North Carolina, copies the following from the Boston Watchman:

"Our principles as Christians, as well as the institutions of our country, should lead us to regard intellectual and moral worth as the object of respect, whether its possessor be rich or poor, learned or unlearned, a member of Congress, or an humble shoemaker."

Paul says, "There is neither Jew nor Greek. bond nor free, male nor female : for ye are all one in Christ Jeaus," Gal. iii, 23. Can the editor of the Sun say the same, or does he make an exception of the colored bondmen ? What do you say to this, Bro. Kerr ?

As well might we doubt the destruction, by the Lord, of the hundred and eighty-five thousand of Sennachark's army. The Lord is holding a factful contraversy with the world, and it will soon end in the éstruction of all who continue to close their ears and hardon their hears against his reproofs.

The Gauss.—A letter from Bro. Bywater gives the cheering intelligence that his and Bro. Pinnsy's blows are being bleased at Batavia. A deep interette the doctrine of the kingdom near, &c, has been waked up there. Some have confessed the truth and a number were seeking the Lord. Bro. Bywater's and other cheering letters may be expected next week.

An increasing interest is being manifested in the cause in this City. Our meetings are now being held every evening, and we hope great good will be the result.

The Lord is at work among his people in other places, for which we thank his holy name. Let us all engage anew in the work of saving sincers from the wrath to come. Soon our labor will be ended, and if faithful to our God, the reward will be a crown of rightcosmess at the appearing of Christ.

"(D<sup>**</sup>) The Le Roy Gazette says the Adventites of Millerites have been holding a protracted meeting in that village, which has been well attended. Rappears that May next has now been fixed upon by these people as the time of the Second Advent, when, according to their calculations, the world will be just 6000 years old." — Rock, Less.

The "Millerites," so called, in Le Roy, and elsewhere, have not "fixed upon May next," nor any other precise definite time for the Second Advent of Christ. We were at the meeting in Le Roy until Sabbath evening, and know whereof we afirm.— The general belief of our brethren now is, that the coming of the Lord is emphatically near.

(J) We scknowledge the receipt of "The Crisis, er Last Trumpet," by E. Putnam, Albany, N. Y. A well executed book of 319 duodecime pages. It contains many good things—and some hard sayings about "Milleriam." The article on the Deluge of Wrath to the Impenitent, which we commence publishing on another page, is valuable. The aged author will accept our thanks for the work.

(J" The New Testament against Sectarianism, by A. Ramsey, Pittsburgh, Pa., a pamphlet of 27 duodecimo pages, is received. From a hasty glance we think it a valuable work, and design to give extracts from it to our readers soon.

Our meetings in this City have been removed from Shaw's block, to MINERVA HALL, corner of Main and South St. Paul-street, where they are held, as usual, three times on the Sabbath, and on Tuesday and Friday senings.

Advent Herald.

DEAR BRO, HIMES :--- I wish to correct the mistake which I am confident you, and perhaps some few others, are laboring under, relative to the character of my articles on the "Great Apostacy."-Doubtless you now think they are unkind towards you ; and sectarian and proscriptive in their character. But would you read them again with care, I think your feelings in reference to them, would be much relieved. Your having so repeatedly, of late, expressed your disapprobation of those articles, led me to think it possible that they might be exceptionable in point of brotherly kindness. But on looking them over again, I find no such defect in them. That you and others may see your mistake, and that the important truths thosis articles contain, may be more fully understood, I where republish the last one, which comprises a short-summary of the sentiments contained in the whole series, and which shows the kind spirit in which they were written :

GREAT APOSTACY.

NO. X.

This number must class our remarks for the present, on the great apoatacy of the church. We have mend certain fundamental points in the doctriane and practice of the Bible, from which the secta generally have departed. That the whole matter may be readily grasped by the reader, we will now give a condensed summary of the points specified, with such closing remarks as the nature of the subject

 From the true doctrine of the bring of God.— They hold that he is without "body, parts or passions," while the Bible clearly reveals him to be a person, to whom is ascribed luve, delight, pity, and all the holy passions in their infinite perfection.

 The writy of God.—They hold that he exists in a trinity of persons or substances, while the Bible incontrovertibly reveals him to be one indivisible being.

3. The locality of God.—The sects hold that he has no definite locality; while the Bible abundantly proves that he is located in heaven, from whence we look for the Savior, who is now at the right hand of God.

4. The attributes of God.—The sects hold that wrath, vergeance, or vindictiveness was the principle in him which called for the death of his Son; while the Bible plainly tells us it was his "great love" that Gol ao loved the world that he gave his only begutten Son, that whosever believeth is him might not periab but have estral life.

5. The character of Christ.—The so called orthodox sects hold that Christ is the "very and eternal God," but no truth is more clearly and abundantly taught in the Bible than that he is the Son of God.

6. The nature of Christ.—With few exceptions they hold that Christ possesses "two whole and distinct natures, human and divine." Whereas, the Bible teaches no such doctrine, but that the nature of Christ is one, holy and dirine.

7. The death of Christ.—The majority of the sects hold that Christ died "to reconcile the Father unto man "but the Bible says he died to reconcile man unto God.

8. The atonement. With few exceptions, the sectar view the atonement in the light of a purchase, or paying an equivalent, satisfying justice, appearing the wrath of God, &c; whereas, the Bible tella us, "thy grace are yea aved," by the grace, love and mercy, and not by the wrath of God.

9. The Pre-millennial Advent of Christ.—The sects generally hold that Christwill come spiritually only, before the Millennium; but the Hible clearly teaches that he will literally and personally come before the ushering in of that day.

10. The objects of the Second Advant.—The sects generally believe that if Christ ever shall come, be will remove the saints far away from this earth and then forever annihilate it; but the Bible teaches that when he comes he will raise the dead saints, change them and the living ones to immortality destroy all the ungody, cleanes and make new the earth, and set up his kingdom on it, which shall stand forever.

11. Time of the Advent.—The sects hold that nothing can be known on this subject; but the Savior has said, speaking of the signs, "When ye see all these things, then know that be is nigh, even at the doora."

 Character of the Holy Spirit.—The sects generally hold that the Spirit is "the very and eternal God;" whereas the Bible tells us that it is the Spirit of God.

13. Personality of the Spirit.—With few exceptions, the sects believe in the personality of the Spirit, but the Bible nowhere calls it a person, but compares it to water, or oil, with which Christ was filed and annointed, and which God gives to all his children.

14. Work of the Spirit.—The sects hold that the work of the Spirit is to enlighten the world without the direct aid of the written Word; but the Bible tells us that "faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

15. The Bible.—The secia without an exception say, if not in word, by their practice, that the Bible is not a perfect rule of faith and practice; but the Bible declares that it was "given by the inspiration of God-that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works;" and that the "iaw of liberty" is "greefect."

16. The Church.—The sects, "Adventists" not excepted, call the church after the names of men, and abstract gospel and philosophical principles ; whereas the Bible calls it "τηκ επιπεί το σοσ," and asys that he is a jealous God and will not give his glory to another.

17. Foundation of the Church.—The sects have organized their party churches on creeds, platforms or foundations of human invention; but the Bible says, "other foundation can no man lay then is already laid, which is Christ."

16. The doctrine of the Church are numerons, conflicting, and highly pernicious in their dividing influence over the scattered flock of Christ; whereas the doctrine of the Bibbe is one, pure, sound, and calculated to unite all who receiven it in the bonds of peace, and is able to make them wise and save them in the day of the Lord Jesus.

19. Laws of the Church.—The sects, though they profess to be guided by the law of Christ, have, neverhelens, made laws of their own liking, for the government of their respective parties; they asy that the law of Christ is not perfect; but the Bible declares that "the law of the Lord is perfect"—is a "perfect law of likerty."

20. Union of the Church.—The sects say by precept and example, that party church or sectarian distinctions are right; but the word of inspiration says that those who thus divide are "carnal and walk as men."

21. Spirit of the Church.—The sects are evident. ly influenced in their party organization, by an unfinedity, unkind, proscriptive and selfah spirit towards each other. The spirit of war, of slavery, of the world, of pleasure and pricle, are also tolerated among them; whereas the Bible says, "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is sone of his."

22. Organization of the Church.—The practice of the sects in organizing churches in the manner they do, is contrary to the precepts and examples of the New Testament—consequently is wrong.

23. The practice of the Church. — The manner the sects receive, deal with, and expel members, is contrary to the practice of the apsoloical Church: also, the numerous moral, benevolent, missionary, Bible and tract societies, with all their human sependages, and mammoth machinery, are fearfully opposed to the truth and the simplicity of the primitive order of the church.

24. Places of worship.—The pride, extravagance and vain show of the sects in their places of worship are a wide departure from the Christian economy and humility of him who was born in a manger.

95. Worship of the Church.—The worship of the sects is cold, formal, mechanical, and in many cases performed with pomp and autward show, and by the sinful and wair; while the worship of the true church was "in spirit and in truth."

26. Associations of the Church .- The very existence of the sects seems to depend upon their asso-ciation of churches, ecclesiastical conference, syn-ods, assemblies, &c; whereas such combinations were unknown in the early days of the church, as every historian well knows.

27. Character of man .- The sects hold that man 37. Okaracter of man.—The sects hold that man has an immortal soul, or that the real, intellectual man is immortal, and never ceases to be a connectous being; but the Bible says that man is "mortal"—the dast that on its "mortal"—the dast mon tanything".—and that the sinner shall be # destroyed," and " be as though he had not the the "dast mortage".

98. The resurrection .- Though the sects nominally hold to a resurrection, nevertheless their opin-ions (it can't be called faith) are unintelligible and ed, and recently unbelief in the resurrection altogether has been fearfully gaining ground among them; whereas the Bible tells us, "If the dead rise not, they who have fallen asleep in Christ are per-ished."

29. The reward of the Christian .- The sects generally hold that the saints will be rewarded with generally hold that the saints will be rewarded with eternal life and blessedeness in a haven somewhere "o'er yonder sky "..." beyond the bounds of time and space;" but the Bible says they " shall reign on the sarth "....the New Earth; in which rightsousness will forever dwell,

30. The reward of the wicked .- The sects gene while the Bible says they shall be destroyed, con-sumed, burnt up, &c.

If in either of the foregoing specifications we have been mistaken, it will be our highest plenaure to be corrected, for it is not in our heart to do the the least injustice to any person or people; but we feel very confident that all that we have said of sects in this case, is abundantly true, and if so, then fearful indeed has been their apostacy from the truth of the gospel. Their moral corruption is deep, and fearful indeed ans used when the position is deep, and they hold, at this very time, the position that the word of inspiration predicts the church would aus-tain in the last days, viz: "turned away from the truth unto fables.

With these deeply painful facts existing all around us, and with a knowledge of the fearful doom of all who are not the true children of God, we cannot hold our peace and be justified before him whom we serve and expect soon to meet. We have therefore, in the spirit of kindness, but plainly, endeavored to dis charge our duty in this case, hoping that some at least among the sects may be led to see their apostacy and turn again unto the truth-that some who have never been b rought under their pernicious power may be guarded against being caught in their de-ceptive anares-and that those who are looking for the coming of the Lord may see in this apostacy the certain fulfilment of the word of prophecy conng the church in the last days, and thereb have their faith strengthened in the near coming of Christ that they may endure unto the end, and be saved in that day when the Lord shall come and try every

Now, Bro, Himes, if you or any other one, will show from the word of the Lord wherein this article, or either of those of which it is a summary, is unkind, unchristianlike, especially towards y self, or not according to the doctrine of God, I will most cheerfully acknowledge my error. I do not wish to invite nor provoke a controversy, though I do not fear one ; but I do desire to hear no more complaint about the articles on the 'Great Apostacy,' until a willingness is manifested to show wherein it is thought they are defective. You certainly will most cheerfully endorse, at least, a part of the sentiments those articles advocate, and I think, on carefully reviewing them, you will find them less exceptionable than you now suppose they are. You surely will see that they nowhere design to rank you nor of those articles, But, as we have said in our concluding remarks, our object was to show that the "moral corruption" of "the sects" is "deep "-"that those who are looking for the coming of the Lord may see in this apostacy the certain fulfilment of the word of prophecy concerning the church in the last days, and thereby have their faith strengthned in the near coming of Christ."

Let us try to agree as far as we believe alike, but where we homestly differ, let us do it in christian love, "endeavoring at all times to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

FROM BRO. H. CORNELL.

DRAR BRO. MARSE :- Located as we are in a dry place and weary land, where not a traveling brother or sister ever jot gave us a call, and where no on who is now looking for the coming of the Son of man nigh even at the doors, ever yet heard the subject discussed, except among ourselves to comfort one another with the words of the Bible, and the soul-nourishing instructions of the Harbinger ; we fully believe that our beloved brethren having greater priviledges can have at most but a faint concep tion of the conflicts, tears and temptations, we are called to endure.

It has ever been my choice to preach where Christ was not named. For some two months past there has been an unusual anxiety to hear Bible expositions on the advent and other subjects discussed in the Harbinger. By night or day, bad or good weather, the houses are crowded. So far there is encouragement. But alas for this world ! It is overflowing with preachers who have a form of godljness, but bend their whole force against that doctrine that gives it power. On hearing of an awakening in any place, they immediately leave their stations and appointments and come creeping into houses. Presbyterians, Baptists, Universalists and Methodists, are all made friends together against the coming of the blessed Jesus, and tell the awakened sinner that the great day did come as a snare upon all them that dwelt on the face of the whole earth when Jerusalem was destroyed. The unavoidable conclusion is, that the command of the Savior to he ready, does not apply to people now living, and the unregenerate and lukewarm are composed in sleep and slumber, lulled by the doctrine of peace and safety. As Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses. so do these resist the truth-allure those that were clear escaped from them that lived in error. Such are trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots. And no marvel ; for if in Paul's day Satan's ministers were transformed as the ministers of righteousness, we have greater reason to look for such things in these still more perilous times.

That the various protestant sects have fallen away they generally admit. They also believe that they were once enlightened, and tasted the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Spirit, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come. We cannot think they will be renewed again to repentance. It is often observed that of late they attempt but little Bible examination, either in their preaching or periodicals. To encounter, single handed, such a flood of spiritual wickedness in high places, we need the whole armour ; but we are in still greater danger from the any other individual among "apostates and enemies entreaties of dear and near friends, who are trem-of God." No, no ; this was not the remotest object bling for our influence and usefulness if we do not meet with a great deal of opposition in the glorious walk (or sit still) with the nominal church. In the midst of our trials we derive much comfort from the numerous communications weekly brought by the Hasbinger. We think it a cheap way of corresponding.

We think it a matter of much importance for some one to show from the Bible how often we should observe the Lord's Supper. If it is left discretionary, it must in that respect differ from all other institutions in the book of God. A very little investigation would effect entire harmony on the subject. Yours in the blessed hope,

H. CORNELL North Plains, Mich., Jan. 8, 1848.

PROM BRO. G. DILLABAUGH.

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- The cause of religion is very low in this section. The nominal church seems to be "twice dead and plucked up by the roots," yet the humble few that heard and obeyed the cry-"Come out of her, my people," though weak in point of numbers, are strong in faith, and are striving for a kingdom, and I trust are those that counted the cost, and enlisted during the war; and, bless God, the victory will soon be obtained, and the saints will take the kingdom. This is the theme that fills my heart continually. It was the theme that filled the hearts of patriarchs, prophets, and apostles of old. Enoch, the seventh from Adam, with the eye of faith wrapped in prophetic fire, exclaimed, "Behold, he cometh with ten thousand of his holy ones," Patient Job, in his afflictions, could rejoice in the assurance of faith, "I know that in the latter day he shall stand upon the earth, and I shall see him," &c. Zealous Peter looked for and earnestly desired that day. 'Paul looked forward to the time when the saints would take the kingdom ; and he says to Timothy, "I charge thee therefore, before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead, at his appearing and his kingdom." 2 Tim. iv. 1. He also tells him to "preach the word ; be instant in season, out of season ; for the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine ; but after their own lusts shall they HEAF to themselves teachers, having itching ears." Do the people of this generation see this time ? Yes ; we are the ones The set of The coming of Christ does not seem to create the interest that it should. It is but a little over a year since the cry has been given here, that he who once came, meck and lowly, a babe born in Bethlehem, is soon coming King of kings, and Lord of lorde, to reign with his people. My prayer is that I may appear before him, at his coming, without spot. He declares that without boliness none shall see his face.

O let us live to the glory of God, and let nothing separate us from the love of Christ. Let not disappointments move us, or persecution, or affliction, or the scoffs of those who are saying, Where is the promise of his coming ? but let us rejoice that we are counted worthy to suffer shame for the gospel of Christ. My faith is that the saints will realize the consummation of their hope in a very few months more.

dectrine of the advent . yet I rejuice that that day is not far distant when I shall meet her with all God's children in the land promised to Abraham ; for there is a day in prospect when all the Church will be gathered into one body in Christ, and all be like bim. John says, " It doth not yet appear what we shall be, but when he (Christ) shall appear we shall be like him : for we shall see him as he is."

In reading the Scriptures, 1 find frequent mention of that day. In Rev. vii, 9, we read, "After this I beheld, and lo, a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations and kindreds, and people and tongues, stood before the thrune, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands ; and cried with a loud voice saving, Salvauon to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb." In the last verse of the chanter we read. "And God shall wipe all tears from their eycs.

While conversing with my companion the day but one before her death, on the above promises and the resurrection, we were both filled with joy. Said I what a blessing it is that we have been enabled to understand this truth (of the advent doctrine) in these last days. We were alone the most of the day, and talked of the things of the kingdom. I rejoice, said I, for the hope that I enjoy of soon meeting again in God's everlasting kingdom. Yes, said she, " that is my hope, praise the Lord for such a hope." She then quoted several passages of acripture pertaining to the kingdom, of which I will mention one. "And when the Chief Shepherd shall appear. I hope to receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away."-1 Pet. v. 4. She then said, "Let me rest a little and then we will talk some more." Closing her even she quoted the following lines :

"How long, dear Savior, O how long, Shall this glad hour delay ? Fly switter round, ye wheels of time, And bring the welcome day.

"His own soft hand shall wipe the tears From every weeping eye; And pains and groans, and griefs and fears, And death itself shall die."

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- Myself and family are still part and parcel of this groaning creation, waiting deliverence, and anxiously desirous of seeing our coming Lord in the clouds of heaven, to set up his everlasting kingdom in the renovated earth.

All around us, there are scattered precious souls. here and there, deeply interested in the faith of their speedy coming King. In a late hasty journey to lowa, I fell in with several of the scattered flock, which I hope the Shepherd will soon gather, and became deeply impressed with the importance of the missionary, for preaching the advent faith. Could our eastern brethren, some of whom at least are favored with dwelling in ceiled houses, travel and associate with us in our log cabins, and commune with the dear saints of like precious faith, and witness the earnestness of many desirous of knowing of the doctrine, surely we should have ample support, of those gilted and devoted brethren, who are now amhassadors in honds.

they are entirely at their wits end as to any ways or means of improvement. To us there is light. May God enable us to walk in that light, and be ready for our coming Lord. My ardent love to all who love our coming Jesus, and to all those remembered and beloved friends, who have shown me kindness for Jesus sake. I ask their prayers, that I may continue to walk worthy of their confidence, and soon meet them on the shores of deliverance. Be not discouraged. #### FROM. BRO. T. HOWARD.

DEAR BRO, MARSH :- Bro, Pinney came here the first of January, continued one week, preached the word with power, and removed much prejudice from the minds of this community. Bro. Sweet, from Ulster, Pa., labored with us one Sabbath. There seemed to be an anxiety in the minds of the peuple to have the meetings continued, and Bro. Hendrick. from Hornby, came, and has been here nearly two weeks. On the 23d he baptized three.

We have seen, during these meetings, a number of backsliders reclaimed, and sinners converted, who now rejoice that they have ever heard the truth .-Bro. H. thought it would be duty to close up his labors here this evening, but a larger and more attentive congregation we have not had since the meetings commenced. When the invitation was given. as many as eight or ter rose for prayers, and the conprepation manifested that they wished the moetings continued. Bro. H., though feeble in health, has concluded to stay awhile longer. Will not some of the lecturing brethren come over and help us; for we feel that many more may be gathered in 1-Where is Bro. H. H. Johnson ? Will not Bro. Robinson come and help us ?

Your brother, waiting for that blessed hope. THOMAS HOWARD.

The Pilgrims,

And who are they ? that humble band, Amid earth's tinseled show 1 Who journey in a weary land, And worship as they go 1

With steadfast faith, and upward eye, Unmoved by present shame ; They wait a glory from on high, A Prince of heavenly fame.

They look, and yet no cloud appears, And watch still undismayed ; Nor seem to heed the doubts and fears, That other hearts pervade.

Weary, and yet pursuing still The object of their love, Affirming that he shortly will Appear in clouds above.

While multitudes their hope revile. And dare the threatened day : They patiently the hours beguile, Content to watch and pray.

Then who are they ? Their garments seem All suddenly to change ! And all their way-worn faces gleam With radiance sweet and strange.

He comes ! He comes ! Their faithful King, Enthroned on clouds of light; And rising now with shouts they sing And triumph in his sight.

For the Barbinger.) Answer to Bro. G. Needbam's Questions IN HARRINGER NO. 25

1. "Had the beast of Rev. xili, 1-10 more than seven heads ?"

Apr No.

2. "Did these seven heads symbolize the seven forms of the Roman government ?" Ans. Yes. "If so, how could decem-regal Rome, or the Empire in its ten kingdom state, be the seventh head 1"

Ans. What do you mean by "decem-regal Rome" 1 You say " the empire in its ten king the beast; or may he not have spoken of it in coronation; and this looks to me more like an dom state"; I should say that the empire was in that state from the rise of the ten kingdoms till [ infer the last. If he spoke with reference to servience to the religious authority, with appesome of them were overthrown, and a controling the life of the beast, it is 1280 years compared rent success for a time, but with a final sinking power arose among them : but in Harbinger No. (with 2600, reckoning from the foundation of back to its place, than like an independent form, 5, I have spoken expressly sgainst calling that Rome, or 1260 compared with 3028, if we in. That the patricians received their power from the state a head ; and your 7th question shows that clude the Latin kingdom ; but if he spake with Pope is evident from the same extract, where i you do not use it in that sense. But the empire was always to remain divided, after the division was once effected, according to the prophecy, "they shall not cleave one to another," and as forms : 1. Regal, 428 years. 2. Dictatorship, the Imperial form was the sixth, and continued till the division, the seventh must be found within its divided state.

8. "Was not the first form regal ?" Ans. Yes. "And did it not last 428 years !"

Ans. If you take the view presented in Clark's Commentary, and reckon the prophecy to begin with the Letine, it did; but if you confine the prophecy to the Roman kingdom, it lasted 244 three, or any of the forms of Roman governyears.

4. "If you reckon the regal form twice, in order to make out the seven heads, on that principle are you not bound to reckon the Dictatorship seventh head symbolize the Carlovingian Patritwice and so make eight heads ?"

Ans. I do not reckon it twice ; the Papal form was altogether different from any form that preceded it: it being a combination of civil and ecclesiastical rule. True, the kingdom had been broken up, and each division had a government of its own, but it exercised its power in subservionce to the general head.

5. " Is it not a fact that Rome had seven heads, or forms of government, without the decem-regal ?"

Ans. Your own enumeration of the heads places the seventh head of an ing the divided state of the kingdom. I have seen no exposition of

6. "If the seventh head symbolized Rome in its decem-regal state, what do the ten horns of the same is shown by the prophecy of Daniel. It beast symbolize ?"

Ans. The ten horns symbolize the ten kingdoms from their rise, till three of them were overthrown and the Papacy took the supremacy. Hence you perceive that I do not understand the seventh head and the ten horns to symbolize the ame thing.

7. "In the 17th chapter, it is said of the seventh head. When he cometh he must continue a short space.' Has decem-regal Rome continved only 'a short space,' or has it not continued one hundred and thirty-six years longer than the three longest of the others put together ?"

Ans. Having shown that I understand the Papacy to have been the seventh form, I answer as if 'Papal Rome' had been written instead of 'decem-regal Rome.' To the question. Must we necessarily conclude that the angel spoke of the of the Harbinger with your questions, it appears time of the seventh head, in comparison with the that it had no claim of being an independent time of the other heads ? May he not have spo- form, excepting during the twenty-six years form ken of it in comparison with the whole life of the conquest of the Lombardo till the imperial comparison with all time ? You infer the first ; attempt of the civil, to extricate itself from sub-reference to the age of the world, it is 1260 compared with 6000-certainly "a short space."

7. "Rome was governed under the following 88 years. 3. Decemverate, 300. 4. Consulate, 280. 5. Tricumverate, -... 6. Imperial, 500. 7. Carlovingian Patriciste, 45. How, then, can the decem-regal be the 7th form, any more than the Dictatorship of Scylla and Julius Casar can be the 6th form 1"

Ans. I can see no necessity, and doubt the propriety, of going to the Latin kingdom for ment ; yet as we are agreed concerning the 4th. 5th, and 6th forms, I shall not stop to contend about the former. We will inquire, then, did the ciate, or the Papacy ? To determine this I will ask, Does not the "little horn" (Dan. vii.) symbolize the Papacy ? Is not the same power described in Rev. xiii. 5, 6 ? Does not the "time. times, and the dividing of time," of the one, and the "forty-two months," of the other, represent the same time, and show the time of its dominion 1 On all of these points, I think, we are agreed. We will now inquire, in what did his (the Papacy) power consist 1 or what power had he for forty-two months ? Verse 7 says, "And it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them ; and power was given him over all kindrado, and tongues, and the subject that does not place it within that date. nations." It was, then, power over the saints and nations-religious and civil authority. The was symbolized by a horn, a symbol of civil power; but it was "diverse from the rest," and the saints were given into his hand. From whom did he receive his seat, power, and authority !--From the 6th (Imperial) head of the dragon ----When did this 42 months, or 1260 years rule commence? As we all agree, with the giving the saints by the emperor into his hand, and the uprocting of the stubborn horns that would not yield to his authority-in the neighborhood of A. D. 540. Here, then, we find the power of Rome, civil and religious, from the end of the Imperial power, for 1260 years consigned to the Papacy. Can there be another independent form of Roman government till this time is ended ?

As to the Carlovingian Patriciate, from the quotation given by Bro. Marsh, in the same No.

THE ADVENT HARBINGER.

is said that they were presented " with the keys of the shrine of St. Peter as a pledge and symbol of sovereignty; and with a holy banner which it was their right and duty to unfurl in defence of the church and city."

9, "Is a change from one form back to an old form a new one ?" Ans. No.

10. "Was not a striking characteristic of the Roman beast this, that he trod down the saints, persecuted and put them to death ! Has any power done this since Napoleon's day ? How, then, can you look for the fulfillment of Rev. xiii, 11-17 in the Holy Alliance, or any other power of Europe, except the harmless beast that rides an ass about the streets of Rome ?"

Ans. I do not perceive the bearing of the first two questions upon the last. It seems that you do not understand from the prophecy that the two horned beast is to persecute the saints, or you would not think the prophecy could be fulfilled in a "harmless beast." If, then, the prophecy does not contemplate the persecution of the saints. why may we not look for its fulfillment in the Holy Alliance as well as in another harmless beast. True, it has been a striking characteristic of the Roman beast to persecute the saints, and put them to death. What then 1 The prophecy and facts both show, that during the last form of its dominion it would not do it.

These answers are submitted, hoping that they will prove satisfactory to you, and instructive to all who are "interested to know the truth on this aubiect.

Your brother in love of the truth.

E. MILLER, JR. Jackson, Ia., Jan. 12, 1848.

(For the Harblurer, )

DEAR BRO. MARSH :--- Once more our kind and Heavenly Father permits me to send you a short communication. I think we, as the ministers of Christ, should continue to hold before the world the truth as it is in Jesus, nor do I believe we are at liberty to cover up any doctrine of the Bible because some are offended at them. The coming of our Lord is so important, (and more so, when we see so conclusively that the event will so soon burst upon us,) that I have thought a brief examination of it, and other truths connected with it, would not be altogether unprofitable : for I feel myself often greatly strengthened in bringing these things to mind .-I desire therefore to present these subjects in the form of chapters, in order to bring before the mind forcibly these interesting subjects.

Rible Doctrine.

CHAPTER I.-COMING OF CHRIST.

Beloved Brethren and Friends :-

In endeavoring to present to you in the following chapters some of the most important truths of God's word. I feel deeply the need of your prayer, that God would guide me in writing upon his truth, that I may speak in accordance with the mind of the Spirit; for we need to stir up one another, that we may always be mindful of the prize, that bought for us the blessings which we now enjoy, and the inestimable inheritance we hope soon to realize.

The subjects I design to investigate are these : 1st. The coming of Christ. 2d. The events that will take place in connection with his coming .-3d. The kingdom of God. 4th. The inheritance of the saints. 5th. The punishment of the wicked; and 6th. The state of the dead. Now although you may have studied much on these tonics, and perhaps become settled, yet permit me to stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance. that you may keep in mind the glad tidings which have been set before you by those that have preached the gospel. Let us then inquire-

1st. Is the coming of Christ a Scripture doctrine 1 Perhaps none of you will feel disposed to question this truth. The great point of difference is, will it be a literal, personal coming, or not ? But that we may be sure, let us go to the "law and testimony, if they speak not according to these, it is because there is no light in them," Isa. viii, 20. The apostle, speaking concerning Christ, says, "So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many, and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation," Heb. ix. 28. Now there is no number between one and two, therefore, as Christ came once, he will also come again, as saith the angels, "This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven," Acts i. 11 .-When Jesus was arraigned before the high priest, he declared. "Hereafter shall ve see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of Power, and coming in the clouds of heaven," Matt. xxvi, 64. And the Revelator says, "Behold he cometh with clouds," &c., Rev. i. 7. He that testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly, and the apostle responds, Amen ; even so come Lord Jesus. Rev. xxii. 20. Behold I come quickly, and my reward is with me, Sc. Verse 12. Behold I come as a thief. Plessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, &c. Rev. xvi. 15. Paul says, there is a crown laid up for him, and not only for him, but all them also that love his (Christ's) appearing. 2 Tim. iv. 8. The man of sin is to be destroyed by the brightness of the Lord's coming. 2 Thess. ii. 8. Paul says, also, that the Thessalonian brethren turned to God, from idols to serve the living and true God ; and to wait for his Son (the living and true God's Son) from heaven, whom he (God) raised from the dead, even Jesus which delivered us from the wrath to come, 1 These. i. 9, 10. These and many other texts show conclusively that the second coming of our Lord Jesus Christ is a Scrip- (Luke xxiv. 42, 43). He blessed his disciples, ture doctrine, and not only do they show it to be a Scripture doctrine, but set it before the child of heaven. Then appeared beings clothed in white God as a motive to induce him to holy living .---What ! we turned to God, to wait for his Son from heaven 7 Is the coming of Christ to be the which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so object of our desire 1 Yes, heloved, all this is true, if we take the Bible for our guide. How different is this from what we hear from the nominal preachers of the present day. O how seldom do we hear them exhorting their hearers to be looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of Christ. How little is their conversation in heaven, from whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, &c. Phil. iii, 20, 21. No, no; this would not do; they might be called "crazy Millerites," " foolish, or something else. They can't bear such names! O how these reflections impress on my mind the saying, "The disciple is not above his master. nor the servant above his lord. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more shall they call them of his household ? Fear them not therefore; for there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed, and hid that shall not be known," Matt. x. 24-26. We need not fear, if we are living in obedience. "Behold the bridegroon cometh, go ye out to meet him," Matt. xxv. 6.

Having thus briefly considered the doctrine of the soming of Christ, let us inquire-

2d. Will the coming of Christ be a literal and personal coming ? Jesus was a man of sorrow, and acquainted with grief. He went about doing good. He was born of the virgin Mary, led a life of humility, suffered and died on the cross, rose from the dead; he was still the same Jesus, having flesh and bones (Luke xxiv, 39); he was seen and felt; he was a tangible being, a real person that did "eat broiled fish and an honey comb," and was parted from them, and carried up into which said, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye here gazing up into heaven ?. This same Jesus come in like manuer as ye have seen him go into heaven," Acts i. 11. Nothing could be more positive. No language could so much impress self shall descend from heaven. 2 Thess. iv. 16.

testimony of the angel that appeared to Mary. "And behold thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shall call his name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David ; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end." We think no one will be so absurd as to argue that David's throne was not a literal throne, and a real man called David reigned on that real throne. Well, sourcely as David and his throne were literal, and an sure as God promised to David that Christ should sit on his throne, as sure as the angel Gabriel told Mary the truth ; yea, as sure a Christ will come at all, just so sure will he come personally to reign on the throne of David as King over what God has always called his people Israel, the true children of Abraham by faith

Again, all the scriptures that speak of Christ's coming again, can be taken in no other sense that that a personal coming is meant, or no language could have more clearly expressed a literand personal coming than that which is used a different portions of scripture. No one ever sigued from the Bible alone that Christ was not used person when he stood before the High Priest, and yet Christ said, Hereafter ye shall see its Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven. Hear again what our Lord says. "I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare splace for you, I will come again and receive you to myself; that where I am there ye may be the," John xiv. 2, 3. Well may we not be troubld, when we have such a promise to rely upon. sor need we let anxious fears arise, for "he that chill come will come and will get tarry."

In concluding this part of our subject we re mark ist. We may have the truth on any subject. but unless we practice it it will not avail anybing in the great day. How often have I thought sinough we have all knowledge, and could solve all mysteries, yet if we lack the "one thing needful," i. e. a faithful and obedient disposition, we might about as well not know anything about these great and glorious truths of God's book. Dearly beloved, let us cultivate the meck and quiet disposition, and obey from the heart that form of doctrine that is delivered to us in the holy Scriptures; for if we should stop now, all our right coustess will not be remembered unto us. Ezek. arriii. 13.

2d. The coming of Christ is a great practical actrine. No one who sincerely and fully behaves the doctrine of the second coming of the Lord will be likely to treat with neglect this ment truth. He sees there is too much at stake. The glories then to be realized enrapture his soul. and the spontaneous gushing forth of his heart is, Thy kingdom come. Come Lord Jesus, and come quickly." And seeing we have reason to most him daily, how doth it become us to live a such a manner as to meet his appropation. ·Let your loins be girded about, and your lights bruing; and ye yourselves like unto men that •ait for their lord, when he will return from the

The Delnge of Wrath to the Impenitent.

INSENSIBILITY OF THE WORLD TO THE VOICE OF CHRIST.

(Concluded.)

Now to this scene of utter disaster the Redeem er refers, in order to illustrate the consternation which will arrest an impenitent world, when he shall return to the earth on which he has been so long despised. "And I will bring distress upon men, that they shall walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the Lord; and their blood shall be poured out as dust, and their flesh as dung. Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the Lord's wrath ; but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy, for he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land. For my determination is to gather the nations, that I may assemble the kingdoms, to pour upon them mine indignation, even all my fierce anger ; for all the earth shall be devoured with the fire of my jeulousy," (Zeph. i. 17, 18; iii. 8). "For behold the day cometh that shall burn as an oven ; and all the proud, yes, and all that do wickedly. shall be stubble ; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root, nor branch And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they be ashes under the soles of your feet, in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts," (Mal. iv. 1, 3).

Whether, therefore, the prophetic interpretation which I have attempted to give, be correct or incorrect, the day of the second personal advent of the Lord Jesus Christ will arrive; and who may abide the day of his anger ? Insensibility and scorn will characterize human society ; the voice which warns will excite contempt; the hand which points, not in anger, but in love, to predicted judgments, will be met by no friendly eye; the business, pleasure, gains, and philoso phy of life, will employ the world until the sign of the Son of man shall appear in the heavens. and the authority of Christ allow of scorn no more, Is it not fearful to portray that which will overwhelm a guilty world, when, too late for refusal, the cup of trembling is held to its lips !

The destruction and calamities of the last days of the gentile apostacy are delineated on the page of Scripture, with a force and energy calculated to shake to the foundation the strongest confidence of the world; but the men of this world will not read; they will not listen ; they pursue the game of life, and sport upon the precipice of perdition; they est, they drink, they buy, they sell, they plant, they build, they add house to house, they add field to field, till there be no room.

True religion is despised, and the authority of the Son of God is forgotten ; but the obduracy redding; that, when he cometh and knocketh, of man cannot invalidate the claims of God .--- they may open unto him immediately," Luke xii. The records of the Omniscient, no human hands can erase : resisted or received, they hasten to their accomplishment. Would to Ged that the great and rich of the earth, the wise and the intelligent, the civil officers from the highest to the lowest, the clergy of all descriptions throughout the land; would that all to whom God has entrusted the use of power and influence and wealth. might remember the condition of man, and the tribunal before which he must stand ; and especially would that all those who hold a controlling influence in church and state were deeply impressed with the solemn responsibility which rests upon them, lest the blood of souls be found in their skirts. And would that the mingled multitudes, doomed to toil in obscurity and poverty, might alike receive the message of the eternal word. If any human being, occupied with the details of the earth, should ponder these feeble lines, would that he might hear the warning voice, and remember the Savior of whom it speaks .--Painful indeed is it to think of a ruin which no human skill can avert; of a degradation, which no art of man can reclaim ; of a waste, for which no efferthrift can stone

"Come near, ye nations, to hear, and harken ye people. Let the earth hear, and all that is therein ; the world, and all things that came forth of it. For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his fury upon all their armies .----He hath utterly destroye them : he hath delivered them to the slaughter; their slain shall be cast out. The mountains shall be melted with their blood, and all the host of heaven shall be dissolv. ed, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll, and all their hosts shall fall down as the leaf falleth off from the vine. For my sword shall be bethed in heaven; for it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion. And the streams thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into brimstone ; and the land thereof shall be burning pitch : it shall not be quenched night nor day. The smoke thereof shall go up foreyer; from generation to generation it shall lie waste: none shall pass through it forever ; and he shall stretch out upon it the line of confusion, and the stones of emptimess. Seek ye out of the book of the Lord, and read : no one of these shall fail; for my mouth it hath commanded, and his spirit it hath gathered them," (Isa. xxxiv.).

Will the clergy, who are now amusing their people with smooth, pleasant things, ponder well this subject; and all who have fallen asleep under such preaching, become like those noble Bereans, and search the scriptures if these things be so, and not swallow their food without chewing 1 As they have an apostle's commendation, in searching for themselves whether these things be so, lest they incur guilt in neglect of conceded duty.

The foregoing views of the personal advent of the Lord Jesus Christ, I think, are calculated to reconcile the poor Christian to the struggles of the present life. The dim thought of heaven will cheer and comfort him in this struggle ; but t think a simpler and more intelligible solace might reach his heart, if, when toiling in the cold shade of poverty, or groaning on the bed of ill mitigated disease, he could connect the voice, the eve, the welcome of his Savior, with a body free from sin and pain, and in the sunshine of a world with whose scenery and usages all his thoughts are familiar. Such a solace would still be to him his heaven; but a heaven more palpaly reduced to the level of his comprehension and his hopes, I should anticipate, also, from the prevalence of these views of the coming of our blessed Lord, and a far stronger feeling of Christian charity amidst the diversities of human opinions.

We expect reunion of opinion in heaven : we expect there the results of intuition, rather than of reason ; we expect there to be as one family, and to share one undivided felicity ; but now how powerless has been this anticipation, hitherto, to allay or to smooth the ruggedness of religious controversy ! What barriers still exist against the coalition of human feelings, amidsts the diversities of sect and church ! Heaven is a place, distant, unnoticed, unknown. Might it not effect this hallowed work of concord and charity, to contemplate the approaching advent of the Lord ; to espouse his church, in terrestrial and spiritual glory to himself ? How near may be the hour, when all the contentions of the ransomed church shall be annihilated and forgotten in the accordant exclamation, "The marriage of the Lamb is come !" How near may be the time, when this renovated earth shall be under the benignant rule of the risen saints of God ! "For when he shall appear, then shall we also appear with him in glory." Christians, if such you be in reality, the name and nature of God is love, and you are to be one in him. His advent may be near .--You are brothers of one family, and your Father's house will soon open upon your view .-Your divisions and heartburnings will soon pass into oblivion, and the earth will break forth before you into singing. "When the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom forever, even forever and ever," (Dan. vii. 18, 27), the most emphatic term that can be employed to express an eternal duration.

Now let it be borne in mind, that this kingdom of the risen saints with Christ, their exalted head and glorious king, is an unlimited kingdom : it is over the whole earth, and under the whole heavens. We are now builders in a city, which is to expand into eternal beauty and strength ; but let us remember that the scaffolding on which we stand is temporary, while the communion of the saints is eternal. The speedy advent of Christ may give reality and force to this recollection. that, when our Divine Master comes, let him find us in harmony, in faith, in love, (Matt. xxiv. 44, 51).

The time is short. "The night cometh when no man can work. Watch, watch ; for you know not at what hour your Lord cometh." These expressions are weighty, and they are associated with all the sensations of a human heart. They will, I think, derive an additional efficacy from the view of the millennial felicity of the new earth, (2 Peter iii. 11, 14). "Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens, When those 'days' or 'times' expire, according to being on fire, shall be dissolved, and the elements according to his promise, look for a new heavens and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. Wherefore, belowed, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless." The apostle here associates the expectation of a new earth with the strongest motives to practical godliness. The approach of the master ought to be influential upon the fidelity and zeal of the servant. The sudden advent of the Lord is, in his own prophecy, united to the activity of the disciple. The connection is in humble life. "Two wo men shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left." Blessed is that servant whom his Lord, when he cometh, shall find so doing. To unite the thought of his advent with every present effort, is calculated to cheer toil, to dignify poverty, and to consecrate by high motives even the lowest avocations of industry and love. It would lead to that habit of mind which connects responsibility with all the conditions of life, and no faithful follower of the Lamb shall be denied the sunshine of the millennial summer. The dead shall be raised from their graves, to participate in the victory. "Bleased and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection : on such the second death hath no power; but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years," (Rev. xx. 6).-Elisha Putnam.

" And Jerusaicm shall be frodden down of the Gentiles, until times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." Luke xxi. 24.

What are the times of the Gentiles I Christ save nothing in this discourse about what they are ; we must therefore look to some other portion of the Bible for light on this matter. Well, to what portion shall we turn ? To Dan, viii, 13, 14, But why refer to that portion of Scripture more than any other 1 1st. Because, according to Matthew's account of this discourse (Matt. xxiv. 14), Christ was speaking of the prophecy of Daniel ; and, 2nd. In he text under consideration, he quotes the very expression of that prophecy, concerning the treading down of Jerusalem, or the sanctuary. Dan. viii. 13 says, "How long the vision, the daily, and the transgression of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be TRODDEN under foot." Luke xxi. 24 reads, "Jerusalem shall be TRODDEN down." The question in Daniel viii. is, "how long" shall this treading down be ? Verse 14th answers, "Unto two thousand and three hundred days, then shall the sanctuary be cleansed." Luke xxi. 24 says Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles he fulfilled."

From this comparison, it is very certain that the "times of the Gentiles" are the two thousand and three hundred days, or years of Dan. viji, 14 .--This point settled, we inquire,

Have the two thousand and three hundred days of treading down the sanctuary and the host, or the times of the Gentiles, yet expired ? Certainly not ; for it is an undeniable fact, that the sanctuary, or Jerusalem, is yet trodden down of the Gentiles .the words of the Savior, Jerusalem will no longer ster gives the same definition. From this views shall melt with fervent heat. Nevertheless, we, be trodden down. It will then be redeemed, cleansed, the matter, the fate of the finally impenitent is, t and become the sanctuary of the Lord, the capital of the kingdom of Christ, which shall be under the whole heavens.

That the two thousand and three hundred days, or times of the Gentiles, are nearly closed, is a matur about which there can be no reasonable doubt. The approved chronologists of the Christian world, make them terminate, at the earliest date, in A. D. 1843 and latest, A. p. 1847. These dates are now in the past, and the only reasons that can be assigned, why the time for cleansing the sanctuary, or for Jerus lem no longer to be trodden down, are, that '47 tra era, has not yet closed, or there is a mistake in or commonly received chronology. If either or both is the case, it cannot, on any reasonable apposition place the end far in the future. Indeed, we are m warranted by the nature of the case to defer it or moment longer.

The facts that Christ calls the two thousand an three hundred days the times of the Gentiles, ar that Jerusalem is yet trodden down, make it ver certain that those days are to be reckoned a day & a year, and extend to the close of the oppressiv rule of the Gentiles, or kings and rulers of this work Therefore, let unbelief depart, and faith be strong joyful, and full of the blessed hope, that the comin of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven, wit power and great glory, is nigh, even at the door.

First Import of Terms.

BREATING TO THE PURISHMENT OF THE WICKED.

1. BURN. It is said of the wicked that " the de that cometh shall burn them up." Mal. iv. 1. Mat. xiii. 30. Luke iii. 17. Isa. xlvii. 14. Cruden de fines Burn : "to consume, or destroy with fire."-Webster: "to consume with fire ; to reduce to as es by the action of fire."

This will be the fate of the wicked: they will b consumed with fire."

2. Consume. "The wicked shall ... con into smoke shall they consume away." Psa. xxxm 20; 9 Thess. ii. 8; Isa. i. 28; Ex. xxx. 10. Accord ing to Cruden, consume means: "to waste, destroy and bring to utter ruin and desolation." Wahete defines it thus : "to destroy, by separating the part of a thing, by decomposition, as by fire, or by at ing, devouring, and annihilating the form of a sui atance."

This will be the fearful doom of the sinner : b will come to 'utter ruin.' It is not even intimate that he will exist sternally.

3. DESTROY - DESTRUCTION. "Who shall a punished with everlasting destruction." 2 Thes i. 9. And Gen. vii. 4; xiii. 10; xix. 29; Job xxi. 3 Psa. xxxvii. 38; Dan. vii. 14; Zeph. iii. 6; Actai 23; 1 Cor. iii. 17; xv. 26; 2 Thers. i. 8; Rev. xi. ii By consulting these, and many other texts, your find that destroy, instead of meaning to exist, men as Cruden says, "to pull down, or ruin"-act or building, leveling it with the ground-tout away a thing quite, so as it be no more." Or. P Webster defines it : "to demolish ; to pull down to separate the parts of an edifice, the union which is necessary to constitute the thing."

This looks not much like promising life, or beim in any sense, condition or place, to the sinner : h it does, in plain and fearful words, threaten he with "everlasting destruction, from the presences the Lord and the glory of his power."

4. DEVOUR-DAVOURED. "Fiery indignativ which shall devour the adversaries." Heb. z. 7 "And fire came down from God out of heaven, ar deroured them." Rev. xx. 9. Cruden defines & your, "to eat up, or swallow down greedily." We

he "eat up;" by the fire that shall come down from God out of heaven. Surely, this does not look like eternal existence

5. DEAD-DEATH. "The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence." Psa. czv. 17. "The dead know not anything." Ecc. iz. 5. On the holy the "second death " will have no power. But the unholy, with death and hell, will be " cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death." Rev. xx. 6, 14, 15. Cruden's definition in this case is-" The separation of the soul from the body."-But Webster says-" That state of being, animal or vegetable, but more particularly of an animal, in which there is a total and permanent cessation of all the vital functions, when the organs have not only crased to act, but have lost the susceptibility of renewed action."

Surely, this looks not much like living in a state of conscious miscry, eternally. But "the soul that sinneth, it shall die," and "the wages of sin is death," and numerous other like fearful threatnings of the word of inspiration, will soon be executed on all who know not God, and obey not the gospel of in you : you must suffer, if you would reign with Christ. They shall not see life, but the wrath of him. God abideth on them.

6. PERISH. "Shall utterly perish in their own corruption." 2 Pet. ii. 12; Num. zvii. 12; Psa. xxxvii. 20; cxlvi. 4; John iii. 15; Rom. ij. 12; 1 Cor. xv. 18: 2 Pet. ii. 12. Cruden's definition is-"To die, or lose life." Webster gives the same meaning.

To "utterly perish," or to "die," is not to live : hence the punishment of the wicked will be, to perish, die, be devoured, destroyed, consumed, or burned up. O, that they would seek and obey the Lord, that when he restores all things to their promised perfection and glory, they may have a right to the tree of life, eat and live forever.

To the Tried.

"Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you. But rejoice, in strange thing happened unto you. But rejoice, in-amuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings: that when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy." I Pet. iv. 12, 13.

Christians generally think their trials uncommon ly severe, something ' strange' or unheard of before In this they are mistaken ; for 'no strange thing has happened unto them : many others have beer called to suffer the same, or similar, trials.

There are some things peculiarly trying to our waiting brethren now. We were once united, in peace ; and, as we all supposed, near the kingdom consequently trials of a certain kind were not expected, viz: bitter contention among brethren. es pecially those who have been looked upon as leaders and instructors among us. But in all these expectations we have been disappointed, and some doubtless think that these are unheard of trials, too great to hear, and, like certain hearers in the parable of the sower, are on the point of becoming offended, and turning away from this best of causes.

We truly deplore this state of things, and would most gladly remove the evils, but as yet have been unable to do it. But their existence should not dis hearten us ; for they are nothing new nor strange The primitive saints were disappointed in their hopes : they thought the day of the Lord near .-2 Thess. if. Judas, one of the twelve, under the direct care and teaching of the Lord, betrayed him. Peter denied his Lord. Paul withstood Peter to the face. Paul and Barnabas sharply contended, and separated on a certain occasion. The Corinthian fell into litigation and disgraceful strife, became carnal and walked as men. Philetus and Himenius taught. Yet, notwithstanding all these, and many more like things, which sorely tried the primitive saints, the real merits of the cause of God were not thereby affected : the 'foundation of God' stood anre

Let the tried ones remember, that they were not only to be "purified, and made white," but "tried." And blessed is he that endureth temptation; for when he is sufficiently tried, he shall receive the crown of life. Remember that the sore trials you are now experiencing, are nothing 'strange,' or new. The saints in all ages have had similar trials to endure. They should cause you to trust not in an arm of flesh, but in the living God ; remembering that the errors of others do not affect the truth which you have espoused : it is of God, and will triumph, though all men reject, or depart from it. Endure, then, your trials, with patience, remembering, that if you do, they will work for you a far more exceed ing, and eternal weight of glory. But if you draw back, your soon coming Lord will have no pleasure

fur Wants.

The price of the present volume of the Harbinger was reduced to seventy-five cents, with the express understanding that payment should be made in advance. With few exceptions, paymenthas not been made, though we have now reached the ninth number of the volume. We very much want out dues, and it is just that we should have them. We have a heavy bill for paper to meet soon : it ought to be paid now, but we cannot do it without borrowing the money, unless our subscribers furnishit .-This they can do at once, if they only have a mind to do it. Nearly every one can spare seventy-five cents, or what they owe, without discommoding themselves. But to withhold it, does much embarass us. We depend on these small sums, scattered all over the land, in the hands of our patrons, to make up the large demands we have to meet. And now shall we call on them for help in vain 1 or will they. as they ever have done, come to our aid ! The latter, we believe they will do, and do it at once .-A few weeks will determine whether our confidence is misplaced, or not.

Our Free List.

We keep adding names to our free list, but as yet but a small sum has been contributed to aid in neeting the expense. The poor should have the gospel preached unto them ; but it should not be at the expense of one, nor of the few : ALL who are able should help in this good work. Look at our account of free subscribers, and the small sum we have received to aid in paying for the papers we send them, and say whether you will have a part in the matter or not. "He that giveth to the poor lendeth unto the Lord," and " the Lord loveth the cheerful giver." We must be assisted in this matter, or we cannot sustain the Harbinger at its reduced terms.

Exposition of Matthew x. 23.

A worthy correspondent asks an exposition of this text. It reads, "But when they shall persecute you in this city, flee ye into another : for verily I say unto you, ye shall not have gone over the cities of Israel till the Son of man be come."

The coming named could not refer to any thing which took place at the destruction of Jernsalem; ers of other ages. It also admits that the Bible because, long before that event, the disciples had teaches many good things, which were suited for overthrew the faith of some, and the doctrine of the gone over the cities of Israel. And, for the same the ages in which they were written, but not for Nicolajtanes and other damnable heresies were reason, it could not refer to the coming of the Lord at the end of the world. It must refer to his coming to, or visiting, those cities in the days of his ministry. The preceding part of the chapter strengthens this conclusion ; for it tells us that Christ was talking to his apostles, at the time of sending them out to preach ; and the only reasonable supposition is. that he meant to tell them that he would soon follow them into the places they might visit.

> "" Is Isa. ii, 1-4 spoken of the church in the enewed state, or of it at the present day. T. G.

It doubtless is a prophecy of the glorious reign of Christ on the earth : for it emphatically save the "mountain of the Lord's house shall be established -shall be exalted-all nations shall flow unto itmany people shall go and say - he shall judge among the nations, shall rebuke many peopleand they shall beat their swords into plowshares. and their spears into pruning hooks : nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Certainly this is not the description of this day of war, or rather of learning war. But it is a description of that soon coming glorious day when Christ, the prince of peace, shall reign over the whole earth, when his peaceful kingdom shall be established under the whole heaven.

His persevering labors, with those of his wife, have been a special benefit to the cause in many places. May they still meet with a cordial reception where duty may call them to go, and prove a rich blessing to those for whom they may labor.

IF The American Missionary for the present month, states that " the whole number of fugitives in the province of Canada West is from twenty to twenty-five thousand," and that during the last season, "about one thousand" escaped, from the state of Kentucky alone, and that one of the conductors of a freight train of cars on one of the Ohio railroads had passed in his cars 150 the past season. Success attend the philanthropic work.

A. J. Davis' Revelutions.

We have bestowed a little attention to the pretended revelations of the 'Poughkeepsie Seer,' said to have been given when he was in a clairvoyant state. They are printed in a neatly executed duodecimo volume of 782 pages.

This imposture is nothing more nor less than rank details of the new social system." P. 553. It admits that there was such mon as Moses, the prophets. Jesus Christ, and the apostles, but thinks they were no more inspired than Davis, or other reform-this age ; but many things which it teaches are set down as absurd and false. In confirmation of these statements, we will give a few extracts from the work. Discarding the inspiration and perfection of the Bible, Mr. Davis says :

"I have but a few more remarks to offer concerning the Bible, and these are as follows : It does not teach that pure morality which belongs to the nature of man, and which will result from a superior condition of the race. From this remark must be excepted a few incidental expressions said to have been used by JEsus-such as ' the Golden Rule,'-which was comprehensively taught six hundred years before, by Consucius, the Chinese philosopher .-Again: it does not prove immortality ; neither does it teach the mighty truths contained in the successive spheres or degrees of future existence. Nor does it even present any substantial proof of the transition from this rudimental condition, to a higher degree of material and physical organization ; or in other words, it does not demonstrate a resurrection to a future life. Nor does it anywhere present one proper conception of the constitution, character, greatness, omnipotence, and majesty of the Divine Mind. Nor does it do justice to his works, except in those meditations upon which I have heretofore commented. Nor does it contain one substantial proof of any unvarying law upon which to found a hope of ever being regenerated, or of ascending to a sphere of more perfect and harmonious existence. Nor does it teach that holy virtue, morality, and refinement, which should re-ceive the name of religion. * * * * Viewed in the light of history, I say, its writers should be respected, and its contents preserved. But as a theological book it should not be read ; for it contains no absolute doctrine. * * * I therefore say, the book is good as a history, and would not have done the least harm in the world, had not forced interpretations been given of its contents, and had not claims been preferred in its behalf to a sacredness which it does not claim for itself, and, as I can positively say, which it does not inherently possess." pp. 558, 559.

If this is not barefaced falsehood, bold infidelity, and daring blasphemy, we know not what is.

P. 575. Speaking of Jesus, Mr. Davis says "Then, I say, if Jesus, from a conviction of his judgment, made any actual distinction, such as the language attributed to him would indicate if literally understood, he mast be numbered with the ignorant and uneducated, who occupy no very high position in the sphere of thought and wisdom." Again,

P. 576. "Whoever says, then, that Jesus used such expressions [as are recorded in the New Testament] in a literal sense, as is generally taught by theologians, virtually charges him with being an impure and unrighteous man. But he who believes not these things, may consistently admit Jesus to have been a good man, and a natural philanthropist. . . I nerceive it is proper to affirm, that this language was employed by Jesus to convey his conceptions in a style suitable to be understood by the multitudes who listened to his preaching. The language presents no particular principles capable of being applied to the world at the present day. And indeed it would be a mark of wisdom, and a good sign of a mental resurrection from ignorance and superstition, if theologians and commentators would discard all further effort to draw instruction from those illustrations that were only useful nearly two thousand years ago."

"In respect to the origin of the account concern ing the ascension of Jesus, it is at the present time not important that I should enter into particulars ; expecially as former comments load to a solution of judging from their acts, and from what they as this question, and also exclude the possibility of such they would doubtless be among the first who would as a sctual accurrence. . . . The account given of lend their influence to drive us out of town. But, capecially as former comments lead to a solution of neighborhood where Jesus was born, concerning his illegitimacy. . . . The alleged prophecies concerning him, quoted from the Old Testament, were not originally intended to be thus applied ; but they were cited by the biographers of Jesus because they had a seeming appositeness to some of the circumstances of his life. . . . The accounts given of miracles also derived their character from the customary use of language in those days."

These quotations are sufficient to show the decidedly rank infidel character of this far famed wonderful book ; the contents of which are said to have been revealed by the inoffensive and illiterate Davis while in a clairvoyant state ! Every body with half an eye can see that Davis was not the author of these blasphemies-there is too much studied design in the work for this admission. That he has been made the tool or passive instrument, through which some unprincipled, wicked, designing infidel, or socialist, has operated, we do not doubt. The whole affair is a piece of arch deception, of these last days of perils, well calculated to deceive those who do not make the living God their refuge, and strong defense. Christian, beware ! remember, if possible, 'the very elect' will be deceived.

FROM BRO. N. W. SPENCER.

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- The Lord has done great things for us, for which we feel to praise his holy name. The solemn cry, "Behold he cometh," was sounded in various places in this region in the winter of '42 and '43, and many "took their lamps and went forth to meet the Bridegroom ;" but while he has tarried they have all slumbered, and the greater part are asleep. Not one of God's servants remained in this county to give ment in due season, but numbers to cry peace and safety have. The result has been almost all who were once looking for that blessed hope, have given it up and united with the different sects, and become more sceptical than those they have joined!

The few who still continued to look had become almost discouraged through their many trials, when it pleased the Lord to send one of his servants, Bro. Daniels, from Mass. He came here in October. He took the "Old Chart," and commenced lecturing in an adjoining town, in a neighborhood where they had never heard. The result has been glorious. A number have been hopefully converted to God-backsliders have been reclaimed, and the saints quickened and made to rejoice. A number have been called out of a lukewarm church. Some who embraced the truth in '43, but had given it up and scoffed at those who did believe it, have found repentance, and are now rejoicing in view of the speedy com ing of Jesus. Six willing converts have follow ed their Savior in the ordinance of Baptismatronger and happier ones I never saw. In short, I think this work equals, yea, excels that of '43. O praise the Lord !

Our meetings are spiritual ; the truth is spread ing; prejudice is giving away, and many are searching the Scriptures to see whether these things are so. God is preparing his children for glory, their home. Who of God's servants will ome and break to us the bread of life ? Will Bro. Bywater come and help us 1 he gave me some encouragement when at Homer last fall. The way is open now, and I think much good might be accomplished. Truth is mighty and will prevail. What we do must be done quickly

FROM BRO. S. G. CLARK.

DEAR BRO. MARSH ;-" The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah." It may be that the dear friends in Christ would like to know how their unworthy Bro. Clark is getting along. Well, I can say that by the grace and mercy of God I continue until now, striving to do the will of him that sent me to proclaim the truth of the gospel of Christ. It is my meat and drink to do the will of my blessed Lord and Master. Although I often get weary and am most worn out in body in the way, yet I am not wea-ry of the way, for the ways of wisdom are ways of pleasantness and all her paths are peace ; and I can say of a truth, great peace have they who love the law of the Lord-they shall hold on their way-they are like trees planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth fruit in their sesson.

I am about finishing up my labors in this place. I have been engaged in a protracted meeting with while the victory has been on the side of Zion The army of Satan has suffered a great loss. should judge that most of his army in this part of the battle field have been wounded, and about forty killed, But our King has not only manifested his power lo kill but to make alive also. I think I can say that I never saw a work move on so much like the order of heaven as the work in this place.

I came into this place last spring and commen-ced a course of lectures two miles from this meeting. Bro. Wright attended and wished me to make it my home at his house. He wished me to preach on the advent subject in his church, and I complied with the requast, and now in the protracted meeting he and I have joined hand in hand, and I know the Lord has been with us. Bro. W, believes in the speedy coming of Christ, although with the Baptist church, and he will preach his faith. The general motives presented why sinners should repent have been, the speedy coming of Christ to judgment. Those who have been converted have been from the old man of seventy years down to the child of twelve, and they all come out strong in the Lord.

Yesterday I preached to a large congregation on the subject of baptism, after which we repaired to the water in a procession, attended with the choir, singing the glorious praises of God, and I baptized five by planting them in the likeness of the Lord's death. Bro. W. baptized four and there are some thirty to be baptized. | The work is yet going on. Some are under conviction, and I think about all in the place are wounded. God grant that they may die and be brought to life in Jesus Christ. The Lord willing, I shall preach here to morrow evening, and then I must start for Frederic, and from thence to Jackson. My health has been so poor that sometimes I have thought I must give up preaching, but I should like to continue in the field if it is the will of the Lord, Most of my time has been spent among the poor, and I have needed a horse to travel with and have not been able to get one. I think my labors have been too hard for me, but I am willing to spend and be spent in the work of the Lord. I hardly know what to do. Sometimes I think I will stop preaching and go to work with my hands, and so get me a team ; but I don't wish to do wrong, nor act the part of a Jonah, and the western field is very large, and there are very many who wish to hear the truth. I hope you will pray for me, that God may direct my steps. 1 yet love the coming of Christ-time is very short-what is done must be done quickly-and I am looking for the blessed Lord to come quickly; even so come Lord Jesus. Amen and amen.

Yours in Christ, S. G. CLARK. Macomb, Mich. Jan. 17, 1848.

BRO. MARSH :- The scenes of this world are rap-BRO, MARSH: — I he accluses of this works are rap-light drawing to a close. The scaling of the virgins and the completion of the number of God's dear elect, will soon, yea, very soon, be consummated,— I think often of your lakors in the vineyard of our, common Lord. Of the zeal, courage, and moral decision, necessary to a faithful discharge of your ed-tionial administerial duties. They must be labo-rious, incessant and ardnous. Mine also are of the most trying and laborious kind. They extend over most trying and intorions kind. I say extend over a wide-spread field, with very few kindred associ-ates. But the grace of God has hitherto been suff-cient for me, and some, yea, many precious souls have been brought I trust, to Jesus Christ and him crucified; and also to know the spirit and power of his resurrection, which will soon be witnessed.-

Spring, are, I think, ominous and highly important. We shall probably witness the coming of the Lord. And although sinners and formalists have spoken with derision concerning our disappointments, and have held us in contempt for our continued confidence and hope, yet I tell them that the Savior will come too soon for the unprepared, and when the snare finally springs upon them, they will cry, "Tis now too iate—I am not ready, and am lost forever!"— O, that sinners and all the unprepared, might remember and lay it to heart, that it is the last call of mercy that lingers for them. Amen. Yours in truth and love.

FROM. SISTER P. BLOOD.

DRAR BRO. MARSH :--- My heart is with the Advent cause, and I truly sympathise with all those who seem to be placed in the forefront of the hottest battles (as I consider editors and publishers to be, in these perilous times). We have a little band of Advent believers here, who love to meet and converse on the glorious subject of our coming King, and our faith will not waver while we are daily witnessing so many additional evidences of it.

I am pained to see our professed Christian world so fearfully torpid on the subject of the prophecies. I am ofien reminded of the fable of the dog in the manger, who would neither eat himself nor suffer If our opposers would search the Scripothers to. tures and give us a more reasonable explanation of them than we already have, we would look at it but they confess they do not know or under-stand them. I think Isaiah's prophecy is now fulfilled : "They are drunken, but not with wine, they stagger, but not with strong drink, for the Lord hath poured out upon them a spirit of slumber." What else could have induced our government to what else could have induced our government co invite a Roman Bishop into their house to preach to them. But, as Bro Needham says, it is an astound-ing evidence of the corruptions of the times. That the Lord may sustain and strengthen you through all the trials of these last days, is the prayer of your unworthy sister in Christ,

For the Harbinger Be Thou our Help.

When earth and hell, O Lord, combine. Thy people to appress, Then comfort by thy precious word, And with thy spirit bless.

In every battle with our foes, Be thou our strength and stay : When snares our waiting feet beset, Help us to watch and pray.

And while iniquity abounds And evils fast increase, From strife help us to stand aloof, And choose the way of peace.

Soon will our God, with might and power, From heaven to earth descend Soon will the trumpet's awful voice The controversy end.

AND ITS IMPARTIAL TRIAL IN THE ISLE OF MAN."

"Let us search and try our ways."-Lam. ili. 40.

The first part of this advice is to search. know that when any one has offended the laws, he ought to be pursued and brought to justice; and, surely, the principal malefactor, and one who does harm to every person, is Sin. This is a notable thief and robber : he robs God of his honor, and man of God's favor ; he stole from angels their excellence and glory, and from our first parents their innocence and happiness. He is also a murderer : he slays the hoary head, and kills the tender mother with the new-born habe; regarding neither sex, age, nor condition. He is so strong, that he commands the reason, controls the will, tyrannizes over the affections, and leads captive the whole man. He smothers conscience for speaking, hardens the heart for feeling, clouds the judgment from discerning, stops the ear from hearing, lames the feet from walking in God's ways, benumbs the hands from doing acts of charity, and makes the tongue to falter in speaking of truth and holiness. He is, therefore, to be carefully avoided, that he do no person a mischief; and diligently sought out, that he may be brought to justice.

That he may be guarded against and taken, a watchman has been appointed, whose name is is Love-good, a zealous fellow for God and holy duties; the other is Hate-ill, an angry fellow, and of a fierce countenance against Sin.

The place where these are set to watch is called Souls-town, a town of great resort, a thoroughfare never without ill motions passing through it, and many of them take up their lodgings at the common hall, the Heart. This town is very spacious and large; for, besides many by lanes and out-corners, there are four great streets --- Sense-street, Thought-street, Wordstreet, and Deed-street ; in some of which this wicked fellow, Sin, and some of his companions, are generally found wandering.

When the watch is set, these watchmen have a charge given them, which is this : "Keep thy soul diligently"; also to have a careful eye to the Inp. and "to take head, lest at any time there be an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God." They are also commanded to "exhort one another daily, lest their hearts be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin."

As soon as the thief, Sin, is perceived, the watchmen make a hue and cry after him; and they know well how to describe him, because, by the law of the Ten Commandments comes the knowledge of Sin. And the hue and cry thus set up, is carried on by the pirit of supplication, crying mightily to the Lord for grace and mercy to help in time of need.

There are certain villains who endeavor to deceive the watchmen while they are carrying on the hue and cry, in order that Sin, in the meantime, may seek shelter and escape. One of these is Mr. Outside, a fellow that will come to church, keep Sundays and holydays out of form and custom, without desiring or obtaining any effectual blessing, or keeping his thoughts and affections from worldly business and advantage. He cannot abide after meditation, or Christian conference; and if he knows of any who meet togeth er for this purpose, he is ready to send the hue and cry after them, as against Schismatics and Enthusiasts. He is, in truth, a vulgar ignoramus. and a besotted adversary. Another of these is Mr. Worldly-wise, but he is a very fool to God, and a self conceited earth-worm. He despises the wisdom that is from above, and is ready to send the hue and cry after it, as after foolish and doting simplicity. The third is Mr. Lukewarm, who is a time-server, a Jack on both sides ; he speaks highly in praise of moderation and discretion, but is quite indifferent to all that is really good. He cannot endure godly zeal, but would have it pursued as fiery and mad-brained rashness. The fourth is one Libertine, a very licentious and wicked fellow, who cares for nothing but how to enjoy himself with sensual pleasures .-Godly-isalousy, who has also two assistante-one unsocial and anappiah fellow, who makes more mit, that they are in the church position of God's sins than the law condemns, and lives upon faultfinding. Weak apprehension is his father, and Misunderstanding his mother, and an Uncharitable-heart his nurse. This is a rigid and censorious adversary. All these endeavor to mislead the pursuers of sin, and to set them to apprehend eminent virtues for vices. The subtle villain, Sin, uses also several shifts whereby he may make his escape from the watchmen. Sometimes he counterfeits the habit of an honest man; as Ananias and Sapphira, who made a show of liberality. while they were keeping back part of the price of their possessions. He alters his name ; and so Drunkenness escapes under the same of Goodfellowship; Covetousness, under the name of Good-husbandry; Filthy talking, under the name of Merriment ; Pride-of-apparel, under the name of Decency of dress ; Revenge, under the name of Valor; and many such like foul vices do thus deceitfully hide themselves, and so escape being apprehended.

lst. The church of the living God is not a sect or section of Cinistians, cut off by any denominational organization. All sects and denominations lack one essential characteristic of the church of God, hence no sect on earth is acknowledged in the New Testament by God to be his church .--Neither is there a text in the New Testament. referring to the gospel dispensation, in which such acknowledgement is implied. Do you ask what that characteristic is ? We answer, it is the position of the church of the New Testament. which is only one, and that one is not occupied by any denomination under heaven. Consequently, the position of God's church is in no sect at all, out of all sectarian organizations.

Position is essential to the existence of manmade churches or organized sects and denominations. I will prove this: the great Romish sect cannot exist without its peculiar church position. The church of England cannot exist as such without the position peculiar to itself. Let the Presbyterian sect take the position of the Methodist sect, and they put their church out of existence. Thus we see that the position of every sectarian organization is peculiar to itself, and without which it could have no existence. If then man-made churches cannot exist as theirs, without their respective denominational positions, neither can God's church exist out of the position peculiar to it ; and that position is out of all man-organized churches or sects. We admit that there are carnal babes in Christ, standing in Religion with him is only state policy, and he sects-1 Corinthians, second chapter, begin at sends the hue and cry after it, as against very first verse, read first four chapters of the same. hypocrisy. The last is Mr. Scrupulosity, a very But the New Testament does not allow us to ad74

to he in the position of the church of God, and church of the Methodists both at the same time. "The church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth," is unlike any and all other organizations. God has never empowered any man, nor body of men, to organize his church. That is a work which the great Head of the church has retained in his own hands .-"Upon this rock will I build my church," &c "The Lord added to the church," Can you read in the Testament that he, the Lord, ever added one soul to any sect or denomination 1 From Rome down to the Mormons, you cannot. Thus far we see that God is against the mere existence of all sects and denominations under heaven .-Now, if you were absolutely opposed to your neighbor's building a barn or garner to put your wheat in, would you not object to his putting it in, and calling it our wheat ? But God is oppos ed to your gathering his people into your church es. Read the Savior's all impressive prayer in the 17th chapter of St. John, a little before he suffered, and then hear St. Paul: "Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned, and avoid them." &c .-"I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together (not apart as sects), in the same mind and the same judgment." Read on, first four chapters of 1 Corinthians .-The above quotation is in Rom. 1. 17. Pethans we might weary your patience with quotations from the New Testament, which show nothing but God's disapprobation to sectarianism. To avoid this, I will here simply say, that the whole weight of the New Testament is opposed to the positions of all sects and denominations under heaven, and must be, of course, opposed to all their peculiar machinery and practice.

I will now briefly show farther the New Tes tament, or which is the same, God against the practice of man-made churches. And first let us throw open the doors of every human organization, from Rome down to the Mormons, and see them taking members into those churches of theirs. Now turn to the New Testament, and nee if you can find one single one of these churches' doors in that book of God. You cannot. You know that no soul can become a member of any sect under heaven, unless they join it of the church of God at Corinth, " Is Christ diby going in at its peculiar door ; hence, joining vided, was Paul crucified, or were you baptized them is the secret and substance of all their tests of fellowship. Now, the only door of the church take a sectional possessive relation to the body of of God is Jesus Christ. "I am the door : by me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall church is his body); their being for Paul went go in and out, and find pasture," John x. 9 .-Who dare say that those who enter in by this door and to give it to Paul ; but Paul teaches them, are not members in particular of the body of and all sects, that they cannot, without sinning Christ, or the church of God ? "Which is his against God, inasmuch as none of them were body the fulness of him that filleth all in all."- | baptized in the name of Paul, but in the name of Now the Holy Ghost has, in the Testament, par the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, ticularly taught us, that this body (Christ's) is an overwhelming reason why even Paul, Apolone, can be but one. I will quote but little of los or Cephes dars not have such a position to the his teaching on this subject. I Cor. xii. 11, "For church of God as is expressed by the phrase (in as the body is one, and hath many members, and common use among all secu), our church. Is it of the word of God ! Now the earnings of half a church ; you cannot (even if you are as good as all the members of that one body, being many, not clear that the church is so God's that it dare chapter through. Nothing is plainer than that the church of God is but one body, and that body Christ's only. Then it cannot be the Presbyteand theirs being many, the doors differeth as widely, it follows, as a matter of course, that probation, and all the rest under his displeasure. But if the church of God can have but a unitary position, it follows that it can have but one table, Then the tables, from Rome down to the last man-made church or sect, are as far objectionable as are their churches and sect doors. The Lord's supper is for all God's people, but the sects' tables are for their people, or, at the farthest, for one another. Now, please search the New Teschurch under heaven. You cannot; and the masters over sectarian tables seem, some of them sometimes, to see and feel this ; hence, they say it is not our table ; but this is not true, whether they say it ignorantly or not, because they set as masters over it, as they do over God's heritage. Are there not as many tables as sects, and is not each table somewhat peculiar to each sect ?-Does not all the world (where the sects are with their tables) know that every sect has its own table ? Take an instance: In a small village where there may not be more than a few dozen of professors of religion, and perhaps less pos sessors, is seen the tables of the Baptist Methodist and Presbyterian sects; and who can deny, seeing they, as all other sects, have a possessive relation to their churches, they have a possessive relation to those tables also, in the nature of things. It cannot be otherwise, however much they may deny it or try to cloak it. Now, we never hear a single named saint in all the New Testament using the phrase, "our church," nor door of our church, neither do we ever hear a single name in God's book, saying our communion. They understood those great subjects, or Paul at least has showed that none but God can have a possessive relation to God's church, and to the Lord's supper. Hence, he says to those in the name of Paul ?" as much as to say, if you Christ, you practically divide Christ (for the far to rob Jesus of the glory of his crucifixion, Barnabas) be in the Methodist and Presbyterian are one body, so also is Christ, for by one spirit not belong to any man or body of men 1 To the sect at the same time ; and this is as easy as it is are we all baptized into one body." Read the church Paul says, "Ye are Christ's and Christ is God's."

But, farther, we may see God against the sects or sectarianism, with regard to the churches' rule terian body, the Methodist body, or Baptist, Mor- of faith and practice. 1. It seems to be right mon, Roman Catholic, or any other body. If that whosever makes or organizes a church. the church of God is one body only, it has one should make a rule of faith and practice for it; door only. Now, inasmuch as Christ's body dif- and it makes but little difference whether men fereth thus from the sects' body, his being a unit make their churches or creeds first. Perhaps some have made their creeds before their churches, and others afterwards; and some may have there is but one church position under God's ap- mixed the work according to the extension of the sects. This would likely be the case with sects of a national character. But be all these things, and more as they may, it is certainly a right, we mean one Lord's table, or the Lord's supper. growing out of the liberty to organize a sect, any sect and all denominations. But it is a privilege proceeding from no other source. But all the world, which has or will have human organizations as its church position, must have manmade creeds. We insist that it is necessary; and the fact that all sects have either a written or untament, and see if in it you can find the table of written creed, with a double set of rules, one to obey the Lord set by, and for the use of any sectarian themselves, and the other to defend their faith, proves this. But the sects cannot exist as they are, without an inseparable connection with their respective creeds. The following may serve to tilustrate and prove this. Suppose the Presbyterian sect were to take the Episcopel Methodist Discipline, and conform themselves to it in church position and practice, their sect by this would be annihilated.

> The necessity of every sect having, and walking according to, its own peculiar creed is absolute, (if they will be and remain what they are). You know that every sect is identified in a shurch position and practice, with its discipline, creed, or whatever. Now, I will allow every sect to say (for to be consistent they must), that their church is conformed to their creed, or that their creed is conformed to the position and practice of the sect it represents. Now I will ask a fair question. If these things are so concerning all man-made or organized churches, does it not follow that God's church is identified with God's book, in its position, faith and practice ! But we have God's book in our hands, and do see his church in it in its unit position and practice .---And we do see in the Testament that God only approbates it in that oneness of church position and mutual faith and union practice. Now, if "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, to day, and forever," and if God Almighty changes not, he only can approve his book as the only rule of faith and practice for his church-then his church must be positioned by his book ; nay, it is positioned in his book. "and may be known and read of all men." I will say egain, that in that book we do see God's church out of all sect or manorganized churches on earth. Surely God is against all your man-made creeds.

"In October, 1805, during the course of the Austrian war, the French troops seized upon Ancona, the most important fortress in the ecclesisstical dominions; and the remonstrances of the Pope against this violent invasion were not only entirely disregarded, but Napoleon, in reply, openly asserted the principle that he was Emperor of Rome, and the Pope was only his viceroy. All Italy must be subjected to my law : your situation requires that you should pay me the same respect in temporal which I do you in spiritual matters. Your holiness must cease to have any delicacy towards my enemies and those of the church. You are sovereign of Rome but I am its Emperor. All my enemies must be its enemies. No Sardinian, English, Russian or Swedish envoy can be permitted to reside a your capital.' The haughty and disdainful terms of this letter, and the open announcement of an undisguised sovereignty over the Roman States. first opened the eves of the benevolent pontiff to the real intentions of the French Emperor ; he returned an intrepid answer to the conqueror of Austerlitz, that he recognized no earthly potentate as his superior. 'Your majesty,' said Pius VII., 'lays it down as a fundamental principle, that you are sovereign of Rome ; the supreme nontiff recognizes no such authority, nor any power superior in temporal matters to his own. There is no emperor of Rome : it was not thus that Charlemagne treated our predecessors. The demand to diamiss the envoys of Russia, England and Sweden is positively refused. The father of the faithful is bound to remain at peace with all, without distinction of Catholics, or heretics.'-Pius XIL to Napoleon, March 12th, 1806. And from that hour may be dated the hostility which grew up between them."

Now every candid reader must understand that although Napoleon claims at this time sovereignty of Rome, still it was merely an assumption of a right that he did not in any sense whatever possess; that this assumption of right did no more give him possession of Rome, than such a pretended right would have given him to the throne of the British Empire. Had the Pope been possessed of power sufficient to have contested this right successfully with Napoleon, he might with as much propriety claimed the sovereignty of France, and to have endeavored to frighten the French Emperor into quiet submission. Napoleon knew that the Pope was weak, and that he was strong ; that he could destroy the power of the Pope, and chose to endeavor if possible to ing interest, on "scenes surpassing fable, yet frighten the Pope into submission by threats, rathat than at first to compel him to submission by the force of arms.

[For the Harbinger.] Letter from Bro. I. Merriam.

DEAR BRO. MARSH :--- I have recently been thinking how much more ready spiritual people are to believe in the literal, personal and triumphant reign of Christ on the renovated earth, together with the proximity of that event, than those whose lives are worldly and sensual. Why is it that those who have been eminently spiritual, particularly in the purest age of the church, have looked forward, with such intense interest, to the cousummation 1 Such have been "taught of God." With him the past and future are ever present; and, by consequence, the scenes of "that day" are passing before the divine mind as an ever present reality.

When an astronomer views the heavens from the height of his observatory, with a cloudless sky, his position is favorable to the observation of celestial phenomena. But when enveloped in the fog and obscurity of the valley, or when the heavens are overcast, the glories of telescopic vision are concealed from view. Thus the higher we rise above the mists and vapors of earth. soaring on the wings of faith and love towards the throne, the nearer will our point of observation coincide with that of the divine mind; and the more pure and serene our moral heavens, the more visible and distinct will celestial objects appear. From such a position, the telescope of faith, by its space-penetrating power, brings scenes of futurity present to the eye. The towering hills that are "round about Jerusalem" rise in grandeur and sublimity, like the eternal battlements of Jehovah's strength ; and a landscape of surpassing grace stretches along the distant horizon, with all the charms and loveliness of Eden's bowers. While the eye is fixed, with all-absorbtrue," the flaming lines of light from the New Jerusalem, the bursting glories of the heavenly scenery, come darting, streaming, blazing into "Napoleon, so far from relaxing in any of his the mind with overpowering charms. Bless the demands, was only the more aroused, by this un- Lord, O our souls, and all that is within us, praise

I wish to say a word in regard to the beloved brethren and sisters of Concord, N. H., whom I have recently visited. They have been afflicted with the loss of one of their dearest brethren, Bro. Cotton Brown : and his mantle of eminent piety seems to have fallen on his beloved companion ;and the bereavement been sanctified to all of "like precious faith." Their meetings are cheer ad with the Savior's presence in a remarkable degree, and at no time, since the passing of the memorable tenth, have they risen to so high a point of spirituality and enjoyment.

One word more, in regard to the Harbinger and Herald. I have thought some points of scrintural truth were evolved by the Harbinger, that were not presented by the Herald ; but although my sympathies are with you in regard to doctrines, yet I would say, let there be no strife between brethren. The world will never be convinced of the truth of the glorious doctrines of the advent faith by their contentions. It must be the melting power of Christian love, that will flash conviction upon an unbelieving world .--"That they all may be one ; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us ; that the world may believe that thoy hast sent me."

> [For the Harbinger.] State of the Dead.

I am glad to hear the Harbinger speak out on several subjects that to me are of great imnort. ance, viz., the end of the wicked, and the intermediate state of the dead. The position yourself and many others have taken on these subjects, as set forth in the Harbinger, I think, is according ing to truth. How I could have read my Bible as long as I did, and not discover the true light on these points, is somewhat astonishing. But I have become fully established, that the wages of sin is death-not eternal life in misery, but the opposite of life, which is death.

Speaking of the end of the wicked, the anostle says, "They shall utterly perish in their own corruption." The Psalmist says, "The enemies of the Lord shall be as the fat of Lambs," and Malachi, that "the day will come that will burn as an oven, and all the proud, yes, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble," and that they will be burnt up root and branch.

That the dead know not anything, until the resurrection, is a clearly revealed truth. We are told that David is not ascended into the heavens. Paul did not expect to receive his crown until Christ should appear. The same apostle has exhorted his brethren in the ministry to diligence, and a right discharge of all their duties. as overseers of the flock, assuring them that when the Chief Shepherd should appear, then they also should appear with him in glory. He also, speaking of the ancient worthies, says, "They all died in faith, not having received the promises, God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect."-

I am aware that those that are opposed to the above sentiments, contend that it is the body that sleeps in the grave, but let it he remem bered that it refers to the whole man.

> "Two Horned Beast." 80. TIV.

In concluding our remarks on this subject, we propose to give a brief summary of the sentiments contained in our preceding aricles, that they may be more readily comprehended on the whole matter under discussion.

1. The seven-headed beast in Rev. xiii, we think symbolizes the fourth earthly kingdom of prophecy, from the time Rome was divided into ten kingdoms, to the destruction of all earthly governments, by the Son of man at his second appearing.

2. The seven heads symbolize the seven forms of the Roman government, viz: " Regal power, The Dictatorship, The power of the Prators, The Consulate, The Triumvirate, The Imperial power, and the Patriciale

8. The head that was wounded to death and did live again, is symbolical of the regal or kingly form of the Roman government, which was slain or put down by the power of the sword, but was again rewived, now lives, and will exist until the King of kings shall come to reign forever.

The two-horned beast symbolizes the ecclesi astical power of the Roman church, or as Dr. Clarke thinks. the "Latin clergy, REGULAR and SECULAR." These have exercised all the power of the political ten-horned beast, have done many wonders in his sight; have caused to be made the image of the beast, and been the means of putting to death all who would not worship the image of the beast.

5. The image of the beast is symbolical of the Pons of Rome.

The name of the beast is, The Latin Kingdom and the number of his name is the numerical value of the letters in this name, which Dr. Clarke conclusively shows, is six hundred and sixty-six.

This very imperfect synopsis of what we have written in our recent articles on this subject, must suffice for the present. We have written under very forbidding circumstances, and doubtless shall on reviewing what we have written, see cause to make some corrections : but, as a whole, we feel that we have presented the truth on this matter. We see not a valid objection that can be raised against the general view we have taken. This we cannot say of any other theory with which we are acquainted. The one we have given is simple, and easy of comprehension, and is in perfect harmony with the pro phecies of Daniel and Paul, on this subject, and in strict accordance with well known historical facts consequently must be correct.

The practical good we should derive from this numerous facts show that it is true. 2d. We should runtions of the age in which they lived, and to show rejoice in the assurance that the day of the saints' deliverance from gentile rule, and papal domination, is near: for undeniable facts show that this and other prophecies relating to their entire history, are nearly fulfilled ; their day of oppression and blood is nearly closed, and the day of glory is just about to dawn. And we should be loudly admonished to keep ourselves free from all the influences of the beast, and constantly ready to meet our coming Lord and King

Work of a Reformer

What is it ? To make men better-is the ready answer of all understanding persons. But how shall this work be done 1 is a question on which men dif fer. Some think it is to be accomplished "only by exciting a hate against what they dislike ; others, by creating love to what is good. The former only pull down ; the latter build." Each of these wave we think is alike defective ; but unite them into one. and they make a perfect rule of action. Hope and fear are the two great motives which move men to repentance and holy living. Take away either, and the sinner will not reform. But bring both properly to bear upon bis mind, and he will amend his ways. " Pull down" a man's sinful and rotten fabric of religion or morals, and "build" or show him a bette one, and he will be more likely to take shelter in the house built upon the rock of truth, than if but one of these acts had been done.

But what do the Scriptures teach us on this imnortant matter ! "I will overturn, overturn, overtarn it," says the Lord. Eze. xxi. 27. This has been, and will be, a work of his, in reference to all wicked powers, until he shall come whose right it is, when the waste places of Zion, or the kingdom, shall be builded, or set up under the whole heavens

The work of Jeremiah was "to root out, and to all down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant." Jer. i. 10. All the patriarche and prophets had a similar work to perform ; for doing which many of them suffered persecution and death, as Paul tells us in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews.

The work of Christ was to "root up" every plant which his Father had not planted, and to lay the sure foundation for the salvation of a lost world. All who are acquainted with the history of his ministry, know very well that the cause of his persecution and death, was on account of his exposing, rebuking, and pulling down the popular and corrupt doctrines, theories and practices of the proud church of those times. This was a part of his work-another part was to preach the lovely gospel, or glad tidings of the kingdom.

The work of the apostles was like that of their Master. Hence Paul says, "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds ; casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ." 2 Cor. 2, 4.5. "We wrestle not against Christ." 2 Cor. z. 4, 5. flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." Eph. vi. 12. Noble, worthy, and valient reformers But their fearless, uncompromising course cost their lives, but secured to them a crown of glory, in the world to come. Let us imitate them, in this day of corruption in high and low places, within and out of the church, that we may share in their exceeding great and glorious reward.

The work of Luther, Fox, Wesley, Whitfield, and whole matter is, let. Our faith should he greatly every reformer that is worthy of the name, has been now understand, and are trying every moment to be strengthened in the prophetic word ; for in this case to wage an uncompromising war against the cor- ready to meet their Lord. But none of the wicked the people the truth, the more excellent way .-What would any of the reformers of ancient or modern times have accomplished, had they simply dwelt on the "beautiful and lovely," and not attempted to "pull down" that which was "putrid and odious ?" Comparatively nothing. And, let alone the crying sine of this degenerate age, and preach nothing but "beautiful and lovely" things, and the church and the world will slumber on in their sins and blood under our ministry, or laud our performance. But if we lay the axe of truth at the root of the tree of iniquity, or grasp the pillars of their false hope and corrupt theories, like Jeremish, to "pull down and to destroy" them, our fate, if not to be cast into the filthy vault of the dungeon, will be to bear the contempt and odium of being a disturber of the churches and the neace of community.

The way to reform men now is, and ever has been. to show them their sins in a faithful manner, and then point them to the fountain of salvation, in which to be cleansed from all their pollution. The Lord make us all successful in this good work, that when he shall come, he may say unto us, Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord.

"The Wise shall Understand.".

Understand what ? The principle of godliness in the heart, is the ready answer of many. But Daniel says, "I understood not." Were not the principles of godliness understood by him ? Certainly not, if they were what the wise were to un-derstand. What, then, were they to understand ! By consulting this chapter (Dan. xii., and the preceding ones) it will be clearly seen, that the time when the events predicted should take place, is what they would understand : no other reasonable interpretation can be given, or meaning attached to the expression under consideration.

But was not Daniel a wise man, and more capable of understanding the time than any one in this day ! True. Daniel was a wise man, but wise as he was, he could not tell future events, only as they were revealed unto him, and as certain events were to mark the commencement and termination of certain times named in the prophecy, and as those events did not occur in Daniel's day, of course he could not understand when the times would commence and terminate. But those not as wise as Daniel, living after the occurrence of the events which marked the commencement of those times, and knowing how to reckon prophetic time, could understand the matter, and very accurately calculate when those times would end

But how accurately were the wise to understand 1 The angel does not tell Daniel this, hence we are left to infer on this matter, unless some other portion of the inspired word will give us the light we need. Matt. xxiv., we think, gives us this light. Christ, in speaking on this very subject, the standing up of Michael (Dan. xii.), or his own second coming, says, "Of that day and hour knoweth no man." &c. Hence the wise were not to understand as definitely as this. "But when ye shall see all these things, know that he is near, even at the doors." This is then as accurately as the wise were to understand.

Do the wise thus understand the time of the secadvent 1 We unhesitatingly say they do : for the most convincing fulfilment of prophecy, historical and chronological, and of the signs, too numerons to mention here, prove beyond successful contradiction, that the coming of the Lord is near .-This great and glorious truth, we believe the wire now understand, and are trying every moment to be understand these things. They are blind to the signs of these fearfully momentous times. As it was in the days of Noah, they know not that sudden destruction is but just before them, hence our warnings are idle tales to them. Deluded mortals ! O. that they would prepare to stand when the Son of man shall appear. Christian, beware, lest, like the foclish sinner, you become unwise, cease to watch and pray, and so that day come upon you as a snare, to your everlasting destruction. " What I say unto you, I say unto all, WATCH," is the warning of your soon coming Lord.

Singular Inquiry.

A correspondent from Massachusetts inquires "I should like to know whether you have withdrawn from the congregation in your place and whether you have any intercourse with Bro. Robinson-moi attend the Advent meetings in Rochester 1 A certein man gave me a call awhile ago, while on a 'tour of observation,' and said such were the facts, besides many other things too numerous to mention.

Your informant is mistaken in every specification, in every sense of the word. And we are happy to say, that from the time we became identified with the cause in this City, we have never felt a deeper interest in its prosperity than now ; and it is highly gratifying to say, that notwithstanding a difference of opinion on the state of the dead, and the punishment of the finally impenitent, may exist between Bro. Robinson and myself, yet, unbroken, and undisturbed, and warm friendship and christian love, have reigned between us, and we trust will continue to reign until perfected in the kingdom of God, where it will never cease.

The Lord show the author and publisher of such reports, his folly, and in future guide him in the way of truth.

fr The cause at Batavia, the county-seat of Genesee Co., we trust has become, through the persevering labors of Brn. Pinney and Bywater, and the power and blessing of truth, permanently established, in spite of the organized and settled opposition which has been arrayed against it. Saturday evening and Sabbath last we spent in that place. Our meetings were well attended. A number (some young converts) spoke of their faith and hope, and the goodness of God in their salvation, and their settled purpose to endure unto the end. On Sabbath Bro. Bywater haptized two happy souls, making in all seven he has baptized there since this good work commenced. More were expected to attend to the same duty the next Sabbath.

Our brethren have permanently taken a convenjept hall, which will seat about three hundred, where they design to continue their meetings. Bro. Bywater or Pinney is expected to preach to them on the Sabbath, at least for the present, if not statedly. At the same time, however, they design to extend their labors into other new places, as doors may be opened to hear the Word.

As not many of the rich of this world have em braced the faith, at Batavia, and probably will not where Brn. Pinney and Bywater may labor, it will be necessary for them, in order to go forward with the good work, to receive assistance from abroad. We say, therefore, to those who have anything to give for this purpose, it will be thankfully received, and we think appropriated to the good of souls and the glory of God. - Your offerings, when most convenient, may be sent to this office, and we will forward the same to those for whom they are designed.

There is evidently an increasing desire in many places to hear on the doctrine of the coming of Christ, and its kindred doctrines ; and every iawful effort possible should be made, to meet these important demands of the perishing multitudes around us.

must be done quickly; for soon the Master will come

IF We are informed by the last No. of the Herald that in consequence of an affection of the organs of his voice. Bro. Himes has been under the neces sity of indefinitely posponing his western tour. We also learn by the same paper that Bro. Wm. Miller is very severely afflicted with sore eyes, so that he has for some weeks been unable to read or write. Soon our afflicted brethren, if ready to meet their Lord, with all his faithful servants and children, will enter that happy land, where the inhabitants will not say, I am sick, where the tongue of the dumb shall be loosed, the eyes of the blind see, and where there shall be no more sorrow ; for these afflictions shall then have forever passed away.

(F" The names of about twenty new subscribers were received last week. Thanks to those who obtained them. Be not weary in this work, and though it prosper slowly, by the blessing of God, the object before us will be attained.

The article headed "The New Testament against Sectarianism," was not carefully read before it was in type. Its sentiment is good, but its order is confused. We shall endeavor to be more careful in our selections in future.

The Resurrection.

The following benutiful and striking thoughts are from the pen of the late Dr. Mason :-

Whatever have been the disputes about other doc trines of Christianity, no man can deny that it teaches the resurrection of the hody. The very gates of hell, in the shape of that unhallowed philos only which fitters away its most precious truths into Eastern metaphors and Jewish allegories, bave not ventured to tamper with the faith of the resur-This stands confessed a Christian necurection liarity. This clay which we commit to the grave under that universal sentence, Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return, will be quiekened again, and resume, even after the slumber of ages, the organiza-tion, the lineaments, the expression of that self-same neing with whom we were conversant on earth otherwise it were a new creation, and not a resur-rection; and will be re-animated by the self-same spirit that formook it at death ; otherwise it were new being altogether, and not the one with whom, under the form, we held sweet communion in this life, and walked to the bouse of God in company.

The body will be raised under circumstances and with properties suited to the new state of being and action on which the saints will enter. God shall bring them with the Lord Christ. They shall be found in Christ's train. They shall be Christ's likeness. "Beloved, it does not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when he shall what we shall be jub birm, for we shall see bin as appear we shall be like birm, for we shall see bin as he is." The change requisite for this exaltation shall pass upon their body without destroying its asamccess ; as feesh and blood it cannot inherit the kingdom of God. "It is sown in corruption, it is d in incorruption ; it is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory; it is sown in washness, it is raised in power; it is sown a matural body, it is raised spiritual body;" fit for the occupations and enjoy-ments of the heavenly world.

But how are these transformations to be effected How? By the same Power that calleth things that he not, as though they were. God shall bring his risen ones with Jesus Christ. This is our short an-I cannot open my eyes to the objections of We are upon too high ground to stoop unhelief. uncerief. We are upon too high ground to shop to the caviller who marshalls his ignorance and im-becility against the knowledge and might of God.— Let him puzzle himself with his theories about personal identity; let him talk about one part of the body interred in Asia, another in Africa, and a third

Let us all awake to renewed action. What we do and become by nutrition a part of their bodies ; which hodies again have passed, by the same pro-cess, into the flesh of other animals ; and these, in ín turn, consumed by man, and incorporated with the substance of a new human body; let him ask such questions and ten thousand like them. Has he done ? "Dost thou not therefore err, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God ?" It will be time enough to plead thy difficulties when God shall com mit to thee the raising of the dead. For as it is, it is sufficient that he who rears up the living blade from the rotten grain will be at no loss to rear up an incorruptible from a corrupted body, through what forms and varieties scever it may have passed

That God hould raise the dead, if it so pleased him, will not appear incredible to any sober man. But what proof have we that our faith on this head is not fancy, and that our hope shall not perish ? The best of all possible proof. We have not he first place, the Divine promise. God has engaged to raise his per-ple up by Jesus, and to present them together with him. Jesus himself has said, "I am the resurrection and the life ; he that believeth on me, though he were dead, ye shall be live, and he that liveth and believeth on me shall never die." ## Correspondence.

"These epistles, beloved, I write unto you; in which I stir up our ours minds by way of remembrance "-PETER.

FROM BRO. S. CHAPMAN

DEAR BRO. MARSH :-Being shut up in this place, I wish through this medium to say a few words to the brethren of the household

We left Wolcott, Wayne Co., five weeks since, to attend the Conference at Seneca Falls, expecting when the Conference closed to return and complete our labors in that section, where I am happy to say the Lord has been carrying on a glorious work for a few months past. Like Caleb and his companion (Num. xiii. 26, 27), we carried to the Conference not only a favorable report of the same, but for the comfort and encouragement of the household, we took with us also some of the "fruit of the land," among which were two individuals, viz., Potter and Pool, who had recently heen converted from infidelity to Christianity, and also to the "blessed hope," This truly added much to the interest of the Conference, as all the brethren will testify. Respecting the Conference, I suppose Bro. Pinney has given a particular account. I will therefore only say, the eason was truly refreshing to the saints. Sinners, and even infidels, by the same means, were made to tremble ; some of whom we confidently hope and expect to meet in the kingdom. Prejudice was removed from many minds ; and the Lord, we trust. was glorified.

From the Conference (it being excellent sleighing) we went to Syracuse to perform a little husiness and see the brethren, expecting in a few days to meet our arrangement as above. From Syracuse we came to this place (on Friday, 14th inst.,) to spend the Sabbath with this people, and then proceed to our field of labor. But the snow left us en tircly, since which it has been impossible for us to leave with our present mode of conveyance. But we feel measurably reconciled to our condition, perceiving that the time has been improved to good advantage. On Saturday evening, 15th instant, the brethren, and a few of their neighbors, convened at their "little sanctuary," and enjoyed a precious season while listening to the word, and mutually comforting one another in exhortation. The following in Europe ; let him ask as many questions as he can forting one another in exhortation. The following device shout limbs devoured by ravenous animals, Sabbath was a day of peculiar interest with the brethren. Being hungry they feasted on the word. Considerable interest being awaked in community to hear on the subject, we continued our meetings every evening in the same place until it became too small for us. On Thursday evening last the Union Hall was procured, which is calculated to seat from three to four hundred persons. It was nearly filled the first evening ; and our number continued to increase till Sunday evening, when the house was filled to overflowing, most of whom listened with respectful attention to the word. Prejudice has given way to the force of truth, and a deep impression is produced on many minds. Some have been disposed to scoff, and say, "Where is the promise of his coming T' These have been the most effectually silenced and restrained through the influence of two or three of the most intelligent citizens, who in fact are Infidel and Universalist in sentiment. They say to the disturbers of our peace (many of whom, I am sorry to say, profess to be the friends of Jesus), " If your Bible be true, this doctrine which you oppose is likewise true ; for surely it has been conclusively proved in your hearing." One of those individuals called on us, and respectfully solicited a copy of our quotations. Two or three of the ministers in the place have stepped in occasionally and listened to the word, and have, as we learn, spoken favorably of what they heard ; and yet we fear they will continue to preach another doctrine.

One evening, after we had spoken at large on the subject of the resurrection, Mr. A., a Methodiat minister, arose and asked several questions, "for information," which, as he informed the congregation were answered to his satisfaction ; and which served still further to shed light on the subject for the benefit of others. Last evening we gave our concluding lecture at the hall ; and notwithstanding a temperance lecture, and a public ball in the place (each interesting of course their adherents), yet our place of worship was well filled, and solemn attention was paid to the word, while we occupied at least two hours in expounding Dan. xi. and xii.

The brethren here are revived, some hacksliders have been reclaimed, the church is enlarged and greatly strengthened. This evening we return with them to their usual place of worship, having invited all the anxious and serious minded to meet with us, and freely communicate to each other their feelings. I expect the Lord will meet with us, and make it a joyful season.

We intend to return and be with the church in Wolcott next Sunday, if the Lord will, snow or no snow. Expect to remain in that section about two weeks, and then visit and perform more labor in St. Lawrence Co. Pray for us, dear brethren and sisters, that in all things we may be led by the Spirit, now while the last sands of time are falling, and with you meet a welcome reception when the Lord cometh to avenge his own elect. Will the dear friends continue correspondence with us, remembering that "cold water" is very reviving "to a thirsty soul."

Truly yours in the blessed hope

FROM BRO. J. D. PRUDDEN.

DEAR BRO. MARSE :- The Lord is doing a good work at this place. Some six or seven have found Jeans as an all-sufficient Savior, not only to forgive their sins, but to cleanse them from all unrighteousness, and are now rejoicing in the love of God .-Four or five more confessed their sins and owned Christ, last evening, from whom I have not heard since, but hope that they have found Jesus as their of God.

The blessed Spirit has been with us in very deed, so that I have been enabled to speak the truth, in the demonstration of the Spirit, and with the Holy Ghost. To God give all the praise and glory. I have met with the most bitter opposition from professors of religion. A Methodiat minister, heing unable to overpower me in argument, undertook to assail my character, and thus stop the good work that had begun under my labors, by demanding my testimonials of ministerial and Christian character. But all in vain ; for that God whom I serve, was pleased to manifest the power of the Holy Ghost in my heart and in the hearts of my hearers, so that it was manifest to those who felt disposed to listen to my teachings, that I was sent of God. I have been watched, and every attempt has been made to catch me in my words, but all in vain. The opposer has often come to me with a bold confidence of victory, but to stand back, aghast, at the power with which all objections have been swept away by the truth of God; but to God be all the glory. I am more and more satisfied that there is a great lack of faith and the power of the Holy Ghost among us as a people. Our preachers ought to be men like Stephen, full of faith and the Holy Ghost; and if lacking on this point, they ought not to rest for one moment until they are fully furnished for the work of God. There is also a great lack in preaching Bible holiness, and practicing it in our lives. I feel to weep, not only when I see the desolation reigning among the sects around us, but at the fact that presents itself on evety hand that the mass of the Adventists are asleep are not walking in Christ as they received him, by faith and obedience : but are contenting themselves with living short of that holiness that God requires of us all, to be pure even as Christ was pure, to be holy as God is holy.

Your brother in Christ. J. D. PRUDDEN.

FROM BRO. W. PRATT.

DEAR BRO. MARSE :--- We have arrived to an im ortant crisis in the history of the Advent cause ; and what will be the result, time alone will determine. The cause of God is wounded, I think, much. even in the house of its professed friends, I believe this cause is the Lord's, and our God will take care of it ; yet while we are interested in the best of causes, and the Lord has declared even the gates of hell shall not prevail against it, the cause may suffer much by its advocates in various ways. I will mention some, among many, in which I think the cause at the present time suffers much.

Men, or any body of men, may hold the truth, lat. and publish it far and near, even give "all their goods," and their "bodies to the flames," for the sake of it, and after all disgrace the cause, and do more hurt than good, by being void of the Spirit of our blessed Lord. This position some may think is our bisessed Lord. I dis position some may think is incorrect, by saying, Whoseover hold the truth have the spirit, for the truth and spirit go together. This is not always the case, for men in the days of the apostles held the truth in unrighteousness, and can such have the spirit 1

Again, there is such a thing as grieving or quench-ing the Spirit, all will allow; and I think it may be grieved away even when contending for the truth, if we do it with a wrong spirit, and do much injury to the cause of truth. I think all are satisfied that this has been the case, to some extent, among those looking for the Lord, and many kept back fro m em bracing the truth, others turned away, and the Lord only knows to what extent this has gone and the injury it has done. The judgment, I fear, will reenough for us to hold the trith, or to make great accritices to spread it far and near to save souls to to see more yet come into the liberty of the children Acts xx. 81. He warned men day and night (with an unfeeling heart, or a censorious spirit ? No) with tears. My Lord, where are the Pauls in the ninewith teenth century ?

Again, some seem to think that opinions are all that constitutes a disciple of Christ; and if only orthodox in their views, or believe as they do, it is enough, with moral scts. I fear many will in this view go to tas judgment, having a good theory and prof ssion, or what Paul calls a form of godl iness. et destitute of the power that will save them .-Multitudes, no doubt, in the judgment day will be found in this state. What a wretched state that will be ! Lord, save the reader from it. Amen. All that would have the power of godliness with them, must keep low at Jesus' feet; and have living faith, which will enable them to put off the old man with his corrupt deeds, and put on the new man. Christ Jesus.

3d. It would seem, by looking around, that there is a disposition to magnify small things or faults, and make them appear much worse than they really are; and instead of heeding the word of the apostle, "bear the infirmities of the weak," or "one anoth-er's burdens," or having that charity which "bear-eth all things," there appears to be a disposition to crush the weak and destroy the confidence of the brothren in them. This is not as it should be ; it is destructive to souls ; and many humble, godlike chil dren are suffering, by misrepresentation, or report ing and magnifying things to others which sl be overlooked, and not mentioned at all, unless to the individual concerned. Brethren, ought we not to be exceeding careful on this point, for fear we may "devour one another," and consume one anoth-er 1 I think it would be well for one and all, lecturers and brethren, to turn over a new leaf, and shut ers and orethree, to turn over a new leaf, and shut this gate forever; and hereafter resolve; if we can-not say any guod of a brother, and have not evidence to disfellowship him (if ao, take goapel a tepps; go (b him, and not to others), put the bridle on the torgue and be client. I think, if this step is taken, it will disarm the devid of one powerful weapon, which has been used to good effect on his part among Adventiate.

4th. There has much been said about division through the papers of late, on the account of differ-ent sentiments held among us. It is certain this will be effected if there is an alienation from the love of God. But as long as the love of God is the ruling principle in our hearts, and doctrines are discussed in the spirit of Jesus, with an eye single, I can see no reason for a division ; nor do I believe there ever will be one, when in this stato. I think, and honest-ly believe, that all divisions among the followers of Christ have their origin in a departure from the love of God. This all will readily see. The love of God does not, no never, cause a division among those that have it ; but will cause us to love one another with unfeigned love, and nothing can separate such pure hearts. We may hold different sentiments, and discuss them in the love of God, and the strong tie will still exist ; and I venture to say, there is not a meek and Christ-like soul in the land that thinks of ioving any brother less because he does not see on all points like himself. Wherever it is the case, it is certain that soul is not in the love of God. Now let every one that does not feel that same love for his brethren (on the account of different views) as he did in '42 or '43, examine his heart, and he find it is not so full of the love of God as thenthat he is not living so faithful and holv; but has in a measure departed from the love and spirit of truth.

If this view is correct, and a want of the love of God is the origin of division among brethren, it is very necessary that we all see to it that our hearts very increasely that we all see to it that our nears are right in the sight of God; then division and strife will be kept outside of the camo, and love and peace reign within. God grant it. Amen.

oth. There is a great departure at the present time from the revival spirit, all must allow. In past days souls were not converted unless there was an interest, and a deep interest, felt in the welfare of our fellow men. That interest to a great extent is lost, and how can we expect to see the work go forward, unless we are as much interested as in days past ? We cannot. If there are souls that can be saved (and we do not doubt it), shall we have less saved (and we do not doubt it), snail we have interest for them now than in past days? If we have, is there not a cause? Is there not something have, is there not a method. Is there not something to find since, but hope that they have found Jeaus as their shared for the joint at any user to save must do it in have, is there not something Savior. The Spirit of God is at work upon the transformed for the joint something and the save is the structure in the spirit of Jeaus; for unlease we have his arguint we wrong in our heats? Brethren, let us try to find hearts of the people with great power; and I hope large none of his. Phul gives us good example ing where the wrong in this this time does continue, ws may, under God, save all that can be saved. I think he wrong may be found even in ourselvos. Lord breath upon us the Holy Ghost. Brethren. let us pray more carnestly than ever for God's quick-ening Spirit, for without it we can accomplish nothing, with it we can labor in faith and power, and God will be glorified.

I have mentioned some few things which I think affect us much; and wherein I am right, the Lord help us to conform to the roles I have given, and by so doing honor our God. Let us recollect, if we bear much fruit, it will be by our keeping in the love of God; and if we are like a city on a hill, it will be known by our holy lives, and untiring zeal, and faith, and oneness ; and if more souls are saved, it will be done by more consecrated life. Amen. Your brother in tribulation,

DEAR BROTHER :-- Truly ours is a blessed hope : that soon, very soon, he who is our life shall appear, when his saints also shall appear with him in glory, and still more, see him as he is, and he made like

I can truly say, with the poet, "I love this Advent doctrine," and am willing, and esteem it a privilege, to be account of worthy to bear reproach for the truth's also. and have my life fild with Cirist in God. Since we came to Illinois, we have not had the privilege of meeting with those of like precious faith, except the little company that came with us, and that not very often, for we are much scattered at present. We met with the friends in Buffalo, when on our way to this place, and it was a profitable opportunity to me. Since that time I have not found one that to me. Since that time I have not found one that was looking for and loving the appearing of the Savier; and but very few that have ever heard on the subject of our bleased hope at all ; but have heard enough about it to be filed with predjudice, and what to them is argument, against the doctrine. Obers, even many, would be glid to hear the rea-need our hope. The harvest truly is plentous some of our hope. The harvest truly is plenteous but the laborers are few. My desire is that the Lord would send efficient laborers into his vineyard, that would not hold their peace day nor night, until he I establish Jerusalem a praise in the earth.

We have the papers to read, the Harbinger and Advocate, for which I feel thankful : they take the Autocate, for which I less thankin I they take the place next to a good conference meeting. I should feel lonely without them. #### The Signs.

If the darkening of the sun and moon, and the falling of the stars, in Matthew, Merk and Luke, " and the sun became black as sackloth of hair and the moon became as blood ; and the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs when she is shaken of a mighty wind," in the Apocalypse, refer to the same events, and are the great signs in the literal heavens of the coming of the Lord, why is the shaking of the beavens in the evangelists thought to be of an entirely different character from the departing of the heavens in the Revelations ?

In Matthew and Mark, the shaking of the pow ers of the heavens is, beyond all controversy, the fourth great sign in the heavens. Why then is the same sign in Luke so understood and construed as to make it the cause of signs, and not of itself any visible sign at all ? It appears that all the signs were given in mercy to mankind, especially to God's waiting people. The first, or when these things begin to come to pass, was to give the assurance that our redemption draweth nigh. The intervening signs, to strengthen and confirm our faith and hope; and when "ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors." Now we may conjecture thrt we have seen an effect of the shaking of the powers of the heavens, but who can say in truth that they have seen this sign ? Here faith is to be swallowed up of knowledge. We shall no longer need to take heed to the sure word of prophecy, but shall xNow ; though the sun will not be risen, yet the day will have dawn ed, "and the day star he risen in our hearts." ed, "and the day star be read in our metal. When we know that a friend of great dignity is at our door, our heart heats high with interest; but when our King and Judge, the great Media tor and Savior of lost men-our Savior and friend gives us the token that he is "at the doors," all earthly objects will, must die away-all kindred nearts he raised to the expected one.

Well, such a token seems to be necessary, and is in mercy promised to the waiting few-to the little flock. The powers of the heavens shall be shaken ; then xnow-what ? Not that the Savior will come an indefinite number of years in the future-the former signs have taught us this -but that he is "at the poons."

Then is not the shaking of the powers of the heavens a sign that he is at the doors I (and whatever the sign of the Son of man in heaven may be, whether it will be the rays of light and glory that will proceed from his person, or the fiery stream of Daniel, or the thousand thousands of ministering attendants, I cannot say); and is not the departing heavens, in the events of the 6th seal, the opening of the doors, bringing to view the throne and him that sits thereon, as in verse 16, to the terror stricken inhabitants of earth $

Please read, in this connection, Acts vii, 56; Ise. xii. 18; Joel iii. 15, 16; Haggei ii. 6, 7; Heb. xii. 26, 27. H. C. ROBBIND.

Correspondence of the Baturday Courler, whether Extraordinary Phenomenon.

Forest Hill, Ark., Dec. 12, 1847.

DEAR SIE :--- One of the most extraordinary circumstances transpired immediately in this neigh-borhood on the 8th inst, perhaps, that has ever been witnessed on this side of the moon, which I hasten to communicate to you.

About a quarter past 3 o'clock, P. M., the sky, hich a few minutes before and during the whole of which a few the day had been perfectly clear, became suddenly overcast with a most awful darkness ; the clouds, vertrast with a most award derkness; the clouds, (if they were clouds) whirled in the strangest con-tortions, and presented the appearance of a solid fleece, lighted from above with the red glare of ma-terether, thench the light and the strangest strange neece, inguzes from auove with the red giare of ma-ny torches—though this lurid appearance did not seem to reflect through nor penetrate the cloud, so as to impart any light to the under stratum of the dark mass rolling above, but seemed to be absorbed, and was only visible through the semi-transparency of the portions rolling below.

Whilst hundreds of spectators in our little village were spell-bound in dreadful auspense, the most tre-mendous explosion that ever deafened the ear of mortal, emanated from above, shock the earth upon which we stood, and caused such a rocking of the houses that the new bell on our village church tolled three several times, which, as may readily be ima-gined, contributed to the general consternation.

gined, contributed to the general consternation. Immediately following, or rather accompanying the explosion, a flery mass, which appeared, whilst in the air, to be about the size of a hogehead, de-acandad with all the rapidity of lightning, and fell about wenty facton the east side of a cotton gio, which have the there the outskirts of the willogeand in less than twenty minutes the clouds had dia. appeared and the sky was as serene, and the sun shone as brightly as it had done all the forepart of the day !

When we repaired to the spot where the body had When we repaired to the spot where the Body had fallen, an excavation, or rather a hole was discov-ered, which was exactly round, and measured 3 f. 24 inches in diameter, and 8 feet deep, at the bottom of which was a black mass, which was yet so hot that when water was thrown on it, it hissed like hot iron. After considerable labor, in which all our citizens participated, we exhumed from the place a solid mass of something which was about as hea-undence of the Rochester Democrat Burning of the White Dog.

In my last I promised a detailed account of this In my last 1 promised a detailed account of this interesting ceremony as witnessed by mysself. As it was to commence at aunrise, I engaged the sar-vices of an Indian interpreter the previous evening, and as soon as the "grey dawn" appeared we were upon the ground. The spot selected for the cere-mony was in front of a house of a leading chief.— The preliminary preparations had already com-menced. An altar of common fire-wood had been made and fire had been set to the tops of it. After the fames had made considerable nonzeros, the Prothe flames had made considerable progress, the Prowe manues mad made considerable progress, the Pro-phet took the dog from the cross where it had been suspended and placed it upon the altar exclaiming as he did so, "Gush !" "Gush !" in a peculiarly deep gutteral tone. He then commenced a sort of chant in which several other Indiana occasionally interded and the several other Indiana occasionally joined, and when this had continued several minutes, the head chief came forward, holding in his band a little pouch filled with sacred "Oyung wa" (tobacco), and, in a firm and modulated voice, spoke nearly as follows, throwing a small portion of the tobacco in-to the flames as he passed from -one- object to another 1

"Great Spirit ! Once more successive moons have brought around the period for returning thanks for the favors which thou hast so bountifully bestowed upon us during the year that has just passed. And in token of our gratitude, and in expiation of our past sins, and an expression of most fervent suppli-cation for the continuation of thy bountiful benefactions, we have prepared, and now offer to thee this scriftce, when we prepared, and now there to the e the scriftce, which we pray may meet thy approbation. We thank thee—that the destroyer has been permit-ted to slay so few of our number—that thy protect-ing hand has been over us, so that the evil spirits have not afflicted many of us with sickness. That ing hand has been over us, so that the evil spirits have not afficied many of us with sickness. That the strawberry, the raspherry and other small fruits have supplied to much pleasant fruits. That the whortheberry and other wild shrobs, have been so shundant. That the spie and other cultivated fruits have yielded their accustomed supply. For the chemut, the walnut, and other fruit-bearing trees. For the sugar maple which gives a pleasant liquid from which have an other set surple to est with liquid from which we can prepare sugar to est with our food. For the game with which our forests abound. For the fish which swim in the water.--For the birds which enliven us with their sweet notes. For the flowers which adorn the fields and wood=-For the winds which purify the atmosphere and refresh us when the summer sun pours his burning rays upon us. For the streams which furnish ing rays obtains. For the archive which drives up nature's beverago. For the clouds which bring the rain to replenish the streams and fertilize the earth. For the three siters, corn, beens, and squashes, which have furnished us so bountiful a supply of food for our support, whilst the wintry winds and anows prevail. For the moon which lights the sath of the burger and the warries a first in adv. the path of the hunter and the warrior, after its other sister, the sun, has sunk behind the western hills. For the sun which gives us light and heat, and causes all things to grow and produce. And, that the uses so wisely ordered all things, that the seasons return in regular order, the sun moon and stars maintain their allotted places in the heavens, and harmony pervades all creation."

pervades all creation. Much of the natural heauty of the address is de-stroyed by the translation, and I have been able to aire but a meaore sketch of it at best. The revergive but a meagre sketch of it at best. The rever-ential tone in which it was delivered, and the solementrate to be to which he was derivered, and the solem-nity which pervaded the spectators, evinced the sin-cerity of the motives which promoted the sacrifice, misguided and mistaken as the devotees of this religion are.

When the speaker had concluded, he retired to the house followed by the spectators, and when we lett, was addressing them. R. S. W.

THE INHERITANCE-INCORRUPTION.

I know of no one more likely to enjoy that privilege than the man "after God's own heart."ance nor dwelling place ; but the earth.

Says Jesus, Matt. xxv. 34, "Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." Then, "When (ver. 31) the Sp of man shall come in his glory with all his angels, and separato is inglout, being the one originally possessed, the righteous from the wicked," then shall he give to the saints THE KINGDOM prepared expressly for them from the foundation of the world .-What kingdom is it? I answer, the earth .-Proof, Gen. i. 26-28 : the only one found in the beginning. Matt. xxv. 34 ; Isa. xlv. 17, 18. Bible which was prepared from the foundation of the world. Again, those "blessed of God" are incorruptibility ; and went back to dust, from to inherit this kingdom prepared, &c. Now whence he came. One of the most striking chaturn to Ps. xxxvii. 22. > Here is the testimony of all the saints in their redemption song. With all this testimony, who can doubt that this carth, renewed and brought back to its original state of peace, purity, beauty and glory, is to constitute the spints' everlasting which was, through transgression of the first Adam, lost; but by the second Adam, the Lord from heaven, will soon be redeemed and given to the saints for whom it was prepared from the substances. This is evident from the fact that the commencement of the 17th chapter and onin the day "thou eatest thereof dying thou shalt ward through the 18th. It is the Roman Hiedie" [margin] ; i. e., such will be the effect of the introduction of the impurities of that fruit into your system that decay will immediately commence, and end in death. That this is correct, is evident from God's interpretation of the penalty in Gen. iii, 19: "In the swent of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it was thou taken : for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Such was the effect upon his system from eating the forbidden fruit, that in little more than 900 years over the kings of the earth," affords not a shadhe died. (Gen. v. 5). DEAR BRO. MARSH :- Knowing that some brethren have been, and are still looking to the events which have transpired in Ireland, and some other nations of Europe, as the fulfillment of Rev. xviii. 8; and believing that there is no ground for such conjecture (for I view it as mere conjecture), I send you a few thoughts for the consideration of God's waiting children, hoping that they may be blest in the consideration of them. and thereby fortified against disappointmenttheir patience amplified, and their faith strengthened to wait the coming of the great Hierarch. and the only one in the universe. Erroneous conjectures can do us no good-they always lead to disappointment, and leave us worse than they found us.

1. Who saith in her heart, " I sit a queen "?

II. What is the nature of her plagues ?

III. Who will be the author of her plagues?

1. Who saith in her heart, etc. ?

1. Not the Pope of Rome. The terms 'her,' and 'she,' are never applied to a single ruler, especially if that ruler is a man. It would be a perfect misnomer. Besides, a Pope might be destroyed, and yet the subject of prophecy still stand as high in her own estimation as ever. Indeed, popes bave both died and been murdered, but their places have always been supplied. Cardinals are always at hand to fill the vacancy.

Again; a single ruler is never the subject of prophecy, except in special cases, or when the power which is the subject of prophecy is brought rforward through its head.

2. Not the city of Rome. What if the city of Rome were destroyed, would that fulfill the prophecy 1 1 trow not. "She shall be utterly nihilation of that government or power. This burned with fire." Burn Rome, and what then ? Burn Washington, and what then ? Burn Mos- the Grent, the mother of Abominations. Hear cow, and what then ? The British tried it a few him : "And a mighty angel took up a stone, like years ago; and so did Napoleon; but did they thereby destroy the government of the United States, or Russia ? Let facts answer. Rome might be burnt, as many times as there have popes died, and yet the subject of prophecy remain.

3. It is the anti-christian apostacy-the mother of abominations, and all her ungodly progeny- God tells us. There are three classes of mourn. chapter to the 10th verse of the 19th. Some I otherwise, Great Babylon. This power is the ers.

yet was susceptible of being corrupted by foreign subject of prophecy, in one unbroken chain, from rarchy, or Priest Kingdom. In the 17th chapter John is taken away in vision to see that power-her judgment first by the "kings of the earth," and finally her utter extermination in a manner hereinafter considered. This is the power that figures on the great anti-christian chessboard. Destroy the Pope, or the city, and the power still remains. The one is only the head, the other the seat, of the power. The expression, "The woman is that great city that reigneth ow of objection to the point I am considering .-The city itself, considered as a municipality, or in whatever light you please, never reigned over the "kings of the earth," since the days of papacy. It has only been the seat of power; and in this light only, could it be meant in the prophecy. But the Roman Hierarchy .-- "the woman," "drunken with the blood of saints," has "reigned over the kings of the earth."

Again ; it is said, "In her was found the blood of saints and martyrs, and of all that were slain upon the earth." This is not true of the city of Rome: but it is true of the Roman Church, and all her progeny (for all are her progeny who have her spirit).

Yes, but you say, "Other nations, and Pagan Rome, persecuted and put to death God's saints. how then can the blood of all the saints shed on the earth be found in her ?" How can it be found in any other one power, or one city ! If one objection is good, the other is. But I answer-On the principle that she is the indorser of all the persecutions of God's saints. It was in this light Christ told the Jews that the blood of prophets and others should " be required of this generation." "Ye al: w the deeds of your fathers." No nation nor city under heaven answers the description of the prophetic pen. The Roman Priest-kingdom, alone, fills the picture.

II. What is the nature of her plagues ?

1. It is said to be "death, mourning and famine." But it cannot be the death of individuals. If it were, famine must come first; and famine must be the causo of death." But the prophecy puts death first. The famine in Ireland, and elsewhere, cannot fulfill this prophecy, That has been only on individuals; and I care not if the whole Catholic population of Ireland were cut off, it would not fulfill the prophecy-the Hierarchy stands good notwithstanding.

2. What then is the nature of the dcath spoken of in our text. The primary meaning of thanatos is extinction of life. When applied to a government, as in this case, it must be the utter anis just what God declares he will do to Babylon a great mill-stone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city, Babylon, be thrown down, and shall be found NO MORE AT ALL." Here is the death predicted-her utter, entire, and eternal overthrow ! What follows ?

1. "The kings of the earth, who have com mitted fornication with her."

2. "The merchants of the earth, who have waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies.'

3. "The ship-masters, and all the company in ships," otherwise the sailors. These all "weep and mourn" for her.

Why so ! O, there is a 'famine.' The kings of the earth " have lived deliciously with her"been made respectable by their union with the old Jezebel. As abominable as as she has been, she has, nevertheless, by her sorcerous influences, succeeded in captivating the kingdoms of the world, and subjecting them to her magic power. "They have lived deliciously with her"; but their wanton mistress has been cut off. . The besom of destruction has swept her away, and no place is found for her. She has gone down into silence, and they lament for her.

"The merchants of the earth, who have waxed rich," etc. She not only allowed, but took the lead in every extravagance. With what graphic power the prophet has delineated the gaudy tinsels of earth, in which she dealt. Her instiate pride, and love of pomp and show, has incited her to ransack earth ; yet her vast, unbounded desires, could never be cloyed. To minister to her vitiated taste, has required an innumerable multitude of artisans and traffickers. They have grown rich by means of her merchandise. "Her merchants are princes." Society, wherever she rules, through all the remifications of business, is affected by her call for the rich and gaudy trappings of her worship. " But now, she is destroyed! the source of their gain is gone. Like Alexander of old "by these they had their wealth"; but there is no Paul now on whom they vent their spleen-weeping and mourning is, therefore, their only alternative.

"The ship-masters and sailors." The shippers, who have transported her "purple and fine linnen," her jewels and "vessels of gold and silver," are out of employment-they have nothing more to do-there is a famine to them, also; hence, they weep and mourn for her. None of these classes seem to consider that judgment is coming on them, also ; but their minds are wholly absorbed in the calomities that have befallen their alma mater. They seem, also, like Judes, when Jesus was annointed, wonderfully anxious about the waste of property. But it is all of no avail. The fiat of Jehovah has gone forth ! Babylon has sunk to rise no more forever ! She shall be found NO MORE AT ALL !

III. Who will be the author of her plagues ? Shall some paramour kingdom hate her, cast her off, and destroy her ? The former they have already done ; and yet she lives and waxes wanton. Shall men rise up in her own midst, turn against her, and effect her overthrow and utter destruction ! Prophecy tells us no such thing. But it does tell us who shall be the author of her final and eternal overthrow. That being is Jesus Christ, the "King of kings, and Lord of lords."

There is an order and succession of events predicted, from the commencement of the 17th will name.

2. The calling out of her God's people.

3. Her renewed prosperity, until she again feels herself a queen-a married lady, who is never again to be a widow.

4. Then comes her destruction.

5. Mourning, by those who have shared in her luxuries and pleasures ; and-

6. The rejoicing of the faithful wife-the spotless espoused of Jesus Christ.

Daniel's fourth beast is seen, in its last stage, with eight horns, one of which is designated as "the little horn." Daniel beholds "till the beast is destroyed, and his body given to the burning fame. From whence did that flame proceed 1 Ans. "A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him." "His throne was the fiery flame." No language could more forcibly depict the doom of that power. When the "body of the beast is destroyed," methinks there will be no horn left standing.

Again ; it is declared in 2 Thess. ii. 8, " Whom the Lord shall consume with the Spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming." It seems perfectly befitting that Christ himself should do the work. That Hierarchy is autichrist-has usurped the prerogatives of Christ-has thrust itself into the temple of Christ, and usurped the prerogative of Christ, to give laws to Christ's people, and govern them ; and undertaken to inflict that punishment, on those who have dured to incur its displeasure, which it is the alone prerogative of Christ to do : viz., to and them to hell. Well might the pen of inspiration call it "the mystery of iniquity." But its days are numbered ; and soon Jusus will come again, the Mighty Judge of living and dead ; and then shall the pest of earth and ally of hell come to an end. Then shall resound pizens of victory, from the blood ransomed host of God's elect. over her shat corrupted the nations, and shed the blood of saints, for the name of Jesus. Then shall the blood of those under the altar he avenged. I sympathise with them, and rejoice in prospect of the day now near.

Yours, waiting to join in the shout, G. NERDHAM.

(For the Harbinger ) Living Soul. ITS MEANING-NO. III.

Those who have read No. II., and believed the inspired record of the creation of the animal kingdom, must see that the popular view of " the soul" finds no support in that record. The terms "soul," and "living soul," are first employed four times in relation to the several inferior grades of animal existences, in earth, air and sea -then in the fifth instance it is employed in precisely the same form to denote MAN.

The English version distinguishes man from all other creatures by the use of this phrase-"living soul." Many have thought that man's before it does to man once; therefore, if this term proves that man has an "immortal soul." it proves the same of all the animal kingdom !--Vermin resulting from corruption and the curse, I leave, of course.

That which proves altogether too much, proves nothing to the point; hence this idea will be abandoned by all candid inquirers after truth, as soon as they are informed.

Let us proceed with the divine record, relative to the import of this phrase, ages after creation was completed. " And God spake unto Nosh and unto his sona with him. Behold I establish my covenant with you and with your seed after you, and with every [nephesh ha hayya] living soul that is with you. This is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living soul [nephesh hayya] with you. I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living soul [nephesh hayya] of all flesh. The bow shall be in the cloud and I will look upon it, that I remember the everlasting covenant, between God and every living soul [nephesh hayya] of all flesh that is on the earth." Gen, ix. 8-16.

The word nephesh is used also in Gen. ix. 4, 5; Lev. xvii. 11. "The soul of the flesh is in the blood. I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls : for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for your quire it, and at the hand of man, and at the hand of every man's brother will I require the soul of man." This term occurs in the Hebrew scriptures hundreds of times. When the connection shows that it is used in precisely the same original sense, it is translated, in our Bible, both soul and life : "Behold now thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified thy mercy (said Lot), which thou hast shewed unto me in saving my life [naplishi] . . . this city is near to flee unto, let me escape thither and my soul [naphshi] shall live." Gen. xix. 19, 20 .-Reuben delivered Joseph-he said, "Let us not kill his soul [naphsho]-let us not take his life, or kill him. If men strive, &c., thou shalt give soul for soul [nephesh ta hath nephesh]. Ex. [through the whole scene of Jesus' wondrous mexxi. 23. "Go reurn unto Egypt, for all the men are dead which sought thy soul." Ex. iv. 19 .-"The Lord said to Satan, Behold he is in thy "What is mine end, that I should prolong my soul ?"

The meaning of the word here is in utter and eternal contrariety to its popular and philosphical use ! Those who do really believe in Jehovah's record of man an beast, life and death, must reject its opposite as absolutely false. Whoever heard of a philosopher holding the popular theological notion ! Whoever heard of a Pope, or any one of "The Great Apostacy," speak of prolonging their "soul"! Their "soul"-their "spirit," is, in their imagination, from its very nature, beyond the grasp of death-incapable of distinction and superiority consists in his having decay, or decline, or death, by the tooth of time!

1. Her calamities, by means of her paramour ing soul" to the whole animal kingdom four times and resurrection. Ye who believe that the life, soul, or spirit, sprouts and springs at death, from the dying body, to bloom with undecaying freshness in "the Paradise of God," listen to Job and blush with shanie! There is hope of a tree, if it be cut down that it will sprout again ; but MAN, the living soul, "lieth down" in death, and "riseth not," till the resurrection. Job. xiv. and xix.

The radical verb signifies "to breathe" : the noun signifies "breath"-animating breath .---Not that mercly which belongs to living man ; for God affirms it of the whole animal kingdom -of "all flesh." The word [nephesh] soul, as used in the Holy Scriptures, is the designation of a living creature, or creature. It signifies primarily, animal life, the basis of instinct, appetite, consciousness, voluntary power, &c. It comprehends the whole animal sensibilities and canabilities associated with the animated organization. Thus the soul [nephesh]-the creature is said to live, be hungry, thirsty, empty, full to losthing, polluted with unclean food, &c. We read of a "full soul," "fat soul," "lean soul," &c. The "nephesh" is said to be in jeopardy, put to death, to die, and to be dead ! "Whoseever hath slain any soul"-any person. Num. xxxi. 19-28 .---"Levy a tribute unto the Lord . . . one soul of five hundred, of persons, and of the beeves, and of the asses and of the sheep." God expostulates with Israel : "Will ye pollute me . . . to soul." "Surely your blood of your souls will I slay the souls that should not die, and to save the require; at the hand of every beast will I re souls alive that should not live"! Ezek xiii. 19

Pray tell ! Do you make man a beast-a mere brute ! I reply from the unerring "word of God": Man was made with a superior organization-" in the image of God." He has capacities as far transcending those of the horse, for instance, as the noble horse's exceed a snail's .---He has sovereignty over all the animal kingdom-"all the earth." For him the Savior especially came. To him is re-opened "the path of life, with the promise of "glory, honor, and immortality," in Paradise restored. True, "the creature itself shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God "; but man's superiority is recognized diation. Man was the honored "head" of this creation. Is not this enough 1 Shall he claim to be "as God"! Shall he assume "immortalihand, but save his sour." ! Job. ii. 6. Job said, ty," the sole prerogative of Jehovah-or the cowning consummation of the efforts of Almighty mercy, during six thousand years ! Oh, if ever angels tremble-if God is ever "wroth," it is at such pride-such presumption !

I B. Coor

All this being done, the constable goes on to the place where he knows that Sin has taken up such a "soul." But such a thought could never But Job, the upright Job; to whom there was his lodging : this place is a common inn, a harbave been suggested by the Mosaic record. An "none like, in all the earth "-Job believed in lot's house, called Mistress Heart, a receptacle for uniform translation would have ascribed a "liv Jehovah's view of man-his personal life, death, all sorts of thieves, villains, and dishonest par-

ADVENT HARBINGER. THE

This harlot's house has no less than five aons. doors of entrance for her guests. The first is the door of hearing ; the first that ever was open to-let in sin, as we learn in the serpent's beginning to tempt Eve. At this door enter in lying, slandering, filthy communication, flattery, swearing, error, blasphemy, and many other sins, caused and committed by the tongue. The second is the door of seeing; at this enter in the lust of the eye, fornication, adultery, covetousness, and many others, through want of chastity and contentment. The third is the door of tasting ; at this enter in riot, gluttony, drunkenness, revelling, quarrelling, fighting, and many other baneful effects of seeking to satisfy intemperate and ungodly appetites. The fourth is the door of smelling; at this enter in foolish niceties, perfumings, and other allurements to dalliance, effeminateness, and such like. And the fifth is the door of feeling ; at which enter wantonness, lasciviousness, and other fruits of the flesh. These be the doors by which Sin generally enters into the heart; but original Sin is bred and born therein ; and Satan's immediate suggestions are sometimes suddenly cast into the heart.

Mrs. Heart always leaves orders with her maids, that whenever Sin, or any of his relations, come to her house, they are to be introduced into her dining room ; and then she is to be acquainted therewith. These maids of hers (the passions) are very vile and impudent harlots. Re. sides these, she has in her house one called Oldman, her husband; also a man-servant named Will, a fellow of all work, and who is ever ready to obey her commands. Mrs. Heart very soon makes provisions to entertain her guests, as she always keeps food and wine ready at hand or them. Her table is therefore quickly spread ; it is called Instability, for inconstant are the thoughts of such a wicked woman. The table cloth that covers it is called Vanity ; for upon instability. with such vicious guests, what can there be but vanity? The bread set on the table is, the fitness of every sin's proper object, without which, actual sin can no more live than a man without bread. The salt which seasons Sin's appetite is, opportunity, for time, place, and person. The dishes of meat are three; Ist, lust of the flesh; this is served up on the plate of pleasure; and of this dish adultery, fornication, and other sins of a like nature, feed heartily." The second dish is, lust of the eye ; this is served up on the plate of profit, and thereon feed covetousness, usury, oppression, bribery, and such like. Of one of these two dishes do all sins taste, except the sin of swearing; in which is gross profanences of heart, but neither pleasure nor profit, as in other sins. The third dish is, pride of life; and this is served up in the charger of worldly estimation. This is a very unwholesome ment ; it puffs up the mind with vain glory, and a love of empty titles; it is also very costly feeding. On this dish feed arrogancy, pride of spirit, love of preeminence, and such like, for which they are made to pay dearly. The drink which they take with their meat is, the pleasurableness of sin.

Mrs. Heart's maids, and her man Will, wait on the guests at table, until after full feeding, the dishes are taken away; and, where pleasure, vanity the table-cloth, what can the taking away be but vexation of sairit? (Eccl. ii, 11). For it is with these as with guests at an inn, all is merriment and pleasure while eating and drinking ; but when the reckoning is demanded, then they take their purses out with deep silence, and their jollity vanishes in an instant.

We hope our patrons who have not yet complied with the terms of our paper, will do so soon. One object in reducing its price to Seventy-five Cents was, to bring about the ADVANCE PAY system, We desire not to be defeated in this measure. Will those who are in arrears aid us in carrying it out, by remitting what is our due ?

Take lieed to Yourselves.

This warning was uttered by the Savior with special reference to the perils of the times just before his second coming ; as well as with reference to its general application at all times. Among the many things against which we should take heed, are the cares of this life. We are not to neglect or abandon any lawful worldly occupation, but, to 'take heed lest at any time our hearts he overcharged . . with the cares of this life.' The Bible nowhere forbids honest industry up to the last moment of time; but rather enjoins it upon the Christian. It condemns certain 'busy-bodies, working not at all.' Recommends all to work that they may 'provide things honest ;' and declares that those who 'will not work, neither shall they est."

These principles are admitted to be applicable to all people-except those who are looking for the Advent of Christ. Some of this faith, and their opponents generally, have assumed, and still seem to think, that any kind of lawful work, which necessarily, and in the nature of the case, contemplates the future, is incompatible with a belief in the near coming of the Savior. Hence, making contracts for the future, planting and sowing, and building houses, have been condemned by many, and abandoned by some. But time, to say nothing about the Bible, has shown the extreme folly of these notions.

With one, and but one, exception, and that of but a few days, we have ever looked upon these mistaken notions as extremely erroneous, and pernicious in their practical tendency. We see no reason why contracts, which contemplate the future, should not be made, buildings erected, and work done, now, as at any other time, provided our lateful occupations and necessary wants demand it. If God had told us anywhere in his word, that the lawful business of the world should all, or any specified part of it, be stopped, just before the advent of Christ, then it would be disobedience to carry it on, and consequently, sinful. But, as he has given no such prohibition, but to the reverse, it is duty to go on with the business of this life, until He, in whom we live, shall see fit to stop it, by the voice of the Archangel and the trump of God,

'But, are we not told, that at the coming of Christ the people will be planting, and sowing, and building, as in the days of Noah and of Lot ?---and does not this show that such things are sinful ?'

profit, and worldly honor have been the dishes, such things, because they were done in the days of and they shall gather his elect from the four winds,

Noah and Lot, then it must be equally sinful to eat and drink, and for the same reason ; for they did eat and drink then, and they will also, at his coming .--There are two very important reasons why these things are named as being done at the advent of Christ :

1. To show us that all the business of the world will go on undisturbed, to the very moment of that event : consequently, the world will not be looking for it : it will come upon them as unexpectedly as the flood upon the antediluviane, or the storm of fire upon the Sodomites. Even the faithful children of God, who will be ready and expecting it as very near, will be found either innocently and quietly resting in their beds, or engaged at their lawful work in the field, and at the mill, in the shops and manufactories, and wherever duty may call them to labor. Surely. then, it will not be sinful to be engaged in any lawful business, at the Savior's coming.

2. Another reason why these things are named as occurring near the time of the advent, we think is, to mark the character of the age, that it may be known that the Lord is near. It will then be a worldly age, when the great mass will be swallowed up in the business affairs of the world ; their hearts will be 'overcharged with the cares of this life.'-This is the sin against which the Christian is warned. He is not warned against any lawful occupation, but is exhorted to be 'diligent in business.'-He is admonished to take heed and not become worldly-minded, and think more of his business than he does of his God ; not be so overcharged with it as to cause him to neglect the duties of the closet, the family altar, the prayer meeting, the worship of the Sabbath, works of benevolence, the study of his Bible, and other duties of the devoted Christian .-Great is our danger of being ensnared here ; and in view of it, in the words of the Savior, we say :-Take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness. and the cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawarcs. For as a snarc shall it come on all them that dwell upon the face of the whole earth. Watch ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man. Luke xxi. 34-36.

A Short Sermon.

"That in the dispensation of the fulness of times, he might gath-er together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven and which are on carth, even in him." Eph. 1. 10.

The things in beaven, named in this text, we understand to be the angels who will come with Christ at his second advent. The holy angels are to come with him, and we are told that angels and authorities, &c., are made subject to Christ. The things on earth, we understand to be the saints, who are to be gathered by the angels into the kingdom, and all become subject to the reign of Christ. Hence all things in heaven and on the earth will be gathered together in, or more correctly we think, under Christ. This is according to Macknight's rendering.

We infer from this text, that the saints will be scattered until the coming of Christ; for it says that they are to be gathered, in the dispensation of the fullness of times, when we understand Christ will come. Other scriptures justify this conclusion. And when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished.' Dan, xii. 7. One of 'these things' is the standing up of Michael, or the coming of Christ, at the resurrection, as the first of the chapter clearly shows ; hence the people of God, or the power of the holy people, will be scattered until Christ comes to gather them into his kingdom. And he shall send True, we are thus told ; but, if it be sinful to do forth his angels with a great sound of a trumpet ; from one end of heaven to the other. Matt. xxiv. 31. This is sufficient to show that the elect or holy people will be scattered until the coming of the Lord of glory to gather them.

We also infer from this text, that the people of God, 'the things on earth ;' and angels, 'the things in heaven ;' have been separated, and will in the restitution again be united : hence it is said. He will gather together in one all things in, or under, Christ, hoth which are in heaven and which are on earth .-The Old Testament fully shows, that angels and men not unfrequently held personal and familiar intercourse together. But it is not so now. Sin has not only separated us from the face of our God, but has excluded us from the society of his immediate attendants, the holy angels. In the days of Abraham and Lot, the presence of angels was no terror to man, but as late as the birth of Christ, their presence made the beholders 'sore afraid.' Oh, how much man has lost on account of sin. But,

We further loarn from this text, that these scattered members of the family of God, will ultimately be gathered together ; for it says ; That he might gather together in one all things under Christ, both which are in heaven and which are on earth. This very precious promise is confirmed by many other like divine assurances. 'Gather my saints together unto me.' Psu. 50:5. 'And he shall send his angels ... and they shall gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.'-Matt. xxiv. 31. 'And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit, down in the kingdom of God.' Luke xiii. 19. Truly these are exceeding great and precious promises. And it fills the soul with heavenly rapture to contemplate their glorious fulfilment. Then the long scattered and down-trodden children of God will not only be gathered, in sweet peace and union together, but they will be mited with the pure angels of God, to enjoy their holy society, and to learn heavenly wisdom from their inspired lips. O, transporting thought ! And our joy will be increased beyond the power of utterance, when we realize that all this heavenly, holy and happy throng of saints and angels, will be gathered under Christ, whom they will see, love and adore, and who will forever be with them, and lead them to fountains of living waters, and be their King. God, too, will be there, and they shall see his face, and he will wipe all tears from their eyes, and forever be their God. Alleluia ! let all within us praise the Lord.

Though this text does not tell us where this gathering will be, yet we are not left in the dark on this highly important matter : other scriptures plainly inform us where. They do not say it will be 'O'er yonder sky '-nor ' above the ethereal blue '-nor beyond the bounds of time and space,' as modern poetical and pulpit theology teaches. But they do teach plainly that it will be in the kingdom, which is under the whole heavens, on the earth, and from sea unto sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth. But this gathering will be,

1. In the air. 'For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God : and the dead in Christ shall rise first ; then we which are alive and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air." 1 Thess. iv. 16, 17. This will be a joyful moment to the righteous. Though one will be in the field, another in the mill, and another in the bed, or wherever duty may call, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, they will be changed from mortal to earth, to meet their descending Lord. There they and best men of the age, of both the pre-millennial will be gathered, and safely rest on the sea of glass, or he hid in the secret of his tabernacle until the indignation upon the ungodly be overpassed. O sinncr, backslider, and unprepared professor, this will he a terrible moment to you. When the righteous, the salt of the earth, are all taken away, as it was with the corrupt cities of the plain, there will be nothing to stay the devouring fire of an offended God from falling upon this earth steeped in crime. Your cries, and mournings, and bitter wailings, will not turn away his wrath. O, prepare now, while you may, to escape the fearful judgments of that great and dreadful day of the Lord.

2. This gathering will be in the kingdom. 'They shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.' Luke xiii. 29. And Daniel tells us, that the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess it forever, even for ever and ever. And, as this kingdom is said to be 'under the whole heavens,' and to 'fill the whole earth.' it is certain that the earth is its location ; and the conclusion follows, that this gathering well be on the earth. With this view of the matter, we can see why the first gathering is in the air. The reason is, that the saints may be taken away from the earth while it is being cleansed, made new, and fitted for their eternal and happy abode. When this is effected, the earth will again bloom in all its Eden perfection, loveliness and glory. The City of God. the New Jerusalem, more grand than all the cities of the earth combined, with its diamond walls, and pearly gates, and golden streets, more brilliant and glorious than the light of ten thousand suns, will be upon the New Earth, in whose light the 'nation that are saved' shall forever walk, and into which they will ever have free access. God and the Lami will be there ; and there will be the tree of life, and the river of life, free to all who shall have done the commandments of God, in this wicked world. In a word, the earth will be full of the glory of God. And on it this gathering together under Christ will be. Happy, glorious, and greatly to be desired gathering ! May we all be found worthy to have a part in that heavenly association.

We further learn from this text, that it points to a specific time for this gathering to take place : for it says, 'That in the dispensation of the fullness of times, he might gather together,' etc. All we can know about the ' times' named here, must be learned from other portions of the Bible. In it we are taught that the people of God were to be scattered 'seven times.' Lev. xxvii. That the saints were to be given into the hands of the little horn 'for a time times and the dividing of time.' Dan. vii. 25. That the sanctuary and host were to be trodden down 'two thousand and three hundred days.' Dan. viii. 13, 14. That at the end of thirteen hundred and thirty-five days, Daniel will stand in his lot. Dan. xii, 12, 13. And, that Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles he fulfilled. Luke xxi. 24. Now, when these, and all other times named in the Bible, are full, then this long desired and glorious gathering will take place. Let not faith waver here : for the promise of God is sure ; he will not disappoint the hopes of his people-but 'in the dispensation of the FULLNESS OF TIMES' he will gather them together, according to his word.

Finally, we learn from the most convincing proofs that the time for the gathering named in the text, is very near ; for undeniable facts show that ALL the times mentioned in the Bible are nearly full, and now being fast filled up. No one has yet been able to immortal beings, and by angels be caught away from give any good reason why their fullness should be this trembling, shaking, heaving, recling, burning placed one moment in the future ; but the wisest and post-millennial schools, have given the most unanswerable evidences, that, at about this very time. this fullness is to be complete. They differ only in the nature of the event. The first believe it will be a literal gathering, in the New Earth ; while the latter think it only a spiritual gathering, in this mortal state. But this discrepancy on the nature of the event, does not affect their testimony relative to the time of its occurrence. And, as they are united in their testimony that this is the time for it to take place, have we not good reason to believe that they are correct in their conclusion 1 We believe we have. Hence, our settled conviction is that this gathering together under Christ, in the kingdom, on the New Earth, will soon take place. We have no assurance that it will be delayed another moment. How important then that we be constantly ready to have a glorious part in this heavenly gathering.

Question and Answer.

A brother inquires, when will Isa. xxvi. 13, 14, be fulfilled 1 It reads :

"O Lord our God, other lords beside thee have had dominion over us : but by thee only will we make mention of thy name. They are dead, they shall not live ; they are diseased, they shall not rise : therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish."

We think it will be fulfilled in the new earth, under the glorious reign of Christ, and after the final destruction of the ungodly. Then the saints will sing the triumphant song of the text. Read the two preceding chapters, and you will see that this conclusion is just. We may notice this glorious prophecy at length at a future time.

Prayer.

Prayer consists not it complimenting Deity, as the manner of some is. They tell him what he is and is not-what they have been, are, and should beand where they would be, if God had dealt justly with them ! (as though he were unjust), and many such vain repetitions. Now, such praying as this is unreasonable and unscriptural, and of course useless, if not sinful. God requires no such round about palavering, when we come to the throne of his grace. He tells us to come with boldness by Jesus Christ, and we shall obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. All we need to do is, in humility, faith, and fervor, to make our simple request to God, or ask him for just such things as we need, and our desires will be granted. The Lord has given us the most perfect model, in what is called the Lord's prayer. Therefore when ye pray try and imitate it. It is just as necessary to pray with the spirit and understanding, as it is to be baptized, talk, sing, preach, think, feel and live according to the word of the Lord

Singing.

It is just as necessary to sing with the spirit and understanding, when we do sing, as to do any other commandment of God. But very much of our singing, though full of the spirit, lacks the understanding. Thus,

"They wait, even in heaven, Impatiently, To see this troubled world At peace with thee."

There are two fundamental errors here, viz: souls waiting in heaven, and, expecting to see this world at peace. The latter is good temporal millennium doctrine .- Yet we sing it, but not with the understanding. Again,

"We are traveling home to beaven above, Will you go ? "

This is a very common and favorite hymn of many, yet none of us believe that our home will be in heaven above, but on the New Earth. Hence, when we sing thus, we lack the 'understanding ;' and no singing can be acceptable to God, but that which is according to his word.

There are many similar examples, which we may notice as opportunity offers. These errors we hope will, as lar as practicable be corrected, that our worship may be as near as possible according to the will of God.

(F For a man to talk about supporting the truth, is just as foolish as for a cripple to talk of sustaining his crutches, or a glow-worm of giving light to the sun. Instead of supporting the truth, we need to be supported by it. We no more support the truth than the mariner supports the ship which conveys him across the rough billow. The ship is his 'Thy word is truth."

OF The propositions of peace from Mexico, with some trifling amendments, have been ratified by the Senate of the United States. Hence the wicked war between the two Republics may be considered near its end. In this every friend of peace and humanity will rejoice.

FROM BRO. E. M. SMITH.

My DRAB BROTHER :- There are a great many professing Christians who follow too much after the traditions of men. They have laid aside the simple word of God, and the teachings of his Spirit, and are worshipping the mammon of unrightconsness. How very few compared to the many, take the whole Bible as their rule of faith and practice. It seems to me that the religion which the Savior came to establish upon the carth has, by a majority of those who profess to know and feel it, been abused. The pure principles of the gospel have been lost sight of, and men have sought out and established systems detrimental, I believe, to the Christian religion.

The present church organization, in its divided state, is not, what it professes to be, the church of Christ ; for by it the great land marks of the Christian religion are almost obliterated, and we can see profess to represent Christ among mon, and says too that she reflects his image. But we look, and it is the image of the world. We see selfishness and the image of the world. We see selfishness and lust. We see pride and pomp; greediness for gain, and thirsting for honor. Her gold has become dim, and a stench has been made to come up before Him who walketh among the golden candlesticks. Can these different establishments, then, be the church of Christ, the Bride, the Lamb's wife ! It is imposof Christ, the Bridg the Lands which is the index sible. Tooy distonate God, by denying and rejecting the fundamental principle of his Gospel, that very principle upon which the mighty fairier was founded. mean, the Second Coming of Christ. For it was • mean, we seew a coming or offst. For It was declared unto the apo-tiley, that this same Jesus whom they saw go into heaven, should so come in like manner. I know that they say they believe in this dottime. But why do they close their synagenes against those who advecte it ! Facts speak bouler than words. And they do indead act out. ouder than words. And they do indeed cast out all who embrace the principle, and to them it has become a stone of stumbling, and rock of offence .-But to those who are cast out, there is encouragement. Isa. Ixvi 5. 'Hear the word of the Lord, ye that tremble at his word. Your brethren that hated you, that cast you out for my name sake, said, Let the Lord be glorified. But he shall appear to your joy, and they shall be ashamed.' If these establishments, then, are not the church of Christ, what is the church of Christ, and who are its members ? First, The church of Christ is a company of believers, who are located in a particular place, whose object, and only object, is the honor and glory of God, and the salvation of men. Each and every such individual is the temple of God, and together, are laborers with God, and are God's building ; for God hath said, Ye are the temple of the living God, and I will dwell in them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. 2 Cor. vi. 16. Its members are not those, and those only, who subscribe to a creed, and are identified with some one of the different denominations which abound in the land. Christ says his children are not of this world. That is, they partake not of its spirit, but are dead to the world and alive to him. Again, John xvii, 14. In praying to the Father, he says : I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them. Why does the world hate them 1 Be cause they conform not to, and partake not of its follies and fashions, but have put on the Lord Jesus Christ, who is formed within them the hope of glory. Again, he prays earnestly, that his followers may be one, even as he and the Father are one.-Why should Christians be one ? Because if they were united in love and Christian fellowship, and together sought to honor God, the world, the wicked unregenerate world would believe that the Savior was sent to redeem man from sin.

Do we see these traits of character exhibited by one of the different sects ? No. They unchris tianize, and, as a general thing, recognize not as a Christian, one who bears not their name. And there are among them envyings, strife and divisions. Pau says such are carnal, and walk as men, and are yet in their sins. If this is so-and who can deny itthese different establishments are no more the church of Christ, nor their members any more the children of God for belonging to them, then they would be to belong to the Democratic or Whig party, as they are called. But to become a member of the church of Christ, to be numbered among the ransomed of the Lord, is something more than being identified with one of these establishments. It consists in embracing fully all the principles and doctrines jo Jesus Christ, and in exhibiting his spirit and reflecting his image. If we do this, we are normbers of the body of Christ, and belong to the church of God, and of him are we in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom, and rightcousness, and sanc-tification, and redemption.

Now, my brother, these 'isms' are all wrong, and we have no authority in the word of God for estab-lishing a new foundation, or in following any new leader. leader. We have no business to follow John Wes-ley, Benjamin Rundal), Martin Luther, nor William Mi ler, and with them establish a new foundation. and call it the church of Christ ; for other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ ; he is the Captein of our salvation, and we need no voting by men to say whether we may stand on that foundation and participate in all its benefits. No. If we have been baptized, it has been done in the name of the Lord Jesus, not in the name of these reformers. If we are his faithinl children, we have placed our feet firmly upon the rock, and stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and are not to be entangled again in the yoke of bondage, nor carried about by every wind of doctrine, by the cunning craftiness of men, who lie in wait to deceive, but we have received the truth in the love of it : that we may grow up into him in all things, who is the Head, even Christ.

How much wickedness is wrapped up in these man-made, pretended churches of Christ ! How maman-make, pretended churches of Christ : now ma-ny thousand's yean illions have gone to perilition for the want of pioper instruction, who have had a neme to like but were dead ! They had their name enrolled on the church book, and supposed that a passport to beaven, but how many have been deceir-ed ! Their ministers have fed them upon sugar, plumb and sweet-cake, and thus fulled them to sleep until they have taken their last sleep, to wake up in eternity, and feel the gnawing of that worm that never dies. It is the duty, then, of the real child of God to come out, and be separate, and touch not the unclean thing, that they may be truly the sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty : for the time draweth near when he whose right it is shall reign in mount Zion gloriously. Your brother

FROM BRO. L. L. DENBLOW.

Bao, MARSH ---- The cause is still onward. Bris Bywater and Pinney have labored here with untiring assiduity, to convince the people that the Lord's coming is near, and that be is about to establish his kingdum on the earth ; that the wicked are to be destroyed by fire : that the elements are to melt with fervent heat ; that the devil's lie to our first parents is still believed by the great mass, viz., "Thou shalt not surely die," but is only changed in "Thou shalt not surely die," but is only cha form to a more cunning and subtle assortionsoul can never die"-thus burning up the the prison, and allowing the soul to escape.

These senuments, of course, draw down the wrath and indignation of our Reverends and D. D.'s, who seem to spare no pains, if we can place any reliance on Madam Rumor, to faithfully warn their members to withhold their countenance, by a non-attendance at our meetings, declaring to them that these senuments are "damnable heresies"; that their advocates are "false teachers"; and the church demonstrates that she can't "endure sound doctrine."

The church (if we can call the denominations the church) is truly in a deplorable state, and most surely answers to the apostic's description of it in the last days. 2 Tim. iv. 3, 4; Matt. xxii. 1-13; and as a fair parallel, read Luke x. 11-15, which plainly declares a burning day to these rejectors of God's truth ; also 2 Peter iii. The people here virtually have itching ears, and love their old fables more than a "thus saith the Lord." Their priests had much rather teach the doctrines and commandments of men, than the sure word of prophecy ; and give heed to fables, rather than be instructed by the word of the Lord. In short, they would all be glad to meet the Lord in their own way, and climb into his king-dom as described in John x. 1. I have not imbibed these sentiments hastily ; but from a carciul observation of incidents occurring, and manifestations appearing among them, which savors too much of the spirit of Antichrist.

A church built upon the Rock, has no right to fear the gates of hell, for it has the promise of Him who cannot lie, that it shall not premai against (i... Hence, I can see no reason for shutting advent pro-claimers out of our clurches, for if they do explode, like the Trojan Horse against Troy, they connot prevail; prevail: but will only prove the stability of a church thus founded, and consequently be the means of spreading and establishing the truth. I allude to this figure, because it was referred to by one of our clergy, as an argument why the advent proclaimers should not be admitted into our church-Our friends, Pinney and Bywater, have been rejected by them without a hearing ; and if we can place any confidence in common report, they have Why been grossly slandered and misrepresented. should they talk to their congregations against them, without a correct knowledge-without they know whereof they allirm. The apostle commands us to try the spirits, and assures us that every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh, is of God. Then why be alraid of such spirits ! They have taught nothing contrary to the word of the Lord, and nothing opposed to common sense, in my humble opinion; and if truth has ever been Yours truly, in the good hope, J. J. BRO. MARSH :--There are a few faithful souls here, strong in faith, striving for the unity of the Spirit, and expecting soon to hall their heavenly King. Yet we have trials severe. A scoffing world is trying to take away our hope ; a fallen, pleasure seeking church is crying, Peace and safety-a tem-poral millennium; and would, if they could, trample our hope of a blessed inheritance forever, in the dust; yet, bless the Lord, we have a more sure word of puphecy, whereaunto we do well to take heed, &c. &c. These things more a period we have believed: for we have not followed cunpingly devised fables, but the truth, which assures us that the true Israel will shout victory in the land of promise, the new earth, and glory to our king in the beavenly city. I believe we shall know about these things, but the wicked shall do wickedly, and none of them shall understand, but the wise shall understand. If the good man had known at what hour the theif would come he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up. some see the propriety of watching that we may know, and say when he comes, Lu, this is our God, we have waited for him. ## Obituary.

Died, Nov. 25, 1847, Sister JERUSHA SHEPARD, in the 36th year of her age.

The subject of this brief notice in early life be came interested in seeking the salvation of her soul, connected herself with the Baptist church of this place, in whose fellowship she remained until the fall of '45, when her attention was arrested by the proclamation, as given by Bro. L. E. Bates, " Behold the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him."-She saw the evidence, and rejoiced with God's waiting people in the soon coming kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ. But it was not hers to remain until the coming of our Lord. Wasting consumption, in a few short months, consigned her to the narrow house.

Her sickness, though one of extreme suffering and trial, was borne with Christian patience, and unwavering faith in a blissful immortality beyond the grave. Her testimony, up to the day of her death, was one of bright assurance of glory, immortality, and eternal life. "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not as others which have no hope; for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." II. D. GOODENOUGH.

Copenhagen, N. Y., March 10, 1848.

Died, at Warren, Warren Co., Pa., on the 21st ult., Mr. CYRUS TANNER, in the 70th year of his age

Mr. Tanner was born and raised in Warren, Connecticut; afterwards resided in Troy, and also at Geneva, N. Y. About 12 or 15 years since, he removed to Waverly, Illinois, His health declining, in 1817 he took up his temporary residence in Warren, where he died with an inflammation upon the lungs.

The deceased sustained unequivocally the character of an honest man and Christian. With those moral and religious standards, if he erred, it was in his altra adherence to his views of those principles.

Thus he struggled with more than the ordinary vicissitudes of life, and finally left this state of trial in the full hope and confidence of peace with his Savior and God. COM.

Died, Nov. 25, 1847, Sister LYDIA, wife of Wm. Lasher, in the 49th year of her age.

Sister Lasher has long been a pilgrim and a stran-ger, looking for a city which hath foundations whose builder and maker is God. She has been identified with the advent unovement from first to last. She has travelled the rugged path of trial and disappointment, with strong erving and tears, amid scorn and contempt, and valiantly contended for the faith once delivered to the saints. Experimental religion and bright glory were her theme. Her prayers, and ex-hortations, and songs of praise, were richly inbued with the tender spirit of Jesus, and contributed much to the interest of our meetings; but they have come to an end : she sleeps in Jesus, swaiting the resurrection morn for immortality and eternal life. Amen. Even so come Lord Jesus. H. D. GOODLNOUGH.

CHAPTER III-KINGDOM OF GOD.

Beloved Brethren and Friends :-

We will now enter upon the investigation of one of the most interesting subjects that can engross our attention, and one too that is perhaps as little understood by the great mass, as almost any other, viz : the Kingdom of God. The Savior taught his disciples to pray : Our Father who art in heaven, . . . thy kingdom come : thy will be done in earth, as in haven. (Matt, w, 9, 10.) He also eave:-Blessed be ye poor: for yours is the kingdom of God. And again: Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. (Matt. v. 5.). In considering this important subject, we will enquire,

1. Where will the kingdom of God be located ? Answer: It is to be under (not above) the whole heaven. 'And the kingdoin and dominion, and greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all domin-ions shall serve and obey him.' Dan. vii. 27. In the second chapter of Daniel is recorded the wonderful dream which the king of Babylon had, and when none of the wise of all his realm could make known to him the interpretation, God in his providence brought Daniel before the king, who told the king the meaning of the dream which troubled him so much. Daniel told him, that he saw a stone smite the beautiful image, which he saw in his dream, on the feet, and then was the whole image destroyed. He then tells the king the interpretation of the whole matter; it was, that there should be four great kingdoms (including the Babylonian) vise in the earth, that the tourth should be divided, and, in the divided state of this fourth kingdom, that the God of heaven should set up a kingdom which should never be destroyed. Now, the last thing that Nebuchadnezzar saw in his dream, was the stone that smote the image on the feet, and broke it to to pieces ; 'and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.' Thus you see that the kingdom of God is to fill the whole earth ; its locality is 'under the whole heavwhole earth; its locatity is under the whole heav-en. We might multiply texts, but these are suffi-cient for the present. We will therefore inquire, 2. How great is the extent of the kingdom of God? The prophet says it is to fill the whole earth. When the seventh angel sounds, it is said : The kingdoms of his corline anger sounds, it is said. The kingdoms of and of his corline the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ. Rev. xi. 15. And God says of his Sou: Ask of me, and I will give thee the hea-then lor thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Pss. ii. 8. Now God the earth for thy possession. Psa. ii. 8. Now God promised Abraham and his seed (Christ, Gal. iii. 16) the world for an everlasting possession, and Christ says, Bleased are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. So that though the child of God is poor in this world, he looks forward to a time when he will inherit that kingdom which God hath promised to them that love him. James ii. 5. Let us therefore endure hardness as good soldiers of the cross of Christ, knowing that it is through much tribulation that we must enter the kingdom of God. Acts xiv. 22. Let us add one christian grace to another, and continue so to do; for so an entrance shall be ministered unto us abundantly, into the everlasting kingdom of our lord and Savior Jesus Christ. 2 Pet. i. 11. Let us now inquire,

3. How long will the kingdom of God continue? It will continue forever, EVEN FOR EVER AND EVER. Dan vii, 18. The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdom of our Lord, and his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever. Rev. xi, 15. God of heaven shall set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed ; and it shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these (earthly) kingdoms, and it shall stand forever. Dan. ii. 44. Thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name Jesus.-He shall be great, and shall be called the son of the Highest, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David. And he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end. Luke i. 31, 33. O hear the shall inherit these great blessings when the kingdom are quickly defiled and enthralled with vanity.ames. This leads us to inquire, 4. When will the kingdom of God come ? comes.

Paul says to Timothy: I charge thee before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and kingdom. 2 Tim. iv. 1. It is at the judgment that the kingdom comes. And to this agree the words of Christ : When the Son to this agree the words of Christ: When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy an-gels with him, then shall be sit upon the throne of his glory. And before him shall be gathered all na-tions, Soc. Matt. xxv. 31-33. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand: Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom, prepared for you from the foundation of the world, vs. 34. As there fore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all scandals (margin), and them that do iniquity. THEN shall the rightcous shine forth in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath After our Lord had told bis disciples what signs should precede his second coming, he introduced the parable of the fig-tree to illustrate the nearness of the event when all these signs should be fulfilled .-He says : Behold the fig-tree, and all the trees ; when they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand. own serves that sommer is now night at hard. No likewise 3% when yo see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand. Luke axi. 39-31. Now all these things have been fulfilled within the hast seventy years, and we know positively that the kingdom of God will so one come, hesides, the four great kingdoms have arisen and mend away accent the fourth which is call to me passed away, except the fourth, which is split up, or divided, and we are warranted to expect that God will soon set up his everlasting kingdom. The next great question is, 5. Who shall enter that kingdom ? The apostle has told us who shall not enter it : For this know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor cov-etous man, who is an idelator, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of God and of Christ. Now the works of the flesh are these : Adultery, fornication, Works of the field are uses : Address, joint-actor, uncleanness, lacsiviousness, idolatry, witcheraft, ha-tred, variance, emulation, wrath, strife, sedition, heresies, envyings, mutdra, drunkenness, reveilings, and such like; of the which I tell you before, as I and such mke; of the which it ten you before, and have also told you in time past, that they who do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. Eph. v. 5; Gal. v. 19-21. Let us not therefore, my beloved, labor to fulfill the desires of the flesh, but let us labor to do the will of our Father in heaven. Then shall we be permitted to reign in his kingdom, and rejoice with Abraham in the everlasting inheritance which fadeth not away. Amen.

But we are told who shall enter that glorious king-m. Saith the Psalmist: Who shall ascend inte dom. the hill of the Lord ? and who shall stand in his holy place ? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; pince i fie toxi nationen introces on a part of any who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation. Psa. xxiv. 3-5, also Psa. xv. Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in thro the gates into the city. Rev. xxii. 14. Now, beloved, in the language of the apostle, I say: Be patient, establish your hearts: for the com-ing of the Lord draweth nigh. Jas. v. 8. Soon, yes soon, we shall stand in our tot, with Daniel, and Abraham, and all the prophets and rightcous men. Soon, O glorious prospect, soon will Jeaus asy :--Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. Amen and Amen.

We what can I do with the inferences you draw from it. I do not suffer your inferences or my own, drawn from that or any other parable, to contrawill render to every man according to his deeds : ables are not given to teach doctrines, but to illustrate. That this is a parable is evident from the fact that it is spoken to the Pharisees to whom to Abraham's bosom. When do angels carry the saints ? Never, according to the word, until Jesus comes. See Matt, xxiv. 30, 31. " They shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory. And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other." These questions are put in the tone of reproach-Again, Matt. xiii., the parable of the wheat and tares. My reply, to all such (John iii. 36, x. 1-28, xiv. 6; Acts iv. 11, 12). the parable says. The wheat represents the saints -the reapers are the angels-the harvest is the end of the world, when the angels will carry all his essential attribute. He alone " hath immorthe saints into the kingdom-Abraham's bosom. | tality." He only hath "life in himself"; but So in the case of Dives ; he is dead and buried, the believer's life is "in Christ" "This is the soever hath killed any soul [nephesh, or person] and what next is said of him ? He is in a resurrected state, with tongue, eyes, &c., in torment, and where he sees Abraham and Lazarus in the kingdom. When are the wicked raised ? At the end of the thousand years. (Rev. xx. 5) .-When do this class see Abraham, Isaac, &c., in the kingdom ? When Satan leads them up around the beloved city, after their resurrection, at the end of the thousand years. Then will be fulfilled the declaration of Christ in Luke xiii. 28 .-Then by this same class " there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abra be abased"; for "these, as natural brute beasts, ham, Isaac and Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and ye yourselves thrust out." Thus, according to this parable, there is nothing with either class between death and the resurrection. Well what do you do with his message to the five trethren ? That is added to rebuke them for continually seeking signs and other evidence than the word, and as snow me importance of giving heed to the law and prophets, which subject was introduced in the 3d verse preceding the parable (verse 16), and then closed his instruction on that point by saying (verse 31), "If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be pursuaded, though one rose from the dead."-Which shows that part of the parable is to be fulfilled here in probation, and nothing but a desire to subserve a theory could give any other view, and the same reason accounts for all the difficulties on this parable. Give up that desire and all darkness vanishes. All is clear. But suppose I could not have harmonized this parable with these plain literal declarations, and suppose there were twenty others equally difficult of understanding. Then what ? Are the plain declarations to be affected or laid aside ? Never. They stand and will stand immutable and forever. Let us, then, give up our theories and settle down into an unwavering belief of God's word, which declares positively man is not immortal, nor can he get immortality until the last trump, when Jesus comes and we receive the end of our faith, even the salvation of our souls. Then, and not till then shall this mortal put on immortality. Amen. Joshan was E. R. P.

My last closed with a notice of the scornful interrogations," Will you reduce man to a level with the brute ?" " Does man die like a dog ?" ful sarcasm. They are supposed to contain a withering rebuke, quite sufficient to shame us off from the Bible record of man's creation, and on- the gospel, he will treat as 'thieves and robbers.' haughtiness of frail mortality, is, that Jehovah will frown on that pride of man which arrogates reached my ear. immortality till the resurrection. Those who thus "exalt themselves" against made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the perish in their own corruption." These are they who "speak great swelling words of vanity."-When they tell us that all have a part of God in them for "all have immortal souls." or distincting, and that God's view, which we quote from the Bible, makes man a 'brute beast,' then God tells us what he will make of them ! It is as irrational as it is unrighteous-for man to assume that he has immortality, independent of the mediation of Christ-as wrong as it would have been for our first parents to have assumed that they could live and not die, without " the tree of life." If the first 'living soul' was dependent on God for the preservation of his life-if he had not 'life in himself,' but was dependent on the means appointed by God, from whom he derived his existence, then surely his fallen, dying posterity, should not essume that they are indenendent of the means now appointed for them to attain immortality !-

What pride and presumption can equal this ? Jehovah will as certainly 'confound' them, as he did the impious builders of Babel. # For the Harbinger. The Sabbath.

1 As many of the adventists seem to entertain the opinion that an observance of the Jewish sabsath, instituted in the wilderness, extends to us, and is enjoined upon Christians, I feel desirous o convey through the medium of the Harbinger few remarks to those persons who are so much infected with the spirit of, and so deeply in love with the law.

We learn from 2 Cor. iii. 13-15, that the Old Testament is done away in Christ ; and in Heb. xii. 18-29, the New Testament is commenced. Matt. xvii. 5; Mark ix. 7; Luke ix. 35. In the early state of the Christian church, it was their custom to assemble on the first day of the week to worship ; but a cessation from labor about 6 o'clock, from which, to reach the 16th was not ordered on that day. The observance of the seventh day sabbath is a Jewish ritual, the peculiar law of the Jewish policy directed to the Jews alone. This will be seen by reading, and a little reflection. On that day the Israelites abstained from every kind of work, and permitted their slaves and cattle to rest.

DEAR BRO. MARSH :--- I have just read an article from the pen of Bro. I. I. Leslie, upon which I wish to make a few remaks; not to reply, but to set a few points right in which he has misapprehended my argument' I have no objection to the brother's satisfying, himself with asservations, that there is no Sabbath, or that there is no way to ascertain which day we ought to keep, but I do object to his misrepresenting my article to do so, for I have not given my opinion in the case, but a thus saith the Lord, even at every step. I am not the author of the position that the Lord was crucified on Friday, nor have I labored to prove that he was, but have taken the commonly viewed opinions (and this opinion involves all the evidence extant on any day), and from this point have proved by the word of God, both prophetically and historically, that our Sabbath is the seventh day.

What if Bro. L. does say two nights and one day ? It may answer for him : but I go for the word of Christ notwithstanding. He says three days and three nights, and now let magic beat, it ne'er can blast this rock. I have shown that there was three days and three nights involved in the type, and if Jesus of Nazareth was the Lamb of God, that was literally fulfilled, no matter who asserts the contrary.

The law required the lamb to be slain between the two evenings, on the 14th day of the first month. This point was between 3 and 6 o'clock. The law also required that the lamb or passover should be eaten the 14th day at even. This evening or night began the 14th day with the Jews, and must continue one night; the night that began the 15th day was two nights ; the night that began the 16th day was three nights; and the morning following, the wave sheaf was offered, thus involving three nights, and the greater part of three days.

The Lamb of God has literally fulfilled this type, as is variously declared by the record. He (Christ) rose the third day, and if you begin your day with the evening, as the Jews did, you cannot reach the morning of the third day without counting three nights.

After supper, Mrs. Heart provides her guests with lodging ; and the place they lie in, though but one roam, is large enough for them all, and is called Natural Corruption. Herein they all lie, upon beds of impenitency, the coverings of which are, hardness of heart and carnal security, till the chief constable comes upon them and takes them all, the greater and the lesser, not sparing one of them. They no sooner see that officer than they are filled with apprehensions of God's wrath, striking them with fear through the terror of the law, which they have so daringly rebelled against, and so often broken, and for which they now see that they cannot escape death.

The constable having thus apprehended them, carries them to the justice, Mr. Well-mormed Judgment, who is learned in the law and the gospel, and is able to examine every malefactor that may be brought before him ; "for who knoweth what is in man, saving the spirit of man which is in him ?" (1 Cor. ii. 11). He proceeds to inquire into the name and nature of sin, the occasions of its being committed, the causes moving thereto, the kinds and degrees of sin, and the effects that have followed its several acts; and as the offenders are not bailable by law, he makes out a warrant to commit them to gaol. The chief gaoler's name is Mr. Newman. To his custody the prisoners are committed. He has three under-keepers, who are of the greatest service to him in this business. The first is Mr. Savingknowledge; who looks to these sort of prisoners : Wilful-ignorance, Error, Vain-opinions, False-doctrines, Heresies, and such like. The second is True-holiness ; he looks to all the transgressors of the first table, as Atheism, Paganism, Judaism, Unbelief, Despair, Presumption, Willworship, Blasphemy, Swearing, Sabbath-breaking, and to other sins against God's truth and holiness. The third is Righteousness; who looks to all the sins against the second table, as Rebellion, Murder, Malice, Adultery, Fornication, and to all other transgressions comprehended under these commandments.

Now, because the prisoners are sometimes ve-I have stated the above, solely for the sake of ry unruly, the gaoler hath some proper fatters for Gal. iii. 24; Rom. iii. 20, for if any man can show that our Friday was not vows, fervent prayer, and conscientious practice the day of crucifixion, I have no objection but if of Christian duties. These are strong chains to they make assertions, I cannot allow them to do keep under the body of Sin, and to keep the whole man in obedience unto God, when they All that read the Bible account, must see that are fastened on by the hammer of God's word, and the effectual power thereof, (Jer. xxiii. 29). The gaoler also looks to see that the prison itself be strong; for the prisons of some of the best keepers that ever were have been broken .-Drunkenness brake out from Noah ; Rash-andunadvised-speeches, from Moses ; Idolatry, from Solomon ; Adultery; from David ; Cursing and False-swearing from Peter. He therefore must see that the doors be fastened : he must lock up Taste with the key of moderation, that Drunkenness and Gluttony break not out ; he must lock up Hearing with the key of examination, lest Credulity and Infidelity escape; and he mustlock up Seeing with the key of chastity, that Uncleanness break not out. In the next place he must take heed that no lewd companions of Sin lurk about she prison-house, and introduce files and pick-locks therein, to enable the prison-. ers to make their escape. . The Devil, and wicked and corrupted Reason, are very busy at this work ; and the files and pick-locks they use are, Satanic suggestions, evil counsel from men, worldly and fleshly arguments of their own invention to make no conscience of sin, but to file off the bolts, and open the doors of the senses, that Sin may escape, and the gaoler be overthrown and undone. The gaoler must look, also, to the prison walls, to see that they be built with good stones and strongly cemented "together .----There are moral virtues and evangelical graces. by which, as walls, our sins and corruptions are kept in ; for though Master Newman lock and Dar the doorer you if the wells he manh, the prisoners may get out. And, lastly, he must look to the foundation of the house, that it be not undermined. The true foundation of the subjection of Sin, is the power of death and the resurrection of Christ ; into whom, by faith, through the operation of his Spirit and by the word, we are engrafted. All these things, looked well to, the prisoners are kept safely until the time of the assizes

The Bible in the South.

THIS IN & CIVILIZED LAND !- The Boston Chronotype of the 26th ult., contains a report of the trial and conviction of Martha Christian, at the August term of the Common Pleas, for 1847. in Wood county, Virginia, on a charge of teaching a slave to read the Bible ! The following is the indictment, and we commend it to the careful consideration of all who claim to be humane and Christian citizens :-

"Wood County, to wit .- The Grand Jurors empaneled and sworn to inquire of offences committed in the body of said county, on their oath present : That Martha Christian, late of said county, being an evil disposed person, on the fourth day of July, in the year of our blessed Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty seven, at Bighteaus Ridge, in said county, not having the fear by the davil, wickedly, maliciously, and feloniously did teach a certain black and negro woman named Rebecca, alias Black Beck, to read in the Bible ; to the great displeasure of Almighty God, to the pernicious example of others in like case offending, contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Virginia."

Unnatural and inhuman as it may seem, the defendant in this case was found guilty, and on the next morning was brought into Court for sentence. Judge Shacklebar dwelt upon the great favor extended towards her on her trial, the enormity of the offence, and the necessity of faithfully administering the law; and she was sentenced to ten years confinement in the penitentiary, and to pay the costs. The defendant's counsel immediately appealed from the cruel sentence, and the parties are now awaiting a decision in the higher Court.

Those who read this indictment cannot fail to see how ill adapted the forms and precedents of Common Law are to the demands of slavery.

The Advent Barbinger. "The wise shall understand." BOCHESTER, SATURDAY, MARCH 25 1848

Exposition of Isaiah ii. 1-4 & Micah iv. 1-4.

ISALAH. The word that Isaiah the son of Amor saw concerning Judah and Jerusaler

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be an-tablished in the top of the mountains, and shall be exsited above the hills ; and all nations shall flow unto it.

And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the moun-tain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob : and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths : for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.

And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many peo-ple; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares . and their aneura into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation. neither shall they learn war any more.

But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it. And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the moun-tain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob : and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem

And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations a far off; and they shall beat their swords into plow-shares, and their spears into pruninghooks : nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

But they shall sit every man under his vine auc under his fig-tree; and none shall make them afraid : for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

It will be seen, even by the casual reader, that here is one and the same prophecy, given in nearly the same words by two prophets. This shows that one adopted the sentiments and words of the other, or that both wore divinely inspired to utter been the place of an impure worship, like the thigh the certainty that the prophecy will most surely be church. And if not, then we ask, how can the very fulfilled in all its specifications. In endeavoring to next verse (chap. iv. i.) refer to that church ? The obtain a correct understanding of it, we shall inauire-WHO ARE THE SUBJECTS OF THIS PROPHECY ? L

II. WHEN WILL IT BE FULFILLED ? And

III. WHAT DOES IT PROMISE TO ACCOMPLISH ?

These three specifications we think will lead to full investigation of all the important contents of this prophecy. And

I. WHO ARE ITS SUBJECTS !

One class of expositors think it is the apostate gentile church. They hold that it simply predicts what the 'people,' or church, will erroneously 'say in the last days, relative to their fabled millennium; that they will then talk much about the world's conversion, and the universal reign of peace before the coming of the Lord, when, in fact, all such notions will be fabulous and highly absurd. Now, these facts, as far as the church and its doctrines are concerned, are strictly true, but we verily believe this prophecy refers to another and very different state of things, and its application to the gentile church to be very incorrect-

(1) Because we have no authority from this prophecy, from either of the books in which it is found. nor from any portion of the Bible, to our knowledge, to justify the conclusion that the gentile church is a subject of this prophecy. || Let the inquirer after truth look at the different subjects of prophecy, named in the book of Isaiah, and he will see at once that the gentiles are not the subject of the prophecy under consideration. From the 1st to the 12th chapter, inclusive, as we are repeatedly told. 'Judah and Jerusalem' are the chief subjects of prophecy. Chapters 13th and 14th contain 'the burden of Babylon.' Chapters 15th and 16th, 'the burden of Mosh.' Chanter 17th, 'the hurden of Damascus.'-Chapter 18th has a 'wo to the land shadowing with wings.' Chapter 19th and 20th, 'the burden of Egypt.' 21st, 'the burden of the desert of the sea.' seud, 'the burden of the valley of Vision.' And 2sd, 'the burden of Tyre.' Other subjects are clearly specified in other portions of the book. And if we are to understand 'Judah and Jerusalem' to mean the Gentile church, then, by the same process of reasoning (for there is no rule for the conclusion). when Babylon, Moab, Damascus, etc. are spoken of. we may conclude that something else, which those names never signified, arc meant. This would throw confusion into the clear and harmonious word of prophecy. We conclude, as the prophecy says nothing about the gentile church, it is not the subject of the prophecy under consideration.

(2) We thus conclude, because Isaiah plainly tells us, that ' the word ' which he saw at this time was 'concerning Judah and Jerusalem.' The same expression is used at the commencement of the first chapter : and if in the second chapter it means the gentile church, it must mean the same in the first and in every other place where it occurs. This no understanding person will admit for a moment ; neither should it be contended that this is the meaning of 'Judah and Jerusalem' in the prophecy before us.

(3) We thus conclude from what we learn from the prophecy of Micah. In chapter iii. 12, he says, 'Therefore shal! Zion for your sake be plowed as a field, and JERUSALEM shall become heaps, and the MOUNTAIN of the house as the high places of the fores.' No one will deny that this prediction relates to Jerusalem. Facts, well known to every bible student, say, that this prophecy has been most literally fulfilled, in the destruction of Jerusalem, by the Romans, and its long possession by the Turks ; it hes thecome hoaps,' been 'plowed as a field,' and doubtless is the case : and this fact adds much to of Micah's prophecy cannot relate to the gentile same subject is continued. It is only divided by the improper break of chapters. Chapter 4th commences thus : 'But, [that is, though JERUSALEM shall become heaps, and Zron be plowed as a field, and the MOUNTAIN of the house become as a high place of the forest-notwithstanding this] in the last days . . . the MOUNTAIN of the house of the Lord shall be established . . . and many nations shall come, and say, Come, let us go up to the MOUNTAIN of the Lord . . . for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from JERUSALEM,

This makes the matter as clear as a sunbeam. who and what are the subjects of this prophecy. It is not the apostate gentile church. But, as it plainly tells us, 'Judah and Jerusalem,' 'Zion,' the 'moun tain of the house of the Lord,1 and 1 many people' or 'nations,' the righteous.

We are aware it is contended that ' Judah and Jerusalem,' in this case, are to be symbolically understood. But this is bare assumption, which is not proof, and weighs nothing in the scale of Bible evidence. We know not an instance in the book of God, where they are used as symbols ; but if they are thus used in other places, it is positively certain, as we have shown, that they are not so used in the prophecy we are considering.

Carefully test what we have written, by the word of God ; and let the testimony of that book decide the important question at issue. All other decisions will be erroneous, and consequently pernicious in their tendency. There is safety, peace and the reward, in no other way than the truth, and in that pleasant way they are most surely found.

(To be continued.) Revolution in France.

Many of our readers, doubtless before this, have eceived the highly important news of the recent unexpected revolution in France. For the information of those who have not we will briefly state the facts in the case. The news comes by the steamship Cambria. It is said that the Royal family have fled to England. The National Guards are strongly joined by the people. Upwards of five hundred lives have been lost. The throne was triumphantly carried through the streets and burned. Everything in the palace had been destroyed. Trees have been felled, lamp posts thrown down, oninibusses and carrisges overturned, and all converted into barricades. All classes of people engaged in this work with an earnestness beyond description. The peoule are in possession of the railway stations, and have torn nn the rails. A Republican form of government has been established ; and all communication with Paris Cut off.

The understanding observer will most clearly recognize the hand of God in this revolution. And

1. The cause which set the mighty wheel in moon. We see no intimation, in any account we have read, that a plan had previously been devised and matured for such a work : but unforeseen and unexpected circumstances were the moving cause. This is the way God disappoints the ambition, and confounds the wisdom of man, and brings about his wise purposes. It seems that the liberal or reform party had appointed to hold their "great reform banquet " which the king unwisely prohibited on the day before it was to have been held. This highly exasperated the populace, and led to the results already named.

2. It is stated that an army of one hundred thousand strong, was in and about Paris at the time this revolution commenced, A force sufficient, under the same words about the same things. The latter places' of analout lociatry. Cortainly, this partian ardinary elevantianous, to have put down as ance an insurrection, or a mob, got up on the mere excitement of the moment. But what does this mighty army do at this time ? Why, after a weak resistance against the populace, who were without weapons, it takes sides with them, and that too without any previous agreement, or popular leader, to influence it to take such a stop. He who rules the destinies of nations, must have guided in a work like thie

3. Paris had become one of the most strongly fortified cities in the world. It had but just heen encompassed by an impregnable wall, mounted with seventeen thousand cannon. In such a stronghold as this, the sagacious Louis Philippe expected to secure to himself and family the proud throne of France forever. But God laughed at his plans ; drove him from his throne, and caused him and his family to flee from their strongly fortified city; shut its brazen gates, and turned its own army and its strong fortresses against them, and which now bid defiance to their return. What a reverse in human affairs ! Surely, God has, in this case, had the ways of men in derision.

4. Louis Phillipe, by general consent, is acknowledged to have been one of the most, if not the most sagacious statesman in the world. But now his wisdom seems to have left him ; and his own imprudent act has been made the cause of his own fall, and the revolution in France. We refer to his interdicting, at so late an hour, the "Great Reform Banquet."-His wisdom and prudence would once have devised a different course : but his work of oppressive rule now seems to have come to an end ; God had used this proud monarch on the throne of France, as long as his wise purposes required; he must therefore fall, and his own folly is, by the Ruler of the world, wisely made the cause.

These things enable us to see clearly the hand of God in this work. But what will be the result of the whole affair, is a matter not so easily determined. It is our opinion that the crowned heads of Europe will not suffer a Republic to spring up in France without making an effort to put it down. And should this attempt be made, a general European war would be inevitable. But we will not speculate : God's ways are beyond the comprehension of finite mortals. further than he has revealed his purposes in his word. And from that Book we clearly see, that we are now living very near the time when Michael shall stand up, and deliver the people of God ; when the nations will be angry, and the time of their destruction come; and the three unclean spirits of devils gather the nations of the earth, for the battle of the great day of God Almighty. And we shall not be disappointed, if the actual fulfilment of these, and similar prophecies, hus commenced in the Revolution in France. In this, however, we are not A short time will decide this important positive. matter.

Let us be momentarily ready to have a glorious part in that Great Revolution, which evidently is very near, and which will be effected by the Lord of lords and King of kings, when he shall come to destroy the nations of the earth, and set up his everlasting kingdom under the whole heavens. "Let thy kingdom come," is our earnest prayer.

Conniving at Sin.

Speaking of the "Christian Sun," a paper published by the "Christians," in North Carolina, the "Christian Herald," a paper published by the same denomination, in Massachusetts, says, "it is lucated in the midst of slavery, but never utters a word in its favor ; and so careful is it on this point, that no one would suppose from reading it, that its editor or correspondents knew there was a slave in Amer- it no worse for them to do those things, according Our oparity loads us to approace that our to preven contrary to law, making he pretenden causiaica.

ministers in that quarter regret the existence of to godliness, than it is for the Church, under the that subject."

This we call conniving at sin. First : On the part of the "Sun:" for slavery is or is not a sin .-If a sin, then the "Sun" cannot be justified to live in its midst, and act as though no such sin existed. It should know, and let it be known, that such a sin exists, and that it has no fellowship for it. Or, if slavery is not a sin, then the "Sun" should speak in defence of the "peculiar institution." The faithful herald of truth cannot take a neutral ground, or be silent in a case like this.

Second : The "Herald" connives at sin in this case. It virtually says : Bro. Sun, although I am a thorough-going abolitionist at heart, and speakand do all I can to destroy the system of slavery ; yet, Bro. Sun, I will give you the warm hand of fellowship, not knowing whether you are a slaveholder or not, provided only you so conduct yourself that no one would suspect that you "knew there was a slave in America." This is a specimen of the prevailing religion of these times : it holds denominational interest more sacred than the dearest rights of man, and most holy truths of the Bible. It connives at sin, if sectarian interest require it.

The "Genesee Evangelist."

The editor of this sheet, in his attacks upon us, has been very ungenerous and unchristianlike. We furnished for his paper a short, and, as he admitted. respectful correction of the foolish misrepresentations which he had made ; but he declined publishing it. Thereby showing, that he was conscious of having misrepresented things, and had not moral honesty enough to allow the correction to appear in his columns. We do not suppose the deceived man really meant, maliciously, and knowingly, to publish untruths; but we do know, and clearly showed in the note which he declined publishing, that he has so stated the truth, as to turn it into a lie, or cause it to tell an untruth. Misrepresentation of this kind. as he acknowledged, is the worst kind of lying .-May the Lord show him his folly, and give him repentance unto life : that he may stand justified before his soon coming Judge.

Fairs! Fairs !!

Some of the churches in our city have recently ocen holding their fairs. And from report, their gambling tables have been very splendidly furnished and liberally patronized. But the Catholic, the mothey of abominations, has outdone in this case, as she does in every other, all her daughters. Her "Orphan's Fair," as nearly every body here says, was a most grand affair. Everything ingenuity could invent of no real worth, was sold at this fair. Sold, did we say ? Rather, gambled away ! It is said that a Mexican blanket, or quilt, was gambled for, and after filching for it from the deceived throng the enormous sum of nearly two hundred dollars, it was so managed as to fall into the hands of the Managers of the Fair ! Hence they not only gambled but were dishonorable and dishonest in gambling.

This is only a specimen of what is practiced at protestant and catholic Fairs. And we are told that some of the Rummies of this city entered a complaint before the Grand Jury, against some of the Fairs which have been held here. The Church find fault with the Rummies for making, vending, and drinking ardent spirits. But the Rummies think slavery ; but seeing no remedy at their command, garb of religion, and contrary to law, to carry on a think it the most prudent to keep entirely silent on species of gambling, for filthy lucre's sake. Hence, to retaliate, we suppose the complaint before the Grand Jury was made. Truly, these are strange and fearfully perilous times. Christian, take heed lest you be caught in some of the snares that surround you.

> "THE TIMES WE LIVE IN," from the Herald of the Future Age, though lengthy, and in some respects containing sentiments we do not fully endorse, is, we think, an interesting document. It shows that we as a people are not alone in looking for the ad-vent of Christ soon. Give it a cafeful reading; and prepare to meet the fearful crisis to which the world is rapidly hastening.

The Bible Advocate.

This paper for March 16th informs us that Bro. T. Cole has resigned his office as editor to Bro. J. Turner. Bro. Cole designs locating in Manchester, N. H., and devoting his time to proclaiming the glad tidings of the kingdom, in that and other places. He is much needed in the field, and his efficient and untiring labors will doubtless be greatly blessed of the Lord, as they have been for many vears past.

With Bro. Turner's writings we and our readers are familiar. From them and general report, we judge he is a very conscientious man ; an every day practical Christian ; of a studious and original mind, and possessing a kind and excellent spirit : yery important qualifications for his new station. May he fill it to the glory of God.

( Our brethren at Batavia need help. A faithful minister might be sustained in that place and surrounding country. It is an important field. Who will occupy it as a faithful, suffering, boly and efficient minister of Jesus Christ ? The Lord direct. Bro. J. D. Prudden is requested to call upon them.

PROPOSED TOUR .- Bro. Jonathan Wilson, of Gerry, N. Y., a brother in the ministry of the advanced age of about seventy-one years, proposes, the Lord willing, to visit the following places : Buffalo, Troy, Whitingham, Colrain, Greenfield, Worcester, Attleboro and Wrentham, and other places where duty may call. He thinks of commencing his journev about the 20th of May. His object in giving this notice is, that if any of the churches on his route should desire a call from him, they will make the request through one of the Advent papers. He requests the Herald and Advocate to copy.

The name of Russing we first divided in the sth century. Among the Greeks, the name is Ros is an indeclinable word. The Scandinavian origin of the people, or at least the Princes, of Russia, is confirmed and illustrated by the national annals and general history of the North. They were the brethren of the Swedes and Normans, who having been long concealed by an impenetrable obscurity, suddealy burst forth, in the spirit of piracy, from their bleak and narrow limits. The Baltic was the first bleak and narrow limits. scene of their aggressions ; they descended upon the eastern shores, the silent abode of the Fennic and Sclavonian tribes; and the primitive Russians of the lake Ladoga, paid them a tribute of white equirrel skins. These conquerors, the Russians termed Varangians, or Corsairs, They obtained dominion over the more inland savages as well .--After various fortunes, Ruric, a Scandinavian chief, founded a dynasty, which reigned above 700 years. His influence, by the aid of his brothers, was extended into the southern provinces of Russia ; and their establishments in these regions, were at length cemented into the fabric of a powerful monarchy.

In the 10th century the Russian dominion obtains a vast and conspicuous place in the map of Constan-tine Porphyrogenitus. The sons of Ruric were tine Porphyrogenitus. The sons of Ruric were masters of the spacious province of Wolodomir, or Ruric were Moscow ; and though bounded on that side by bordes of the East, their western frontier in those early days was enlarged to the Baltic Sea, and the country of the Prussians. Their northern limit as-cended beyond the 60th degree of North latitude, over the Hyperborean regions, which fancy had peo To the South, they followed the course of the Borys-thenes to the vicinity of the Euxine Sea. The tribes of this ample circuit, obeyed the same conquerer, and were insensibly blended into the same nation.

These tribes were the descendents of Noah in the line of Japheth. By consulting Genesis, x. 5, it will be found, that "by these were the isles of the Gentiles divided in their lands ;" in the family record of Japheth are enumerated Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Mesec and Tiras. "Of these Magog, we get Gomer, Magog, Tubal, Mesec, under the same names in Ezekiel, xxxviii, as followers of Gog. These are the nations that comprise Russia, Asia Minor, Tartary and Persia ; all the people, in short, of which the Russian Empire is composed, or which are under its influence ; they are described as under the domination of Gog, prince of Ros (the Rus-sians,) Mesec (Moscow) and Tubal (Tobolsk.)" --See Hale's Analysis of Chronology, vol. i. p. 352, 357.

In a period of 190 years, the Russians made four attemps to plunder Constantinople. Their first trial was made with 200 boats, A. D. 865; they occubied the Port, but a ceasonable storm, drove them back. Their fourth effort was in A. D. 1043; in which they also failed. "The memory, however, of these Arctic fleets, that seemed to descend from the polar circle, left a deep instression of terror on the Imperial City. By people of every rank, it was asserted and believed, than an equestrian statue in the square of Taurus, was secretly inscribed with a prophecy, how the Russians in the last days, should become masters of Constantinople. In our own time," continues Gibbon, "a Russian armament, in stead of sailing from the Borysthenes, has circum-navigated the continent of Europe ; and the Turkish capital has been threatened by a squadron of strong and lofty ships of war, each of which, with its nava science and thundering artillery, could have sunk or scattered a hundred canves, such as those of their ancestors. Perhaps the present generation may yet behold the accomplishment of the prediction, a rare prediction-of which the style is unambigu-ous and the date unquestionable."

This equestrian statue of brass was brought from Antioch to Constantinople, and was melted down When the Lains got possession of the City, Gibbon Secondy, he is basten down in the day of great, and the false and the fact that it was inscribed with the pre-issing and another the second when the Lains and the false second second second second second second second second second when the second possible second possible second second the impression even upon the Turkish mind at this day, that the Russians are to possess Constantinople. From this historical incident, then, we take our start, and would inquire, how came the equestrian statue to be thus inscribed ? We do not believe that the prediction was the result of mere political sagacity-that some wise politician of the eleventh century, speculating on the destiny of the Roman Empire in relation to the rise, progress and dominion of the then pagan and savage tribes of Russia, drew this conclusion as a probable consummation of the two powers. It is remarkable, that the inscriber declares when the Russians should become masters of Constantinople, viz., "in the last days." A mere political prophet would predict, that at some future time, thus and so probably would happen; but here is a hand, which writes without vagueness, and says, it shall be "in the last days," The solution of the matter appears to us to be this : The Greeks of Constantinople called these Russian invaders of their em-pire Ros. There were, doubtless, at that time, some in that city acquainted with the writing of the prophets, especially of Ezckiel ; now, in these writings a people are spoken of by the term Rosh; what more natural, then, when these believers saw the Ros at their gates, than for them to say, here are the Rosh spoken of by Ezekiel! Then, turing to that prophet, they would read, "Gog, the land of Ma-gog, Rosh prince of Mesech and Tubal-it shall be gog, Rosh prince of Messech and 1 unat-its sum or in the latter days, I will bring thee against my land." Comparing this with Daniel, they would find that this power, "out of the north parts," was styled the "King of the North," and that in chap. xi. 40, it was declared, that, "at the time of the end," or "in the last days," "he should come against him (the Roman King, of verse 36,) like a whirlwind, with chariots and horsemen, and many ships; and shall enter into the countries, and shall overthrow and pass over; and enter also the glorious land," Thus, identifying the Ros with the northern power of the last days, they were enabled to inscribe the prediction on the statue of brass, that "the Ros would be masters of Constantinople in the last days." Let us then look into the Word of God concerning this matter, so interesting to the believer, and so dreadfully important to the nations of the earth We affirm, that the Gog of Ezckiel, the King of the North, of Daniel xi. 40, and the Assyrian King of Isaiah xxx. 31-33, are one and the same power. This identity appears from the following considerations :

1st. Gog is the leader of Rosh, Mesec, Tubal, Gomer, and Togarmah of the north quarters. These are all northern tribes-tribes dwelling in countries north of Palestine. Gog is, therefore, King of the North.

2d. Gog is to come into the land of Israel "is the latter years"; and the King of the North is to enter into the glorious land "al the time of the end"-both at the same time; therefore, they must be the same power, as they both come against the same people, and at the same time. Compare Ezekiel xxxviii. 8, 15, 16, with Dan. xi. 40, 41.

3d. The Ethiopians and Lybians belong to the army of Gog; and the Lybians and Ethiopians are at the steps of the King of the North, that is, they follow him as their leader. Compare Ezekiel, verse 5, and Daniel, verse 43, of the same chapter.

4th. Hostile tidings come to Gog from Sheba and Dedan, eastward, and from the merchants of Tarshish and young lions thereof, northward ; so also "tidings out of the East and out of the North, shall trouble the King of the North." Compare Ezekiel, verse 13, with Daniel, verse 44, locis citatis.

5th. Gog is to be broken to pieces in the land of Israel, and to be buried there ; so the King of the North having encamped "in the glorious holy moun-tain," comes "to his end there, and none shall help him." Compare Ezek. xxxix. 4, with Dan. xi. 45. 6th. Gog will fight with the Lord Gol, and so will the King of the North. Compare Ezek. xxxviii, 18, 22, with Dan. xii. 1.

Here, then, are six features, which identify the two bowers as one and the same. We affirm further that they are both the King of Assyria of modern days, or 'the time of the end, because the Assyrian is to be 'beaten down,' when 'the breath of the Lord, as a stream of brimstone, kindles the fires of Tophet."

clude within their dominion the country of the ancient Assyria. Russia embraces part of it now, and when she overflows and passes over the many countries she is yet destined to conquer, she will comprehend the whole of it; which consideration indicates Russsia as Gog, the Assyrfan King of the North, who is to fight the great battle of Armageddon with Michael the Great Prince, who will defeat him with an utter and helpless overthrow.

Let the reader, then, remember this, the Ros will not only master Constantinople, in the last days; but that the Lord of hosts, even Jesus of Nazareth, will conquer them with fire, pestilence, and sword This is the grand crisis of our age. This victor will terminate war upon the earth for 1000 years.-This victory It will stand a monument more durable than brass, signalizing the consummation of the times of the Gentiles and the introduction of a new and happier, yea, most glorious era upon the blood-stained earth which we inhabit. The development of this crowning incident in human affairs is not only at the doors, but actually come upon the world, though it does and cannot, or will not perceive it. not,

If the reader turn to Rev. xvi., he will find cer-tain things of which we are about to treat. This chapter contains an account of the seven last plagues or vials, upon the exhaustion of which there is no more vengeance to be inflicted upon the nations for 1000 years, "for in them is filled up the wrath of God," chap. xv. 1. The first five vials or plagues are all exhausted; only the sixth and seventh are now afflicting the world. The sixth vial began before the seventh, but they will both terminate together. The sixth vial is filled up with wrath upon the little born of the four horned goat of Daniel viji. 8-12; while the seventh is full of indignation upon the eleventh or little horn of the ten horned beast of Dan. vii. 8, 11, 20, 27. In other words, these two viais represent the judgments of God which have been, are continuing, and will yet be poured out upon the eastern and western divisions of the Roman Empire, as at present constituted: And this is its constitution .-The Eastern Division is what we call Turkey: be-cause it is that part of the Roman Empire which the Turks possess. This Division is represented by the Euphrates ; because that noted river, in its whole course, flows through it; and because the Turks came originally from the region of the Euphrates. Let us, then, bear in mind that the Euphrates rep-resents the Turkish or Ottoman Dominion, in the chapter, which is the same thing as the Eastern Roman Empire.

The Western Division of the Roman world is made up of the kingdoms of Europe, whose political equilibrium is balanced by the antagonistic powers of France and Austria, and its ecclesization powers of France and Austria, and its ecclesization supremacy is concentrated in the Papal throne. The politico-pontifical constitution is styled "the air." In the days of Paul, 'the air' represented the page.pontfical and imperial sovereignty of Rome, and the Evil of that world or age, finding its potential expression through the head of the empire, he is styled by Paul " the Prince of the Power of the air," the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience-the pagan Gentiles. He refers to the same politico-ærial system when he says, "We wrestle against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual things of evil," or wicked spirits, 'in the heavenly places, or the air. Eph. ii. 1; vi. 12. A glance at the apos-tle's history as narrated in the Acts and his epistica. will show us what he means by the pncumatika tees poneerius, wicked spirits, and the epouraniois, heavenly places. He wrestled with the pagan authorienty places. He wrestled way to program the states of the people men, wicked nen, who belong-ed to the ruling orders of the empire. He wrestled with these, but not with flesh and blood, as men do when they fight with sword and spear, or other car-nal weapons. 'The air,' then, is the Western Division of the Roman Empire, as at Lresent constituted and explained-the Western Roman Politico-Hemispherical Atmosphere ; so that whatever affects the kingdome of Europe and their dependencies, are "the voices, and thunders, and lightnings," &c., of the seventh vial.

But, as a whole, including the two divisions, it is again segregated and represented in a tripartite manner, by three symbols, namely, the dragon, the beast, and the false prophet. The throne of the false pro-But then there are two beasts, which must not be ounfounded. The one is the beast with seven beast and ten horns, and a remarkable mouth. This represents the Western Roman Empire in its general political and pontifical aggregation. But the second Beast has only two horns, and instead of a blasphemous mouth, he is associated with an imperial image, or false prophet. These two horns or kingdoms are also imperial, namely, the French and Austrian. Though it has two horns, it has but on mouth, styled "the mouth"; so that when it speaks it utters only the decrees of that horn which has the ascendancy for the time being. Thus, in the days of Charle-magne, the French horn spoke ; in those of Charles v., the Austrian Horn ; in the time of Napoleon, the French again, and now the Austrian.

The dragon, then, represents the empire attached to Constantinople; the beast, the empire of the Austrian and French horns ; and the false Prophet, the Papal power. Now, the reader will observe the following things :

1st. The sixth plague of judgment is to fall upon the Euphratean Empire of the Ottoman Turks.

2d. It is to dry up their power, that is, to destroy it; for to dry up a river is to blot it out of existence.

3d. This is to be accomplished, that "the way of the kings of the East," or of the Israelites, may be prepared ; so that it may be said, that the overthrowing of the Ottoman power is the preparation of a way, road, or highway; as it is written, "and there shall be AN HIGHWAY for the remnant of his people, which shall be left from Assyria ; like as it was to Israel in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt." 188. xi, 16. 4th. This 'way' being prepared. "three unclean spirits, like frogs," proceed from the mouth of the dragon, the beast, and false prophet.

5th. These spirits are warlike in their influences. 6th. They are to stir the whole world up to war.

The state of war developed by their agency. 7th. as well as their voices exciting to hostility, are indi cated as the signs, that the Lord is about unexpectedly to appear-" Behold I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth !

8th. The wars ultimate in an invasion of the land of Israel, for Armageddon, or the plain of Megiddo, is there.

The agency of the frog-like spirits under the sixth vial, is to bring about a war in the East, which, in the course of it, will bring hostile multitudes upon the old battle ground of Asia-the plains of the Holy Land. It matters not where nor by whom the war begins, there it will end in mortal combat, between the King of Israel and the Emperor of all the Rosh (Russians).

Kosh (Kussians). These disbolical, unclean spirits, are to "work miracka." These, however, are not miracles such as were wrought by the aposlts. They are the same kind as those which the two hormed beats is said to do in Rev. xiii. 13, 14. "He doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire to come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men"; i. e. he performs wonders in war: so that "he deceiveth them (plana, causeth them to stray) that dwell on the earth by those miracles which he hath power to do." Thus, by war he compels the continental nations of Europe to cast away their gods, and submit to the image of the old Imperial Roman sovereignty. This is styled, "deceiving them, saying, they should make an image of the wounded beast." The fulfillment of this is found in the history of Charles Martel, Pepin, and Charlemagne, and their successors, kings of France and Germany.

In the Greek text, 'miracles' and 'wonders,' are the same word as that used in chap. xvi. 14. The workers of these miracles are 'unclean spirits,' aka-The tharta, vicious, wicked influences, developed through potentates of diabolical character; hence termed spirits of DEVILS,' daimonon, tutelary genii, or sovereign protectors. The Mohammedan sovereignty is styled by Zechariah, 'the unclean spirit'; for, speaking of the day of mourning, when Israel shall look on him whom they have pierced," he says, "I the Lord, will cause the unclean spirit to pass out of the land," ch. xiii, 2. Now, the Spirit of God uses the same phrase, and applies it to the Ottoman power; for, save John, "I saw an unclean spirit come out of the mouth of the dragon"-the symbol of the Look to the land Constantinopolitan sovereignty. Look to the land of Israel now, and it will not be difficult to define the unclean spirit which oppresses and defiles its holiness. But this is to be expelled, and 'the Sanctua-'ty,' or Holy, 'cleansed,' that righteousness, peace and prosperity, may reign there, transcending the glory of the days of old.

This, then, is the paraphrase of Rev. xvi. 13, 14 : And I saw under the sixth vial, three vicious influences at work in the pestilential political frog pond, issuing from the Sublime Porte, the courts of Vienna and Paris, and from Rome. For they are the diplo-macies of those powers, which go forth to Spain, Portugal, Sardinia, Naples, Switzerland, England, Russia, &c., to involve them in war ; that by means thereof, they may be finally brought to the last great battle in the land of Israel.

This is the prediction ; now, reader, behold what is actually taking place in Europe, and you will see its fulfilling staring you in the face. These political indications are the signs of the coming of the Lord which cannot be mistaken. Look not to meteors, and comets; to the sun, moon, and stars of the ce-lestial vault; the signs of the Son of man are not there. "Learn not the way of the heathen, saith the Lord, and be not dismayed at the signs of heav--Jer. en ; for the heathen are dismayed at them. x. 2. His signs are among the nations ; watch the things which their governments are doing, and you will discern the signs of these times, which are the times of his appearing. Let the still small voice of truth arrest you ; a voice which emanates from the stillness of seclusion, uninfluenced and unsustained by the impassioned exhalations of fevered partisans, whose hopeful zeal outruns their knowledge of the truth.

Is it not a most remakable feature of the times, that a Roman Pontiff should become the advocate of liberty and the chief reformer of the age! All eyes are turned to him and to Austria; and they will soon look eastward at Russia and the Porte .-What an interesting game these potentates of earth are playing ! And how harmoniously all things are concurring to the winding up of the present evil age. He that contemplates them by "the light shining in a dark place," sees all things working together for good to them who are called according to the purpose of God. We long to behold these de-mons come to blows, for then we know that the last act, but one, of the great drama of human vanity, will have attained to the beginning of the end.

FROM SRO. E. R. PINNEY.

DEAR BRO. MARSH .- We have had a precious sea son here in Homer, and I sincerely wish we could have two weeks more before the Auburn meeting. Notwithstanding all the prejudice and opposition of the world, the church, and the devil, God's truth has cut its way through, backsliders have been reclaim ed, sinners converted, and saints comforted. To God be all the glory ! Five were baptized yesterday, two to day, and some others purpose going for ward to-morrow. I think the Lord has established an interest here that will be permanent. Many are rejoicing in hope of the speedy coming of the King of glory. We had this afternoon a most precious season-a melting season. The Holy Spirit came down in power, and filled the hearts of God's people so full that, like some of old, they could but speak the things they had heard, and seen, and now felt of the glory of God. Our preaching exercises were set aside, and we felt indeed it was good to be there; and many felt to praise the God of heaven for his and muny telt to prate the out of the secret. Wours in the blessed hope, Yours in the blessed hope, E, R. PINNEY,

Causes of the Revolution.

The Nationel, of Paris, some time since, in enumerating the causes of disaffection against Louis Philippe, stated that he had abused the very power that raised him to the throne, because: lst. Since the Revolution in July, there have been about 1129 prosecutions against the public press.

By the advice of Guizot, the head of the ministry, the king's speech at the opening of the Cliambers contained an attack upon the banqueta, while the deputies who had attended them were stigmatised as promoters of anarchy and discord. A great banquet had been appointed to come off Burning of Forty-Seven Women at the Funeral of no Indian Prince.

The infernal rites at the death of an Indian prince The infermal rites at the death of an Indian prince are thus described in an extract of a letter from Tranquebar in the East Indies, written by a Danish missionary. They dug without the city, where that prince who died at the age of eighty, made his resi-dence, a large pit, which they filed with wood, ran-ged and piled up as for a bonfire. The corpse of the adceased, richly habited and adornad, was brought the Bramins (heathen priests) kindled the fire with abundance of heathen ceremonies. The wives and concubines of the deceased, who according to the law or custom of the country, ought to die with him, appeared at the same time and walked several times round the funeral pile. They were in number forty-seven, all decked with jewels and adorned with flow-ers. The favorite wite or concubine carried the poinard of the defunct prince, which she delivered up to his successor, and made a short speech exhorting him to use it with moderation, so as never to let it light upon any but the guilty. Then she boldly turned her face toward the pile, and after invoking her gods, leaped into the midst of the flames. The second was the sister of a prince named Tandaman, who was present at these horrid rites. She gave him the jewels she wore, and the prince in receiving them, embraced her most tenderly, and poured forth a flood of tears; but the princess without betraying the least concern, looked alternately with a steady countenance on the pile and on the spects tors, and crying with a loud voice, " Chiva, Chiva ! ecta. which is the name of one of their gods, she jumped as cheerfully into the flames as the first did.

The others followed her close. Some of them appeared resolute enough, but others appeared wild and dejected. There was one in particular, who being more dismayed than her companions, ran to em-brace one of the spectators, who was a Christian, praying him to save her; but this it was not in his power to do, and the poor wretch was immediately tumbled into the fire.

However intrepid most of these unhappy victims appeared before jumping into the pit, the note was vastly altered when in the midst of the flames. There they shrieked hideously, and tumbled one over another, striving to reach the edge of the pit, and get out of it; but they were kept in by throwing heaps of billets and fagots on them, as well to knock them on the head as to increase the fire. When they were consumed, the Bramins drew near the yet smoking nile, and nerformed ahundance of ridiculous ceremonies over the ashes of the poor wretches. The next day they gathered up the bones, and having wrapped them up in fine linen, carried them to a place near the sea. After which the pit was filled up, and a temple since erected on the spot where sacrifices are offered up in honor of the prince and his wives who from thenceforth are reckoned among the saints or goddesses.

Catholics in Cincinnati.

I wish to give you some idea of the Roman Catholic increase in Cincinnati within the last fifteen years, that is, during the time that I have been a resident here. I include in my estimate the city and ts suburbs, by which I mean the thickly settled neighborhoods immediately contiguous to the cor-poration limits, and extending about a mile beyond Cincinnati, in this respect, is like Philadel them. phia, its corporation limits include scarcely half the population. When I first came here in the spring of 1833, the population of the city and its suburbs was somewhat less than 30,000. It is now about 125,000, having rather more than quadrupled in 15 years. At that less than 30,000. It is now about 122,000, having rather more than quadrupied in 15 years. At that time the Roman Catholics had but one church and but one school, and I should timk, less than 4,000 communicants, though I cannot say exactly. They now have 10 churches, and 19 schools, and 40,000 communicants, 30,000 being Germans, and the other the school of the 10,000 Irish, English and Americans. By commu-nicants in the Roman Catholic Church, we understand those who go to confession and receive the Eucharist at least once a year, if at no other time. Here is an increase far beyond the relative increase of the population. No Protestant church has kept up with that increase. The Methodists have nearly done it, but not quite; and while the population has quad-rupled, the increase of the Presivterians, (including Old School and New School, and the two Congregational churches,) the Baptists and the Episcopalians has been less than 35 per cent. This was the result obtained at a general meeting of Protestant ministers, held in the city last summer. The esti-mate for the Episcopalians, however, I should think, ged and piled up as for a bonfire. The corps of That the Catholic norses in numbers has alogether the deceased, richly habited and adorned, was brought er outrun that of any, or all Protestant denomina-forth is great pomp, and laid on the pile; after which I tions.

They have also increased in nearly the same proportion in wealth and influence. The following is an estimate of their ecclesiastical property, exclusive of grave-yards ;

Cathedral church and	appurtenances	$125,000
St. Xavier's	1. 4	40,000
St. Mary's	44	30,000
St. Philomela's		30,000
St. Augustine's	4.	25,000
St. John's	"	20,000
Four other churches	in suburbs	30,000

$300,000

The estimate I think too low. The property is actually worth $334,000, or more.

As to schools, it is said they have 4,000 pupils every day under instruction. The Sisters of Notre Dame have a female school of five hundred pupils, more than half from Protestant families, with 20 teachers, and a property worth $30,000. St. Peter's Orphan Asylum, 300 pupils, 8 teachers, and property $25,000. St. Xavier's college, 50 pupils (more than half Protestant), and 15 teachers. This is the Jesuit College, and its property is included in that of St. Xavier's church above. Cathedral school, 300 pupils. Mansion on Walnut Hills, 40 pupils, property $15,000. St. Xavier's Free School, prop-$5.000. Also 12 parish schools. The above statistics were furnished me by two gentlemen, in whose accuracy and fidelity I have the highest confidence. They are estimates only, but made by those who have the best means of knowing the facts.

All the Protestant denominations together have not that amount of church and school property, nor and the Presbyterians are just beginning one. These two, together with the Lane Seminary and the Baptist Theological Theological Seminary at Covington are the most that Protestants can show in the way of denominational school property. We have an Orphan Asylum which is not denominational: Woodward College the same, and an excellent system of public free schools. Such are the facts, and every thinking man can draw his own inferences. also a fact that the Catholic population of the city includes a large and increasing portion of the city includes a large and increasing portion of its wealth, fashion and influence. I do not complain of this; I only state a fact of some interest.

In answering this quarties, the correctness of our news to the provending propulsition with the confirmed, els, that "the last days," of the tent, must in the very acture of the case, teleto to a time immediately accessing the close of the presson dependencies, and art to any province parted. The first thing this prophecy pros the second plusia, the establishing (or, preparing, margin) of the mountails of the Lord's house, shows the fully. What was the presentatio of the Lard's house ! It was Mount Moriah, as the following proof shows a "They Solouon began to build the bosse of the Lord at Jacutalers in the Mourt Mariah, where the Lord appeared or to David his fasher, in the place that David and prepared in the thrushing-down of Ompr the Jebustie." S Chroz. iil. 1. Do this countain, the Juniel, temple, the glory books are shown and the music, are shood. 1 of the Lords house with a stabilished, to, more correceip, prepared, a place for God to dwell with his people : and where they will go to see his glory and worship him. " For alle Lord heth chosen Zina : ha both denired it for his habitation. This is my test forenee: here will have it; for I have desired at. Pen. munt. 13, 14. "This is the hill which fiel deaireth to dwell in ; yes, the Lord will doubt to 10 Morial, or mountain of the Loos's bouse, that is to be prepared it the last days, is certain from the two-'mountain of the house' beestrong 'as the high that identity is lost. an the same verse says, Zion would be 'ylowed as a fail,' and 'Jenustem became longs.' Well, in the zezi verse (which bagins chap, 6th), it is predicted tint in the last days, this very came literal 'mounsain of the house of the Lord shall be essethished," or proposed, for the purposes specified. It we are to anderstand mountain literally in the first, we must in the second gives an understand it. We think the liners) mount of Ged in mount in both cases, consequently, we fully believe that is the last days, this littral monotons will be prepared for all people. be many patients, to go up is, in order to worship the King, the Lord of bosts.

The work has been added by the of every hind, plantfree, siles the monthly land monthly have the minde of Christian way worker throught. The first data was trave to be wanted by the work of the sector of the

This work, the property the mountain, will not be done uptil the Lord abo'l come : for imigh sugar And in this successor shell the Lord of Losse make ants all passife a least of fat things, a feast of writes opus the loss, of set things lidl of marrow, of wines on the loss well radiate. And he will desiray in this mapresis the covering case over all people, and the sail that is agreed over all astions. He will gestion up death to victory ; and the Lood God shall wips away years jetto off all fames ; and the rebuilt of his people shall be taken away from off all the earth ; for the Loni hath spoken it. Las, xxx, 5-8. When will this " from of far thirgs" he made ' unto all people '! In she day of the cuming of the Lord, an the next verse shown. " And it shall be said in THAT BAY, Lo I this is our fied I we have waited for him, and he will save so : this is the flord ; we have welted for him, we will be glud and rejoice in his selvation.

The nature of the preparation of the mountain of the Lord's bound, which is so be made at the easting of the Lord, in the lost days, we shart heart from other portions of the Bible than the prophery unfer ipentigation, for it in oileat on this matter. Mirch says this momentum, before this preparation, would become ' no the high places of the forest.' Micah iii. 13, ales Jer. 12vi. 16. This eignifus dasy dellemert. This has long been its classicias. Is much be classed before it can be a fit place for the tabermade of Grel, or for his baly people to worship him. It is propried in the Scriptover, that this work will bedone. In the prophety updat consideration, it is and. "This mountain shall be prepared." The sarel sold Daniel, Then shall the sanctuary be classes ed.' Dan, vill, 14. Then it will became the giorie nountsis, where the Lord will make unto all millend (that are moved, Rev. mi, 34) a Seast of fat things, full of marrow. And they, or many people, shall go and say, Come ye, and 24 as group in the mountain of the Lord, to the bases of the flad of Jacob ; and he will teach as of bisways, and we will walk in is paths; for out of Zies shall go forth the forand the word of the Lord from Jorumiers."

It may be to place here, to active an objection that officerive in the minds of range to this literal langepresention of this prophecy. They are analyse to see ed against the idea of identifying this world stars if stall be pleased and made new ; or of identifying Abraham, Inter, Jacob, the prophets, martyre, any bory also, after their bodies dars returned to Aust. We believe the Bengtures not only justily the exectorion that the saints, in the world or age to come, will be known, and know each other ; but the world with its important localities, especially the 'monata.s of the house of the Lord,' Jerusalem, and forever,' Pes, Invill, 16. That it is the literal Meant the land of Polyative, Egypt, and other countries, will not lose their identity. God ang property that identity, as well as he can that of his mints ; and timony of Minish. In this is, 13, he apende of the un one not have young peoplectice can be fulfilled, if improvide of the bound' hove on the time the light that then the time. We think also that the stepplaces of the forem." That is, would be defined, and , tiny of mations will be preserved in the coming age. Bet of this we will speak desce ber.

The grand difficulty in the matter is, everything cenf, partaining to the ferrice age, ban been splittusliced away to mere phrateens, so that when we talk of the realizion that will then exist, the order and periorition that will be preserved, but few will believe it. If we read the plain ward of the Lord in proof of what we my, they lead it part ; for the thenjogy of these days of fairles readily interprets the spent literal trate in a secondar to make them mass any and every thing which their true import does not warrant. Let us adopt the must literal interpretation of the Sorigures, which the parties of the max will regulfy, and many differities which and lie in our way, of understanding them, will be remoted | and a constitution y and because will appear in them, which by the spirituatour cannot be some

"Of that I had wings like a dove! for then would I fly away

Oh: my God, where is rest for a grief-stricken soul, Prom the woes and distructions of life ? When, O when shall a pilgrim arrive at the goal Of sweet rest from this wearisome strife 1

Oh! if mine were the power unrest ained by a fear, I'd unroll the great volume of fate, And wiu a reprieve to my wanderings here, in this dark and inconstant estate.

Give me rest from ambition's wild faverish dream. From all thoughts on earth's soul-blighting pelf-Ob! give rest from the tempests on life's troubled stream

Oh! give rest, more than all, from myself....

Is there rest far away on the ocean's blue wave O'er the path of the wide-rolling deep, "Where the cest ridden billows uncessingly lave, And the winds their wild revellings keep ?

I'll plunge in the surge, and I'll breast the white foam I'll brave in the storm the cloud rack:

voice of fond love shall then whisper of home, No larum aball frighten me back.

is it rest, all alone on the bosom of earth, eath the deep and blue vault of the sky To awake the sweet musings of heavenly bittle And feel that our Father is nigh 1

I'll away to the mount-contemplation's own height. And slove in the realing of the sir. in us Clear Ugla, And my life shall be ays a long prayer.

No true rest shall there be, the Almighty has said, In the days of man's pilgrimage here, For by striving, still onward and onward he's led To the prize of his earthly career.

But the bilm of sweet rest shall return once again, In the mansions prepared for the blest ; e aye from troubling him then The wicked shall cea And the weary shall win a long rest.

Original.

For the Advent Harbinger ] The Purpose of God-No. VII.

THE BARTH RESTORED.

We might still further enlarge and particularize on the restitution of inanimate nature: but this must suffice. All things will return to their primitive state of purity and glory-all be made new. No more briers, thorns, or thistles; no poisonous, hurtful, or unpleasant plants; no useless or fetid weeds : hut every tree, shrub, plant, and weed, in anywise conducive to our happiness, will there be found. No volcanic eruptions, inundations, pestilences, or plagues ; no destruction by fire or flood ; no storm nor tempestuous winds : but all pure, good, calm, and serene.

So with the animate creation. No poisonous reptile ; no venemous tooth or deadly sting-for fifteen hundred miles square-built by God ex-" the nursing child shall play upon the hole of den." lamb, no teeth to grind his flesh and bones. All ry of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the ting, in an immaterial, ghostly state, on the edge ness and cruelty forgotton, violence no more beard, neither wasting nor destruction seen on whose maker and builder is God-the bride, the the face of the whole earth. "For the wolf shall Lamb's wife-the capital of Christ's kingdomdwell with the lamb, and the loopard shall lie the new earth. So in the restitution of man's down with the kid; and the celf and the young life and body. "I am come (says Jesus) that lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them; and the cow and the bear shall feed : their young ones shall lie down together : and the lion shall eat straw [or grass] like the ox. . . . They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain : for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea,"

But that which crowns the whole with glory is, there shall be no more sin nor sinners. Sin shall have an end. No more shall we displease our God in word, or thought, or deed : but rightcousness prevail for evermore. His will be done on earth as now it is done in heaven. The prophet says (Iss. lx. 21), "Thy people also shall he all righteous : they shall inherit the land forever." Hence, though a paradise of sense, yet not of sensuality. And although in its physical conformation not so unlike the present world as many have supposed, yet there is a point of total dissimilarity, which point, however, does not consist in the substitution of spirit for matter : Gul In'life automisticuto or corruption for corruption, of immortality for mortality, of purity for impurity. Hence, every vile principle, every unholy, impure, unchaste desire, will be excluded from that world forever; and we shall have " new heavens, and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." "For the Lord loveth judgment, and forsaketh not his saints ; they are preserved forever ; but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off. The righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein forever. For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place, and it shall not be : but the meek shall inherit the earth." (Psa. xxxvii. 28, 29, 10, 11). "The righteous shall never be removed, but the wicked shall not inhabit the earth." Prov. x. 30. Thus God's original design will be accomplished : "that man, in a holy state, should inhabit the earth forever."

But there is additional glory promised to the restitution. Jesus will receive a more glorious inheritance than the first Adam ; yea, or angels, as "he hath obtained a more excellent name than they." The whole earth is to be made like Eden -like the garden of the Lord. See Isa. li. 3; Ezek, xxxvi. 35. The paradise or capital of the new earth, instead of being a garden, is to be a city of pure gold-transparent as glasspressly for us, which is to come down from God inclination to harm forever gone, all savage fierce- light thereof." Rev. ii. 7; xxi. 23; xxii. 2, 5, 14, &c. This is the city Abraham looked for, ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." John x. 10. Not a precarious life, on trial-one that may be lost; but the sure mercies of David, even life for evermore.-So with the body. Adam's body, in all its sinless purity and beauty, is not to be the model of the saints' resurrected body, neither Christ's at his ascension, but his body as glorified on the 10th day after his ascension. (John vii. 39) .-For says Paul (Phil. iii. 21), "Christ shall change our vile body, and fashion it like unto his GLORIous body." "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear (i. e., not yet made manifest) what we shall be : but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is." 1 John iii. 2. And for a description of his glorified body, see Matt. xvii. 2; Rev. i. 14-16. No wonder David should say, " As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness." Psa. xvii. 15. For "thou wilt shew me the path of life : in thy prepleasures for evermore." I'sh, xvi. hand are

> Is it surprising that the people of God should ever be looking, longing, and earnestly desiring the coming of Christ, that thus their hope may be consummated in glory ? Is it not a glorious hope ? Are not the promises containing it exceeding great and precious ? And now, I ask in all candor, are not these glories desirable-worth seeking for-exceedingly to be coveted 1 ln view of them, are you not willing to give up the world, with all its vanities, and adopt Paul's motto, "If by any means" this glory may be mine ? Constituted as we are, and believing as we profess to, in the literal resurrection of the body, is there not a propriety, a fitness of things. in the inheritance provided for us, and promised to us, as set forth in the doctrine of the restitution 1-Do not these views commend themselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God ? And is there not more glory in them than in the old fabled, immaterial, unlocated, unbounded, intangible inheritance-a certain indescribable something in general, and yet nothing in particular : without form or comeliness, height or depth, length or breadth, centre or circumference ; located nowhere, and yet floating everywhere; or when located, placed "beyond the bounds of time and space," or bliss and light.

Again, I ask, are not the employments of the saints, as set forth in the promised restitution, the say, and the weaned child on the cockatrice's out of heaven. "Having no need of the light more congenial and befitting a resurrected state The lion shall have no claws to tear the of the sun, nor moon, to shine in it ; for the glo- of existence, than (as frequently represented) sit-

(as represented by a minister in Lewis Co., some eth, did I say !- has come. "The nations were the devil is, because they do not first submit to scribing the scenes of the resurrection morn), as Hark! from the east that political wail! Which is best calculated to thrones are being cast down. inspire in the heart of man a living faith and lively hope, holy zeal and joy unspeakable and upon you! Flee to Christ-for your life flee! full of glory ?

I know not, reader, what you may think, or how you may feel, but to me there is infinitely more glory and joy in the hope of the gospel restitution than in a thousand of these fabled, ghostly, immaterial future states of man's devising .-How much more glorious and to be desired is the and give you a part in the first resurrection, that realization of Paul's faith. The Lord himself you may share with him in the glories of the king-(in person) shall descend from heaven with a dom, is the prayer of your brother, waiting, lookshout, and the dead in Christ shall rise first, then we which are plive, and remain unto his coming. shall be changed and caught up together with the saints the kingdom. Amen. them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the sir, and so shall we ever be with him. Never more shall we be separated from Jesus, the object of our supreme love. But remaining there "the little moment," (Isa. xxvi. 20), until the indignation be overpast, and the earth renewed and purified. Then we shall return to the earth, upon which the New Jerusalem (descending from God out of heaven) will be located as its capital. Then all the saints, with Christ at their head, will enter in through the gates into the city-have right to the tree of life-walk its golden streets, and embodied, range its blissful bowers, and plucking ambrosial fruit, luxuriate on the rich provision of the paradise of God. Here we shall realize all the Savior's promised blessings. "I will drink and drink at my table in my kingdom." "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God," and gaze upon the unclouded glories of the Lamb. and all be taught of him. Here we shall spend the sabbath of rest, and reign with Christ a thousand years. Then shall we go forth and possess the earth, blooming in all its paradisiacal purity, beauty, and glory-"Plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof; build houses, and inhabit them .-We shall not plant, and another eat; we shall not build, and another inhabit, as in this state .-Nor shall we labor in vair, nor bring forth for trouble : for we are the seed of the blessed of the Lord." Therefore, shall we long enjoy the work of our hands, even for evermore. Blooming in eternal youth, free from the curse and all its consequences, we shall enjoy bliss unalloyed, peace unmarred, and glories unveiled, forever.

"O glorious hope 1. O blest abode ! We shall be there, and like our God :

- And every power find sweet employ,
- In that eternal world of joy."

Who would not share the glories of such a kingdom ? Who would not be a Christian, and by faith become an heir of glory. Who would not follow Jesus through evil as well as good report, that having suffered with him they may also reign with him in glory. Seek first the kingdum of God and its righteousness, afterwards all things shall be added. And let us give up our fables, and lay hold on the hope set before us in the gospel. And what we do must be done quickly. Jesus is coming to restore all things, and

[For the Harbinger.] Popular and Bible Religion Contrasted. NO. I.

"Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unta life, and few there be that find it."-Matt. vii. 14.

The world is full of religion ! So extensively does it prevail, that we can scarcely meet an individual but what has made a profession of religion of some kind ; and were it not for the safe guards thrown around the pure and undefiled religion of the Bible, we should hardly know how to credit the assertion of our Savior, which stands at the head of this article. We may truthfully way" of religious profession, "and many there be which go in thereat," and unless we are on our guard, we may, ere we are aware, be treading the much frequented way, instead of the narrow path.

The reason why multitudes throng this broad way is, because the entrance thereto is so wide that it will admit them with all their loved treasures; they do not have to relinquish them as does the individual who would enter the strait gate. Multitudes of this class once walked the arrow way, but becoming weary of its straitness, they left it for a broader path, but still maintaining the form as formerly; praying in secret, and many in public, little thinking that every prayer they offer is an abomination to the Lord ; for says the preacher, "If any man turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall he an abomination." They draw near unto God with their mouth, while their heart is far from him. How little do they realize that, unaided by the Spirit, they cannot pray acceptably, "for we know not what we should pray for as we ought, but the Spirit itself also maketh intercession for us according to the will of God "-Now will the Holy Spirit make intercession for an individual that does not follow its teachings ? Will God regard the prayer of a person that is not in perfect submission to his will ? The Bible teaches us that he will not. He has not promised to draw nigh unto any one until they first submit themselves to him. The command is imperative, "Submit yourselves therefore to God."

of a cloud, singing pselm tunes forever! Or is past, and the third wee cometh quickly-com- reason why so many do not successfully resist 18 months since, in a strain of eloquence, de an ry," is the first item of the third and last woe. God ; if they did, they could wield the shield of faith, which would effectually ward off all of his fiery darts. After the requisition relative to submission, and resisting the devil, comes the sweet assurance, " Draw nigh unto God, and he will draw nigh unto you." Now, until the preliminary steps are taken, we cannot draw nigh to God in the sense implied in the text. How useless, then, to attempt to pray in any other way. Who can bear this searching text of God's word ? The possessors of Bible religion, and only them. With a submissive spirit they bow before the Mercy Seat. For them the Spirit supplicates; for them the Advocate intercedes; to them the promises of God are verified.

> Such are spiritual worshippers, and such only the Father seeketh to worship him. The one class say, Lord, Lord, but do not the things which he requires; the other obey in deed and in truth, and with confidence they look up to God, and breathe out the endearing appellation, "Abba Father." To one it will be said, in the decisive day, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, I know you not"; to the other, " Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The prophet Isaiah very aptly describes the indifference with which the Jewish church performed the outward forms of religion, after its declension, and it is peculiarly applicable to the mass of religionists at the present time. "He that killeth an ox is as if he slew a man; he that sacrificeth a lamb, as if he cut off a dog's neck ; he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered swine's blood; he that burneth incense, as if he bleased an idol : yea, they have chosen their own ways, and their soul delighteth in their abominations," Therefore was their worship mockery in the sight of the Lord, and no more acceptable than it would have been had they killed a man instead of an ox, or cut off a dog's neck instead of a lamb's, &c. "But to this man will I look, even to him that is poor (in spirit), and trembleth at my word." (See Isa. 1xvi. 2, 3). Again, in the 58th chapter, the prophet minutely describes the popular religionist. God bids him "cry aloud, and spare not; lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins. Yet, (notwithstanding their sins), they seek me daily, and delight to know my ways, as a nation that did righteousness, and forsook not the ordinance of their God : they ask of me the ordinance of justice, they take delight in approaching to God": just as it is at the present day precisely, and just so also is it now as it was then : they call upon God, but he does not hear their cry. " "Why have we fasted, say they, and thou seest not ? Wherefore have we afflicted our soul, and thou takest no knowledge ?" Notwithstanding all this 'form of godliness,' their semblance of zeal for the Lord of hosts, they were conscious of a lack ; they did not receive those tokens of favor that they expected, although they had fasted, and afflicted their soul; and, at a loss to divine the cause, they inquire of God respecting it. He replies to them by this prophet, points out the cause, and then proceeds to tell them the fast that he hath chosen, give the saints the kingdom, The second woe Resist the devil and he will flee from you. The and the results that would follow the observance

God has told us by his prophet that because when "he called they did not answer, and when he spake they did not hear; but did evil before his eyes, and chose that in which he delighted net, that he would also choose their delusions, and bring their fears upon them." He has likewise told us by the mouth of the Apostle Paul, that 'upon those who receive not the love of the truth,' he would 'send strong delusions, that they should believe a lie.' 2 Thesa ii. 10, 11. What delusion is there so strong as a religious delu sion 1 Is not this the delusion that God has sent upon the rejectors of his truth at the present day ? So it seems to me, and oh, it is a fearful one !-To dream that all is well, while fast tending to destruction-to fancy ourselves secure, while surrounded with dangers-to suppose ourselves heirs of life, when under the sentence of death : God save us from such a delusion as this ! We may be saved therefrom, by choosing God's ways instead of our own, and receiving his truth in the love of it, and being sanctified thereby.

We cannot become too fully acquainted with the truths relative to Bible religion ; we cannot too clearly understand the conditions of discipleship; indeed, an intimate acquaintance with these is vasily important, for we are liable to be influenced by the religious delusion which so extensively prevails, and thereby relaxing our efforts, our care and watchfulness, thinking that there is no need of quite so much self-denialsuch exclusiveness from the world ;-A. B. and C. do not live so strict, and they are pretty good Christians. But the path of life is just as narrow as it was in the days of our Savior, and the entrance thereto just as strait, and not the mass, but "few there be that find it."

> For the Advent Harbinger. Living Soul. ITS MEANING-NO. VIL.

It is as certain as inspired testimony can make it, that the phrase, 'living soul,' or 'soul,' cannot be made to mean an immortal intelligence, an angelic spirit, or deathless being of any kind, 'inserted in man'; because-

1st. It is employed by inspiration to designate man only once, out of the first six instances in which it occurs in Holy Scripture.

2d. It evidently signifies, in each of these six instances, the living creature spoken of. All the other quotations I have given sustain that as the primary meaning. This must be so, as certainly as the Bible record is true.

3d. The original Hebrew phrase is rendered in the Greek version of the Old Testament, by the very terms employed, in the New Testament, to designate both man and beast.

4th. The form, sound, and sense, of the Greek phrase for 'living creature,' Gen. i. 24, is employed by the educated and inspired apostle, 1 Cor. xv. 45. to designate man. The verb, preposition, and phrase, for 'living soul,' is the same in Gen. ii. 7, as in 1 Cor. xv. 45-as if Paul had quoted verbatim almost the entire sentence from ligionists generally, make some mere allusions the business affairs of this country and Europe,

5th. Those who tell us that we have "no man competent" to discuss this subject, cannot correct the apostle, nor dare deny that I have quoted the historic scriptures correctly. Paul read Greek as no philosophic theological professor, in our land, pretends to ! Then his inspiration gives his language transcendant superiority over them all. This is said for those who "glory in men"-Swedenborgian men ! Except it can be proved that Paul used the phrase in a sense materially different from that of the Septuagintdifferent from that we are compelled to give it in other New Testament scriptures already quoted, then his use of it must be regarded in harmony with the primary meaning of the original, historic, Hebrew scriptures.

6th. The inspired use of the terms employed the ghostly beings 'inserted in man'! to designate 'the spirit,' as given in my last, very briefly, forbids that any one, correctly informed and disposed, should resort to it, in order to evade the whole weight of the direct testimony I have adduced. It applies to 'all flesh,' Gen. vi. 17; vii. 22; Eccl. iii. 19, 21.

7th. The derivatives from psuche and pneuma are so used by the Apostle Paul as to sustain us in our understanding of the original words. "The animal (psuchikos) man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God-they are spiritually (pneumatikos) discerned. The spiritual (pneumatikos) man discerneth all things." The human body is now 'natural,' [psukikos]—it is to be spiritual,' [pneumatikos.] 1 Cor. ii. 14; xv. 44-46.

True, the apostle uses the word 'soul,' in a econdary sense, so as to seem in harmony with the popular philosophic theology of the age ; still he uses it in its primary meaning-signifying simply 'animal life,' or the earthly or animal nature of man. He contrasts the animal and spiritual man. He contrasts Adam, the first man. with Christ, the second Adam-"the first man, Adam, was made a living soul," (psuche zozan), the last Adam, "a quickening spirit"-a lifegiving pneuma. He was not a ghost, nor was he ghostly; but a real, substantial, matter of fact, organized being !

The objection based on the terms 'body, soul, and spirit,' is of no weight, when contemplated in the light of fact, and scripture usage. The terms 'soul, flesh, Holy One, and Christ,' do not prove that he is four-fold. (Acts ii.) Why, then, must man be made three-fold, because in a cumulative form of expression, three terms are employed to express with emphasis his comprehensive being ? This varied, emphatic, cumulative form of expression, is used on various occasions. and in relation to various subjects, in holy scripture. If the terms breath, life, and body, are supposed to make man a 'tripartate,' or triple being, then it follows that the terms 'breath, spirit, life.' (Gen. vii. 22, margin), must make 'all flesh'-man, cattle, creeping things, and fowl of the heaven-triple, without the body ! With the body, they would all, alike, be quadruple !

Thus the blessed Bible is 'competent' to confound the Shakers, Swedenborgians, and all their sympathizers in creation ! They, and false re-thereof. It is too lengthy to quote. I hope the the Septuagint, literally rendered thus : "Man the only scripture ground of their faith. They exalt these allusions into the place of positive scripture statement; and make them weighty enough to sink the most simple, and palpably plain testimony quite out of sight !

> "Thou shalt make his soul [nephesh] an offering for sin." Isa. liii. 10-12. "The good Shepherd giveth his life [psuche] for the sheep."-John x. 11, 17. He gave himself for us. Heb. ix. 28; Titus ii. 14. There were in the ship 276 souls [psuchai]. Acts xxvii. 37. The merchandise of Babylon includes 'the souls [psuchas anthropon] of men.' Rev. xviii. 13. Compare this with Ezek. xxvii, 13: "Javan, Tubal, and Meshech . . . they traded the persons of men" -b nephesh adam (Heb.,) en psuchias anthropon (Sept.,) in the souls of men. They were slave dealers !- not 'ghostly fathers,' dealing in

The popular notion of 'soul' applied to such scriptures, would surely suffice to shame a Shaker-be enough to make a Swedenborgian blush! J. B. Cook.

New Bedford, Mass., Apr. 1848.

P. S. It has not been my purpose to say all that can be said with propriety on this subject, nor to expound the texts quoted. In some instances I have not given the termination of the original words, employed merely to express the case, lest I should confuse, unnecessarily, the general reader. Note this! The testimony I have given is not derived from int "vretation .-I have quoted the plainest and most positive teatimony of Holy Scripture. It reads so. I doubt not it also MEANS SU ! Amen. J.B.C.

For the Harbinger. Effects of Reform. NO. 11.

The damning blot of slavery in this country, has stood in the way, and hinedred every reform, since we were acknowledged an independent nation. The monarchists of Europe here always looked upon this republic with a jarbars eye .-They have known, and know now, that republicanism is a constant sermon and source of light to those who are dissutisfied with monarchial forms of government, in their own dominions : therefore, to distract and create anarchy in this country has been their object and desire, since the establishment of our form of government.-They have abolished human slavery in their dominions: for what purpose # Not because they love liberty, but to establish the idea in the minds of their subjects, that republicanism is but a name. a farce, and does not tend to ameliorate the condition of mankind any more, or so much as limited or absolute monarchy.

Is a question agitated in this country, that is likely to increase and spread to such an extent as to arouse the public mind to the true merits of republicanism ? they immediately arouse every element of opposition. With these they are well supplied. With a skill unsurpassed in the history of political intrigue, they have interwoven the interests of monarchists into every business interest of this country. Hence the agitation of the question of American slavery in this country, always has, and will continue to distract

As long as slavery exists in this country, the sound of liberty will be unwelcome to the business men of this country, and of course to the great mass, because it effects every calling, and distracts every interest, however insignificant.

This nation, to a great extent, is under monarchial sway. Civil and religious liberty cannot be fully enjoyed in this country until the institution of slavery ceases to exist. It is the agitation of the question of the rights of man-those inalienable rights with which he is endowed by his Creator-that is now causing the civil powers of earth to tremble. Truly, the nations are becoming 'angry.'

I shall endeavor to show, in my next, the power popery exerts over the various interests of this country. INVESTIGATOR.

The Advent Harbinger.

"The wise shallonderstand."

ROCHESTER, SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1848

Exposition of Isniah ii, 1-4 & Micah iv, 1-4. (Continued.)

" And he shall judge among the nations .' When " "When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory: and before him shall be gathered ALL NATIONS : and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats.' Matt. xxv. 31, 32. This is the time, we think, when he will 'judge among the nations :' for God hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath ordsined ; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.' Acts zvii. 31.

"And shall rebuke many people." When? At the time when he will judge among the nations: for then he will separate the righteous from the wicked. and say anto the wicked, ' Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and Lis angels,' See Matt. xxv., and numerous other Bible accounts of the fearful rebuke and doom of the ungodly, in the day of judgment.

'And they shall beat their swords into plow-shares, and their spears into pruning-hooks.' In its pure state, when the earth was created and pronounced very good, it needed to be subdued and tilled. Gen. i. 28 : ii. 6. And even the garden of Eden required to be dressed. Gen. ii. 15. When the earth shall have been restored to its primitive perfection, it will doubtless need to be subdued, tilled, or dressed. Man will not, we think, be left to roam in idleness over the new earth, but will have some useful and pleasing employment allotted him; and we know not why that employment should not be the same that was assigned to Adam, viz: to 'subdue' and 'till the ground,' or 'dress and keep' the Garden. Hence, instead of the sword and spear, or instruments of warfare, implements of husbandry will be needed. That the inhabitants of the future age will labor, is evident from such expressions as these :----"Mine elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands -they shall plant vineyards, and est the fruit of them . . . They shall not plant and another eat." Isa, Ixv. 21, 22, When these and similar predictions are fulfilled, then the original design of the Creator, in creating the earth and placing man upon it to subdue and till it, will be most gloriously seen .-Then

"The sword and spear of needless worth Bhall prune the tree, and plough the carth For peace shall smile from shore to shore, And nations shall learn war no more."

"Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.' Why not ? Because those who fight and war here, or have a disposition to do so, will have no inheritance on the new earth .- When the Lord shall judge among the angry nations, he will 'destroy them that destroy the earth ?' hence, they (the destroyed) will learn war no more. The people, or, 'nations that are saved' (Rev. xxi.), will then have lost all desire for war; the pure principles of righteousness, peace and love, will govern all their thoughts and acts; consequently they also will learn war no more.

Then the kingdoms of this world will have beome the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ, (Rev. xi, 15), and 'of the increase of his government and neace there shall be no end :' hence there will be no more war. Happy state indeed, and greatly to be desired, and faithfully to be sought, by all who love peace. In view of its quietude and ceaseless bliss, no wonder the prophet, in the verse following this prophecy, earnestly entreats his nation, whom he addresses, so to walk that they might enjoy the promised blessings forever. He says-O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord.' And all must listen to this counsel, who would share in the untold blessings and glories of the future age. (To be Continued.)

Kingdoms of Europe.

DEAR BRO. MARSH ;- Will you allow me to ask you through the medium of the Harbinger, if you had not better look at your conclusion, that the kingdoms of Europe must be Monarchies, when our Lord comes, again ? In the eye of Prophecy, must a Ruler, necessarily, be a Monarch, to constitute the nation he governs, a kingdom ? If so, I see not why we shall not have to wait a good while longer for our Lord. You ask, why so ? I answer ; Because all nations will have to become Monarchies, first, or some of them will not become "the kingdom" of Christ

When the Seventh Angel sounds, " the kingdoms' of this world become the kingdom of our Lord and his Christ. Now if your conclusion is correct, were he to come to-day, France and Switzerland and the Ionian Republic, in Europe, the United States, Mexico, Guatimala, New Grenada, Venezuela, Equador Peru, Bolivin, Buenos Ayres, Chili, Paraguay and Uraguay, in America, with their seventy-five millions of inhabitants, would be excluded from the kingdom of Christ ! Can this be ? Do look again. Do not the "uttermost parts of the earth" (Psa. ii.) belong to Christ ? How then shall any part be excluded 1

Was not Jeremiah (xxv.) commanded to take the wine cup of God's fury and go to " all the kingdoms of the world which are upon the face of the earth "? In the 15th verse, he calls them "nations." A "nation" and "kingdom," in the eye of Prophecy are one. Should all the Monarchies of Europe become Republics, to-day, they would not cease to be "nations." Nor would they cease to be kingdoms, in the sense of Prophecy.

Take another prophecy. Rev. xvi, 14. " For they are the spirits of devils working miracles, which go forth unto the kings (kingdoms) of the earth and the whole world, to gather," etc. Does Bro. M. be-lieve America, hypocritical, canting, proud, highminded, God-provoking, blasphemous, beaven-daring, scoffing America, is excluded from this prophecy, because her governments are republican 1 No. Well then, the Monarchies of Europe may become Republics, and God call them "kingdoms." If so, no change of government can affect the time of the Lord's coming. Were every one of them to become Republics, I should not feel moved a whit about the understand them to refer to a state of society which

There is a something that would move me. Let them take an aspect of STABILITY, either as Republics (if possible) or Monarchies, and my soul would sink within me. I should fear a delay ! But this they cannot do. The elements of discord are ton wide spread to admit the idea of stability. The of land-marks are fast melting away. The tombstones, in the moral elements, are up-heaving-the fortifcations of former ages are being demolished-O how the moral atmosphere is filled with chaff-The moral bonds (and there can be no political ones without them) are dissevered like the flax at the touch of fit. The pneumata daimonon-spirits of demone, are do ing up their work most ingloriously-soon the deception will be complete, and then like a thief is will come. You are right, Bro. M., in pronouncing the idea of universal liberty, vain. This, I apprehend, is the greatest point in the work of the "frogs." The world are determined on liberty. But is it liberty to serve God ? No ! No !! It is "earthly, sensual, devilish" liberty they want. I apprehend God will give it to them about the time of "the coming." "I will overthrow," says God, "the throne [dominion, power] of kingdoms ; and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heather; and I will overthrow the chariots, and those the ride in them ; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother." Hag. in. 22. So mote it be. Here is just the is ception. The golden age will have come, if lem Christ will keep away and let them have liberty to kick their kings out of their dominions, and the serve their king, the Devil, with both hands. But God will take care of that. I 'am content.'

Yours waiting, G. NEEDHAM.

REMARKS ON THE ABOVE

The present revolutions in Europe we consider the prophetic events of these times, which, const quently, should be well understood by all, especially the student of prophecy ; therefore we are glad Bm. Needham has spoken on the subject : for the more there is said, if well said, the better will the matter be understood. Let those who are capable of speak ing to the edification and comfort of others, not he silent on this momentous question.

There may be all the weight in Bro. Needhan's bjections, which he sees, but still they do not weigh heavily in our mind. For, supposing all the reputlics in the world must become monarchies before the advent of Christ (which we do not believe), it would not necessarily make us "wait a good while longe for our Lord ;" for, judging from the length of time it takes, in these days of wonders, to revolutionia a monarchy into a republic, it would not take a wet to change all the republics on the globe into despotic monarchies. We think it possible also that some times all the governments of the world, whether monarchial or republican, are spoken of as kingdom, when at other times a specific number of monarch ies are thus called. If so, then our view of the matter may be correct. But we have neither time nor a disposition to controvert this matter new; for if we are in a mistake on this one point, it would not in the least affect the fundamental point in the great matter : on this, Bro. Needham and ourself are fully agreed. We both understand that the condition of Europe will not be permanently bettered by any pelitical change in any of its different governments, before the advent, but will grow worse and worse.

In our remarks on this case, whe have wished to attach to 'republics' and 'republicanism,' the meaning community generally attach to them. They is highly elevated in morals, and under the most free and equitable laws. And this state of things they are vainly expecting will be the precious fruits of the present shaking and breaking up of the monarchies of Europe. We have admitted that France may for's while, in same, be such a republic, as also may ether kingdoms of Europe ; but we think that in fact, neither the pure principles of either monarchy or republic, but the frog, or spirit of devils, will sit at the helm of affairs, and more and more fill the world with violence to the end. That we are drawing very near this fearful crisis, convulsions of Europe most surely indicate.

Things may apparently change for the better, and prace again smile momentarily upon Europe ; but nothing of this character can be of long duration ; the elements of war are there, and must soon, if they have not already, come in fearful collision, and produce the most dreadful explosion, or bring on that time of trouble, out of which none but Christ will deliver the saints, at his personal appearing.

Corruntions of the Church.

The following remarks by the "Evening Gazette," on the late Catholic Orphan's Fair, very clearly show the deep corruption of that Church. These practices are not confined exclusively to that Church : other denominations do the same things. And if such abominable corruptions are reprehensible in the Catholics, they certainly are in the Protestant sects. To us, such things are a sure evidence of the deep and incurable corruption of that church or those churches which approve or practice them and, that we are surely living in the last days, when men should be lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God.

ORPHAN'S FAIR.

We are happy in stating that the receipts of the late Catholic Orphan's Fair, were $2,376 74-leaving, as we understand, a balance over expenses of shout $1.650.

And now that this Fair has been held, and we have all along expressed the most decided approbation of its object, and kindly wishes for its success, we may be permitted, without the imputation of prejudice or ill will, to enter our most solemn protest against certain practices which are resorted to at these Fairs, for the purpose of raising the wind.

We object to the whole system of persuasive extortion made use of on such occasions, such as fortune telling, striped pig exhibitions, &c. &c .-"But," say the defenders of these practices, "it is but a pleasant way of conferring a charity." "It may be sport to you," &c .- but we assure those interested in Fairs, that nothing has had a greater tendency to bring them into disrepute than these same delightful extortions. Gentlemen may smile and bleed, and bleed and smile, but they go away, and, thrusting their hands into empty pockets, vote the whole concern a humbug. In such a state of feeling, how much better off are they in their hearts for having done a charity 1 The act looses half its benefit in not blessing him who gives.

These are facts, not speculations, and can be attested by thousands.

But the worst practice, and one which is a grow ing evil, is the selling of articles by lotteries .-From nearly every State in the Union, Lottery Establishments have been driven out as nuisances injurious to public morals ! In our own State, highly penal statutes have been enacted against lotteries, or the vending or purchasing of lottery tickets .-This shows the public estimation of the effect of the system. In nearly every country it has received the seal of a more universal disapprobation, than either Sabbath breaking, horse racing, cock fighting, barrassed in the business of the Harbinger, if we tions or chances.

And now that it has become stamped as too wicked even for a wicked world-the Church steps forward and baptizes and adopts the repudiated offspring of Sin, and takes it it into its own service ! It is in vain, gentlemen and ladies, that you drawl out-"Oh ! the end should justify the means-it is a pleasant way of conforring a charity."

"The end justifies the means !" If you are ripe for Heaven, what better plea could the assassin have, for the blow which should send you home instanter. "The end justifics the means!" exclaims the young man, as he throws his last dollar upon the roulette, trusting to win a support for his aged moth-

"The end justifies the means !" says the Puritan as he lays 49 upon the bare back of an unresisting Quaker.

"The end justifies the means !" say the Trustees as they appoint a Raffle for the purpose of raising funds to build a church.

"The end justifies the means !" as the liquot dealer says when he pours poison down the throat of a drunkard, and takes his last three cents, reflecting that he has got a family and a church to support. But why multiply words 1 If the plea was good, there is scarcely a human action but might be justified. That the effect of these lotteries is evil, and wholly cyil, we sincerely believe. It arouses and stimulates the worst passion in our nature-a passion for gambling-to make great gains by small riska.

At the lato Fair, a young girl, and also an elderly lady, were seen to burst into tears on ascertaining that they had drawn blanks.

A young man who was recently examined before the Grand Jury on a complaint against a person for vending lottery tickets, in answer to a question, said "that the first lottery ticket he ever purchased was at Grace Church Fair !" "And where the next 1" He did not know, "but he had purchased of nearly all the Churches in the city !"

A good many of the Grand Jurors being church members, we believe there was no bill found. But aside from the objection on account of their evil tendency as lotteries, there is another : The articles are generally put up at four times their value. The lucky (!) drawer, soon finds this out, but finds it hard to reconcile it with his notions of fair representations. In fact he feels himself duped and cheated; and so upon all principles of risks and chances, by all rules of honor known among gamesters, he is.

For instance, a young man at the late Fair drew a splendid frosted pyramid, of what was put up as cake, and tickets sold to the amount of about twenty five dollars. The pyramid was taken with great parade upon a dray, and borne through the streets to the young man's house-when lo ! and behold ! it proved nothing but baker's bread, with a broom handle stuck in the centre ! The whole concern was not worth the dravage. If that young man is any the better " for having bestowed a charity in a pleasant way," we are as greatly disappointed as he was when he found his "cake was dough."

The news was confirmed in a Paris paper. That paper says this time the fact is official.

A Berlin letter states that the Prince of Prussia left for England. Before his flight the people demanded that he should renounce all right to the throne.

"For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to re new them again unto repentance ; seeing they cru-cify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame." Heb. vi. 4-6.

We would say to the brother who desires our opinion on this text, that the epistle in which it is found was addressed to the Hebrew Christians, and a prominent object of writing it was, to prevent them from apostatizing from the faith. Christ had lived, preached, wrought miracles, been crucified, rose from the dead and ascended to heaven, among them. They had also been witnesses of the mighty works wrought by the Apostles. In a word, they had been eye and ear witnesses of all the infallible evidences which God had seen fit to give in confirmation of the truth of the gospel : no greater or more convincing evidences of its divinity could be given to produce faith than had already been given. Hence if they apostatized, it would be impossible to produce again in them faith, or renew them again to repentance. Not that it was impossible for them to repent if they would, but it was impossible for the apostles to renew them again, because they had no more convincing evidences to lay before them than had already been presented.

Similar cases are seen in this day of apostacy. The evidences of the near coming of Christ produced faith in many who now are unbelievers in this truth. It is impossible for us to renew them again to this faith. And why ? Not because they cannot believe, but because we can present to them no more convincing testimony in the case than what they have once heard, but now reject. This is a fearful state for any one to fall into. It is a state of enlightened unbelief, and the end of those who are found occupying it at the coming of the Lord, like that of the earth which bringeth forth thorns, is, to be burned. Let us take heed how we treat the tes timony of God: for without faith it is impossible to please him. God has no pleasure in any who draw hack.

We hope our patrons who have not yet complied with the terms of our paper, will do so soon. One object in roducing its price to Seventy-five Cents was, to bring about the ADVANCE PAY system. Will those who are in arreats aid us in carrying it out, by remitting what is our due ?

"These epistles, beloved, 1 write unto you ; in which 1 stir up our pure minds by way of remembrance "-PETER.

FROM BRO. T. SMITH.

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- The cause of down-trodden Truth finds but few friends in this 'Far East !' the great majority preferring the Fables of the day to the plain word of the Lord. To give a simple specimen : An aged minister of one of the large denominations was asked if he undoubtedly believed the wicked would live forever, burning, in a lake of fire and brimstone, which is the second death. Rev. xxi. 8. He answered, "We read of the streets of the New-Jerusalem, streets being paved with gold, and we do not believe it-nor can we believe in a lake of fire and brimstone, always burning, as the eternal abode of the finally impenitent."

The true state of the case is simply this : Having adopted wrong premises, namely, the natural and inherent immortality of the soul, this idea must be carried out, and they therefore arrive to wrong conclusions. Then, instead of such a place for the future punishment of the wicked as is pointed out in the Book of God,-'a guilty conscience '-or ' horrors of conscience,' or something else, is substituted for the burning up, root and branch, of the wiced, of which God's word speaks-and all this to perpetuate the existence of the unfortunate sinner .-And, what is quite strange, but true, many of the strenuous believers in the above system are as cold as a stone in their affections towards sinners, and as lifeless in their efforts to save them from suffering eternally ! I observe with regret the seeming fulfilment of Hosea v. 6. 7

"They shall go with their flocks and with their erds to seek the Lord ; but they shall not find him : he hath withdrawn himself from them. They have dealt treacherously against the Lord : for they have begotten strange children : now shall a month devour their portions."

The friends of the speedy coming of the Son of God are few in this cold part of the country, and some of them rather cold in their affections, or inclining to be sleepy, while hope is deferred, yet all those who have been obedient to the command,-Search the Scriptures,' and have formed their judgments from the word of the Lord, and not from the traditions of men, are steadfast in their faith in the great truths of the Judgment at hand.

We most certainly think everything in the natural and moral world, with every consideration arising from a careful study of the word of the Lord, lead to the conclusion that the end of all things is at hand, and we ought therefore to be sober and watch unto prayer.

Your brother in tribulation, waiting for the kingdom THOMAS SMITH.

FROM BRO. R. V. LYON.

DEAR BRO. MARSH:--After an absence from my family of nearly fitteen weeks, during which time I have been constantly engaged in preaching the word, the blessed Je sus has permitted me to return to them in safety and find them all in the land of the dying. But glory be to his exalted name, that the evidence is incontrovertable, that very soon, if we are his, we shall get into the land of the living, where we shall ore have occasion to say, I am sick, or that one no m of our number has fallen a prey to death ; but "His own soft hand shall wipe the tears,

I find that I am now completely prostrated, but am loving the Lord with all my heart, soul, might, mind and strength, and hope I shall continue to do so until He comes. I find that I need much of that spirit which brought our Lord Jesus Christ from the dead, in order that I may keep my body under and bring it into subjection to the gospel of Christ, lest after having preached to others I myself should be a cast-a-way. Every day of my life convinces me more and more of that humiliating yet glorious doctrine of grace. O with what resplendent lustre does it shine forth to my vision ! O how I love it, because it exalts the name of Jesus above every name, and abases man by bringing him down at the footstool of sovereign mercy, as a lost, helpless and ruined sinner, justly doomed to die. Yes, my soul respon to th to the sentence, justly doouned to die. Glory to God, whilst the sinner was in this ruined state, the Father cries out, "I have found a ransom!" O what a shout was then heard on the thereof," plains of Judah at this eventful moment! All was interest in the court of the Eternal! O, my soul, be astonished and ashamed, that thou dost no more revere the name of him who hath at so great a price opened the way whereby rebels like us might obtain a pardon of our sins, and finally come into posses-sion of earth restored. Yes, him, whose groans Cal-wary witnessed, and at the sight the sun felt himself called upon to put on the mourning garb, and for the space of three hours his radiant beams were not the space of three hours his radiant hears were not ielt or seen, and all nature seemed to be hushed in-to silence. Glory be to his exalted name, at the time appointed he will return to gather the trophies of his victorious grace. Not however as he made his first advent, to be cradled in a manger, with no cherubic legions to guard hun, but with the retinue of heaven to accompany him as he shall be seen riding down the burning pathway of the beavens in his flaming chariot, whose wheels shall roll in fire, to take vengeance on them which have slighted his mercy and turned their back on his atoning blood, by sweeping them off from the earth and bringing it back to its Eden state and dressing it up in more than its premeval beauty and glory—the throne of David given to him, and be to reign over the jewels of his victorious grace forev-er, and of his kingdom there shall be no end. Glory to God! self will then be lost of, sight and the song of the redeemed will then be as they walk the plains of Paradise which shall be glowing in immortal ver dure, "Unto him that hath loved us and washed us from our sins in his own blood and hath made us kings and priests unto God." DEAR BRO. MARSH :--- Please correct a mistake in No. 8, Feb. 12. The signature of H. Cornell to a letter should have been B. B. Brigham.

Permit me to say that a door, and an effectual, is opened here, and there are many adversaries. Last Lund's day I baptized five, eight miles west of here, a meeting having been in progress in that place fif-teen days. Several more I think will openly put on Christ next Sunday. Of those baptized, one man bad been five years a Methodist. One woman, who bad been acveral years a Congregationalist, says she never, till this meeting, heard the gospel preached. Another, of the order called Disciples, who fifteen years ago was baptized for the remission of sins, and since then been active in teaching others, learned, during this meeting, that he knew not these things bimself, and that his sins were not remitted. He now gives evidence that he is born of the Spirit as well as of the water. His wife and children gaze wonder, and admire is puting down the strong bolds of Satan. In addition to the refuges of lies into which the super has formerly fled, he now is fortified with-'peace and safety'-' the coming of Christ past'the world's conversion near at hand, when all will come in with the popular tide'-' to-morrow will be more abundant than this day.' Wolves in sheep's clothing creeping into houses with their creeds, to catch the new-born lambs, and scatter them among the sects ; and if any are laden with the lusts of the eye, the lusts of the world, and the pride of life, they an acduced to join a popular church. As the magi-tians withstood Moses, so do these resist the truth. They are examperated shecauso their enchantments tail to give life, while they see the sword of the Spi-ra, like the rod of God, yet has free course and is glorified.

It is truly a day of God's power. The work is several. Such as were thought given up of God, new yield conviction deep and pungent. My bur-dened soul, pressed like a cart laden with sheaves, while making the case of the pentent my own, in-terceding only with groans unuterable, finds relief when the death-grasp of sin yields up its prey. At a late hour the meeting closes; but then the deapairing look of some trembling sinner, which speaks looder then words, forbids a separation till the de-cision is made for life eternal. Midnight finds the exhausted frame on a bed, but not to sleep. A mingling of grief and joy overwhelm, and my pillow is ret with tears. Not a preacher within forty miles, is either direction, that dare open his lips in defence of that gospel which now is made the power of God is pulling down the strong holds of Satan.

Yes, glory to God ! my cup of grief is mixed with w. The scale has turned in favor of the Bible ; and it is thought generally by saint and sinner that sectarian can ever succeed in that community.-We have had offers of ministerial aid, but a discourse from 2 Tim. iii., Heb. vi., or from the Laodician chapter, would drive them from the house.

Your sheet is small, or I would relate more of the goodness of God, and of his power displayed, and of the glory that has filled my soul since I have chosen 10.8 affliction with the people of God, and have exteemed the reproach of Christ more valuable than the monors of the sects. I'm Looking for Thee.

I'm looking for thee, my Heavenly King, To make me immortal in life : To give me a form like God and my King, When earth shall be teeming with strife.

I'm looking for thee, my Savior and Lord,

When kings shall be raving and mad When nations, at war, shall fight with the sword, And thy people appearing most sad,

I'm looking for thee, O Heavenly King, When the church is rolling in pride ; And when, to the world, its allorings bring, And most of thy people deride.

I'm looking for thee, with longing desire, To take me from earth and its pain, When thou wilt send it the flame of thy ire,

And saints here in glory shall reign. I'm looking for thee, with angels and all,

To give immortality free : Restoring to saints man's loss in the fall-

The right to the life-giving tree.

FROM BRO. W. D. GHOSLINK.

DEAR BRO. MARSH:-I believe that the trials of the children of God in the dark and cloudy day thro which we have been called to pass, should serve to win our affections from this world, and lead us to that state of preparation that will alone enable us to stand blameless in the presence of Him with whom we have to do. Tribulation worketh patience, patience experience, experience hope, and hope ma-keth not ashamed. All have not had the same trials-yet none have been free from them.

About eight years ago I felt it my duty to go forth as a watchman on the walls of Zion: I was disobedient to the call, and, as a matter of course, the Lord withdrew his Holy Spirit from me. I then embraced the doctrine of universal salvation, in which I tried hard to believe for some four or five years. I realized during this period the full force of the declaration of Holy Writ, that there is no peace to the wicked. In the fall of '42, at a camp-meeting heid by the M. E. church, at Chazy, Clin-ton county, N. Y., I was reclaimed on the condition of outputs. of my discharging duty-and that was to obey God in all his requirements. This I promised to do, and in all bis requirements. light and peace again beamed on my pathway. I immediately united with the above mentioned church -my duty was again presented forcibly to my mind, but the trammels of church discipline were upon me; I was not free. I could not obey God without permission of the church ; this could not be obtained. I was a Millerite-this was sufficient to silence me, and I supposed God would accept this as an excuse. The cry, "Come out of her my people," at length opened my eyes to the state of the churches and of opened my eyes to the staff of the Chirtches and or my duty, in consequence of which 1 left thier com-munion. Since then 1 have been laboring with my hands to support my family, through poverty and sickness, occasionally preaching in Chazy and vi-cinity of my own home till last January, when 1 re-moved to Chatesuggy, N. DEAR BROTHER :-- I shall feel it my duty to sup-port the Harbinger so long as it advocates Bible doc-trines, with the same meck and mild spirit which it and the same meck and mild spirit which it now does, although some of the doctrines are not popular, nor considered orthodox by some. The doctrine that God will destroy the same that the same state of the same octrine that God will destroy the wicked, I considof Christ's business, when he shall appear the second and time, will be to take vengeance on them that know not God and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, who shall be punished with "everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." I have searched the Bible considerably, and cannot find that the wicked are either promised or threatened with immortality. I consider that the question asked by Job to be the most important inquiry ever made by man, which is this : " If a man die shall he live again ?" To this question the infidel says no; there is no principle in the human body that can reanimate it ; but thank the Lord, the gospel says yes ; for Christ said to the sister of Lazarus at his grave, "He that be-lieveth in me though he were dead yet shall he live," and he shall live eternally; while it is declared that the wicked shall experience the second death ; for it is written, "The wages of sin is death." Thanks be to God for his unspeakable gift. "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." May we all, "that have named the name of Christ, be careful to depart from iniquity," and be careful to do all the commandments, that we may have right to the tree of life, and enter through the gates into the city.

the city. Although unworthy, yet I have a hope through Christ of having an inheritance in the new earth, where tears shall be wiped from all faces, where there will be no more death, how rarrow, no crying ; where all, through the poverty of Christ, will be made rich. I still have to lament that I cannot preach the word as formerly. I make out to speak occasionally, but with much difficulty. The Advent Churches in New-York and Brooklyn are prospering. Again we have been called to part, for a short eason, with another heir of the kingdom. He was born in Kent, parish of Hadlow, England, and emigrated to America, in July 1836. He lived without God and without hope in the world, till the winter of '42-3, when his companion prevailed on him to go with her to the "house of prayer," where his attention was arrested by the glorious truths of the "coming kingdom," and he was made to feel that he was a lost sinner. He fled to Christ, found pardon and peace in believing, and has continued in this grace, rejoicing in hope of the glory of God. The Signs Appear.

Ye tempted souls, that feel The great and sore distress, Waiting till Christ reveal His Joy, and Love, and Peace Lift up your heads, the signs appear. Look up, and see your Savior near!

Long have you beard and known The wars that rage within, And nature still fights o And grace opposes sin Lift up your heads, the signs appear, Look up, and see your Savior near!

Ye now afflicted are, And hated for his name, And in your bodies bear The tokens of the Lamb : Lift up your heads, the signs appear, Look up, and see your Bavior near

Who stumble at the Cross And vilely fall away, Deserters of the cause Your brethren, you betray : Lift up your heads, the signs appear, Look up, and see your Savior near !

Lo! the false prophets rise To vilify the true The truth to scandalize, And make a prey of you : Lift up your heads, the signs appear, Look up. and see your Savior year!

Injouities increase. Aud many have grown cold, And forfeiting their peace Have wander'd from the fold : Lift up your heads, the signs appear, Look up, and see your Savior near!

Who patiently endure Till all their trials end. Are of salvation sure, And shall with Christ ascend : ift up your heads, the signs appear Look up, and see your Savior HERE

[For the Harbinger.] Popplar and Bible Religion Contrasted. NO. IV.

We proceed now to an examination of the hope somected with the false system of religion which where in brief described. And, in, They hope to go to heaven when they die. This with many is the quintessence of their hope -t is the theme of their exhortations, the burm of their prayers. Very many when interrofor respecting their spiritual welfare, will say, U. I do not enjoy what I once did." Have you mee with God through our Lord Jesus Christ ? "Inm not conscious that I have." Well this is tuit of justification ; so the apostle tells us. Am you free from condemnation 7 "No, inand! there are many things for which I feel conhot then I have a hope that I would not 🎮 📭 for worlds on worlds like this." A hope heaven, and there be united with that blood-washed company of pure and happy spirits that dwell before the throne and unite in their songs of redemption and dwell with Christ for ever." Astonishing as it seems, I have heard very many converse in this manner: acknowledge that they were living in disobedience, and yet say that they had a hope ! But their trust shall Le a spider's web-they lean upon a house that will not stand -they hold fast a hope that will not endure-and why 1 Because, in the first place, they have no right or title to a hope-and in the second place, they hope for that which God has never promised to his people. Where, in his word, do we find any promise that heaven is now or ever shall be the abode of the righteous 1 If there is any such promise we shall find it in the covenant of promise made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; for if we be Christ's, then are we Abraham's seed and heirs according the promise. What promise ? Let Paul answer. When making his defence before king Agrippa, he said : "And now I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers ; unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come. a or which hope's sake I am accused of the Jews." The Jews consured him for cherishing the self-same hope that was made unto their fathers, and the one they also professed to cherish; why then accuse him ? Because, although they professed faith in the covenant of promise, they did not believe in it as their fathers believed, and Paul did. Their minds had been diverted from the true meaning of the promise-they thought it meant something different from what it expressed, and they were turned draw from this fact? There is but one concluunto fables

But let us examine the covenant of promise and find what is embraced therein : "And the Lord said unto Abram, Lift up thine eyes and look from the place where thou art, northward and southward and eastward and westward, for all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed ("He saith not, And to seeds, as of many, but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ." Gal. iii. 16,) forever." Gen. xiii. 14. This promise Paul understood to be tantamount to saving that Abram "should be the heir of the world." See Rom. iv. 13. This promise was renewed at different times to Abraham, and once God made a sacrificial covenant with him, touching this very thing. It was also renewed to Isaac and Jacob in nearly the same words. It was not heaven, then, but the earth, that was promised unto Abram, and as "they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Abraham," we feel interested to pursue our inquiries respecting this inheritance. Did Abraham inherit this promise 1 No, for God told him that he should go to his fathers in peace ment soal will be hourne on angel wings to not possess enough of it even to hury his dead, pared for you from the foundation of the world."

until he purchased a field and cave of Ephron, the son of Zohar, for 400 shekels of silver. To this fact Stephen testifies : "Tho God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, and said unto him, Get thee out of thy country and come into the land which I shall show thee. Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans and dwelt in Charran, and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed into this land, where ye now dwell. And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on. Yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him when as yet he had no child." Acts vii. 5. Stephen testifies to the fact that God promised Abraham the land of Canaan, yet he died without possessing it, and to this agree the words of Paul : "By faith he sojourned in the land of promise as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isuac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise"-"For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." Then, after speaking of the innumerable multitude that sprang from Abram, the apostle adds, " These all died in faith not having received the promises; but having seen them after off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth." And what does such a confession as this imply ? Why it is tantamount to saying, I seek a better country, even an heavenly. Again the apostle after enumerating a great multitude who died in faith, he says, "These all having obtained a good report, through faith, received not the promise." What conclusion then must we sion at which we can arrive and leave God's character unimpeached, and that is this : The heirs of promise must receive their inheritance in the resurrection state. The testimony of Ezekiel corroborates this testimony. It is too lengthy to quote-the reader will please turn to Ezek. xxxvii and read. The prophet has a view of the resurrection of the whole house of Israel, (by reference to Rom. ix. it will be clearly seen who are the house of Israel,) and their establishment in the land promised to them. The fact also that it is promised for an everlusting possession, is proof positive that it must be inherited in the immortal state. In the 37th Psalm the earth is spoken of six times as being the final abode of the saints, and says, that when the wicked are cut off they shall see it, then will they inherit it forever.

Daniel, in speaking of the kingdom of Christ, says. " And the kingdom, and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, (not above, as modern theologists teach) shall be given unto the people of the saints of the Most High." Again, in Matt. xxv. we hear the Judge -be buried in a good old age. He was a stran- saying unto those on his right hand, "Come ye why a hope that when I die my im- ger and sojourner in the land of promise, and did blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom, pre-

What kingdom was prepared for man from the creation ? It was this earth; not as it now is. cursed with sin, but pure as it came forth from the hand of its Creator. The testimony of Paul in Heb. ii, is right to the point. He quotes from Psalms: "What is man that thou art mindful of him. or the Son of man that thou visitest him ! Thou madest him a little lower than the angels; thou crownedst him with glory and honor, and didst set him over the work of thy hands ; thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him." Thus we see that man, at the first, had universal dominion. God told Adam to have dominion over the earth, the fish of the sea, the fowls of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth. "But now we see not all things put un der him." Man has not the dominion now, as then ; he lost it by transgression. "But we see Jesus," the second Adam, who became subject to death, that he might rescue the dominion from the usurper, and restore it again to man ; "for unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the world to come, whereof we speak." Unto Christ, the 'tower of the flock,' will the 'first dominion' come, and he will remove the curse and restore the earth to its Paradisiacal state, for "He created it not in vain; he formed it to be inhabited." Much more evidence might be adduced to show that the earth is to be the abode of the saints, but our limits will not permit. Enough methinks has been presented to convince every candid mind. There is not a passage between the two lids of the Bible that gives man an assurance of ever going to hea ven, but much that goes against it. I will only quote two or three passages : "And no man hath ascended up to heaven but He that came down from heaven, even the Son of man, whose abode is in heaven." (Macknight.) But where are Enoch and Elijah ? inquire some. Where they are the Bible tells us not ; it simply says that they were "translated that they should not see death." God has provided some place for them, but where we know not. Peter, in endeavoring to show to the men of Israel that the prophecy of David, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell (or the grave) nei ther wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruntion." referred to the resurrection of Christ. testifics that David was "both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day;" proof nositive that in that prediction he alluded not to himself : and he further adds, that David "being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne : he seeing this before, speaks of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul was not left in hell," &c. Then, still farther, to substantiate his testimony, Peter adds, "For David is not as cended into the heavens;" where then is he ? Why he "is both dead and buried"-and if so holy a man as David--- a man after God's own heart has not gone to heaven, we think that no one else has gone there.

For the Harbinger. "It Hastelh Greatly."

"For he will finish the work, and cut it short in righteousness because a short work will the Lord make upon the earth." Rom ix. 28.

What wonders, God, by his power, can bring about in a short time! All things may seem to continue as they were from the beginning, and nothing seem to occur that would tend to alarm and create apprehension in the mind of a pleasure seeking world, that would mar their bright anticipations of the future-when lo, in the distance, a cloud is clearly seen to be gathering and the scene is changed! Thus it is now. The unexpected and sudden revolution in France has entirely changed the face of things. The plans of speculators and the commercial with the political world, are in perplexity. Thus God deals with presumptive man. How such great changes could have taken place in so short a time is wonderful to those who are directed only by the light of their own kindling, and guided only by the light of their own wisdom, which is foolishness with God. But not so with those who are wise in the wisdom that cometh from above-who decern the signs of the times. To them, these things were expected-only does the fulfilment even exceed the expectation. The hostile influences in the earth seek to oppose each other in every way possible, and thus hasten the consummation of things. The influence of monarchy in the old world has its opposing influences within its own borders ; and any plans or arrangements adopted by republican interests and that will immediate ly affect the political and social interests of men are subscribed to and hurried on by the spirit in other lands-and with as much despatch do the opposing interests adopt plans decidedly opposite. Thus the slumbering elements of strife, destruction, confusion and every evil work are aroused and the nations gathered to the mortal combat.

Consider then the deadly hate existing between religionist! what principles one encourages and fosters, the other must, to be consistent with their unbounded and bigoted pretentions, oppose and hinder. Thus the armies of hell are hurriedly organized and marshalled upon the field of final conflict. The excitement may seem for a time to cease but only to burst forth with tenfold fierceness and determined hotred. Yet few will be convinced until the lamentable reality forbids further dispute. But the despised few ludthe omena, and directed by the unerting wons, see in these things the sure precursors of the dawn of the day of their deliverance: For a short work will the Lord make upon the earth.

CHAPTER IN-INIERITANCE OF THE PAINTS.

Having been delayed in sending this humble Abraha article some time, I now call your attention for a uel, and short time to a subject that is of the most thrilling interest to all God's dear children. We naturally be mad inquire, what will we inherit after we have endured this fight of afflictions, and met so much scoffing from the wicked of this world  $\ddagger$  Surely, if "in this life only we have hope, we are of all men the 35, 36.

most miserable." If there was not something be fore us which is worth seeking for and enduring the cross for, well might the world say that we are crazy or foolish. But insmuch as we will by faith and not by sight, let us turn our attenties to the promises of our God, for they are exceeding broad, and not one of them will fail.

Our divine Redeemer, when teaching his disciples, declares, " Blessed are the meek, for the SHALL inherit the Earth." Thus among the first doctrines he advanced, he taught that the med should at some future time possess the early Now it is clearly manifest that in this state the meet on the shildren of God do not inherit the earth. It is true that some ministers attempt to prove that they do now possess all that God has promised they should in this text, but who doe not see that God's people are poor-that almost every one of them possesses but a small portion in this life of the good things of earth. 'Again | ask, who cannot see that the children of God an accounted the "poor of this world, rich in fails, (not in earthly goods), HEIRS"-heirs of what Of that kingdom which God hath promised a them that love him. Jas. ii. 5. But just listen for a moment to the apostle Peter : "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy, hath Legotte us again unto a lively hope, (or a hope of lifeand how ?) by the resurrection of Jesus Chris from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and that fadeth not away." Not listen attentively; when will this blessed, this glorious inheritance be bestowed upon the saint of God 7 Ah, my friends, it will be in the "?a time," at the appearing of Jesus Christ. 1 Pet. i 3-7. It is not in this world, for the inheritance is incorruptible. It is not of this earth, for the inheritance will not pass away. No death nor sorrow there, for God's chosen shall long enjor the works of their hands. Let us hear the word of David : "Those that wait upon the Lord the shall inherit the earth. The Lord knoweth the days of the upright, and their inheritance shall be forever. The righteous shall inherit the last and dwell therein for ever." Psa. xxxvii, 9. 11 29. O how brilliant doth the promises of Ga shine ! how excellent are his promises, and is ways past finding out !

But God promised to Abraham that he should possess the world (Rom. iv. 13), which promis has never yet been fulfilled ; (Acts vii. 5), as we read concerning him and many others, the "these all having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise-God having pro vided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect." Heb. xi. 39, 40. Now we read, "If ye be Christ's, then are n Abraham's seed and heirs according the prom ise." Gal. iii. 29. So we being all children d the same great family, we all being heirs and po possessors, we all look to the same time, whit Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and Moses, and Sam uel, and all the prophets and righteous, shall receive life again, and we all, as one, he changed be made perfect, and enter upon the fruitions that immortal inheritance, to die no more, but h as the angels of God, and be the children of God being the children of the resurrection. Luke m

O lovely land! for thee I sigh;

When will that moment come, When God shall cause his trump to sound. To call his children home 1

Dear reader, have you this "blessed hope ? Bo you look forward in joyful prospect to the time when God shall send forth his angels and gather is elect from the four winds, from one end of the earth to the other ? If you do, then happy at thou, for thou wilt inherit substance (Prov. til. 21), an everlasting possession ; it will not leimaginary heaven "beyond the bounds of time adspace;" it will be no phantoms of heathen phiboothy, but solid substance, and an enduring in beritance which shall not pass away. It is pled ged by the oath of the great Jehovah, and based on the immutable promises of his word. What a glorious prospect lies before the saints of God A new heavens and earth wherein dwelleth rightcousness, a crown of glory, for we shall be kings ad priests unto our God and we shall reign on the earth. Rev. v. 10. Immortality will be ours, and sternal life will fill up the lot of our inheritacce, while all the redeemed of the Lord will mile to swell everlasting praise and thanksgiving to him in whose name they have gained their porious rest ! Therefore the redeemed of the Lord shall return and come with singing unto Zion; and everlasting joy shall be upon their heads -they shall obtain gladness and joy, and sorrow nd mourning shall flee away. Isa. li. 14.

Dearly beloved, are not these exceeding great and precious promises enough to stimulate you un faithful discharge of your duties ? O think for one moment of the inestimable glories of the interitance ! think of the love that was manifestd to purchase for you this great blessing ! think the suffering of our Lord Jesus, and then realve by God's grace, to live in all holy convermion and godliness, and fight manfully the good intof faith. Finally, brethren, be ye filled with he spirit-for the spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God! ad if children, then heirs-heirs of God and joint him with Christ, if so be that we suffer with him bat we may be also glorified together. Rev. viii. 4. And rejoice inasmuch as ye are made partahen of Christ's sufferings, that when his glory hall be revealed ye may be glad with exceeding joy! 1 Pet. iv. 13.

> For the Harbinger. Two Horned Beast.

DEAR BRO. MARSH :- In the concluding artide of your series on the "Two-Horned Beast." recently published in the Harbinger, you say, "The Seven-Headed Beast in Rev. xiii. we think rymbolizes the fourth earthly kingdom of prophscy, from the the time Rome was divided into ten kingdoms to the destruction of all earthly gov croments, by the Son of man at his appearing." Also, that "The Two-Horned Beast symbolizes the ecclesiastical power of the Roman Church, or Dr. Clarke thinks, the 'Latin clergy, regular and secular.' These have exercised all the power of the political Ten-Horned Beast," &c., and Pope of Rome."

gests itself is, the apparent impossibility of two of the subject. Let us endeavor to ascertatn definitely what the power of the first Beast was. It is said, ver. 5th, "Power was given unto him to continue (margin, make war) forty and two months ;" and ver. 7, "Power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations." That the margin gives the true sense, appears from the consideration that whatever government is able to make war at pleasure, is able to do whatever else it pleases. This, also, accords with your mind as expressed in your Nos. 6 and 7. In order that a kingdom have this nower it is not necessary that every nation feel its exercise in its own conquest; if it was, we shall fail to find that Babylon had exercised dominion "wheresoever the children of men dwell." or that Grecia did "bear rule over all the earth." All that is demanded is, that every nation feel or acknowledge this power, so that through inability, fear or otherwise, they are prevented from thwarting its designs. The Beast then held the war-making power over all nations for forty-two months or 1260 years. The Two-Horned Beast, ver. 12, "exerciseth all the power of the first Beast before him." Then the Two-Horned Beast exercises the war-making power over all nations. Do they both exercise it at the same time ? 1 think not. If, according to your view, the kings of Europe held this power, the priesthood did not. The Romish clergy might have held it, and the kings as their tools, have exercised their designs ; but both could not have held the reins of power at once. The kings might claim it, and, perhaps, flatter themselves that they possessed it, and the emperor might esteem himself the "supreme head of Christendom;" but if, as stated in your No. 10, "The Dominicans and Franciscans were, before the reformation, what the Jesuits have been since that happy and glorious period, the very soul of hierarchy, the engines of state, the secret springs of all the motions of the one and the other, and the authors and directors of every great and important event in the religious and political world," then neither the claims of kings nor emperors were valid-they held not the power. Look at this objection-to me it appears 'valid."

Again : In your No. 7, after quoting the words "And power was given unto him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations," you say, "This has never been true, in a general sense, of the Papal kingdom." Now how is this 1 This power was given to the Beast for forty-two monthsthe Two-Horned Beast "exerciseth all the power of the First Beast ;" and you say that the ecclesisstical power of the Roman church is the Two-Horned Beast. If so, then the ecclesiastical power of the Roman church or the Latin clergy, did have this power. Is the Latin priesthood not a part of the Papal kingdom 1 Probably you design this distinction, as you think the Pope is the image of the Beast ; certainly the Pope cannot be regarded as distinct from the Papal kingdom. To state your argument, then, as I underthat "The image of the Beast is symbolical of the stand it, in my own words : You consider the civ-

An objection to this view which at once sug- ized by "the Beast," and to have the controling power over all nations-the clergy of the Romish powers exercising the same power at the same Church, the Two Horned Beast, exercising the time. This objection will, I think, appear of same controling power over all nations-and the soure weight to your mind upon a careful review Papal kingdom with the Pope at its head, the image of the Beast." By the extracts in your No. 11, you prove that the Pope was the centre-the head of the whole power, civil and religious, and thus you show that the Papal kingdom had the controling power over all nations. Here, then, you have three powers holding universal dominion at the same time. To this inadmissable conclusion I believe every one is necessarily driven. who undertakes to find these three prophetic symbols fulfilled in the history of Europe, during the 1260 years of Papal rule.

> Perhaps you, or some one else cherishing the same view, may be able to clear up this apparent confusion : if so, it will remove one weighty objection to your theory.

In view of the present aspect of things in Eurone, permit me, in connection with this, to present the subject in another light. We will consider the Papal kingdom as a whole. The Pope is king-in him, as the head, is centred civil and religious power; civil jurisdiction over certain states is necessary to constitute it the Papal kingdom-the clergy regular and secular are as necessary to it as the houses of Lords and Commons to the government of England. Its civil power may, like Babylon, Medo-Persia, and Grecia, be over all the earth, or it may be confined to the "states of the church." It was declared in the prophecy that for forty-two months its power should be "over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations." During this time, then, it has universal dominion in the same sense that Babylon. Medo Persia, Greece and Pagan Rome had. Accordingly, during this time, the kingdoms of the Roman territory all sway their power under the control of the general head. These forty-two months ended as early as 1809, when Napoleon issued from Vienna his final decree, declaring the temporal sovereignty of the Pope to be wholly at an end, incorporating Rome with the French empire, and declaring it to be his second city." Lockhart's Napoleon, page 90. In the execution of this decree the Pope was taken prisoner and carried into captivity, from which he did not return till 1814. During this period, the Papal kingdom, as such, did not exist. This event is symbolized in the prophecy by the wound by the sword. At this juncture the fragments of the Roman kingdom-to which kingdom the dominion of the earth had been, by the prophecy of Daniel, assigned till the end-came together at Vienna, formed a new compact, restored again to existence the Papal kingdom, without however yielding their power to it, as during the 1260 years. On the contrary, they hold the controling power in their own hands, subject to the leading influence of the Two Horns, and exercise it before, or in the sight of the Papal kingdom, or the Beast, made to live again. This last compact is symbolized by the Two-Horned Beast.

If this view be correct, then three distinct states of the fourth kingdom of Daniel's prophecy are symbolized by the three symbols-"the Dragon" "the Beast," and the Two-Horned Beast," or il governments of Western Rome to be symbol. the "False Prophet." The two last, the Beast and the Two-Horned Beast, are to be in active existence -- the Two-Horned Beast having the war-making power at the coming of the Lord, as appears from Rev. xix. 20. Then the Alliance that has kept the peace of Europe since 1814, is the last form of settled political policy that can exist in Europe till the Lord comes. Here, then, we have a way-mark. France has made a breach in that Alliance which, apparently, it is impossible ever to heal. But there is but one alternative-either Europe must settle back under the control of the "crowned friends" of the Alliance or it must continue in a state of commotion and strife till Christ appears, gathers his subjects in the air, and coming down upon the mount of Olives, asserts his claim to the dominion of earth. which, presenting a point of general alarm, may lead to a concert of action against their common foe. I say this is the only alternative, because this Alliance is the last predicted form of Roman power, and is not to be wholly subverted till the battle (Rev. xix. 18-21) is fought, when the Beast and False Pronhet are both taken. Republicanism cannot prevail, for this would be altogether a different system. If Europe again becomes settled, it will be under the control of the Alliance. This there is no reason to expect. Hence we are driven to the conclusion that we must expect a state of commotion and strife, with, at best, brief respite of calm till the Lord comes. This would be a doubly unwelcome conclusion were it not for the assurance of the Word that it is but a little while. Whether Europe is to be drenched in blood before the Lord comes, I cannot tell. We need not expect that the last form of power which holds dominion of earth, will be altogether unlike its predecessors and relinquish its supremacy without a violent struggle-by no means; but whether the struggle will seriously commence before the great deciding battle, is not as easy to decide. Our safety in the case is, in being constantly prepared for the worst that can occur here, and momentarily ready to hail with joy our coming King. May God help us to live!

Those who are indebted for books had at this office, are requested to make payment as soon as they can. Our new arrangement in the book agency makes it necessary that old accounts be settled up soon : and besides, Bro. Himes wants his ducs.

We hope our brethren will not be backward in calling for Bro. E. R. Pinney's Exposition of the 24th of Matthew. He has been to considerable expense in publishing them, and they should be sold to meet this expense ; and besides they are worthy to be put into the hands of friends and opponents of the cause. Send on your orders, with the cash, to E. R. Pinney, Sencca Falls, N. Y., for this work, and let it be circulated at once. You can afford to obtain a few dozen to give to your friends and neighobtain a few dozen to give to your friends and neigh-bors ; it may do them good in these last days of the ing the one in the New Testament.

shaking of the nations, and casting down of the thrones of earthly kingdoms. It is your duty to try and benefit them as far as possible.

To Correspondents.

W. S .- Devil, is an ambiguous term, as are very many other Bible names. It will not therefore do to give to it the same meaning in every place where it occurs in the Scriptures. Paul says that Christ will "destroy him that hath the power of death, that is, the Devil," This and many similar passages clearly teach the personality of the Devil, who is reserved in chains of darkness unto the judgment of the great day. Be careful how you speculate with, or reject any portion of the plain word of truth.

J. C .- Here are the " declarations from the Bible' that the Old and New Testament Scriptures are two witnesses, and of course the Lord's Two Witneases :

"But now the righteousness of God .without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the Law and the Prophets." (Rom. iii. 29.) This embraces the Old Testament.

"And this Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." (Matt. xxiv. 14.)-This embraces the New Testament.

Both, make two, and they are the only two witnesses which ever have sustained the character given to the witnesses in the 11th of Rev. And as they have fully answered the account there given, they must be the Two Witnesses there named. We hope this will be satisfactory to you.

S. I. R .- It is so long since the last article on the "Search for Sin" was published, and the style being novel and rather objectionable to some, perhaps it will be well not to publish the remaining articles. We are not very tenacious however in the matter, but are inclined to this opinion. Does it coincide with your mind 9

() We leave the inquiries and criticisms in Bro. S. L. Robinson's letter for Bro. E. R. Pinney to answer. Bro. R's concluding remarks we omit, hecause when we write on the subject on which they treat, we should confine ourselves to plain words of the Bible, and not to uncertain inferences. Indeed. this should be the case in all theological questions, especially those on which different opinions are entertained. Unless we do this, and not follow our own nor others' opinions and inferences, we may wander without limitation or restraint in the wide and wild field of speculation, without ever coming to the knowledge of the truth. We have long since seen the evil of metaphysical controversies-there is no end to them, and but little light : we have therefore closed our columns against them, but thrown them wide open for a suitable investigation, according to the word of truth, of all Bible questions.

D. B. W's articles on the 144,000 virgins, partakes too much of doubtful inferences to be received as a matter of faith, or to settle satisfactorily the important question under discussion. So it appears to us, and we think that Bro. W. with his discerning eye, on looking at the matter again, will view it in nearly or the same light.

J. T .- We cannot attend the anniversaries. We have no faith in them-they are of human appointment, human policy governs them, and hence instead of a blessing attending them, evil will be their fruit. As to "how we intend to act" relative to the contemplated organization, of which you speak, we will say that we intend to oppose by the power of truth, every erroneous doctrine and practice, as duty may require, whether among our friends and brethren or opponents. All know that we are deci-

Signs of the Times.

We have been prevented, by certain causes, from noticing, in this number, at length, those prophecies which we are very confident are now being fulfilled in the unparalelled revolutions of Europe. We hope to be able to enter fully into the investigation of the important subject next week : for if we right ly understand the matter, there is no subject which at this time, should claim our attention more that this. Our Bibles, in reference to it, should be care fully reviewed, and former opinions should not infe ence our investigations. We should speak and write our honest convictions, when our minds are made up relative to what these things mean. We wonder that so few of our brethren, professed sta dents of the prophetic word, have yet spoken or events which that Word so clearly and abundantly points out. Why is it so 1 Is there a lack of fail among our teachers? Or have they fallen asleer at their post ? Is their attention so diverted from the truth and the simple work of their calling the they can see the fulfilment of no prophecy in the stupendous events of these times ? Or, like Jonsh do they fear a disappointment, and therefore refus to speak ? Will they let us know why they keep silent so long 1 The cause of the soon coming On demands that they should no longer hold their peace.

We see by the late news from the Old World that the work of revolution, anarchy, war and vast preparation for war, is still onward in its sure and a pid march ; and we fully believe that it will continue to increase in extent, disorder, and cruel and muderous malignity, defying all human effort to stop its course of violence and blood, until the coming of the Son of Man to destroy them that destroy the earth.

The Time of Trouble, in which Michael will stand up to deliver his people, doubtless has commenced The Thrones are being cast down-just before the coming of the Ancient of days! God has commenced shaking the Nations-just before their find overthrow ! Their time of Distress, with perplexity, has overtaken them. The last restraint upon the Four Winds of bloody strife is being withdrawa. and the Sealing Time of God's servants is rapidy drawing to a close ! The Seventh Trumpet and Third and last Woe have commenced, and the Na tions are angry, and the time of their destructionic at the door. The Three Unclean Spirits like from the spirits of devils, have gone out, and the work their fiendish mission has actually commenced, is the vast preparations of the nations for the great and final conflict, the Battle of the Great David God Almighty. The Seventh Angel has commented pouring out his vial into the air, and the Great Earth quake, 'such as was not since men were upon early so mighty an earthquake, and so great,' has con menced its work. Its first mighty shock, the Reolution in France, shook despotic thrones to the rotten base as they were never shaken before ; and the effect has been that, in the short space of about two months, if we mistake not, over twenty differ ent Governments have fallen, or undergone imm tant clianges !

Who can be silent or unbelieving in view of these things ? We cannot. We will, according to the light and ability given, cry aloud, and lift up on voice like a trumpet ; and we do and will rejoice, knowing that our redemption draweth nigh.

French Republic.

The more we learn of the real character of the ncent Revolution in France, the more strongly at we convinced, that despotism, of the worst kind, is at the bottom of the whole affair, and will soon be seen manifesting itself, in all its hellish work, throughout that fallen kingdom. We are led to of a French correspondent of the Baltimore Sun. He says :

"The aspect of things has changed very much for the worse since my last letter, though everything is yet quiet. Paris, to appearance, ruled by the provisional government, is really in the hands of the clubs, composed for the most part, of a desperate set of persons, who advocate doctrines that would be no discredit to the reign of terror .-These clubs were established for purposes of reform and have been animated by a proper spirit-but since the revolution, their doors have been thrown open to every one, and gradually the idle and vicious have come in, until now they have the ascendency ; creatures who have everything to gain by a bloody revolution, they have made the clubs a terror to all so ber thinking persons in Paris. The meetings of one of the principle of these clubs are held at the Valentino ball-room, and such scenes as are there enacted, can hardly be described. The uncarthly noises that are made prevent much debate, but during the intervals of calm, there are sentiments uttered which would delight Marat if he could hear them. One fellow in a blouse demanded guillotines and thirty thousand heads, and said he should be content with nothing less. The audience should a bas-a la porte, S.c. The orator said a republic had secured to all the liberty of speech ; he did not make the demand with the expectation of having it granted, but he had a right to make it. The explanation was not satisfactory and the orator was kicked out of door. These clubs, by acting in concert, succeed in controlling the government, which dares to refuse them nothing, and it might almost be said that the government is merely their medium of communication with the people.

"The coming scarcity of bread and the suspen sion of specie payments by the Bank of France, and the consequent great scarcity of money, are also very had features in the aspect of affairs. The amount of breadstuffs hought to Paris since the revolution, is only as one to three compared with the previous receipts. The people in the surround ing provinces do not send it to Paris because it may be pillaged on the road ; because they are unwilling to trust the bakers and flour dealers, who are all failing, and because they are unwilling to give their breadstuffs for Bank notes, since the Bank has suspended, which is considered the next preceding step to an outright failure. Let famine once be felt, and a system of throat cutting on the most extensive scale will be commenced at once.

"Another and perhaps the most important element of discord is the disaffection of the National Guard, a most important and respectable body, composed of eighty thousand persons, principally tradesmen and shop-keepers, who have all an interest in restoring peace and order. This body has been formed since 1830 : has been constantly in service, and its members have become united together upon terms of the most agreeable social intercourse. They had their clubs, their company dinners, and reunions, and were in every respect like our uniform compa-The safety of Paris and of France was in nies. their hands, and no one felt the least perional apprehension while they could depend upon the National Guard ; but a decree has lately been issued for political purposes, and with a view to the election, that the National Guard will henceforth be amalgamated with the Guard Mobile. That is to say, a guard of two hundred thousand persons composed for the most part of the dirticst and filthiest gamins and sans culottes in Paris, generally botween the ages of sixteen and twenty-one, who have nothing to do but to register the name and receive a musket. Thrusting such creatures into their ranks gave great speak thus, at this time, by the following remarks offence to the National Guard, who marched without arms to the Hotel de Ville to protest against the measure ; but their rivals anticipated them. The Guard Mobile already filled the square in front of the Hotel de Ville. When the National Guards arrived, they had placed themselves there prepared for a fight, and announced to the National Guard that that they must fight their way into the Hotel if they reached it at all.

"The National Guard went off without accomplishing the object they went for. They were in bad humor for they had been defeated. Since that time they are soldom to be seen, and never in large bodies. Now, the only protection the country has to rely upon, is from its newly organized and undisciplined mob.

"The assembly meets on the 20th of April to frame a constitution and elect a government : they are to carry on their debates under the protection of the buyonets of these two hundred thousand gentlemen, who are to bo reviewed on the Champ de Mars on that day. The meeting is to be organized by Dupont. Victor Cousin, the philosopher will lead off by declaring for the constitution of the United States, supported by Arago, Garnier Pages, &c. Lamartine will oppose it, and intends to advocate an assembly, without an upper house or senate, which he thinks to be too conservative for a republican form of government. It will be a stirring time, the 20th of April, when it does arrive."

A Nation of Hypocrites.

Recently seventy-seven slaves, men, women and children, made their escape from the city of Washington, the cradle of American liberty (!), in the sloop Pearl ; but in a short time were pursued, captured, and returned to increased bondage, by ar armed steamer, manned by citizens of Washington. All is done under the immediate eve of Congress of the United States. And what is done in such a case? Nothing. No public designstration of disapprobation against the captors, nor of sympathy for the captives, is given !

But a revolution breaks out in France, and she is declared a Republic ; she abolishes slavery in her dominions, and Americans, from Maine to the Rocky Mountains, at once arc clamorous, in their praise. Sympathy meetings are called in nearly every city and town of any note in the land, to laud the acts of France, the "model republic," and to theer her on in her good work ! What inconsistency ! what downright hypocrisy ! what a nation of hypocrites and whited sepulchres ! They indeed make a fair outside show, but within, at home, are full of decention, corruption, and sore and disgraceful oppression! Bitter indeed will be her cup, which she must drink at the hand of an offended God. 100

Blindness of the Church.

In his recent lectures in this city, Dr. Baird called upon the benevolent to contribute liberally for the spread of the gospel, now, at this time of general peace ; for this was the most favorable time for carrying out the gracious designs of the Gasnel in the conversion of the world. He thought that if a general war should break out in Europe or the world, it would be very disastrous to the cause of missions and of the gospel; it would greatly retard the work of converting the world. This we believe has been the uniform opinion of the advocates of the temporal millennium theory.

But how is it now, since the winds of war have begun to be loosed, and revolution, anarchy and blood threaten to become the general order of the day 1 Why, hy some strange process of reasoning, they cause of universal peace and holiness, is its friend, and harbinger of its triumph near. These outbreaks -these revolutions-this casting down of thrones -this indication of a general war-this unparalelled rise to popularity of the Pope, that master-piece of the Devil, and the triumph of his reformatory principles all through Europe-are all, to the Church. favorable omens of the immediate dawn of their fancied Millennium ! This we believe is the view the church now generally take of this matter. Oh, what blindness ! Truly if any people have ever put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter, or good for evil, and evil for good, the church and ministry of this age are guilty of doing it. Alas, we fear their deception will prove fatal to their eternal interest .---They seem to be given over to strong delusions, to share the sed fate of those who believe a lie, and have pleasure in unrighteousness ! May their eyes be opened to see their deception, and to escape the fearful danger to which their blindness and unbelief hourly expose them.

"Two-Horned Beast."

Bro. Miller's objections to our views on this subject, which we give in this number, to us are of no real weight. We think when he fully understands us he will see that we do not hold that two or three powers held universal power at the same time.-Though we have not reviewed our articles since receiving Bro. M's criticism, yet we think we were and explicit on this point. We think we clear-In a ghilthat the Seven-Headed Beast, in Rev. xili, symbolizes the fourth universal kingdom, embracing all the powers, civil and ecclesiastical, of that kingdom ; und that as such it has held dominion over the whole carth. The papacy is one of the component parts of that kingdom, and although it may not now exercise all the power of the Beast, or be the controlling power or influence of the Roman world, every body well knows that it once did this very thing. It would be highly absurd to talk of two or three distinct powers holding universal dominion at the same time. This we never believed nor taught. and we think the legitimate conclusion of our article to which Bro. M. refers, leads to no such absurdity.

To Bro. Miller's theory we offer two insurmountable objections :

1. The Papal kingdom, abstractly, is not symbolized by the Seven-Headed and Ten-Horned Beast, as Bro. M. holds. Hence the corner stone of his whole theory is wanting.

2. The Papacy was never one of the heads, but the mouth of the beast. Consequently, it was never wounded, or slain by the sword aud did live again. It never was slain in any sense ; its dominion according to prophecy was only to be taken away-therefore Bro. M. must, we think, be in a mistake.

We see no authority for saying that Rev. xix. 20 teaches that " the Two-Horned Beast has the warmaking power at the coming of the Lord," as Bro. M. says. We will give the verse, with its connection, that the mistake of our brother may be more readily seen :

"And I saw an angel standing in the sun ; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowle that fly in the midst of heaven, Come and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God ; that we may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty mcn, and the flesh of horses, and them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great. And I saw the Beast, and the kings of the carth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against And the Beast was taken, and with him the False now see that war, instead of being an enemy to the Prophet, that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the Beast, and them that workipped bis Image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire hurning with brimatone. And the remnant were Jain with the sword of him list eat upon the horse, which avord proceeded out of his mouth, and all the fowle were filled with heir fireh."

It is " The Brast," not the Two-Horned Beast, or False Prophet, that exercises the war power at the coming of the Lord.

What Bro. Miller says of the state of Europe, and the near coming of the Lord, is worthy of the attention of all. May we all be ready to meet the events that are coming upon the earth, and to stand when the Son of Man appeareth.

State of the Bead.

"Verily I say unto thee, To-day shall then be with me in pas ad ise." Luke xaili. 43.

Relative to this text a correspondent "requests Bro. Marsh or some other one to harmonize it with the doctrine that the dead know not any thing."

It should be remembered that "The dead know not any thing," is a Bible phrase, as well as the text at the head of these remarks. Inspiration equally belongs to both, and, that there is the most perfect harmony existing between them, will not admit of a doubt. And in order to arrive at a correct understanding of that harmony, we will enquire for the true import of paradise : for, inasmuch as the is the place where Christ promised to be with en itent thief, it is highly necessary to have ---understanding of its meaning. " Paradise, according to the original meaning of the term, whether it be of Hebrew, Chaldee, or Persian derivation, signifies a place enclosed for pleasure and delight .-The LXX. or Greek translators of the Old Testa ment, make use of the word Paradise, when they speak of the Garden of Eden, which Jehovah planted at the creation, and in which he placed our first parents." (Encyc. Rel. Knowl.) This is according to the only meaning attached to the word in the New Testament, where it occurs only three times. Rev. ii. 7. "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradiso of God." Where was the tree of life ! In the garden of Edcn ; for there was "the tree of life also in the midst of the garden." Gen. il. 9. Where will the tree of life be, when it is restored to the children of God ? In the paradise or city of God. See Rev. ii. 7, which we have just quoted, and Rev. xxii. 2, which reads, "In the midst of the street of it (the New Jerusalem), and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life."v. 14. "- that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the This testimony when rightly understood, city." will prove to the enquirer after truth, that the paradise of God will be the New Jerusalem, when it shall be established on the New Earth.

2 Cor. xii. 4, apeaks of paradise, and in verse 2nd of the third heavens, as meaning the same thing — Well, what such third weares 1 The first were those which existed before the flood, the second those which worksis, and will soon pess away with a great noise; and the third will be the near h avens which will be created after the second or oid ones shall have passed away. The "man in Christ" whom Paul know "fourteen yens ago," doubtless was caught away, in stizos, to the new heavens and new earth, and heard mutterable words and as whe effulgent glory of that better world, as did John, the beloved disciple, and many of the patriarches and prophete of God. Hence, paradise in this case means the same as it does in Rev. it. 7.

Luke xxiii. 43, gives us no clue by which we may to obtain them I knew not, because my pecuniary arrive at the true meaning of the term ; it simply circumstances would scarcely enable me to pay the says, "To-day shalt thou be with me in paradise." And as neither text nor context sheds the dimest ray of light on the meaning of paredise, the only way in which we can obtain a correct knowledge of its meaning is to consult other portions of Scripture. This we have already done in this article, and the result has been, that " the paradise of God" will be upon the new earth, the New Jorusalem, and is promised to those who overcome. Rev. ii. 7. Hence the words of the Savior to the penitent, thief must be understood in the light of a future promise, which would be fulfilled in the New Jerusalem, the paradisc of God, when the Kingdom of God shall come. This is according to the request of the expiring thicf, "Lord, remember me (when ?) when thou comest into thy kingdom," into paradise, the New Jerusalcm, the capital of the kingdom. The request was answered with the assurance that, it should be granted. Punctuste the reply thus, and all is plain, and in harmony with other undisputed portions of the Bible: "And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee to-day, Shalt thou be with me in paradise." When ? According to the request, "When thou comest into thy kingdom," which will not be until his second appearing. 2 Tim. iv. 1.

This view of the subject harmonizes this text with the doctrine that 'the dead know not anything' for the penierant thief could leep in death until the resurrection morn, and the coming of the kingdom, when he could enter with Christ, according to promise, into paradise.

FROM: BRO. 8. L. ROBINSON.

Dask Bao. Massai—When I left my dear brothera at Watertown, Jefferson Co., N. Y., May 34th, 1847, and returned to my family in this place, I brought along a goodly number of Advent papers, which I distributed along on the canal and otherwise. Some would reid carefully while others would reideale. Other darkness, the gross darkness that I clearly sawdianging over the minds of my follow. It was a start of the sart of Golf Doke in y heart has ached and my bowele yearned where the sart of Golf adwith (even these professions of the same of the ached and my bowele yearned where the same ached with (even these professions of the same ached where miserable, poor, wretched, blind and makedyea, willingly, and some no doubt willfully blinded, who would laigh and ridicule at and cavil with the outrine of the final dening of the final dening of meeted with there seen a bow to the realized by us all. Jears on its wings some new testimony that the end fail things is a thand.

From The time 1 left Whitertown at the above mentioned due tuntil I received the last No. of Vol. xv. of the Harbinger, 1 had not seen a single Advent paper. My old papers I read and re-read until some are quite worn. I felt the want of new trutha as well as old. I began to feel dark in my mind and grive for the want of some Advent paper. I felt a hungering and thirsting for more knowledge on the various points discossed in Advent paper. Just ta obtain them I knew not, because my pecuniary circumstances would eacrefly enable me to pay the weakly postage. I submitted my cause to God-Sometimes I thought I would write to Bro. March, but I was aware that some would beg that were able and ought to pay for the paper: I knew too that you supplied very many of God's real poor gratuitunly, and I eft unworthy—and so the matter reated until the above date, when I learned that there was an Advent paper in the Poot Office for me—on the receipt of which I believed it was sent by good Bro. March. My poor disconsolate heart leaped for joy. I thanked God and took courage! since which built up in the blezeed hope of the gospel and estabhisted more and more in the vorious points of doctrine that are closely connected with the Second Advent of our Lord and Savir Jesue Christ.

With few exceptions I can subscribe to all the leading doctrines held by the great body of Advent-ists; still there are two or three points which I cannot see through as clearly as some others profess to. I look to you, Bro. M., as a leader and guide to a better understanding of those passages. With the above number of exceptions, you have spoken my mind better than I could on every point. I have received the impression from your remarks on the state of the dead that you believe in the final destruction of the users that Now, Bro. March, if Bro. L. A. Pinney, in the Harbinger, No. 14, "The Purpose of God," has all the truth about the term Immortality, when he says, " For immortality means no more nor less than not subject to death," then why may not wicked men, in the resurrection state, and fallen angels too, be put in possession of immortality as well s the saints and even God himself, and yet be miseas the sain is and even God himsoff, and yet be mise-rable 1. In Rom. it., 7, it esys. "To them who by patient continuance in well-doing, seek for glory and honor and immortality, eterpal life." Now, broth-er, if immortality and etermal life. agaes and the same thing, why is the term eternal life. The din this means the same the same the same the same term. age ?" Again, says the apostle to Timothy, w unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible," passage ? ii No &c. 1 Tim. i. 17. From the nature of the language is it not evident that the terms immortal or immortality mean something more than simply to be in possession of an undying nature? In both of the above passages the terms eternal and immortal are used in connection, yet both seem to imply a differ-ent thing. Surely it appears to me that while imon thing. Survey it appears to me that when the mortality means a sinces, pure and changeless na-ture or quality which belongs to God alonesses 1 Tim. vi. 16, (i. e. it is not possible, for men or hu-gels to be as infinitely pure and holy and changeless as God is, though they may be like him, holy and of a changeless nature—undying of course) that eternal life simply means a perpetuity of animated exist-cuce in the above boly state, to those who were dead or in possession of a dying nature, doomed to death. According to Bro, Pinney's definition of the term immortality, I cannot see why the wicked may not have immortality and exist forever and ever in a state of conscious misery, though they may be as unholy as Lucifer himself.

As Luctiff Minsell. Though If firmly believe in the unconsciousness of the dead until the resurrection, yet when I read such messages in the Bible as an of touried in Mark it. 45, 44 on diet 1, 11, 14 and 14 and 14 and 14 and they have no rest day non right, and their worm shall not die neither shall their fire he quenched, sha they alway as believe that there is a certain something that will always exist, a spirit, a conscious bithe resurrection of the wicked.

But, saying the Scould Death cuts them off entirely. How can this be, my prother 1 if the first death deas not annihilato their being, how will the sected, since the above guoted passages are appiled to hem at the time and even after they have experienced the second death ? If fallen angels poasess an undying rature (viz, immortality) and are reserved alive as it appears by reading lude 1.6; 2 Pet ii. 4, (which will be munihed with wicked men, why may we not conclude that wicked men will always exist though they are cast into hell fire and brinstone? Do not the terms immortality and eternal life imply qualities which the sinner may be depired 0, and yet live and exist in conscious misery so long as God may exist ? If I am wrong will Bro.

BRO. MARSH :--- We are glad to hear from the brethren in the West through the Harbinger, and we wish to learn all we can from them concerning hope and their views of certain portions of the Bible, if we cannot see in every thing as they do. The Bible is our only guide—I mean the plain Eng ish Bible, translated by men every way qualified and atrictly houses, and willing that it should be rightly ered or speak its true meaning, and we have the testimony of Dr. A. Clark that nothing essential is wanting in our English Bible. But one thing we all wanting is on English blue. But the thing we are inay know, that human learning simply, or a knowl-edge of the original tongues does not make those who understand them agreed in all points of doctrine, while all the great and important truths are plain to the humble Christian. We adore that Providence that has given to us so invaluable a treasure, and that we can know that so much of it as concerns out duty to God and our fellow-man, and also our fi reward, is not obscure or difficult to be learned. We believe the same being who at first caused his serwant to speak and write his word, has given it to us pure and uncorrupt and by it we hope to live until Christ who is our life shall appear. Disn, in Syracuse, N. Y., on the 30th day of April, 1848, Sister Etzzakrit Abans, whie of Bro. Simeel J. Adams, in the 35th year of her age. But a short time can elopse before a crisie takes place. The rent has fallen to £25, and it is evident that a numerical majority of the Irish people are in favor of outrageous measures. The people in every part of the country continue to supply themselves with arms; some arrests have indeed taken place in Dublin, Cork, and Limerick, to check the progress of the armament, but these steps are of course wholly inadequate to ward off the danger.

The train of discontent seems now to be laid so extensively, that we doubt whether the whole weight of the Government, with even the support of the O'-Connells' will be able to prevent some great explo-sion. Notwithstanding the vigorous determination of the government to put a stop to the movements of the disaffected throughout Ireland, the preparations for robellion still proceed. A communication from Youghal states, that the spirit of insurrection is rapidly spreading in the southeast, from Youghal to Mallow, Cappoquin to Clonmel, and that nothing is spoken of but rilles, and rille clubs, pikes, barrica 8. spock of our ruces, and ruce cruds, proces, partneauces, etc. The writer mentions the meeting of a rifle-club at Clay Castle, at which over 2,000 persons were assembled. The state of things is becoming a matter of general notoriety. The most formida-ble rebellion that ever shook Ireland from sea to sea, is unfortunately, at this moment, threatening the community.

A Limerick paper, in alluding to the state of the country, says : "We have it from authority which we have the best reason to trust, that in a quarter not quite a thousand miles from Limerick, 9,000 men are nightly engaged in practicing the pike exercise. The Limerick Ritle Club had sharp practicing year The Limerick Rifle Club had suarp practicing junction of the start of One gentleman gave a most convincing proof of his ciency, by planting a ball on the tip of the nose of this flattering likeness of Vice Royalty, a feat which elicited much laughter."

As an evidence of the "shifts" which are made to procure fire-arms and other deadly weapons of war-fare, the following extract from a letter written at Limerick will testify :- " Leaving a deal yard, some days back, in Limerick, a woman might be seen seated in a car and leaning in evident or apparent affec-tion over a coffiu. Her emotions were indicative of the profoundest affliction. She certainly wept, and the profoundest affliction. Sne certainty wept, and her body and load awang from one side to the other; in palpable sorrow. The car moved away, beering off the coffin and the solitary mourner. When it in palpable sorrow. The car moved away, bearing off the coffin and the sofitary mourner. When it had travelled, we shall not declare what number of ailes, the journey was finished, the coffin removed, the cover uplified, and—no, not the body—bot a plentiful store of well-prepared arms taken out of the interior

At Rescrea the publice found in a cabin inhabited by two men named Kelfeigle and Kennedy, several pitchforks, and prongs of which are tipped with steel for nine or ten inches, and the handles measure six feet. The men were arrested, and upon being asked who ordered them to make such weapons, they said they were manufactured according to the plan laid down by the United Irishmen.

Let them remember the horrible case that within a fortnight had been brought before the Galway Assizes, in which a man had been convicted of sheep-stealing, and Mr. Dob bin, a stipendiary magistrate, had applied in favor of the prisoner, on account of the extreme circumstan ces in his case. One of his children had died of starvation, and the wife of the man had fed upon the fiesh of that child before he violated the law to pro-cure food. Mr. Dobbin had caused the body to be disinterred, and the limbs were found picked to the In that case the judge shed tears, and the juhone ry shed tears, and the man was discharged. In Prussian there seems a growing feeling that the Polish-Prussian provinces would be relinquished but the uncertainty which yet prevails respecting the movements of Russia, leaves all those questions which virtually affect the political existence of East-ern Europe in a state of abeyance. vessals have appeared off Swinemund, evidently with hostile intentions, but intelligence of any actual act of hostility on the sear has not yet reached us, although we are in hourly expectation of some intelligence of the kind.

NAPLES.

The Neapolitans are rapidly marching northwards to join the standard of Charles Albert, and already considerable bodies of troops have arrived at head cursure and notices of trouge nave arrived at head-querters. The King of Nayleshas published a pro-clamation declaring its addresion to the unity of Ia-ly, and invites his subjects in the Two Sicilies to union and concord. These any furnishes a contingent of 5000 men, who are placed at the disposal of Charles Albert.

The Croats have set fire to the village of Castel Nuova, containing 2000 inhabitanta. The Croata formed a cordon round it, and the villagers were all formed a cordon round it, and the vilagers were all burned to death, uttering the most appalling shrieks. The whole of that part of Europe which skirts the Rhine, and borders on France, seems oute disorganized.

In Saxony, a frightful incendiary insurrection seems to be going on, which the government cannot succeed in putting down. In Alsace, a complete inproction of the peasantry exists.

Twelve hundred Venitians have been defeated at Montebello, near Vicenza, by a body of 6000 Aus-trian infantry and cavairy. The greater part of the Venitians were the students who volunteered from Padua and Venice. Many were killed.

RUSSIA.

Russia is still making preparations for war. 300 pieces Russian cannon reported arriving in Warsaw. The troope now in Poland amount to 80,000. The Poles have apparently made but little progress. The Russian Government is adopting every pos-she measure of defence, and with every forbearance. The military reinforcement demanded by Prince Paa-kiewitsch has arrived and set off for the frontier. 100,000 are to follow, if necessity should require it. Warsaw is perambulated by patrols, but it presents more of the life of a carnival than a scene of war. Everywhere strains of lively music resound, because the Poles expect their deliverance by Germany, and hope to secure it by remaining quiet to the end.

POLAND

At Wreschen, Schroda and Rogowo, the Poles have erected entrenchments, and have concentrated the principal part of their army. It is said that with the principal part of their army. It is said that with the artillery they age 10,000 strong. The summons to lay down their arms not having had effect a strong force has been dispatched sgainst the insurgents, provided with six cannon and four howitzers.

The last news from Posen in the Cologne Gazette is expressive of a continuance of that mysterious national movement which leads the Poles to rise arms against the very people who wish to assist them in the reconstruction of the kingdom of Poland. Their force is computed to amount to 22,000 men, and there seems to be no hope that they can be induced to return to order and quiet.

All Germany is in a state of anarchy. In Baden the people have risen against the troops. A formi-dable revolt at H ase Cassel. Incendiary insurrection in the north of Saxony which the Government has not been able to suppress.

A revolutionary demonstration had taken place in Egypt, resulting in promises of reform from the Pa-cha. As soon as the people were quiet, the leaders were hung.

MONEY AFFAIRS ON THE CONTINENT.

Not the slightest smelioration has taken place in credit or confidence throughout Europe. In France commerce is at a complete stand. The paper currency is gradually depreciating in value, and gold and silver continue to be hoarded up. From Hamburg merchants write with great despondency. The next accounts from that quarter are looked for with great anxiety.

Extract of a Review --

OF J. B. COOK'S "TRUE BOURCE OF IMMORTALITY."

BY MR. C. DURIN. COMOREGATIONAL MINISTER, WAITSPIELD, VT.

Junderstand Mr. Cook's doctrine to be, that at death man dies in his whole nature, body and soul; that all men remain in a state of unconsciousness and annihilation from death to the resurrection, when the righteous are sealed and reign in glory on the New Earth; and the wicked are destroyed or annihilated. He supposes the man was originally created immortal; but that at the fall, man lost immortality, and that the loss of immortality was the curse pronounced on Adam; (Note a.) that man is not now to be regarded as an immortal being; and that none will obtain immortality but the saints; and they not till the day of the resurrection. Mr. C.'s argument seems to rest chiefly on two passages of Scripture : (Note b.) 1st. Gen. ii. 7, compared 2d. Gen. iii. 5. with ii. 17.

1st. Gen. ii. 17-" Man became a living soul." Also 1 Cor. xv. 45, compared with Gen. ii. 17: "In the day thou entest thereof thou shalt surely die.

On the supposition that the whole Bible regards fallen man as not immortal, I think that his hole reason for supposing that Adam was originelly created immortal, must be the expression, Adem "was" a living soul. I doubt whether this alone would prove that man was first created im-mortal, if we must believe that since the fall, man is only mortal. But if "living soul" implies immoriality, we all, according to the apostle, have, like the first man, "a living soul."

The first man Adam was made a living soul? "The first man is of the earth, earthy" -" As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy." 1 Cor. xv. 45, 47, 48. (Note c.)

As to the meaning of the word soul, it appears in Scripture to denote the whole man ; particularly regarding him as a mortal and spiritual being. Often it refers entirely to his mortal nature, and is frequently put in contrast with body, or his physical and mortal nature. See 1 Thes. v. 23; Matt. zii. 33; Heb. vi. 19; Matt. z. 28; Eccl. xii. 7. (Note d.) But because Adam was made "a living soul," are we to suppose that the curse on Adam, "Thou shalt surely die," refers to his loss of immortality ? On the contrary, the Bible and our observation teach us that this curse implies temporal death ; death is tins curse second death." Such is the proper penalty of the law, out of many Scripture texts. See Rom. v. 12-19; John iii. 6; Eph. ii. 1; Rev. xx. 15. Observation coincides with Scripture in regard to this. We see men and beasts, and all things, subject to death and decay. (Note c.) We see the human race fallen and universally depraved; and this depravity is to be traced back to Adam. But has man lost his immortality, with which Adam was created ? Is there evidence that man at death dies in his whole nature, soul, and body, and spirit? Against this supposition are all the arguments from nature (the man is not annihilated at death, but lives on forever) and various texts of Scripture to be referred to. Mr. Cook's argument on Gen. il. 7, compared with verse 17, appears to me not conclusive, and not learned from nor founded on Scripture, but rather as an ingenious hypothesis. (Note f.) 2d. Gen. iii. 5-"Ye shall surely die." See pp. 40, 46. The interpretation he gives to these words, is novel, and he delights in it as a favorite text. am always suspicious of novel interpretations especially when introduced to prove a favorite theory. Before the interpretation proposed can be sustained, it must first be proved that the sense of the original curse is loss of immortality. (Note a.) Till this is proved, Mr. C.'s interpretation of "Ye shall be as gods," is a begging of the question. But his meaning is entirely set aside by the connection, in which the words stand. "For God doth know that in the day thou eatest thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."" (Note g.) Mr. Cook supposes that his doctrine of annihilation is supported by the terms used to denote the punishment of the wicked-such as death, destruction, &c. The whole argument against this objection cannot be presented. I simply refer to phrases which denote the punishment of the wicked, as consisting in continued suffering. Dan. zii. 2; Rev. xx. 15; Matt. xxv. 41, 46; Isa. xxxiii. 14; Luke xiii. 28. While the saints are in the kingdom of heaven, the wicked are without, weeping and wailing. (Note h.)

Mr. Cook attempts to overthrow the popular idea of immortality, by the fact that his doctrine was the doctrine of the heathen philosophers. See chap. ii. Why reject a truth, because in some particulars it is believed by heathen ? But his description of heathen philosophy is not just. Socrates, Plato, Cicero, Pythagoras, the heathen Poets, did not believe, with any certainty, in the immortality of the soul. They all expressed doubts concerning it. The heathen idea of the scul's immortality was almost uniformly associa-ted with the ides of the scul's eternity; or that the soul had existed from eternity in a pre-exist. by the fact, that while the old way to "the tree ent state. The notions of heathen philosophy of life" is guarded by flaming "cherubim," a concerning the soul were confused, and various, and mixed with the wildest errors. Why then nscribe to heathenism the plain and simple doctrine which prevails in Christian lands, that the soul is immortal ? This doctrine prevailed more among the people of heathen countries, than among their philosophers. There was never anything certain, and true, and consistent known concerning a future state, except from the Bible ; and the Bible has caused to prevail almost universally in Christian lands, the belief of the soul's immortality. Heathen only conjectured it, and the many arguments from nature came to their minds -yet they doubted. (Note i.) The words of the apostle corroborate this view : 2 Tim. i. 10-"Who hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospal;" literally, "who has illuminated, made clear, life and immortality.

The author's strange mixture of the Christian doctrine of the soul's immortality with the errors of Shakerism, Swederborgenism, &c. of the soul's being an emination from God, and a part of God, is only calculated to cast reproach on the truth. But it weighs nothing at all in argument, except to exhibit the author's unwillingness or inability to show what we believe and what we do not be-lieve. (Note j.) What is called popular theory, concerning life, pp. 56, 7, is not a true description of the common doctrine of life.

The general belief of the Church cannot be mistaken as to the soul's immortality. There has been very little discrepancy of view as to it. (Note k.) It has been a belief closely associated with the exercise of religious feelings and the re-With the exercise of ferrigious iterings and the re-ligious life;  $\{A_{bbd} \in J\}$  i regard Mr. C.'s views as undermining long established and well founded religious opinions. The doctrine of the soul's immortality has slood the test of the dying bed ; saints have left the world rojoicing in it, and sinners have died under a dreadful consciousness of its truth. Multitudes who lived in the disbelief of it, have been compelled at death to admit it. They could not enter eternity believing that they were to lay down their consciousness, and die, body and soul.

NOTES ON THE ABOVE.

Note a. Much of the above is true; but the idea that Adam was made immortal, is as untrue as that men are now immortal, except in the way and by the means of Divine appointment. In the plainest terms I stated the opposite of what Mr. D. "understands." See Tract, p. 9.

Had Adam been an immortal, he would have been deathless-not subject to death: hence it would have been inconsistent with truth, and wrong, in fact, to speak of his dying. Burning fire would as soon freeze, as an immortal die!

The first man was placed on probation, on the principle of the old covenaut, "Do this and live." Had he done it, he would have had access to "the tree of life," eaten and lived forever. From being simply a "living soul," he would then have become an immortal soul. This is confirmed by Satan's denial that they should "surely die," by . the means taken to punish them for sin, and prevent their living forever. Gen. iii, 22-24. Also by the fact, that while the old way to "the tree lieve-who by the gracious provisions of "the ality. Let him prove that it is impersonal and iii. 5. The whole constitutes a libel on Jesus New Covenant," obey its conditions, are to have not personal. As surely as man "was made a Christ. He proposes to confess by faith and "right to the tree of life"-"shall eat of the tree of life which grows in the midst of the Paradise of God-on either side (of the river) was there the tree of life." Paul in his rapture to the abode of the blessed, " was caught up into Paradise."

In Christ our Lord believers boast,

Abundant more than Adam lost.

"The kingdom prepared" for man "from the foundation of the world," will be possessed, replenished, beautified, and "filled with the glory of God." Matt. xxv. 34; Gen. i. 26; Ps. xxxvii.; Matt. v. 3; Dan. vii, 18, 27; Rev. xxi.

Note b. My argument rests on these two texts, hundreds of others equally plain, and on every primary truth in the Christian system. Mr. D. might have said that I began with those texts. Where should we begin if not where God docs, in Genesis ? I love to get things by the handle !

fact as it was, then we have a starting pointtheir harmonious import. If "the first man Adam was made a living soul," then it follows, necessarily, that the death of that man was the death of that soul ! Furthermore, if man is guilty, he needs pardon ; if mortal, he needs some "source of immortality ;" if he die, he needs a "resurrection from the dead," &c. All this is either metaphor or reality. There must be coherency in all its parts.

Note c. This is all utter misapprohension. See note a Note d. Mr. D., it seems, has yet to learn that man "without Christ" is not "spiritual," but animal. 1 Cor. ii. 14, 15. In our version it reads "natural man." The Christian alone is recognized as "spiritual." The phrase "living soul" (nephesh hayya) is use four times in Gen. i. to denote the animal kingdom-twice it occurs in Gen. ii.: once it signifies the living man, and again the whole animate creation subject to man. See the Hebrew and margin, Gen. i. 20, 21, 24, 80; ii. 7, 19. All the leading terms in the Sept. Greek of Gen. ii. 7, are employed by the apos-1le to designate "the living soul"-the first man Adam. This is Bible proof, which Mr. D. will faith" can exclude doubts. Satan's delusive "lie" not controvert, except by general vague statements which any one can make against any truth of God.

The texts, which Mr. D. quotes, are referred to in a way that shows his disregard of their connection iu the Tract, and their inspired explanation tion. Take Eccl. xii. 7. Let him compare this with chap. ili, 19-21 of that book. Man and beast "all have one BREATH," one spirit. Man is erect; his breath "goeth upward"-the beast feeds upon the ground ; its breath "goeth downward to the earth." 1 Thes. v. 23 may be read with Gen. vi. 17-22, margin and Hebrew. If the first, makes man threefold, with the body; then body! That which proves altogether too much, Jupiter and all the gods, became the Church of proves nothing to the point.

new and living way is opened. Those who be- death is only in "a mystery" rather than in re- the heathen-they obtained it from Satan. Gen. living soul," so surely the death of that man was the death of that "soul." The righteous soul attains to immortality in the resurrection. 1 Cor. xv. 61-54.

Note f. The Bible reads just so! When a judge in court, charging the jury, affirms, the law delusive. My limits will allow only a statement says so, no one doubts but that it means what it of some sober facts. Heathen Mahomedan and says. So I affirm the word of God says so! It is a primary truth that "man became a living soul." It is not an "ingenious hypothesis."

Note g. Jehovah did indeed know that they would know "good and evil"-they were to know "evil" to their sorrow-know it experimentally -but this he had not named in his law. His word was " thou shalt surely die." Satan's "lie". was a denial of that. He is no less "a liar" because he larded it over with a common place, but misapplied truth. Mr. D. must not, under the Mark! If those texts are true-if they state the penalty of his Master's frown, be "suspicious" of primary, Bible statements. The Devil assured then correlative Scriptures should be taken in the primeval pair that they should "be as gods," in opposition to God's law, which assured them they should "die." That is the point, however "novel" it may seem.

Note h. Is that "wailing" eternal ? "The chaff" represents wicked men-they must burn, to be "burned up." "The wrath to come" is a terrible reality. Matt. xxv. 46, denotes excision, like 2 Thes. i. 9. The punishment is "destruction everlasting." Kolasis is from kolazo. "to cut off." See Donnegan's Gk. Lex.

Note i. I had to do with their works now extant, as believed, commended and expounded by professing Christians. See the late work of Prof. Lewis, L. L. D., &c. &c. If my reviewer should deny the facts given in the tract he reviews, every intellectual school-boy would have him in derision !

True they "doubted"-just as nominal Christians doubt whether Jesus will ever "come again" "the second time." Every doctrine of the gospel has been "doubted;" yet they exist as do the teachings of philosophy, touching man's natural immortality. Mr. D. ought to know that naught but an enlightened, "full assurance of -the basis of the philosophic theory throughout the heathen world, "lying in wickedness," can never justify, much less form, such "faith."

Note i. I stated the fact distinctly that these several classes hold the popular idea of "the soul" with "different appendages." pp. 35, 36. Neither Papal Purgatorial terrors, nor Shaker and Swedenborgian errors could have prevailed a sin gle age without the popular heathen dogma touching the soul! Take this from them and they will dwindle and die.

Note 1. This, though plausible, is exceedingly apostate Christian nations, have nourished the spirit of war by the devil's dreadful "lie." that sinning men do not "die." Mahomedan and Christian crusades were maintained under the delusion, that they who died in the battle-field would "not surely die," but go direct to Paradise-to Heaven! The gospel view of the way to "life and immortality" by the new way, the resurrection, was thrown quite into the shade ! The idea of the soul's natural immortality has been the essential element of all those systems of superstition which have swept with the widest scope, the wildest fury and most deadly ruin over the civilized world for thousands of years !! The Devil himself could not have succeeded with Eve without the idea that they should "not surely die."

Conclusion .- If my reviewer had been conscious of strength, I conclude that he would have begun where the Bible does-shown that the Scripture is not quoted by me correctly, &c., then he could have made an advance on me; but remarks which do not even reach these fundamental points-which leave the primary Scriptures as they are quoted, do not amount to anything. Let him prove that man, "the living soul," did not "die"-that Satan was so far right and God so far wrong-let him show from history that Socrates did not argue the immortality of the soul, "in nearly the same manner that it is argued now."-Rollin's An. Hist. Let him form a chronological tabular view like that p. 47-49, in which the contrast with truth is materially different from that there given, then he would accomplish something. I feel constrained to say, dear sir, stop your whittling-throw away your pen-knife, and take facts, and "sword of the spirit, the word of God." As David said of the sword of Goliath, "There is none like that, give it me."

Mr. D. has other objections, but they are of the same general character with the above. As they overlook the primary, historic and Bible truths given in the Tract, it does not seem right to ask room to follow him further. He talks as if I believed in annihilation twice ! Whereas, in its proper infidel sense, of no resurrection, &c., I do not believe in it at all. The Bible term is "destruction"-"the second death," at the final judgment. I take Bible terms with Bible ideas.

He speaks of the impossibility of a resurrection except the popular notion of the soul be true ! The principle is this : if Lazurus was not partly alive, Jesus could not have raised him ! If the that cumulative, emphatic form of expression, in science, falsely so called," corrupted the Church saints sleep unconscious in death (Ps. vi. 5; cxlvi. at an early age. Thus "the man of sin" was 4; Eccl. ix. 4, 10; Isa. xxxix. 18) then the Lord the other makes all animals threefold without the formed. The Pantheon in Rome, the temple of himself could not awake them to life! The germ of life-the immortal soul, must remain as a nucleus, for Almighty God to begin on !! them, so Mr. D.'s idea assumes remaining life in dead men, to make the resurrection possible.

The Tract teaches actual death and a real resurrection. I appeal to the power that made the world as altogether competent to effect it. Amen. J. B. Cook.

For the Harbinger. "Time of Trouble." NO. 1.

"And at that time shell Michael stand up, the great prince, bich andeth for the children of hy people: and there shall be a line of furnibe, such as never was nated there was a pation, even in far sume time; and at that time thy people shall be delivered, wery not that shall be found written as in the low."-Dan, sit. L which tione of Le to that say every one that shall be for

While it is our duty to guard against expounding the prophecies so as to create an expectation that certain events, not prophecied, are yet to be fulfilled before the appearing of Christ, yet, it is our duty to direct the mind to those Scriptures which seem to, if they do not clearly prove, that there is yet to be a time of greater trouble experienced by the inhabitants of the earth than is now realized by them. If we take the text as it reads, it will be difficult to prove that "the time of trouble" begins previous to the standing up of Michael (i. e. the coming of Christ.)

But there are examples in other parts of the Scriptures to show that we are not always to expect the events in the order in which they appear to be given. The second verse is an example. The first verse brings us to the time his people are delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book (the book of life.) The second verse begins thus : "And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some w everlasting life," &c., as though the delivering every one of them that shall be found written in the book, and the resurrection of the righteous dead, were two distinct events. This will not be admitted, We are justified in supposing, especislly if other Scriptures sustain the supposition that the time of trouble, noticed in the text, begias previous to the standing up of Michael, or the coming of Christ. I think we shall be able to adduce inferential, if not positive testimony, frum other portions of the wonn, to show that if the text had been arranged as follows, it would have given the true meaning :

"And there shall be a time of trouble such a muter was since there was a nation, even to that me time. And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the childrep of thy people ; and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book."

The first Scripture we will refer to, as proof of the above position, is Jer. xxx. 5-7: "For thus with the Lord, we have heard a voice of trembling, of fear, and not peace. Ask ye now. and see whether a man doth travail with child? wherefore do I see every man with his hands on his loins, as a woman in travail, and all faces are turned into paleness ? Alas! for that day is great, so that none is like it : it is even the time of Jacob's trouble : but he shall be saved out of is N miracles by assuming some natural cause for shall fill the places with the dead bodies; he shall wound the heads over many countries!" The following Scriptures will show how he will cause dead bodies to fill many places :

Hag. ii. 22-" And I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen ;" i.e. near the end there will be great revolutions among the nations of the easth, when kings will tremble and the strength of their kingdoms will be destroyed. Anarchy, distraction, "distress," and perplexity will ensue. The nations will then desire some permanent system of government. Rapid progress toward a universal empire will be the result. Popery will say in her heart, "I sit a queen and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow." But in the strife the last part of the verse will be fulfilled : "And I will overthrow the chariots and those that ride in them, and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother." Truly many places will be filled with dead bodies. Then will be fulfilled the words contained in verses 6, 20-" For thus saith the Lord of hosts, yet once, it is a little while, and I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land." "I will shake the heavens and the earth." Again in verse 7, the prophet speaks of the "time of trouble" to precede and to be in immediate connection with the shaking of the heavens : "And I will shake all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come." To prove that the above verses refers to the shaking of the pow ers of heaven in connection with the coming and kingdom of Christ, we will refer to Heb. xii. 26 -28 : "Whose voice then shook the earth : but now hath he promised, saying, Yet once more l shake not the earth only, but also neaven. And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are skaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain. Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably, with reverence and godly fear."

The same "time of trouble" is noticed in Luke xxi. 25; "And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring." What next ? "Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth : for the powers of heaven shall be shaken." Or. according to Campbell and Macknight's translation -" And upon the earth the anguish of desponding nations; and roaring in the seas and floods; men expiring with the fear and apprehension of those things which are coming upon the world : for the powers of heaven shall be shaken."

"The following important propositions, recom mending the establishment of an Italian Diet, to assemble at Rome, has been presented to the Pope." It is very doubtful whether a great body of the French people, as well as a great mass of those who are in favor of Republican principles in other parts of the globe, will receive with plea sure such hypocritical pretensions to Republicanism, as is manifested in the following. # The Battle of Armageddon.

"And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army."-Rev. xix. 19. Are not those forces marshalling for the battle 1 Open the Bible and read. Let its light truths flash upon the world and disperse its gloom. What mean the confederacies, the bundlings of the age ? The gathering of armies and navies ? The fearful forebodings of the nations ? The hurrying to and fro of all classes 1 It is the eve of the day of mighty preparations. Why this fear of want which heaves the bosoms of the multitude, and hurries them into secret associations ? The gathering is now going on-its accelerated movements are fearful. The unclean spirits have nearly accomplished their agency. The vast population under the dominion of the wild beast are in rapid motion, wheeling into sections, and companies, platoons, and brigades, and divisions, and grand divisions. To be convinced of this, we shall notice the rapid enlistment into one company only.

the Sons of Temperance of the State of Ohio, at their quarterly session, held at Cincinnati, Jan. 26, 1848, it appears that they number 423 divisions in this single State. Estimating the number of members in each division at 100, it swells their membership to 42,300. The same ration would give half a million of Sons of Temperance to the United States. And that number marshalled in three years! Fifty charters were granted to divisions in this State during the last quarter-423 divisions headed by a GRAND WOR-THY PATRIARCH !! In the United States the HI-ERARCHY. or officiary of this single order, numbers nearly 40.000 members! There are, within this union, about one hundred thousand persons belonging to the Order of Odd Fellows; four-fifthe of whom have been added during the last seven years. They are wealthy, having a fund of nearly one million dollars. The Free Mason Order cannot be much loss in number. Add to these, the United Sons of America, Cadets of Temperance, Daughters of Temperance, Fathers of Temperance, Rechabites, and the Red Men, and it swells the number to nearly two millions in the United States !! Are they assembling under the banner of the Messiah 1 No. "Verily, verily I say unto you, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Except a man be born of water and of the spirit, he caunot enter ento the kingdom of God."-Je aus. And will he suffer to enter, these "unbap tized fraternities ?" We are forced to number them among the divisions of the grand army of the wild beast. We here speak not of individuals. Many Christians may for a time be deceived; but when the light bursts upon the vision of such. they will leave said associations. On the sea of gless, are persons who have gained "the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name."-Rev. xv. 2

Leaving for a time these essembling hosts, we direct the attention of the reader to the scattered forces which are wending their way through a waste-howling wilderness, to the head-querters of the grand army of the "Woan or Gon."

The true church is called a city. It is chartered by Jehovah. The Bible is that charter. All who keep the conditions of that charter are citizens. Our laws are from another country. We are the corporate members of the heavenly Jerusalem. "Our citizenship is from heaven, from whence, also, we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ,"-Phil. iii. 20. "Jerusalem, which is above, is free, which is the mother of us all." -Gal. iv. 26. Under those laws emanating from that city, the people of God are associated. That associated body is a church. They are under the most solemn obligations to carry out the conditions of their charter. The church has no right to make a charter, or any part or article. It is merely a supporter, not an originator. "The church of the living God is the PILLAR and SUP-FORT of the TRUTH."-1 Tim. iii. 15. The Bible is the law of the truth. The "Scriptures are the truth."-Dan. x. 21. Christ prayed thus to his Father :- " Sanctify them by thy truth : thy WORD is TRUTH,"-John xvii. 17. The church is a pillar to sustain the temple of truth. It can sciences, than a pillar can originate a temple. A few persons may be found in all ages who have advocated the principle here sated. They were soon thrown into the minority; and when the apostete church was nationalized, this small company, broken into fragments, fied into the wilderness, where it has been nourished 1260 years. Let the above position be well considered. It is the chief corner-stone of our whole structure.

With the last period of the Christian age, how ever, our subject is chiefly connected. To the period we now direct attention. We have already traced the agency of the three unclean spirits, and have described the mustering of the innumerable hosts of Satan's legions, as they are filing off toward the field of slaughter. The army of the Messiah will claim special notice. Its gathering numbers are by no means imposing. Their dependence is wholly on the superior skill and power of their commander-in-chief. The same change among the nations which let loose the three unclean spirits, opened the world to the influence of another class of agents. At the same time were seen three messengers flying through the midst of heaven, with missions of serious moment. These are the recruiting officers of the Son of God, sent forth to gather his last forces from the earth. They are ministers extraordinary-plenipotentiaries of the "KING OF KINGS." With the dying away of their notes of alarm, the heavenly dove takes its flight from the shores of a world doomed to desolating judgments. Their missions are for the special benefit of the last generation, and, in their character, final.

We send in this number bills to all who are indebted for one volume of the Harbinger. If a mistake in any case shall be detected, it will be our pleasure to rectify the same. We hope in every case we shall have a cheerful and prompt response to these calls. Do not disappoint our expectations.

Burns .- The amount of hills we send out this week is some over $500. This, with a very few exceptions, embraces no account less than one dollar. This sum, or one half of it, would greatly relieve our present wants. It is much more than we are able to lose, especially while our subscription list is as small as it is, our free list so large, and donations so few. Those who love the cause in deed. as well as in word and tongue, as far as possible, and not distress themselves or families, will reduce this sum by promptly paying the amount they owe. While speaking on this matter, we would just remind our ever faithful patrons of the nature of our terms ; and, that the next number will be the commencement of another volume. A word to the faithful is sufficient. We hope to share in your patronage a little longer : it is needed to sustain the Harbinger.

And there shall be signed in the wun, and in the moon, and a the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perpetty and for looking after those them such that eccoming on the star and for looking after those them such that eccoming on the stars for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

power and great glory. "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, sel Hft up your beads; for your redeniption draweth nigh."

This prophecy locates the signs of the coming of the Son of man in the sun, moon, stars, earth and sea.

The sum was supernaturally darkened May 19th a. p. 1798, as the most undisputed testimony proves. The moon, in the evening of the same day, was also darkened, and afterward appeared as blood.--This no one informed on the matter will dispute.

The stars, or luminous bodies, fell from heaven in a manner never before witnessed, in Nov. A. B. 1833. This no one will deny.

We have been of the opinion that all the even named in this catalogue, excepting the first they would occur in immediate connection with the cosing of the Son of man, and it is possible that the opinion is correct; but recent events in Europe haw include us to the belief, that the distress of nations, with perplexity, and the ronring of the seas, wer also designed by the Savior to be placed in chronelogical order before the commencement of the scatul scenes of his coming. Facts are stubborn things, to which our opinions should submissively how: and they say that—

In the earth there is now distress of nations, with perplexity. This distress was experienced, to a certain extent, last year, in the terrible famine in Europe, in which hundreds of thousands, if not milions, perished with hunger, and the pestilence which followed ; and this year, in the same calamities, and the extensive failures, all over Europe. It has been a time of deep distress of nations in these respects: and if the predictions of understanding men mayb relied upon, this distress, especially in point of bank ruptcy, and, consequently, suffering of the poor, ha but just commenced : a deeper and more bitter co is yet to be drunk by them. How this will be, w cannot say ; but of one thing we are contident, the the distress, occurring at the time it does, is a sur evidence that the coming of the Son of man is near "With perplexity." This is another sign the has its locality "in the earth," and comes next in order in the catalogue under consideration. And a would be superfluous to enter into an elaborate area ment to prove that it is now being most literally folfilled, in the unprecedented perplexing state of thing existing all over the world, and especially some of the nations of Europe. The principles of insubodination, revolution, and anarchy, or the spirits of devils, have gone out, and in their work, have & posed kings and rulers, overthrown governments, trampled under foot law and good order, broken the once strong ligaments of national compacts, and thrown distrust, bankruptcy, confusion, treacher, fear and sore perplexity into ever department of society. And the most experienced, sagacious and powerful statesmen and rulers know not how to remedy the evils. They are confounded and powerless, while beholding such a state of things .-

perplexity : yet what they are experiencing is only the beginning of their troubles, the sure harbinger of their final overthrow and everlasting destruction at the coming of the Son of man.

" The sea and the waves roaring." Severe storms for a few years past, have swept over land and ocean. destroying in their course millions of property and thousands of lives ; still we have no account of the literal roaring of the sea and the waves as here predicted. It is possible, however, that nothing more than terrific and devastating storms are meant, yet as every other preceding portion of the prophecy has been literally fulfilled, we are inclined to the belief that there will be a literal roaring of the sea and waves, in a manner not to be misunderstood by the watchful, before the general convulsion of nature shall take place. It is perfectly consistent with good philosophy and sound reason to suppose that such will be the case. But it would be unreasonable to suppose that such an event will occur long before the final convulsion : they must necessarily be very nearly connected ; and both may take place before the close of another month !

"Men's hearts fuiling them for fear," or, as Dr. Campbell renders it, "Men expiring through fear." This effect cannot be attributed to the appearing of any of the real signs of Christ's coming; for them the wicked do not understand, and of course they can produce no fear in them. What then will thus affect them ? The answer is, "for, (because,) the powers of heaven shall be shaken." This, like all the rest of the prophecy, we understand literally; and when it shall have its fulfilment, there will be no dispute or doubt in the matter : saint and sinne. will perfectly understand it. The one will rejoice in lively hope of the speedy consummation of his eternal redemption ; but the other will be filled with bitter wailing, and expire through fear of what he will be sensible is coming upon the earth.

Who will abide the terrors of that day, or stand when the Son of man appeareth 1 Who will be hid in the secret of his tabernaclo, when the Lord shall arise terribly to shake the heavens and earth, or the powers of heaven 1 None but the pure in heart. Reader, is this the character of your heart 1 The Judge of all hearts will soon forever decide the important question. See that you are constantly prepared to receive his gracious approbation.

Munder and Spicide.

A most horrid murder of the wife and four children by the husband, and then his destruction by his own hand, is being generally reported in the papers, as having recently been committed somewhere in the State of Maine ; and as a matter of course, the rash act is charged to "Millerism," and consequently it must be a gross error. Very well, supposing "Millerism" was the prime and active cause of this sad work, (which, however, we see not a particle of evidence in the report to prove), does it necessarily follow that it is a dangerous error 7. If so, then all doctrines ever taught are dangerous errors, for similar cases have occurred under the belief of them all, a number of which have fallen under our immediate notica.

In Tykehannock, Pa., a man heard Mr. Dimick, a Baptist, preach on election and reprobation. The man concluded he was a reprobate, dispair was the result, and under this state of mind he took a sweet babe and dashed its brains out, exclaiming, "There, the devil shall not have you, though he will have me !'

A promising young man, (his name we forget,) in the Wyoming Valley, Pa., having but recently been converted and joined either the Methodist or Baptist, for fear he should backslide, as was supposed, hung himself !

A Mr. Odell, with whom we were familiarly acquainted, in Dutchess Co., N. Y., an active member of the Presbyterian church, killed a lovely child to save it from an endless hell !

A Mr. Bowen, with whom we were intimately acquainted, a Universalist, in Caynga county N. Y., to free himself from trouble, took a dose o arsenic, and died !

Numerous cases of this kind have occurred in every sect, religious and infidel, moral, scientific, and political, which ever existed ; and which every honest understanding man will acknowledge. Shall we, therefore, say that all are fundamentally in error Most certainly, if the advent faith is an error because some who have embraced it have done such things. To judge the truth or righteousness of a theory by such acts of misguided individuals would establish a precedent that would condemn the Author of the creation, and the Savior of sinners : for, scon after the plan of the creation was perfected, Cain slew his brother, and at the very introduction of christianity, Judas caused the death of his Lord, and then hung himself !

But enough on this subject. When the people are determined to be deceived, or to reject the truth, they will find abundant reasons for doing it ; and in these last days, we are told, that God would send those who have pleasure in unrighteousness, strong delusions. The prediction is being painfully fulfilled in every quarter of the land; and soon they will drink the bitter cup for the folly of their doings.

Uplawful Striving.

"If a man strive for masterics, yet is he not crowned, except he trive lawfully," $ Tim, il. 5.

In further remarking on this subject, we will say that another means to which unlawful disputants resort to carry their point, is, the influence or power of associated bodics. They very well know that there is, in the estimation of very many people, a divinity, wisdom, power, and infallibility belonging to an ecclesiastical body assembled in conference, association, synod, or assembly : which its members in their separate capacity do not possess ; and that the unqualified assertion, declaration, or resolutions of such a body, will be more readily received and implicitly believed by many, than the plainest doctrine presented by one man, and most clearly and abundantly proved by the unequivocal word of the Lord. Hence the influence, by way of resolutions, of such bodies has long been sought to aid the cause of unlawful disputants. The politician, the moral-ist, and religionist, of every party, class, and creed, have alike availed themselves of this summary, casy, yet potent way of obtaining their euds. And each has succeeded, not according to the amount of truth presented in their unqualified resolutions, but according to the weight of personal or associated influence of the body that passed them.

Such kind of evidences or arguments, if they are worthy the name, prove no proposition, elucidate no point of doctrine, and inform the judgment of no one. They are not the result of the matured judgment and honest sentiments of the bodies that pass them. But they generally originate in the minds of a few interested persons, and without time for close thinking and thorough investigation, in the hurry and confusion of the moment, are pushed forward, receiving the vote of a scanty few, while the majority of the body not unfrequently give no expression in the matter. They are then sent out as the senti-bor and build up its own creed. And the one that has had the most consequence or influence, and has passed the greatest amount of flaming resolutions, has, in the estimation of deceived thousands, succeeded best. And it is a matter of deep regret to us. that we who have seen and well know the evils of such things, and who profess to believe no other doctrine, engage in no other practice, pertaining to the church of God, than is plainly taught in his word,-should in the least degree attempt to build up our cause by this unlawful means.

If a proposition plainly stated, and fully proved by the infalliable testimony of the Bible, does not carry sufficient sanctity, truth, power, or influence. to convince and move to action the people, then they had better never act ; for most certainly if any other principle or influence causes them to assent even to the truth and moves them to action, it will be a blind assent, and an uninformed and mechanical action. But when faith and works are produced by the light and power of truth, they are the fruits of an enlightened understanding and voluntary will, and well pleasing to God.

We are far from supposing that all who have participated in this kind of unlawful strife, have wickedly done wrong. Very many have acted honestly, supposing that what every association in the world has long done, must be right. But we think when they have suitably examined the sature of the practice they will see that it belongs to the system of unlawful strife, and will abandon and discountenance it. (To be Continued.)

NT We have received two statements of a certain case at Worcester, Mass. We propose to the parties concerned to unite in sending a statement in which both shall be agreed. We think this may be done, and would be more acceptable to all who love one another with a pure heart fervently. We will delay publishing the decision of the church a short time, to hear the result of this proposition.

Horrors of the Slave Trude.

The following account of some of the horrors of the slave trade, was given by a witness before the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society. The same account says that about 72,000 slaves were landed in Brazil in A. D. 1846, out of which number seven thousand died from their sufferings. The witness was a man who had been engaged in the nefarious practice, and whose testimony may be relied on as truth, only coming far short of the real horrors of the case.

HORRORS OF THE SLAVE TRADE.

"Do a large number of the slaves die after landing, and before sale ?"-" A great many; especially now, from the extreme ill-treatment, and from the putrid gases they have to inhale in the holds of small vessels, where they are jamed up as they lie, and by suddenly relaxing the person, and suddenly carrying them on shore, many of them die. I knew a case in which only ten escaped out of 160. That was a vessel belonging to a friend of mine, who was my agent." "Will you describe how they are sides parallel to each other. They are generally boys from ten to twelve years of age; they are put upon their side, and if they do not lie parallel upon their side, a plank is put upon them, and a sai their side, a plank is put upon them, and a same will get upon it and jam them down, so as to make them fit compact. I have never seen that done, but I have heard slaves speak of it ; and I have heard captains state it, who I know would have no object in stating it if it were not true. One lies with in the matter. They are then sent outs at the senti-in stating it if it were not true. One has with his ments of the body, and directly or indirectly form a arm cost is ful into the next one; he may pul his part or parcel of its creed, or rule of doctrine and practice. This has long been the foolish work of slaves upon their passage never cleaned out  $\gamma^{-1} - \gamma$ the different sects, and partiane of the work! And fancy not, because if you clean the bring many cost each has thus acted in order to put down its neigh-would you put them 1 You days not bring many of them upon the deck, because, seeing the water, many of them would be tempted to jump overboard, and even to drink salt water ; consequently, all that you have to do is to crowd all sail and get out of the way of the cruisers, and look as quiet and as nasty as you can. I may mention, that it has happene that on the arrival of a vessel, she has been fo und in so filthy and destitute a condition, that after unload-ing her cargo she has been cast adrift," "You prefer importing boys and girls because they pack closer "-" Yes; they are much less in stowage, much less in volume. Some of the American vessals are about seven to eight feet between the decks; some are only seventy-two inches between the between beams. They have generally three tiers, one on the ground and two above." "Do you mean that in the height of acventy-two inches, that is to say six feet, there are three tiers of slaves ?"...." Generally; the lower ones have a kind of mat made of banana stalks." "You have frequently seen this with your own eyes T'—"Yes; any body may see it in Brazil, but in Rio you would not see it now, because very few are now landed in Rio." 4 What is the youngest age at which you import the negro? -" They never brought them so young at any time as they do at present because the stowage was not so valuable before. The cruisers have made the stowage so valuable." "How young do you bring them now ?"—"The smaller they are the better you can carry them. I once bought a little chap just like a dolly; he could not, from his teeth, have been more than six, perhaps not so much; he was too small to work." "Are not a great portion of the cruelties and deaths in the course of the slave-trade to be attributed to a want of water ?"--" Perhaps more from that than any thing else, because in the tropics a very little food will support the system ; when the system is in a state of torpidity, and when when the system is in a state of torputy and when the air is exceedingly fould, the functions of life bo-come very sensibly diminished; absorption takes place of any portion of fat they have, and they can resist the want of food for some time, but the want of water is a thing that cannot be resisted." "It is in order to evade the activity of the British cruisers that your people who are engaged in the slave-trade are obliged to stint the slaves in water ?"---" Of course." "And that they are also obliged to crowd them into such small spaces ?"-"It arises probably from that. I do not know whom to blame for that, whether it is the captains, or the agents, or the owners, or whom; but certainly they do bring an immense number in a very small space. I have known 350 brought in a ninety tons schooner." "What do you reckon to be the average voyage from the coast of Africa to Brazil ?"-""At the presant time you are obliged to go in such a sig-zag manner that what oblight to be twenty days is some-times ninety days." "And it is when the voyage times ninety days," "And it is when the voyage is so long that the slaves die ?"..." Yes. They get a drink ni water once a day. In a state of inactivi-ty you may exist upon that for twenty days, perhaps, so I know from my own experience; but not much longer than twenty days, because the system fails rapidly after that. It is too horrible to describe the Tapidly after that. It is too horrible to describe the effect of the want of water; no person can have an idea of it without feeling it." "From what part of the coast of Africa is the general importation ?"the moment that is known, your cruisers will be twice as energetic upon that one point, and it will do mischief to some one. I have got to live in the country. Human life is not valued very highly in Brazil. Any person making himself troublesome upon the slave-trade would be immediately shut." "What is the condition of the slaves, when they are landed, now !"-" There are some with more iron constitutions than others, but to see them, they look horrible. The bones of the knees stand and look like large knobs ; the calf of the leg out has disappeared; it looks more like the leg of a monkey than any thing else, and you can count all the bones. The abdomen is very much bloated, and there is an imbecility in the eye; in fact, nature is reduced to the lowest point." "Have you seen doing that they get round after a little time. they usually covered with sores ?"-" Yes, when they usually coverce with sores i - 'tes, when hey are iammed legenter; and there is a species of itch that breaks out upon them, and blotches of a large size break out upon them, " "Have you any knowledge what the mortality of slaves employed for the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers of the sore out is the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers of the sore out on the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers of the sore out is the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out on the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers of the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out on the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out on the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out on the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out on the sore out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out of the decree recorded in our last, interdicting any the choilers is the choilers out of the decree recorded in our last.

on a sugar estate is ?"-" No, I cannot say ; but member of the Orleans family from ever again set since your cruisers have been on the coast their s suffer so much from the shock of coming syster over, that many of them die; so much so, that there are now no second retailers of slaves as there used to be, because they die so frequently in the first two or three months. I have known thirty leave the coast, and go twenty miles up into the interior, and fifteen have died; and I have known 160 landed, and eighty-four of those have died before they got into the interior." "What was the cause of that -"They were in such a dilapidated condition, nature was completely overcome by the passage. "Are the slaves that are imported into Brazil, sold openly in the market ?"-" Not exactly ; we have not markets for slaves as you have here f or differen articles ; they have been abolished in Rio ; but if you go to the neighborhood of Rio the slaves are sold openly." "Are there barracoons in the same way as there are in Cuba."-" Yes, you may term them barracoons.

"We are unable to give the additional evidence which has been laid before the Committee by seve ral witnesses on the extent and horrors of the slavetrade. There was, however, one incident alluded to by Capt. Matson, R. N., which may be considered as the climax of the horrors of the slave traffic. reply to the question, "What becomes of the slaves that are refused by the slave traders ?" he said, "I have heard instances of their being massacred. was in the river Nun some years ago, when 500 wore knocked on the head on the beach." This reminds us of a similar fact recorded in the slave-trade papers of last year, which asserts that no less than 2000 refuse slaves at one station had been killed, to avoid further expense of feeding and keeping them in custody."

BY THE ACADIA.

In France the surface of politics appears somewhat more calm. There is a luil for the moment at Paris; but Lyons is a prey to all the violence of mob government. The Provinces are in a frightfully disaffected state.

The Assembly and the Government-for although the two powers have exhibited unmistakable signs of being discordant bodies and not coordinate authorities-the two branches, which we can hardly call the Legislature and Executive of France, for each aims at being both-had no sooner crushed the movement of the 15th May, than they began cach to contend for the mastery.

Not only does distrust manifest itself between the two authorities, but the Executive is torn with internal dissensions, and the impression is that it must fall to pieces.

We hear from all quarters that M. Lamartine and Ledru Rollin will resign, and that the new Executive will be formed of Marrast, Arago and Marc .-Some report Cavaignac, who we have already said has assumed the Porfolio of War.

From all the observations we are enabled to make, it appears to us that the National Assembly, elected by universal suffrage and vote by ballot, although decidedly Republican, is nevertheless much more Conservative than Democratic. Dufraus and the Theirs party evidently by their experience, temper, and as the representatives of property and order. carry a very great, if not predominating weight in the Assembly.

These are further strengthened by the Legitimists, whose confidence has so far increased within these few days, that the Presse, their organ, has published a series of private letters from Prince de Join ville, now at Clarcmont, near London, eminently calculated to awaken dynastic sympathies, and to pave the way for his return to France, at least as a private citizen.

ting his foot upon the French soil, which decree the Committe on the bill has sanctioned.

To such an extent, hower, have the hopes of the Regency party reached, that a demonstation of operatives in its favor was contemplated ; and indeed from day to day, in consequence of the alarms, real or pretended, of threatened demonstrations on the part of some body or other of the people, every avenue leading to the National Assembly, and every room, hall and passage of the building is thronged with soldiers with fixed bayonets, and from 15 to 20,000 occupy the quays adjoining during the sittings.

Lyons was still disorganized ; and at Toulon the workmen had obtained possession of the arsenal, but after a sharp collision, the troops recovered possession of this place of strength, and the workmen returned to their duty.

The intelligence from all parts of the Continent becomes daily of deeper and deeper interest. Fresh events create new complications.

The hopes of peace in the North of Europe have not yet been realized. The Schleswig Holstein dispute remains almost in statu quo.

It is currently reported in the first political circles, that the separation of Dantzig, and perhaps Stettin, from Prussis may be expected.

The German Parliament has assembled at Frankfort. The choice of President and Vice President. Mr. Dugerne, the Hessian Minister, and Mr. Poiron, has inspired great confidence.

In Lombardy the war continnes undecided. The siege of Peschiera commenced on the 19th inst. Treviso is invested by the Austrians, but held out on the 16th inst.

At Naples on the 17th an unsuccessful insurrection took place, and after 400 troops were killed, the beautiful city was given up to pillage by the Gorernment. The magnificent villas and pallaces which extended to the sea-shore, are at present a heap of ashes. The accounts are very confused-but we learn that the National Guard were disbanded after the battle, and a ministry formed under the presidency of Prince Curiati.

An insurrection has taken place at Seville, attended with a great loss of life ; and the French journals lay all the blame to Sir H. Lytton Bulwer. Spain breaks with the best and sincerest friend she ever had. Her own internal peace and tranquility will not be promoted by it

We regret to state that the position of Ireland continues to fill us with deep apprehension. The excitement of the Government trials now in progress found vent in demonstrations of the clubs and artizans who in large bodics parade the streets of Dublin

INELAND .- Obstructions of the public highways take place by the Police and the multitude, and then the contests arises in the Police Courts as to which party committed a breach of the law. These petty squabbles are exactly indicative of what is pressing claewhere

The effects of the triumph of the juries in the cases of Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Meagher, have extended throughout the provinces where the joy at the results is beyond description. The people are in extacies. Fires are blazing-the bill-tops are shrouded in flames ; it is evident that the best friends of the physical force party are in great alarm, lest in some of these demonstrations a collision with the military shall take place.

THE CHOLERA .- The latest arrival from Europe brings the following intelligence in regard to the verity, both at Moscow and Constantinople. The crews of the merchant ships have suffered severely. At Has-Keui (Turkey) the mortality has been so great that several Jewish families of the village have lait their habitations in the plains of Kiat-Hane and Ali Bey Keui. It appears that during the last year 300,000 persons had been attacked and about 100,000 had perished in Russia. In certain towns in Russia, comprising a population of 411,245 persons, 21,295 had been abtacked, of whom 11,361 had died, the number attacked being 1 to 191 of the population. In nearly the same towns, but with a smaller population, 305,329, the number of sick on the former visitations in the year 1829-31 was 15,550, of whom 9,018 died, the number of sick being then 1 to 19.6 of the population. The late course of the disease in Russia is agreed to have been in all respects similar to the course in 1830-31. It was then abated by the frost, and re-appeared with the spring. It was boped that it had spent its force at the period when the frosts set in, but its revival at widely distant points, under similar circumstances to the former, is regarded with great interest by the medical authorities, and gives its own warning, which, it is to be hoped, may not be needed.

NEGRO INSURRECTION IN THE WEST INDIES .- The slaves at Martinique rose on the 22d ult., and murdered many of the white population, notwithstanding all which, no attempt was made by the authorities to put them down ; they are said, however, to have since become more quiet. Guadaloupe remained tranquil.
